Mammography services at QMC also were proclaimed "deficiency-free" with 100 percent accuracy and compliance during a recent Massachusetts Department of Public Health survey. The survey measured quality assurance standards, as well as compliance with state and federal regulations.

QMC patients have access to some of the most advanced imaging equipment available, including advanced MRI scanning, PET/CT scanning and multi-slice CT scanning. In addition, the Simon C. Fireman Imaging Center for Women at QMC offers women a comfortable, private atmosphere in which to undergo testing such as mammography, ultrasound and bone densitometry.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Fire Extinguisher In Home A Good Investment

I believe one of the best investments you can make for your home is a fire extinguisher. They're an effective tool against small fires before they become larger, more destructive fires.

Years ago, I used to conduct an occasional presentation on home safety and I'd always encourage people to obtain one and hang it in a proper location. However, using one properly can be a complicated issue. But for household purposes I believe I can simplify that here. They are only effective if you know where they are and how to use one.

There are three classes of fires a homeowner will typically encounter:

Class A: Ordinary combustibles such as paper, cloth, rubbish, etc.

Class B: Flammable liquids such as fuel oil and gasoline.

Class C: Energized electrical equipment such as a toaster or appliance.

You can purchase a household extinguisher suitable for these three classes of fires if you ask for a "multi-purpose" A-B-C model, labeled for all three classes. This way you can avoid using the wrong type of extinguisher on a certain class of fire where an A-B-C extinguisher is suitable for use on all these classes.

It is quite important to install the extinguisher in an appropriate location. You want it in the area where you consider it might be needed, but not too close to the potential problem.

For instance, if you want one for use in a kitchen, don't put it too close to a stove or appliance where a fire might make it impossible to gain access to it.

Most importantly, mount it near an escape route. In the event of a small fire, you don't want to place yourself further into a room away from exits to gain access to it. You want to be near an exit when you either decide to use it, or leave. That is essential. An extinguisher is a first aid tool for small fires only. Do not put yourself in harms way and always call the fire department.

Lastly, there is an acronym we use to teach people how to use an extinguisher: PASS. Keep six to eight feet away from the fire and:

Pull the pin on the handle: This unlocks the operating levers allowing you to discharge the extinguisher.

Squeeze the lever above the handle: Doing so will release the extinguishing agent from the nozzle.

Sweep from side to side: While aiming at the base of the fire, sweep back and forth until the fire appears to be out.

However, before you consider using an extinguisher on a small household fire, inform other occupants to leave the building, make certain the fire department is notified and make certain you have an escape route. If in doubt about using it, leave the premise immediately and shut the door behind you to minimize the air feeding the fire. And remember, do not place yourself or others in harms way.

Ron Iacobucci Candidate For School Committee

In his announcement, Iacobucci, 49, said:

"As a graduate of the Quincy Public Schools and an involved parent, I have a strong commitment to the success of the Quincy Public School System. Many important issues face our school system today. Three open seats on the School Committee provides an opportunity for new leadership.

"I can bring to my service on the School Committee a wealth of knowledge, skills and experience acquired in both the public and private sector as well as a record of getting things done on issues involving children and education such as Mini-Fenway Park (youth development), Adam Walsh Child Resource Center (child protection) and South Coastal Career Development (youth employment).

"My background, together with my energy and enthusiasm, will give me the ability to work with the current School Committee to promote positive change for the children, parents, dedicated teachers and taxpayers of Quincy.

RON IACOBUCCI

A graduate of Boston College with a degree in communication and political science, Iacobucci is the CEO of Mini-Fenway Park, Inc., a nonprofit organization dedicated to building a half-sized replica of the real Fenway Park for youth baseball. Iacobucci is a parent of three school-aged children that are in or have graduated from the Quincy Public School System.

"The foundation for a strong community is a good school system," he said. "Even though you may not have children in school, you must still have an interest in insuring we have good schools in Quincy. Cities and towns with good schools are better, safer and healthier communities. Education is what matters most and with the help of the voters of Quincy, who have given me their support in the past, I will make a difference for all our children as a member of the School Committee.

"I will run a campaign of ideas. Ideas that will make a difference for our school system. My message will include: my ideas, my position on issues that face our school system and my qualifications for School Committee.

"I have always campaigned on the importance of accessibility. It is extremely important that an elected public official be available to listen to people and address their concerns. I will continue to do that as a candidate and as a member of the School Committee.

"We all need to work together and dedicate ourselves to this value of education so that our children have the opportunity to pursue their dreams."

Those interested in contributing ideas, expressing concerns or become involved in the Iacobucci School Committee campaign are asked to call 617-479-2718 or e-mail roniacobucci2005@verizon.net. For more information, visit www.roniacobucci2005.

School Superintendent's Message

Welcome Back Students And Families

Dr. RICHARD DeCRISTOFARO

It is my pleasure to welcome students and their families to the beginning of an exciting school year. The Quincy Public Schools will continue to focus on our goal of offering excellence in education for each and every student, pre-school through grade 12. Students are encouraged to participate in the many facets of education that our school system offers and parents are urged to be a part of their son's or daughter's education. These are two very important ingredients for school success.

For many years, superintendents have welcomed students, parents, and staff back, following a restful summer. This summer, more than any other day, the Quincy Public Schools have been significantly engaging students and staff at almost every school site throughout our city. There have been well over 1,400 K-12 students participating in 15 Summer Scene programs:

Summer Institute, Summer School, Summer Reading Academy, Early Learning-Early Success, Summer Symphony, ESL Summer Academy, Raise The Curtain, Summer Open Library Programs, Summer Success, Developmental Learning Centers, Summer Band Camp, Summer Adventure Camp.

It is important to note that our last student session of the summer, involving 40 students, was made possible by Mayor William Phelan's Literacy Golf Tournament. This initiative sponsors literacy, tutorial and special early intervention techniques for many Quincy Public Schools' students.

These challenging, enriching, and innovative offerings were taught by many of our excellent Quincy Public Schools' staff. Their willingness to work during the summer months is commendable and appreciated. In addition to these programs, over 100 Quincy Public School teachers were involved in Teacher Reading Academies as we continue to increase our emphasis on literacy and early intervention.

In our city, we are so fortunate to have such a supportive mayor and school committee who always have their eye on the prize - our students. Our administrative and professional staff is proud to offer so many meaningful opportunities during and after the school day, as we as beyond the school year. Participation is the key for both students and parents. Students who participate in after-school activities are more successful in school. Parents who are involved in School Councils, Parent-Teacher Organizations and other school events have more confidence in our school system, their child's education, and the invaluable work of our teachers and administrators.

On behalf of the Quincy Public Schools staff, we hope this school year fulfills all of your dreams and expectations.

Welcome back!

Back-To-School Safety Rules

By LT. DAN MINTON
Crime Prevention Officer

It's that time of year again. Time to send your children back to school. It can be a frightening time for parents, but if you prepare your child for the big world you may help save them from getting into trouble.

• Make sure your children are taking the safest route to school and friends' houses, one that avoids danger spots like alleys, new construction, and wooded areas.

• Encourage your children to walk and play with friends, not alone, and to stay in well-lighted, open areas where others can see them.

• Don't hang a house key around your child's neck. It's a telltale sign that you won't be at home when they return from school. Put it inside a pocket or sock.

• Teach children to walk confidently and stay alert to what's going on around them.

• Encourage your children to look out for other kids' safety and report anything they see that doesn't seem right.

LT. DAN MINTON

• Tell your children to stay away from strangers who hang around playgrounds, public restrooms and empty buildings.

• Rehearse with children their full name, address, and phone number (including area code) and how to make emergency phone calls from home and public phones.

• Tell children never to accept gifts or rides from someone they don't know well.

• Check your neighborhood for areas that threaten children's safety, like brush in woodes areas, overgrown shrubbery, abandoned buildings, bad lighting, vacant lots littered with debris, no sidewalks or bike paths next to busy streets.

• Teach children to go to a store clerk or security guard and ask for help if you become separated in a store or shopping mall. Tell them never to go into the parking lot alone. Accompany your children to public restrooms.

• Teach children no one, not even someone they know, has the right to touch them in a way that makes them feel uncomfortable. Tell them that they have the right to say "No" to any adult in this situation.

If you teach the above tips to your children, they will be better prepared to survive in this great big, sometimes crazy, world.

A Quick Course In Dorm Room Decorating

"Although college living spaces are typically small, personal style can still shine through," said Robyn Arvedon of HomeGoods.

Arvedon offers some stylish and affordable decorating tips that can help personalize and make the most of a small living space.

• Create a multi-use bed. Sleep is important, but student beds are also used for reading, movie viewing and overall "hanging out." Not to mention, it is one of the first things people see when visiting.

Start with a brightly patterned duvet or comforter to add instant style and comfort. Add comfy pillows in different sizes and coordinating patterns that not only look great, but can morph a bed into a cozy seating area for friends.

• Have fun with food. Even if the menu consists of mainly mac n'cheese, why not eat it on a cool looking plate? Fun acrylic tableware and glasses are a smart alternative to messy paper plates, are easy to clean and can add bold color in unexpected places.

• Show style with storage. Students accumulate a lot of stuff and do not have many places to put it all, but storage is no longer limited to ugly milk crates. Fabric covered boxes, lined baskets and funky hat boxes in fun, coordinating colors and patterns keep toiletries, school supplies, socks — and just about anything, stylishly stored away.

Learning The ABCs Of Smart School Shopping

(NAPS) — Getting all your school shopping done before the last minute can be as easy as A-B-C. Here are some tips to help parents get started.

A stands for assessing the situation. Start your shopping plan by coordinating what your kids will need and what they already have. Get out the lists and compare. Can your second-grader use the backpack your fifth-grader got as a gift but never used? Does your middle school student really need more jeans?

Should your freshman college student get a new sleeping bag to take with him? Most schools supply lists of what a child will need — ranging from number two pencils in first grade to extra long sheets in college.

B stands for being prepared. Before you buy anything, make a list and think about where you can get needed items as inexpensively as possible. Since kids outgrow and lose so many items, this is not the time to invest in long-term use and a great time to look for more trendy inexpensive items kids love.

C stands for consolidating your efforts. To save time, pick a store where you can do one-stop shopping. This is especially important for families with more than one child.

For example, at Kmart you can get schools supplies, clothes and the basics needed to equip a dorm room.

For grade schoolers there's everything from pencils, notebooks and backpacks, featuring their favorite characters, to great basics like jeans, tees, sweaters and hoodies.

For middle school girls there are trendy paisley print camis, watches, beaded shoes and suede moccasins, and for boys there is an array of athletic wear addressing every sport and style.

College students can find dorm basics with style, such as comforters, pillows, laundry bags, bean bag chairs, telescope tables and towels. There are also small portable vacuums and specially designed laundry baskets large enough for a week's worth of laundry.

Rather than having to run from store to store, one-stop shopping is the way to go for busy parents. Taking the kids along can be a great lesson in budgeting your time and your money wisely, and gives them an opportunity to start finding ways to express their own personal style.

AAA Asks Motorists To Be On Alert When School Begins

As thousands of area students return to school over the next few weeks, AAA Southern New England reminds motorists to slow down and watch out for school-age pedestrians.

"Children get caught up in the excitement of 'back-to-school' season and forget to look out for cars," said John Paul, AAA Southern New England manager of Traffic Safety. "Many youngsters have trouble making accurate judgments about traffic speed and distance, so drivers have to be particularly aware."

One-fifth of all children 14 years of age and younger who die in motor vehicle crashes are pedestrians, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. These pedestrian fatalities are more likely to happen in the afternoon hours, when school is letting out.

AAA's annual "School's Open — Drive Carefully" campaign encourages motorists to stay alert in areas where children are present, paying special attention during the morning and afternoon hours while children are coming to and from school.

Drivers should look out for children who may dart out into the street near school zones, playgrounds, bus stops and in neighborhoods. School-age children can be especially vulnerable in areas with heavy traffic volume, parked vehicles on the street, higher posted speed limits and few pedestrian-control devices.

As part of the "School's Open — Drive Carefully" campaign, AAA offers drivers tips to keep school children safe:

- Recent studies have shown more than one-third of motorists in school zones or neighborhoods just "roll through" intersections with a stop sign. Slow down in or near school and residential areas, and be sure to come to a complete stop in all intersections.
- Look for clues such as school safety patrollers, crossing guards, bicycles and playgrounds which indicate children could be in the area.
- Scan between parked cars and other objects for signs that children could dart into the road.
- Practice extra caution in adverse weather conditions.
- Pay particular attention near schools during the morning and afternoon hours.
- Always stop for school buses that are loading and unloading students.

"Drivers should always be aware of their surroundings, but especially around children," Paul said. "Remember: School's open, drive carefully."

Jane MacIntosh's Class Remembers Dr. Seuss

Mrs. Jane MacIntosh's All Day Kindergarten class at the M. E. Small School in West Yarmouth will long remember their part in celebrating Dr. Seuss' 101th birthday.

The 5 and 6-year-olds practiced their parts in "Green Ham and Eggs," this year's featured Dr. Seuss book, and were the first class to present a skit during a schoolwide assembly.

The Dr. Seuss reading celebration continued with the entire school singing "Dr. Seuss, We Love You," and a copy of "Green Eggs and Ham" donned with a class picture and signatures of Mrs. MacIntosh's students to every classroom.

Jane MacIntosh is the wife of David B. MacIntosh Jr., formerly of Quincy; the daughter-in-law of David B. MacIntosh of Quincy; and the granddaughter-in-law of former Quincy Mayor David S. McIntosh.

Spotlight On Health & Fitness

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Too Much Exercise

Q. My friend exercises five to six days a week for two hours each day. She is not training for anything specific and says she just wants to lose weight and look fit. Despite her exercising so much, she has stopped seeing much improvement. I told her she may be working out too much and keeping herself from reaching her goals. Can you exercise too much?

A. Many people find it a challenge to make time in their schedule for a regular exercise routine. It is, however, possible to exercise too much. Although not as common as inactivity, overtraining is a serious concern that can cause limited exercise results, risk of injury and loss of performance.

There are symptoms that can help identify overtraining, including: loss of strength; reduced speed, agility and endurance; loss of appetite; aches, pains and prolonged soreness; unusual fatigue; increased heart rate; and overuse injuries.

Your body needs time to recover from workout to workout in order to strengthen and prepare itself for the stresses that will be placed upon it each day. Without time to rest and recover, your body becomes unable to keep up with exercise demands and will begin to take steps to slow you down.

Rest is the best remedy for combating overtraining. Taking five to seven days off from your normal, rigorous exercise routine can help your body recover. You can continue to participate in light exercise, but not at the intensity or frequency of previous sessions. After several days you should begin to feel your body spring back. If you do not begin to feel better, see your physician to check for other causes.

It may seem that the more exercise you do the better, but everything has a limit — even exercise. Overtraining can also drain you mentally, causing irritability, frustration and difficulty concentrating and sleeping. Balance is the key to maintaining a healthy exercise regime. Be sure to give your body and mind a rest so they can rejuvenate and perform at their fullest.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@hearstsc.com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

September Is Pain Awareness Month

The American Cancer Society and the Massachusetts Pain Initiative are highlighting the importance of effective pain management during September, which is Pain Awareness Month.

Pain is the most common reason people seek medical attention. Over seventy-five million Americans suffer from chronic pain, and each year another twenty-five million experience acute pain as a result of injuries or surgery.

Some fifty to seventy percent of cancer patients experience uncontrolled pain at some point during their illness. Yet, despite the availability of effective medicines and treatment options, pain continues to be under treated.

According to a recent survey by KRC Communications Research polling over 400 residents in Massachusetts, three out of five people in Massachusetts reported experiencing pain on a regular basis.

"Pain Awareness Month" offers the opportunity for public officials, business leaders, and health care providers to critically examine and address the barriers that prevent persons in pain from getting the relief they deserve.

Health care professionals need to become more knowledgeable about how to assess and treat pain; patients must not fear taking medications or be embarrassed that they are in pain; and public and private institutions must recognize the societal and economic benefits of pain management and avoid implementing policies that restrict access to pain treatment.

The American Cancer Society and the Massachusetts Pain Initiative (MassPI) offer the following suggestions to help persons take control over their pain.

• Speak up! Tell your doctor or nurse that you're in pain. It's not a sign of weakness to talk about your pain.

Pain is a common medical problem that requires urgent attention. So don't be embarrassed to talk about it.

• Describe your pain. Where and how much does it hurt? Use numbers from 0 (no pain) to 10 (worst pain of my life) to rate the intensity of your pain. Use words like sharp, stabbing, dull, aching, tingling, and burning to describe how it feels.

• Take active part in your treatment. It's your responsibility to tell your doctor you're in pain, take part in your treatment, follow your pain management plan, ask questions, and speak up if treatment isn't working. Be persistent until you find what works for you.

• Know the facts. Misunderstandings about pain and the medicines used for treatment often prevent patients from getting the relief they deserve. You should know that treatments are available to relieve or lessen most pain, that pain medications rarely cause addiction, and that most side effects from pain medications can be effectively managed.

Backpack Safety

By DR. JAY PROVENZANO

Over the past few years, doctors have seen more and more children and adults coming into their offices complaining of back pain. Backpacks and oversize tote bags have made it easy for many Americans to throw in everything but the kitchen sink without realizing they could be throwing out their backs.

Millions of students are racing to school bus stops or running to their classes with overstuffed backpacks slung over one shoulder. While carrying a backpack might seem harmless enough, it can cause some painful back and neck problems. Too many of our younger children are carrying overweight backpacks to school.

Common problems and symptoms

- Neck pain.
- Upper back pain.
- Mid back pain.
- Lower back pain.
- Arm to finger numbness and tingling.
- Shoulder pain.
- Fatigue from heavy loads.
- Headaches from upper back and neck tension.

Severe problems

- Postural alignments.
- Abnormal gait.
- Disc herniation.
- Osteoarthritis.

Ways to prevent injury

Exercise: Today the average student spends hours at school and at home leaning over books or computer keyboards. Extension exercises are a great suggestion to counter balancing the flexion stress of the normal day. For example: Place one hand on each side of an open door and let your body hang through the opening. This will stretch the chest muscles.

Eating habits: Today's dietary habits are less than optimal. We must educate the individuals that their choices in food have an effect on their health, weight and posture. For example: Reduce simple sugar intake, remove hydrogenated fats from diet, eat more protein and good fats, balance the meals with fruits and vegetables, drink eight to 10 glasses of water each day.

Wear a backpack properly

• Wear both shoulder straps unless your pack is designed for use on one shoulder. Carrying a heavy backpack using one strap can shift the weight to one side which can lead to neck and muscle spasms, low back pain and walking improperly.

Choose a backpack with thickly padded shoulder straps and lumbar support. Use an ergonomic backpack. Finally, make sure your child's backpack weighs no more than 5 to 10 percent of his/her body weight to reduce the risk of injury.

IMPROVED COMFORT AND APPEARANCE WITH IMPLANTS

Each tooth has a crown (the visible portion of the tooth) and a root (which remains unseen and anchors the tooth in the jawbone to provide stable support for the crown). When an entire tooth is lost, the jawbone may begin to shrink in the area where the root used to anchor itself. If so, the face can take on a sunken look that makes a person look older. Because only dental implants replace both the tooth and the root, which is embedded directly in the jaw, it is the only tooth-replacement method that can prevent bone loss and a sunken appearance in the face. Unlike dentures, whose fit is continually altered by bone shrinkage, dental implants are stable.

If you are self-conscious about missing teeth or wearing dentures, there's an alternative that may be right for you: dental implants. Can we improve your smile? Dental implants offer a more permanent solution for replacing any number of missing teeth. We are currently accepting new patients and welcome you to call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where you will be pleased with our "personal touch" philosophy and our dedication to your complete dental health. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Dental implants provide patients with improved self-esteem, which comes with their complete confidence in a stable prosthetic tooth.

We need you.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Tuesday, Aug. 16, at approximately 8:20 p.m., Officer William Ward stopped a mini-van on East Squantum Street for a broken taillight. As Officer Ward approached the female driver, he noted that the male passenger in the front seat moving his hands from his pockets to the side of the seat. When asked for her driver's license, the female operator stated her license was suspended.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Ward directed her to step out of the vehicle as he closely watched the passenger continue to make furtive movements. Officer James Cochrane and Trooper Brian Dunn arrived on scene and were advised of the furtive movements and the observation of a glassine bag in the passenger's left side pants pocket. The driver was handcuffed and placed in Trooper Dunn's cruiser.

The passenger was asked to step to the rear of the vehicle. Once there, he was instructed to keep his hands on the trunk of the car so that a pat-frisk could be conducted safely. The passenger immediately removed his hand from the car and put it in the pocket where the glassine bag had been spotted. Officer Ward and Officer Cochrane immediately grabbed the suspect's hands and restrained him.

Officer Ward then removed 11 bags of individually wrapped bags of cocaine. This suspect was also placed under arrest. A search incident to arrest revealed $970 in this suspect's pocket.

Detective Gerard O'Rourke and Edward Ryan of the Drug Unit arrived on scene, initiated a further search and found drug paraphernalia. The suspect vehicle was towed to the police station pending civil forfeiture.

The male defendant, a 37-year-old Brockton resident, was charged with "trafficking cocaine," "providing a false name to police after arrest" and "forgery of motor vehicle documents." He has an extensive arrest/conviction record of narcotics violations.

The female defendant, a 27-year-old Brockton resident, was charged with "operating a motor vehicle with a suspended license," "defective equipment" (the reason for the initial stop) and "illegal possession of a class B substance."

Nice work!

Most motorists and passengers are of no threat to police officers. Approaching a vehicle, especially under poor lighting conditions, with the driver or passengers moving about, creates concern for the officer. The recommended procedure is for the driver to turn the interior light on and keep his/her hands on the steering wheel and await instructions by the officer. Passengers should remain still, with hands visible and no one should attempt to get out of the car unless directed by the officer.

Something to consider: Many paramedics are recommending that owners of cell phones list a contact person under "ICE", which stands for "In case of emergency." This person could be contacted quickly, advised of the situation, and take care of matters on your behalf.

Roof Repair

Q. The asphalt shingles on my roof seem all right, although some look a little buckled, and one or two are torn. How hard are these to fix? — Travis K., Indianapolis

A. For small, quick repair jobs that will hold things in place until there's time and money for larger repairs, roofing cement is your friend. This versatile plastic cement can handle many types of small roof problems.

A loose shingle can be quickly glued back into place by coating with roofing cement; buckled shingles will tolerate a shot of cement underneath the buckle and can be pressed down. While you're up there, it's a good time to check the seals around flashing, remove deteriorated sealant and replace with a bead of roofing cement.

Now, a single torn shingle might not be much to worry about, and if pieces of it aren't missing you may be able to glue it back together and in place. But if you only find part of a shingle, or several surrounding shingles are messed up, it's best to replace them completely rather than rely on the miracle powers of roofing cement.

Pull out the uppermost damaged shingle in the work area, being careful not to damage good shingles surrounding it. Then remove the other damaged shingles, working downward. Also, remove any exposed nail heads and patch any torn building paper with — that's right — roofing cement.

Install the new shingles from the bottom up, nailing them into place at the precut tab slots with 7/8 inch or 1 inch roofing nails. When you get to the top shingle, run a bead of roofing cement along the underside and then slide it into place underneath the undamaged shingle above it. Carefully lift the undamaged shingle so that you can nail down the topmost replacement shingle.

If you're concerned about the new shingles on your roof looking markedly darker than the old shingles, here's a quick way to "age" the replacements. Before making repairs, lay out the new shingles. Dip a white rag into mineral spirits and carefully wipe the surface of the shingles (wear gloves and eye protection for this trick). This actually removes some of the granulated material, possibly reducing the life of the shingles, so don't go overboard. Rinse the shingles well and let them dry completely before installing them.

Financing Your First Home

At Wells Fargo Home Mortgage

(NAPS) - For many first-time homebuyers, the biggest hurdle is saving up the downpayment. In today's high-priced real estate markets, 20 percent of the purchase price can amount to a significant chunk of change.

But don't give up. Even if you've got a down payment of just three percent or even less, there are lots of ways you can buy a home. Here's what they are and how they work.

Mortgage Insurance

By getting a loan with mortgage insurance, you can lock in the lowest fixed-rate first mortgage that's available and you'll know exactly what your payments will be. Private mortgage insurance enables leaders to make loans covering more than 80 percent of a property's value, which are statistically riskier. The advantage is that it's predictable and stable – if interest rates rise, you won't feel it. Also, you can cancel it as soon as your equity builds to 20 percent. The potential disadvantage may be a slightly higher monthly payment than you'd get with a different financing structure.

Piggyback Loan

An adjustable-rate second mortgage "piggybacked" on a fixed-rate first mortgage is called a piggyback loan or an 80-10-10 (80 percent first, 10 percent second and 10 percent downpayment). Lenders like piggybacks because they make commissions on both loans and borrowers like them because the initial payment may be somewhat lower than a loan with mortgage insurance. Potential disadvantages include paying origination fees on two loans instead of one and carrying a greater debt load. Also, when interest rates rise, you'll see higher payments on adjustable-rate second loans.

Interest-Only Loan

These loans allow borrowers to make "interest-only" payments during a defined period, usually five to ten years, so your initial payment may be lower. At the end of that time, however, payments increase significantly. Interest-only borrowers are especially vulnerable to rising rates – and could face potentially much larger payments due each month as interest rates increase. By paying interest only, and no principal, borrowers are not building equity in their home.

"Piggyback and interest-only loans became popular because interest rates were low," explained Steve Smith, President of PMI Mortgage Insurance Co., the nation's second largest provider of private PMI. "But the prime rate has increased since June 30, 2004 and probably will again. If you have a second mortgage with an adjustable rate or a loan with a balloon payment you'll need to refinance, you could be looking at a challenge."

Doug Long, CEO of Pinnacle Financial, one of the nation's fastest growing independently-owned mortgage lenders, recommends mortgage insurance for most first-time homebuyers.

"Homebuyers with mortgage insurance build equity in their homes at a faster pace than borrowers using other loan structures," Long said. "When their homes appreciate, homeowners build greater equity and consequently can cancel mortgage insurance sooner – resulting in even greater savings."

The Bottom Line?

Choose the product that's right for you. Calculate what the options will cost, not only now but when interest rates rise.

And consider what will protect you if you do have trouble.

"No one buys a home intending to default but sometimes bad things happen to good people," Pinnacle's Long said. "So what I tell borrowers is that the choice is not just about the initial downpayment. It's about finding the product that will best protect their dream of ownership."

Homeowners Alert: Mortgage Fraud

Mortgage fraud typically involves home appraisers, lenders, realtors, loan officers and a purchaser, known as the "straw buyer."

Simplified, it works like this:

A "straw buyer" applies to purchase a home that has an inflated price based on a fraudulent appraisal. If the buyer doesn't have good credit, he'll be provided someone else's identification and credit history. The lender approves the loan, and money changes hands at the closing table. The participants split the proceeds, and the straw buyer vanishes.

Often the house is left abandoned, or it is "flipped," meaning that it is quickly resold multiple times, with the fraudulent value rising with each flip. Honest lenders who are duped into loaning more than a house is worth often end up with a property on their hands with no one paying the mortgage.

Whether you're a current homeowner or a potential buyer, mortgage fraud can affect you. Property values in your neighborhood will rise, and so will the real estate taxes as the fraudulent valuations increase. Homes can be left vacant as a result of flipping, causing neighborhoods to deteriorate and inviting crime.

Ten states are currently on the "hot" list for the number of mortgage frauds: Georgia, South Carolina, Florida, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, California, Nevada, Utah and Colorado. Atlanta leads the nation in mortgage fraud.

Here's what you can do:

- If there are more than a typical number of vacant homes in your neighborhood, find out why. It could be that the properties are being flipped. Check courthouse records to see who is buying the homes and at what price.
- If you are approached to refinance and the appraisal for your home comes in much higher than you expected, beware. The extra money could be kickbacks. If you later decide to sell, you could discover that your home is worth much less than the inflated appraisal, and you won't be able to sell it for the mortgage amount. You, the homeowner, will be responsible for paying back the higher mortgage.
- Call your state attorney general's office, the appraisal licensing board and the real estate commission if you suspect fraud in your neighborhood or if you have been approached with an unrealistic refinance scheme.

Get Schooled In Garage Organization

(NAPS) — Meeting a time-crunched school schedule can be a challenge. Organization plays a key role in maintaining order and preventing morning meltdowns.

To ease the switch and make the school season more manageable, here are some tips:

- Analyze: With after-school sports, school projects and a barrage of friends at the door, getting the family and house ready is essential. Ask yourself what works and what doesn't work with the current setup.

For example, if you have limited access to essential items, write it down and address it. Hold a family meeting to discuss the value of organizing the space from everyone's point of view. Be sure the plan benefits each family member so everyone buys into the project.

- Sort: Garages are notorious dumping grounds for things you used to use, thought you might use or didn't know where else to store.

With kids searching for sporting equipment and toys or areas to store their science experiment, this is the time to get organized and keep only the things you and your family feel have real value. Remember, if you're unable to access a thing, it's useless anyway. Pare down to focus on what is useful and make things more accessible.

- Zone Out: Think of a kindergarten classroom as a model for designing your space by dividing it into self-contained "activity zones." For easy access, store everything related to each activity in their own zone, such as gloves, bats and balls in the sports zone and hand tools in the home repair zone. Having everything at your fingertips prevents the before-school scramble and helps you focus more on your family.

- Step Up: Shelves and hooks on the walls are great for hanging backpacks and coats, storing shoes or even arts and crafts. For instance, Gladiator GarageWorks by Whirlpool Corporation has durable products that are designed specifically for the garage. There's an entire wall system that comes with paneling, hooks, baskets and shelving as well as appliances to meet all of your storage needs.

(NAPS) — Acidic soil with low pH, or sour soil, is not conducive to healthy plant growth. If tests show your soil is acidic, consider using hydrated lime. According to Dave Jackson of Oldcastle, the lime helps neutralize acid in the soil and helps make nutrients more available.

If also helps detoxify naturally occurring elements such as aluminum that are often found in soil. For more information, visit www.yardright.com.

THE 2005 BABE RUTH 14-YEAR-OLD WORLD SERIES

Proud Quincy Earns Praise For Effort

By CHRIS POISSON

When Matt Rodriguez popped up to shortstop for the final out in last Wednesday's game against Waite Park (Minn.), it marked the end of Quincy's participation in the 2005 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series.

After three months of playing baseball nearly every single day, the Quincy players slumped on the dugout bench and were expectedly distraught about their hard-fought 2-1 loss and their exit from the tournament.

"They're sitting on the bench disappointed," said manager Dick Lombardi after the game. "Give them 15 minutes. It's a baseball game. They're 14 years old and it's a baseball game. You try to get that across to them, that it's not the end of the world. But for the first 10 minutes, it is the end of the world. They wanted to go out there and win. They played to win. I tried to help them win. When it doesn't work out you have to be gracious in defeat.

"They're upset and I'd be disappointed if they weren't. They had a terrific World Series. They have nothing to be ashamed of. They made a big commitment to be there all summer and they're disappointed we didn't make it to (Thursday's quarterfinals). But if we got to tomorrow, they would've been disappointed if we didn't make it to Friday. And they would've been disappointed if we didn't make it to Saturday."

When the dust settles on Adams Field after nine spectacular days of baseball, the Quincy players will be able to hold their heads up high with the effort they put forth in their four World Series matches.

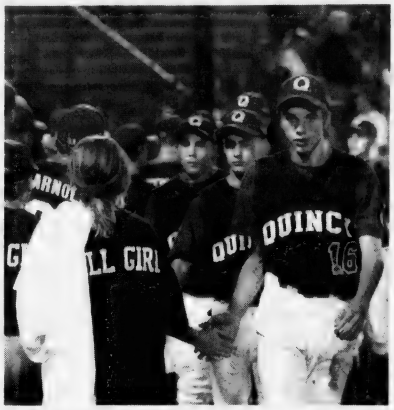
They were members of the first Quincy team to win a World Series game with their 9-0 victory over Italy in the opener. They almost rallied back against New England region champion Stamford (Conn.) in a 4-2 defeat. Against powerhouse and eventual champion Jefferson Parish (La.), they were clearly overmatched in the 12-0 blowout but never folded. And they were beating Waite Park, the same team that suffered one-run losses to Jefferson Parish and Nash County (N.C.), before falling in the late innings.

As the host team, Quincy earned a lot of praise from the other 11 teams in the tournament.

"I hope so because I think we have a lot of good ballplayers and I think they proved it," Lombardi said. "The other teams and coaches showed a lot of respect for us. You appreciate that. That's something they don't give you unless you earn it. These kids earned it. It was a good year. I'm just sorry it's over.

"Three or four more runs and we could've been 3-1 and playing in the next round. I'm really proud of these kids. It's been a pleasure. They made a commitment to the program. Whatever praise they get, they deserve. Like I said the other day, this city ought to be proud of this team."

Lombardi also thanked assistant coaches Stratton Tragellis and Kevin Ouellette along with volunteer parents Tony Alibrandi, John Naughton and Dave Brown for their help getting the kids prepared.



In the final game against Waite Park, pitcher Scott Warwick — who pitched 4 2/3 innings of no-hit relief to pick up the win over Italy — almost played the hero again.

The hard-throwing right-hander breezed through the Midwest Plains champion's lineup, allowing only a double and retiring 11 straight before tiring with one out in the sixth inning.

He yielded a pinch-hit single up the middle to Jack Arnold and walked leadoff hitter Nate Schmidt on four pitches before catcher Andy Henkemeyer tattooed a ball to deep center field to put his team ahead, 2-1. He walked two of the next three hitters to load the bases but Anthony Alibrandi replaced him and got a fly out to escape the jam.

"I felt fine," Warwick said. "One hit really kind of put it away. I'm proud of my

You Auto Know

UNHEALTHY OIL

If your vehicle is leaking oil, it can usually be found below the centerline of the car on rear-wheel-drive vehicles. On front-wheel-drive vehicles, oil leaks will show up on the engine side of the engine compartment. Engine oil develops a brown or black color within a few hundred miles of being changed. It is normally viscous enough to leave a puddle that does not creep along your garage floor. If the oil is leaking from a valve cover gasket, it may drip onto the exhaust manifold to create a burning smell. In any case, an engine-oil leak should be investigated by an auto technician. Gear lube is also oily and viscous like motor oil, which may confuse the issue.

LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO is very proud of our ASE Certified technicians and of the equipment they have on hand to properly service every system of your car. Whether your car needs an oil change, a simple tune-up, or major repairs, see us first. If you are in the market for superior service that you can count on, then visit us today at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550). We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sunoco and most major credit cards honored. Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Automatic transmission fluid may be bright red when new, but it gradually gets brown and cloudy later on. This makes it resemble used oil or gear lube.

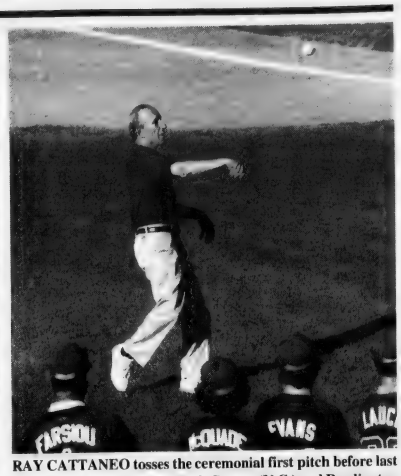
team. We fought to the end. It's just too bad we couldn't win. This was an experience of a lifetime. I'm glad I participated in it."

"Scotty Warwick just pitched an outstanding game," Lombardi said. "He just couldn't get the ball down. It just looked like he was getting tired. It's too bad. He was disappointed. He wanted to perform better. But I didn't see anybody that pitched much better than him in the tournament. I'm proud of the kid. He came with a lot of heart."

Quincy had the tying run in scoring position with no outs in the seventh inning. Danny Richards drew a lead-off walk and stole second on the first pitch. But relief pitcher Tyson Euerle, who induced a grounder with the bases loaded to end the sixth, retired the next three batters to seal his team's first victory.

"I had seven of these kids when then were 10-year-olds at the first-ever 10-year-old World Series in Indiana," said Waite Park manager Jack Arnold. "Back then they didn't do pool play so we went two-and-out. Then we go 0-3 here and we're going, 'Can this group win a game?'. So it was a big relief. We finally got one in the win column. It was a good way to end the year."



It was a typical Quincy game, not much offense (three hits) but great defense and superb pitching. In the first inning, it loaded the bases but couldn't come through with the timely hit. Warwick picked off a runner in the first, shortstop Alex Tragellis (2-for-4) made a nice diving catch of a line drive in the second and first baseman Kevin Magoon made a heads-up swipe tag for the last out in the third.

Quincy broke the scoreless affair in the fifth. Richards walked with two outs, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on Warwick's single that dropped before the left fielder.

"You try to manufacture a run in a game like that and we did it," Lombardi said. "You have to take a chance with Danny sometimes. Scotty faked the bunt and I was shocked to see the second baseman go over to first. Danny beat the shortstop to the bag. Then Scotty knocked him in. It looked like he was going to be the winning pitcher, and knock in the winning run."

Babe Ruth World Series A Hit For City

By CHRIS POISSON

The 2005 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series turned out to be another hit in the City of Quincy.

The nine-day tournament wrapped up last Saturday afternoon when Jefferson Parish (La.) captured the championship with a 5-1 triumph over Nash County (N.C.) at Adams Field.

"The atmosphere was just terrific," said host president Dick Lombardi, who also managed the Quincy team. "It was successful because it got done and the kids had a great time.

"I talked to a lot of parents and kids from the other teams. They just had a ball here. Some of the people told me they never expected to be treated as well as they were treated.

"The only problem is it goes by too fast. It seems like we just had opening night. I wish it would last longer."

Lombardi said he expects the overall attendance to be roughly the same as the 58,000 fans who showed up for the 2003 event.

"I would say it's probably comparable to two years ago, maybe a little more or a little less," he said. "The crowds we drew Thursday, Friday and Saturday were better than the first time around two years ago.

"This is a great event for the city. It brings money into the city. Financially I don't have an idea yet and probably won't know for a couple of months."

Unlike the feeling following the 2003 World Series, when many couldn't wait for its return, the sentiment now is the city needs a breather from hosting the national tournament.

"I'm not going to say when we're going to do it again," Lombardi said. "It will be a few years. It's not that we don't want to do it, but it has been almost four years straight with the two of them.

"We've talked about it. People need a break and the sponsors need a break, too. You can't keep going back to them looking for money. The first time was easy but this year was a little tougher. I'll talk to people at Babe Ruth and see what they got in the future and then we'll decide what we want to do."

And Lombardi said Babe Ruth officials would be delighted to return to the City of Presidents a third time.

"They're happy with us here," Lombardi said. "They got a great hotel. They got a great facility. They know the fans are going to come out. That's their whole thing. They want something that is a success. We proved it two years ago. But it took me a while to convince them that this was a great baseball area."

Lombardi thanked the Quincy Babe Ruth World Series Committee, which included vice president John Norton, his wife, treasurer Connie, and advisory board members Kathy Bowes, Dave Murphy, Joe Boncek, Sandy Verhault, Marie Sullivan, Joe Brill, Ron Ivil, Bob Griffin, Tom Koch, Tim Stevens and Peter Currie.

He also praised the 250 volunteers and 50 host families for their contributions to the World Series.

"The host parents deserve all the credit in the world for the success of the World Series," he said. "Without them, there is no World Series. Some of these kids are going to be friends for life. And all the volunteers. And the committee members who worked two years to get it back here and to do it right."

Defeats Nash County, N.C. 5-1 In Final

Perfect Jefferson Parish Captures World Series Title

By CHRIS POISSON

Jefferson Parish (La.) captured the 2005 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series last Saturday afternoon at Adams Field.

Powered by the superb pitching of World Series MVP Chad Guidry, the Southwest Region champions cruised to a 5-1 victory over Nash County (N.C.).

The team and some parents left Quincy Sunday and arrived in Dallas where they stayed to wait out Hurricane Katrina, which hit New Orleans Monday. Others parents remained here at the Boston Marriott Quincy to ride out the storm.

Jefferson Parish went undefeated in the tournament, outscoring its opponents, 44-4, in six games. It beat Waite Park (Minn.), Italy, Quincy and Nash County in pool play to earn the No. 1 seed in the National Division and a bye to the semifinals, where it knocked off Stamford (Conn.), 6-0.

Jefferson Parish's dominance extends beyond the 14-year-old team. The 15's won the World Series earlier and the 13's also took the crown last Saturday. The 16's also made the World Series.

Chad Guidry notched his third win of the tournament with a complete game, setting the new record for most innings pitched in a World Series with 21. He allowed the one run on only three hits while registering five perfect innings.

Nash County struck first in the third inning. Ben Fish crushed a double over the left fielder's head and moved to third on Cameron Ramsey's sacrifice bunt. Brian Goodwin stroked a two-out RBI single to center but ended the inning when he was caught stealing.

Jefferson Parish immediately countered with four runs in the bottom half as Nash County committed three errors. Nate Furey reached second base on an infield throwing error and was replaced by pinch-runner Jeremy Stout. Stout reached third on an errant pickoff attempt and scored when Corey Guidry reached on an infield error.

Chad Guidry walked and Mason Katz followed with an RBI single. Tyler Johns reached on an infield single that plated Chad Guidry and Ian Roberson had a sacrifice fly to drive home the fourth run.

Nash County threatened in the fourth with runners on the corners and one out. But Chad Guidry picked off the runner at first after a fake throw to third and induced a grounder to escape the jam.

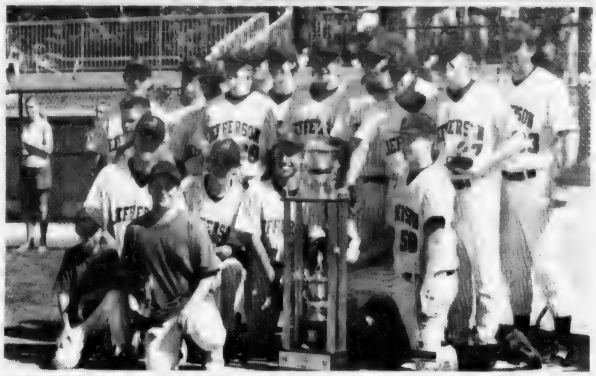
Nash County left-hander Taylor Joyner pitched well in defeat, allowing just four hits and one earned run in five innings of work.

In Jefferson Parish's semifinal win over Stamford last Friday, Rittiner scattered four hits to record the shutout.



Jefferson Parish grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Johns belted a two-run double. Stout scored on a passed ball in the fourth and Katz had an RBI double in the fifth before Jefferson Parish added two more in the sixth to close out the scoring.

In the other semifinal game, Nash County outlasted Tri-Valley (Calif.), 5-4, in 12 innings to set the record for longest World Series game.

Last year, Tri-Valley knocked Nash County out in the semifinals of the 13-year-old Babe Ruth World Series.

In the 12th inning, Nash County's Tyler Clark reached second on an infield throwing error — Tri-Valley's 10th miscue of the game — and Xavier Macklin plated him with the go-ahead run with a lined double.

The game was tied at 3 after seven innings and each team scored a run in the eighth to extend overtime.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This could be the time to try soothing whatever bad feelings might be lingering 'twixt and among colleagues, friends or family members. But be sure you do so without favoring any side.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) An idea is only an idea until you put that clever Bovine mind to work to develop it from concept to substance. This could lead to something rewarding, both emotionally and monetarily.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) The early part of the week could have some disconcerting moments, but approaching them with a calm, unruffled attitude goes a long way toward helping to get things nicely settled down.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Getting used to change continues to mark much of the week. But accepting what you have to do makes adapting that much easier. A welcome visitor could turn up sooner than expected.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Learning how to live with a decision is a challenge, but one you Leos and Leonas could really enjoy. You'll also be pleased to see your social life take that upsurge you've been hoping for.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Use your perceptive Virgo instinct to help you see the positive aspects of what, at first, appears to be a disappointment. You could find that it proves to be quite the contrary.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your ability to maintain a balance between sense and sentiment once again helps you sort through apparently conflicting choices and ultimately arrive at the right decision.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Before you seek the advice of colleagues about a potential career move, you might be better off getting counsel from someone who won't be affected by the choices you make.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It can be a challenging week for some relationships if the normal give-and-take flow changes with one side doing most of the giving and the other the taking.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A new opportunity could bring with it much anticipation along with some anxiety. Take time to sort out your options as well as your emotional considerations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Are you sure you have all the facts you need to let that matter move to another level? Don't be rushed into a decision unless and until you feel it's the right thing to do.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Pace yourself as you prepare to take on that more demanding project. Be careful not to let your energy reserves drain away. Take time to relax with people close to you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have the ability to see both sides of a situation. You would do well as a counselor or a judge.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Labor Day is one of the youngest of our national holidays. It is an important day, not only for those in the ranks of labor, but for every citizen in this land. It took labor of all kinds to carve this nation out of wilderness; to carve roads through the trackless forests; to clear lands and build towns.

Today many do not celebrate the day as it was originally dedicated for. There are, of course, the parades, but for many Labor Day marks the beginning of Fall. By Labor Day, autumn's trappings are much in evidence. Pumpkins are ripening. School is starting. Nights are cooler. Football is re-asserting its claim to be the national game... In resort areas, vacationers are having their last fling. In the cities, people are shaking off their apathy of summer.

We're glad the Knights of Labor invented the idea in the 1880's and Congress made it official in 1894. Today maybe it isn't what they had in mind, but they gave us all a day on which to say a hearty "Welcome back" to Fall. . . . And as we say a welcome to Fall, let us stop and think about our nation that was melded out of people from all sorts of backgrounds - provided they were willing and ready to work together.

To Provide Medical Care, Establish Donation Center

City, QMC Team To Aid Katrina Victims At Cape

Mayor William Phelan announces the City of Quincy will participate in the relief efforts for the victims of Hurricane Katrina in various ways over the next few weeks.

The city and Quincy Medical Center will team to provide medical and psychological care for the refugees housed at Camp Edwards on Otis Air Force Base in Bourne. The medical center and city will provide a wide range of acute medical care, available hospital beds and offer grief counseling to those displaced by Hurricane Katrina.

The city, Quincy Babe Ruth and the Quincy Sons of Italy will sponsor a fundraiser Friday evening to assist families from Jefferson Parish, La. The fund-raiser will be held at 7 p.m. at the Sons of Italy on Quarry Street. Suggested donation is $10 and can be made at the door.

WILLIAM PHELAN

A team from Jefferson Parish participated and won the 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series hosted by Quincy immediately before the hurricane. Much of Jefferson Parish was devastated by Hurricane Katrina.

Phelan will also urge city employees to contribute to the fund to help the victims.

"The scope of the devastation is difficult to fathom, but the images in the media show a level of loss unknown to our generation," Phelan said. "The people of the Gulf Coast need our help in the days, weeks and months to come. It is my hope that the people of Quincy rally to the aid of their fellow Americans in a time of desperate need. No act of compassion or charity is too small to make a difference."

Light Vote Forecast For Only Contest On Ballot

12 Candidates Seek 6 School Nominations In Tuesday's Election

A light voter turnout is seen for next Tuesday's city preliminary election in which the school committee race for three open seats is the only contest on the ballot.

"I think about 10 to 12 percent will come out," said City Clerk Joseph Shea.

Twelve candidates — nine of them running for public office for the very first time — seek the six nominations for the three open seats. The six winners will square off in the Nov. 8 final election.

Despite the large field of school candidates, Shea noted it is the only preliminary contest with no mayoral or city council races on the ballot which, he said, would attract a larger turnout.

Another indication the vote will be light, he said, is that there have been much fewer requests for absentee ballots compared with other elections.

Shea said he will have translators at the 10 most Asian populated precincts with the assistance of John Brothers, executive director of Quincy Asian Resources.

He has also printed 300 posters — 150 each in Chinese and Vietnamese — listing the locations of the 30 voting precincts for display at the polling places and in storefront windows.

Shea noted that the city's population is now 88,025 of which 18,125 — about 21 percent — are Asian.

There are 54,699 registered voters of which 4,254, or 7.8 percent, are Asian.

Although the school committee race is the only contest on the ballot, it is still a city-wide election and Shea estimates it will cost about $70,000.

The three open school committee seats are those of Vice Chairman Michael McFarland, Ronald Mariano and Jo-Ann Bragg.

McFarland is running for councillor at-large in the November final election. Mariano and Bragg are leaving after serving 16 and 12 years, respectively.

The Asian American Legal Defense and Education Fund, based in New York, cited Quincy, Boston and Lowell in a survey as cities where Asians had problems voting in last November's election.

Shea said Asian voters in Quincy reported no complaints to the Quincy Election Department about vot

Morrissey Calls Summit On Rising Gas, Oil Prices

A Special Energy Summit to address the rising costs of gas and oil in Massachusetts, is scheduled with Sen. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy), and Rep. Brian Dempsey (D-Haverill) on Sept. 19 at the State House

Sen.. Morrissey and Rep. Dempsey are co-chairman of the Joint Committee on Telecommunications, Utilities and Energy.

Rep. Dempsey said "In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, Massachusetts families are seeing soaring gasoline and home heating costs. It is critical now more than ever for Massachusetts to explore energy options that can help alleviate these financial strains."

MICHAEL MORRISSEY

Rep. Morrissey said "We intend to invite representative from the gasoline, oil and natural gas industries and various state officials and associated consumer advocates to help inform members of the legislature and the general public as to the reasoning behind the recent increases in prices and possible solutions."

Committee members will be looking into the possibility of available reserves and issues of cost, supply and reliability of the Commonwealth's gas and home heating oil interests.

For questions or comments, call the Joint Committee of Telecommunications, Utilities and Energy at 617-722-1494 or 617-722-2263.

Hurricane Season Is Still Here

Hurricane Katrina, which has left devastation and deaths that could reach thousands in New Orleans, Mississippi and Alabama, may not be the last this year.

The hurricane season is still here and New England fortunately has been spared so far.

But names have been designated for 10 more hurricanes should they occur.

The 10 in this order:

Lee, Maria, Nate, Ophelia, Philippe, Rita, Stan, Tammy, Vince and Wilma.

Hopefully none of them will put in an appearance.

12,500-Ton Heat Wave

If you have any doubts that it was hot this summer, just ask Stop & Shop.

The Quincy-based supermarket chain has a unique way of measuring such things.

By the time the leaves begin to turn in the fall, its 365 stores figure to have sold 12,500 tons of ice cubes.

That's the equivalent of a small iceberg — or more martinis than you'd care to count.

Kids' Lemonade Stand Raises $420 For Hurricane Victims

Some customers may have thought the price was a little inflated but the effort put forth by the four 9-year-old girls was so worthy and timely that they paid without a second thought.

Lemonade was on sale at a stand on Curlew Road in Adams Shore for $1 a glass and the proceeds were destined for the relief of those who lost everything when Hurricane Katrina struck the Gulf coast.

One thirsty customer even contributed $25 for a glass.

The kids opened their stand in front of James and Marcia Forrester's home at 71 Curlew Rd. on Friday afternoon and when they closed up shop on Monday they had collected $420 for hurricane relief.

The idea came to Marlena Forrester, 9, a Quincy Sun carrier, as she watched on television the suffering of the people of New Orleans and Mississippi and the damage wreaked by Hurricane Katrina.

She gathered her friends, Catherine Sullivan, Madison Kirby and Dominique Lucier; her mother, a teacher at North Quincy High School, made the lemonade and the stand was off and running.

Christopher Neil Promoted To Air Force Staff Sergeant

Christopher M. Neil has been selected for promotion to the rank of staff sergeant in the U.S. Air Force.

Neil, an interface control technician with eight years of military service, is assigned to the 608th Combat Operations Squadron, Barksdale Air Force Base, Bossier City, La.

He is the son of Peter C Neil Jr. of Merrimac and Joanne Fischer of Quincy.

The sergeant is a 1996 graduate of Haverhill High School.

At Quincy Observance Of War's End 60 Years Ago

Sacrifices Of World War II Led To Peace, Prosperity, Says Japanese Official

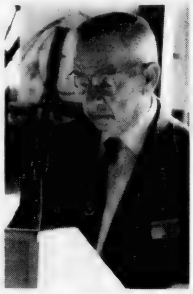
By TOM HENSHAW

The man from Japan talked of the peace and prosperity that followed war and destruction and the men who made it possible but didn't live to enjoy it.

Masayuki Takashima, acting consul general of Japan in Boston, spoke at Quincy's celebration of the 60th anniversary of the end of World War II, the day the Japanese surrendered,

Fittingly, the celebration was held Friday aboard the USS Salem at site of the old Fore River Shipyard, which turned out so many warships that won the war.



"The peace and prosperity we enjoy today are founded on the ultimate sacrifices of those who lost their lives for the war against their will," said Takashima

"I would like to express my sincerest feeling of mourning for all victims."

Some 35 veterans of the war took part in the ceremonies, each receiving a certificate "in solemn recognition of the sacrifices and leadership of the men and women of the 'Greatest Generation.'

"In fighting to preserve a free society, you won the war, built the peace, and gave to future generations the precious gift of freedom."

Jeanne Greene of Marshfield, wife of Joe Greene, past commander of the Morrisette Legion Post, summed up the same thought in a poem she had written:

JOHN RAEKE, chaplain of the Quincy Veterans Council, give the invocation at the celebration of the end of World War II

JEANNE GREENE of Marshfield delivers her poem. 'Where Do We Get Such Men?' to the 60th anniversary celebration of the end of World War II.

"Where do we get such men? The Admiral asked. He spoke of men and women like you, you wonderful men and women of World War II who went in harm's way to protect our nation.

"We can never repay you for the willingness and the eagerness with which you joined the exclusive band of brothers and sisters who served to bravely at that time.

"Because of your sacrifice, you have had the opportunity to live your lives in freedom. You are the ones who know best that freedom is not free, but you have had the right to live your lives as you choose; to laugh, enjoy this land and, yes, to complain if you feel like it.

"The world has gotten very small. Abraham Lincoln once said this country could not survive half slave and half free. Neither can the world.

"Today we find ourselves at war once again. My 19-year-old grandson has just finished his basic training in the army at Fort Jackson in South Carolina. He is the sixth generation of men in our family who has served in the military.

"Be proud then as you answer the admiral's question. Tell him that you came from the heart and soul of America. That some of you served not once but twice. No wonder they call you the greatest generation."

Takashima emphasized that, since the official end of the war on Sept. 2, 1945, Japan and America have grown to be close friends.

"Today," he said, "Japan and the US are indeed allies that share such basic values as freedom, democracy and respect for human rights. Both countries cooperate closely on political, security, economic and global issues."

The two countries, said Takashima, act together in addressing world problems such as "the fight against terrorism, the spread of weapons of mass destruction, the issues concerning Iraq and North Korea, the environment and the elimination of poverty and infectious disease."

He quoted President George H.W. Bush as saying in 2002, "While there was terrible animosity on both sides during the war, today, I see only mutual respect and friendship."

Frank McCauley, president of the City Council, said that the USS Salem was a fitting place in which to hold the 60th anniversary of the Japanese surrender since it was on the deck of the USS Missouri that the surrender terms were signed..

He noted that General Douglas MacArthur used five pens to sign the surrender documents and that one of them was given to Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, who was captured on Corregidor and spent three years and three months in a Japanese prison camp.

He recalled that Wainwright had been the guest of honor at Flag Day ceremonies in Quincy in 1946 that drew 7,000 people.

Henry P. Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans' Services, was the master of ceremonies for the Friday afternoon observance while the Morrisette Legion Post supplied the color guard

• On Sept. 9, 1850, California becomes the 31st state in the union after Mexican diplomats cede the territory. They might have had regrets had they known that gold had been discovered at Sutter's Mill in Coloma, Calif., nine days prior to signing.

• On Sept. 11, 1921, San Francisco police arrest actor and director Fatty Arbuckle on suspicion of manslaughter. Starlet Virginia Rappe had died of a ruptured bladder several days after an alleged sexual assault by the 350-pound Arbuckle. After two hung juries, Arbuckle was acquitted in 1922, but his films were banned.

• On Sept. 7, 1936, rock pioneer Buddy Holly is born in Lubbock, Texas. Holly popularized the standard rock band format of two guitars, a bass and drums. His blockbuster hits included "Peggy Sue," "Oh, Boy!" and "Maybe Baby."

• On Sept. 5, 1957, Jack Kerouac's "On the Road," one of the first novels of the Beat movement, is published. Kerouac wrote in fits of inspiration, fueled by amphetamine binges and lack of sleep. The entire book was written on a 120-foot scroll of paper and took only 20 days.

• On Sept. 8, 1960, Aguri Suzuki, one of Japan's most successful race-car drivers, is born. Suzuki began his winning career in the Japanese Kart Championship, and eventually moved on to Formula 1 racing.

• On Sept. 6, 1976, a Soviet air force pilot lands his MiG fighter jet in Japan and asks for asylum in the United States. After a thorough analysis of the MiG-25, American experts concluded that the plane was quite fast, but also unwieldy and almost incapable of close-quarters combat.

• On Sept. 10, 1981, Spanish artist Pablo Picasso's monumental anti-war mural Guernica is received by Spain after four decades of refugee existence. In 1939, Picasso gave the painting to New York's Museum of Modern Art on an extended loan and decreed that it not be returned to Spain until democratic liberties were restored in the country.

School Candidates Deserve A Bow

I think they deserve some credit.
Make that a lot.

I mean the 12 candidates running for those three open school committee seats in the only preliminary election contest next Tuesday.

Nine of the 12 are running for public office for the very first time.

The three open seats are the ones Vice Chairman Michael McFarland, Ronald Mariano and Jo-Ann Bragg are leaving.

McFARLAND

MARIANO

BRAGG

McFarland is running for councillor at-large. Mariano and Bragg are stepping down after serving 16 and 12 distinguished years respectively.

The 12 make one of the largest school committee fields in recent years. But virtually only half as large as the 1971 election, the last time there were three open seats. That race produced 23 candidates.

Those three seats were won by Harold Davis, Dan Raymondi and Frank McCauley, who finished in that order.

For Raymondi it was the start of his political career. For McCauley it was a comeback after giving up his Ward 1 seat in 1967 to make an unsuccessful bid for a council at-large seat.

Davis left the political scene for a law career.

The 12 running this year are making it a good, strong race. Six will be nominated next Tuesday and three of them will be the final winners Nov. 8.

Whoever they are, they will be new faces, on the school committee with their own ideas of what is best for the Quincy public school system. They will make a 50 percent turnover on the school committee.

The 12 kept this election year from maybe being one to forget.

An election year without a major mayoral race. One with five ward councillors unopposed – something no one can remember seeing before.

And one with an open council at-large seat that drew only three contenders: McFarland, Julie Berberan and Dominic Paulo.

That's the seat McCauley, now city council president, will be leaving closing out a prestigious 32-year political career. The other two incumbents, Joseph Finn and John Keenan, are seeking re-election.

The only other action this year is in Ward 6 where Brian McNamee and Mark Bracken seek the seat Alicia Gardner is leaving. But they have to wait for the Nov. 8 election.

The 12 also kept 2005 from being another 1940. That was the year without a preliminary election. There weren't enough candidates for any office.

It was also the year that Thomas Burgin became the first mayor in the city's history to run opposed for re-election.

The nine school candidates running for the first time deserve special credit. In alphabetical order they are:

Michael Covais, Kathryn Graham Hobin, Anne Mahoney, Celeste McGlone, Eileen Mullen, Kevin Mulvey, David Smith, James Timmins and Sandra Verhault.

And credit should also go to Stephen Golden, Ronald Iacobucci and Joseph Keegan who have run before. And the fact they lost didn't discourage them from running again.

There will be three final school committee winners.

Hopefully, those who don't make it this year will try again in a future election.

If not for school committee, for another office.

New faces in public office are not only a healthy political sign, but more importantly a healthy one for the community, too.

Better Business Bureau Cautions

Give Wisely In Aftermath Of Katrina

In the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, the Better Business Bureau urges the public to exercise caution when responding to charity appeals to assist those stricken by the disaster.

"Emotional appeals to assist disaster victims are common in the wake of any tragedy," said Kevin J. Sanders, executive vice president to the BBB Serving Eastern MA, ME and VT. "While most charities are operating honestly, scam artists will use a natural disaster as an opportunity to take advantage of American generosity."

The BBB offers these tips:

• Check out a charity before you give to ensure the charity meets BBB standards. When you donate goods, money or services you want to make sure the donation is going directly towards the cause.

• Evaluate appeals carefully. It's likely that many organizations will be responding to the disaster, so look at various options.

• Watch for red flags such as high pressure to make an immediate donation, overly emotional appeals that are short on detail on how the funds will be used and evasive answers to questions about the organization.

• Ask the organization how your donation will be used to directly alleviate conditions resulting from the hurricane and how much will be used for administration and fund-raising. See if the solicitation explains what the charity intends to do with any excess contributions remaining after they have fully funded disaster relief activities.

• If you decide to contribute online, find out more about the charity before making a contribution and be aware of red flags. For example, some charities imitate the name and style of a well-known organization in order to confuse people. Also, when clicking on the links to "donate," look at the organization's URL in the browser window. Exercise caution if the domain name is hidden, is not familiar to you or is not the same as the one stated in the text of the link.

• Do not give your credit card number or other personal information to a telephone solicitor or in response to an e-mail solicitation. Ask the caller or sender to provide you with written information on the charity's programs and finances.

• Do not give cash. Write a check to the full name of the charitable organization and ask for a receipt. If approached by a solicitor claiming to raise funds for a charitable organization, contact the organization to verify who is soliciting on their behalf.

The BBB Wise Giving Alliance has detailed reports on national charities and additional tips on charitable giving at its web site (www.give.org).

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A real photo postcard view of a demonstration of man-lifting kites at the Harvard Aero Meet at Atlantic in September 1910, 95 years ago this week. Even thought kites are mostly thought of as toys they played an important role in the development of powered aviation. The first device flown by the Wright Brothers at Kill Devil Hill in 1900 was a double-winged kite that they later added a motor to and flew in their first powered flight three years later. Shown here in flight is Samuel Perkins of Boston, an advocate of using man-lifting kites for military purposes. At the time they were used to carry field-observers for overhead reconnoitering, to life wire-aerials for use as wireless telegraphy stations and to carry life-size dummies aloft as bobbing practice targets for sharpshooters seated in aeroplanes. This air-meet featured a variety of early flying machines and was only the second held in the U.S. It attracted thousands of visitors to Quincy for over a week. Quincy's Yesterdays

Hurricane Edna Knocks Out Power

Sept. 8-14
1954
51 Years Ago

Hurricane Edna, a second major storm in 12 days, struck Quincy with winds of 75 mph and gusts up to 106 mph, knocking out 40 percent of the city's power in Wollaston and North Quincy.

Edna was mild compared to her predecessor, Hurricane Carole, which hit with winds clocked at 93 mph and gusts up to 125 mph. Edna dropped 5.16 inches of rain in 14 hours.

Rotary Field off Coddington Street and Kincaide Park in South Quincy were under several feet of water and parts of Houghs Neck and Squantum and Atherton Hough Schools.

James T. Gartland, executive director of the Quincy Red Cross, said 24 gallons of coffee, 150 small cartons of milk and 25 dozen doughnuts were served to storm refugees in the shelters.

LANE NOMINATED

Myron N. Lane of Quincy swamped two opponents, Sturtevant Burr of Stoughton and George P. Carney of Quincy, to win the Republican nomination for Norfolk County district attorney.

Lane had almost three times as many votes as Burr, his nearest challenger, in the race for the post to which he was appointed by Gov. Christian A. Herter.

A big primary victory by City Councillor David J. Crowley gave Democrats hope of displacing Republican Rep. William L. Jenness and winning the State Rep. seat in the Second Norfolk for the first time.

Bring Quincy College Into State's Community System

By now most of us have gotten fed up with this never-ending Quincy College soap opera. Charges and counter charges keep coming as education seems to take a backseat to politics.

I believe the time has come for the City of Quincy to begin negotiations with the state Department of Education to bring Quincy College into the state's community college system.

Quincy College can't survive a breakup with City Hall and the quasi-setup that's currently in play doesn't appear to be working that well.

If Quincy College became a state community college like Bunker Hill Community College in Charlestown, it would probably run much smoother. As part of a state system, the apparent local political cronyism would disappear.

There's a good reason why they current Quincy College is a one-of-a-kind educational institution. Make Quincy College, Quincy Community College and watch the educational product improve. Do nothing and keep watching the soap opera.

Finally, ensure that all city employees at Quincy College get protected. Switch them over to state employees. Protect their pensions and seniority status. Give the buildings to the state and get on with it.

UFOs Subject Of Discussion At Crane Library Sept. 22

The earliest sighting of an unidentified flying object (UFO) in America was a mysterious light seen in the skies from the Muddy River in Boston in 1638 or 39.

That and other sightings from the Massachusetts historical files will be the subject of a panel discussion Thursday, Sept. 22, at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

The presentation will be made by three speakers from Bay State Chapter of the Mutual UFO Network, Inc. (MUFON), an international organization of scientists and lay people dedicated to investigating UFO phenomena.

Speaker Joe Nyman, a member of MUFON since 1976 and chief investigator for the state chapter, has specialized in working with people who believe they may have had a close encounter with a UFO.

Speaker Mark Petty is an electronic marketing specialist who has built a huge UFO library and speaker Greg Berghorn is an engineer who had studied UFOs for more than 25 years and currently heads to State MUFON.

The program is the first of a year-long series of programs highlighting the library's collections by its classification system — the Dewey Decimal System. This month's program deals with the 000 section.

Katrina Relief Aid Center At Emergency Management Dept.

Mayor William Phelan announces the city will be soliciting donations of clothing and toiletries to be delivered to refugees of Hurricane Katrina being housed at Camp Edwards on Otis Air Force Base, Bourne.

Residents can drop off clothing items, blankets and toiletries at the Emergency Management Department, located in the Park and Recreation Complex in Merrymount Park. The drop-off center will be open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The supplies will be delivered Friday, Sept. 16.

"The people impacted by this tragedy need our help," Phelan said. "Imagine losing every single one of your earthly possessions and being left with nothing. We must help these people in their time of prolonged desperate need. Simple items such as sweaters and toothbrushes can make a big, big difference."

The items will be gathered and sorted by the Emergency Management Department over the next two weeks and delivered to Camp Edwards next Friday. The city hopes to fill a large truck with support items for refugees.

"These folks are now hundreds of miles from where their home used to be, left with nothing but what they are given," Phelan said. "I urge my fellow residents to be generous and compassionate for their plight. Our response could shape their lives in the weeks and months to come."

For more information on the Hurricane Relief Aid Center, call the Emergency Management Department at 617-376-1105.

At Quincy Sons Of Italy

Fundraiser To Benefit Jefferson Parish (La.) Babe Ruth Team Friday

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy community will come together Friday to help support the Jefferson Parish, La., 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series team and their families in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.

A fund-raiser will be held from 7 p.m. to midnight at the Quincy Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., West Quincy.

The event is being sponsored by the Sons of Italy, Quincy Babe Ruth and the City of Quincy. Suggested donation is $10 and can be made at the door.

"Those 15 families were right here in Quincy," said Marie Lumaghini, function manager of the Quincy Sons of Italy. "They had a hard time getting home. The Quincy Sons of Italy figured we would make an effort to help them any way possible."

"We thought we could try to help them out," said Dick Lombardi, president of Quincy Babe Ruth. "We know a lot of damage has been done where they live and they won't be back there for a while."

Entertainment will feature a live band, Lenny and the DelRays, and there will be a cash bar. World Series souvenirs will also be on sale.

Numerous organizations are contributing raffle items and Sons of Italy caterers are donating food.

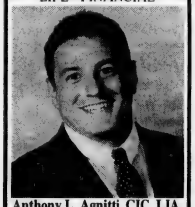
The coaches and players departed Quincy Aug. 28 and flew to Dallas where they stayed to wait out the hurricane while the parents remained at the Boston Marriott Quincy.

The Jefferson Parish coaching staff — Tommy Moran, Casey Cadella, Doug Neill and Earl Incardona — contacted Quincy Babe Ruth officials via e-mail to provide updates.

The coaches reported all of the players have reunited with family members in either Dallas or other parts of the country and they remain optimistic.

In an excerpt of an e-mail sent last Thursday, the coaches wrote:

"Nothing is for certain yet, but we are hoping for the best. It will be a long time before life as we knew it will resume. Many of the schools took on alot of water and many structures around the city are damaged. City officials are letting the residents of Jefferson Parish back into the city tentatively Monday to only retrieve some belongings and must again leave for at least a month. The time table to get back into the city is unknown."



In an excerpt of an e-mail sent the following day, they reported:

"Some aerial pictures were taken of New Orleans and the metro area. From the pictures that we were able to see, we remain optimistic. There seems to be little water that remains in Jefferson Parish, but the outlook remains at least a month before we can enter permanently.

"We appreciate the care, concern and prayers that are coming from the great people of Quincy."

Those who would like to make a donation can make a check payable to "The Sons of Italy" and marked Hurricane Fund and send to: Quincy Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., Quincy, MA 02169, or to Dick Lombardi, 32 Plover Road, Quincy, MA 02169.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Ann Marie's Chicken And Then Some

Even though the summer isn't officially over, cooking habits seem to change a little from outdoors to indoors. It certainly was that way last week when I got this great recipe from our daughter Ann Marie.

So over the weekend when it was a bit cooler, I decided to try it and you won't believe how easy and delicious a chicken entree with a few ingredients can be.

Chicken and then some

4 boneless chicken breasts (cut pieces thin)
3 tablespoons olive oil;
2 garlic coves (chopped)
1 cup chicken stock
1 cup half and half(fat free if desired)
3/4 cup crumbled blue cheese
2 cups baby spinach
3/4 pound bow tie pasta
grated Romano cheese

Start cooking the bow tie pasta while you prepare the following.

In the hot oil and garlic, sauté the chicken. Add the chicken stock and the half and half and cook until blended. Add the blue cheese and when this is bubbling, add the baby spinach which cooks very quickly.

When the pasta is cooked and drained, add to the pan and blend. Top it with the grated cheese and serve hot.

Second Marina Bay Chowder Fest Sept. 25

The Marina Bay Skilled Nursing and Rehabilitation Center will host its second annual Chowder Festival Sunday, Sept. 25, from 2 to 4 p.m., at the Center, 2 Seaport Drive, North Quincy.

Last year's winner of the Chowder Bowl, Barefoot Bob's of Hull, is back to defend its title as is the runnerup, the Skyline Restaurant in Marina Bay, which lost by one vote in the 2004 contest.

Other restaurants competing for the 2005 trophy will include the Outback Steakhouse, Nebraska's and many others.

The city will answer the call from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to send trained professional help to the region to assist in the rescue operation. Two Quincy firefighters, Michael Kelly and Kevin Tape, have agreed to serve and have been given approval by Chief Tim Pettinelli and Phelan.

"Firefighters from throughout America will converge on the Gulf Coast to help in the rescue operation," Pettinelli said. "FEMA has asked for our help and I commend our personnel for agreeing to pick up their lives and serve those in great need."

The city will also establish a Donation Center for clothing and supplies to assist those refugees being housed at Otis Air Force Base in Bourne. Some 2,500 residents of the gulf region will be housed at Otis Air Force Base in the coming months. Gov. Mitt Romney has requested the aid of the citizens of the commonwealth in donating clothing and supplies to assist those housed at Otis.

Quincy residents can drop off clothing and toiletries at the Emergency Management Office located at the Park and Recreation Complex in Merrymount Park. The city's Emergency Management trailers will be loaded and delivered next week.

For more information on how to help, call the Emergency Management Department at 617-376-1105.

Citizens Bank Accepting Katrina Relief Donations

Citizens Bank, with branches in Quincy, is accepting donations for the Hurricane Katrina relief effort.

The donations are being accepted on behalf of the American Red Cross and the Salvation Army.

Both agencies said 100 percent of all such donations will be sent directly to the Gulf Coast region affected by Hurricane Katrina.

Lawrence K. Fish, chairman, president and CEO of Citizen Financial Group, said that Citizens will match donations made to the Salvation Army by Citizens Financial Group employees through Sept. 30.

"Massachusetts residents, like others, have always been generous in offering assistance to those affect by a disaster," said Robert E. Smyth, chairman, president and CEO of Citizens Bank of Massachusetts. "I know that Massachusetts will help their fellow Americans in this time of need.

Farmers' Market To Continue Through October

The Quincy Farmers' Market will continue through the end of October on Fridays from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Hancock municipal parking lot across from Quincy District Court.

There is one-hour free parking.

Market manager Anneli Johnson said the month of September is great at the farmers' market because "all the summer vegetables are in full array and of every color of the rainbow."

In addition to the colored vegetables, she said the farmers' market now has many varieties of handmade breads from Five Loaves Bakery in Spencer and fresh goat cheese from Holland.

Almquist Flower Land, which served the market earlier this season, returns for the next two months with its home-grown mums and fall flowers.

"There are many reasons why everyone should stop at their farmers' market," Johnson said. "One important factor is that the produce is picked ripe and sold that day. You can taste the difference.

"Second, you can meet the farmers, Glenn, Scott, Jean-Claude and company, who grow our food, ask them when it was picked, how it was grown, and ways to prepare it.

"Furthermore, we will find unusual varieties of fruits and vegetables, those bred for flavor, not for uniform in size or ability to travel. And right away, ask Glenn about his wonderful melons. Our farmers also grow large number of varieties, which is ecologically smart, too, because it reduces crops' vulnerability to disease."

Colorful recipes and ideas of using fresh produce from the farmers' market are available at the Quincy Farmers' Market information table produced by the Federation of Massachusetts Farmers' Market.

For more information on Massachusetts Agriculture, visit its web site at www.Mass.gov/massgrown or call 617-626-1700, or contact Anneli Johnson at 617-479-1601.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE VOTERS OF QUINCY FROM

JIM TIMMINS

CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL COMMITTEE

Dear Voter:

I am writing to thank each of you who has graciously greeted me, offered me a word of encouragement or support, or even simply expressed to me your views or concerns on issues facing our schools.

It is a very difficult thing to put your name forward for public consideration to elective office. I presumed the task of running for school committee to be quite daunting. And it has been. But what I did not anticipate is how kind people would be to me; how willing to entertain my overtures, no matter how untimely; and, how eagerly people would offer their help. It has made this experience a rewarding one.

I am writing to ask more of each of you, however. My eleven fellow candidates and I have chosen to step up and seek to fill the three vacancies that now exist on our school committee. We have each worked hard, and each put our message before you.

Left to you now is the task of voting. I ask that each of you take the time to go to the polls on TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 2005 and cast your vote. We the candidates have done our work, and I ask that you, the voters, please, do yours. Our great city deserves no less.

And when you do vote, I ask that you give me one of your three votes to me, the second name on the ballot. Thank you for your consideration.

Still Traveling The World

Saturday Deadline For Kilroy Photo Contest

For those who think Kilroy, the one who "was here," retired after World War II, it may come as a surprise to learn that he is still traveling the world, far from his birthplace at the Fore River Shipyard.

Only the other day, the phrase "Kilroy Was Here" was spotted at the Eiffel Tower in Paris and the Western Wall in Jerusalem, reminders of the 60th anniversary of the war's end and Quincy's part in the winning of it.

Photos of the slogan on location were submitted in a contest, co-sponsored by Discover Quincy, the USS Salem and The Quincy Sun, to find the old wartime phrase in famous and exotic places around the world.

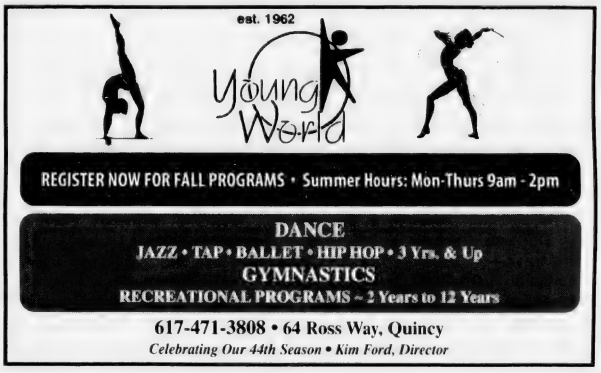
Flyers containing the slogan are available online at www.whereiskilroy.com, ready to be taken along on pleasure or business trips and photographed in unusual places. The pictures may be submitted through Saturday, Sept. 10.

Prizes will be awarded for the Most Original Photo, the Most Exotic Locale and more. Several of the photos already submitted for the contest are posted online at www.whereiskilroy.com.

"We're thrilled that so many residents have embraced the Kilroy photo contest as a way to help revive interest in 'Kilroy Was Here,'" said Jennifer Logue, executive director of Discover Quincy.

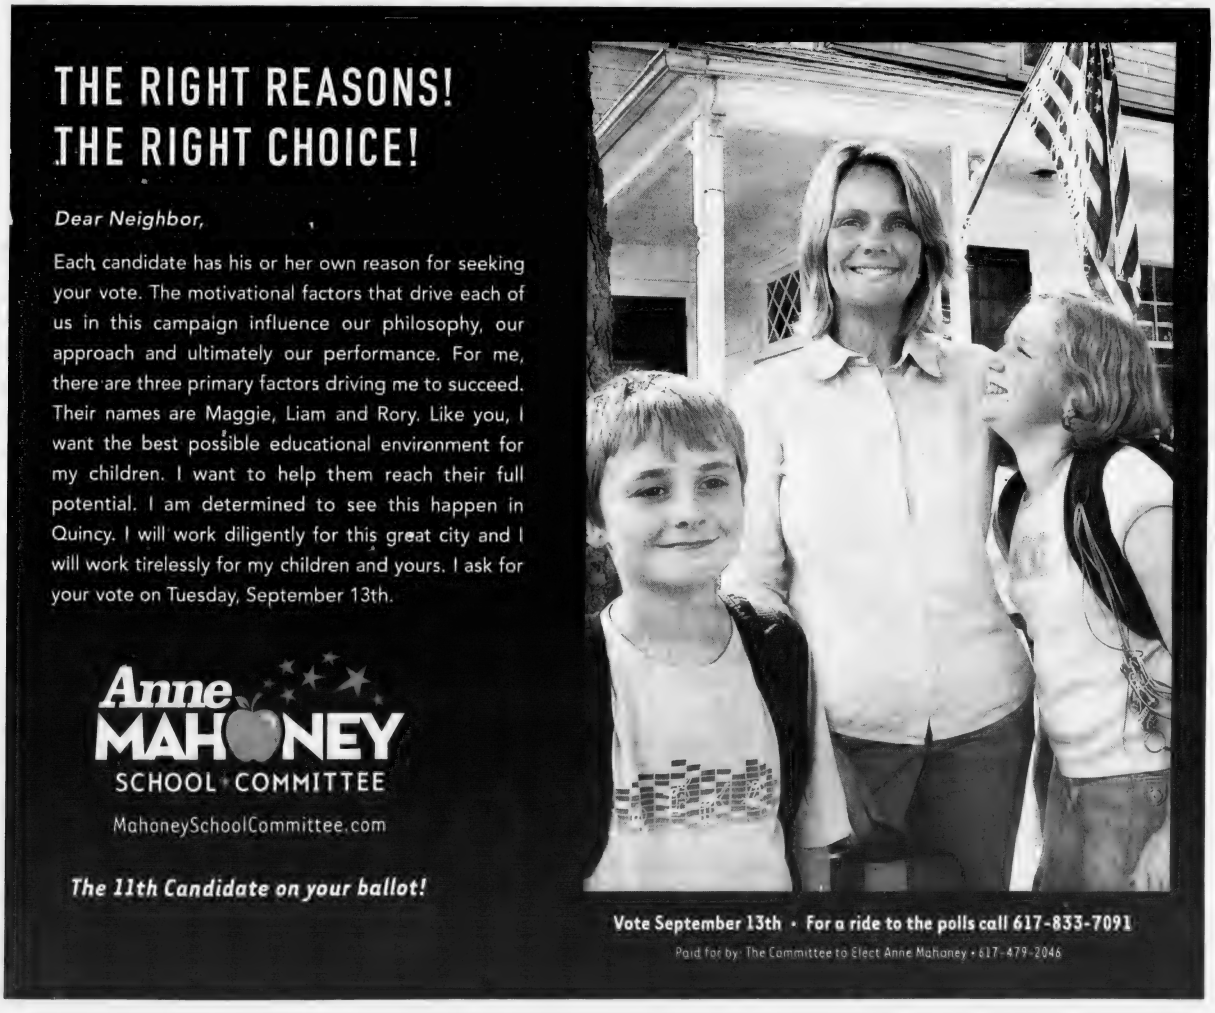
"We hope Kilroy will help spotlight the role our city played in the Allied war effort — both through the many ships built at the Quincy shipyard and through the huge morale boost 'Kilroy Was Here' provided our troops when they needed it most."

James Kilroy was a wartime rivet inspector at the Fore River Shipyard who began scribbling the phrase on bulkheads to prove that he had been there. Warships often left the Yard for ports around the world with the mysterious words still visible.



They intrigued the troops so much that, confronted with the absurdity of it all, they too began scribbling the words in the most unlikely places, like the men's room at the Potsdam Conference and the Imperial Palace in Tokyo.

The Kilroy photo contest is only one in a series of Discovery Quincy events and promotions designed to raise awareness of Quincy's connection to "Kilroy Was Here.



Contest organizers are currently sponsoring a postcard campaign to encourage the US Navy to name a new ship the USS Kilroy Was Here and to urge the US Postal Service to issue a Kilroy stamp.

For more information on the photo contest or the postcard campaign, call Jennifer Logue at 617-657-0527 or Michael Condon at 617-479-7900 or visit www.discoverquincy.com.

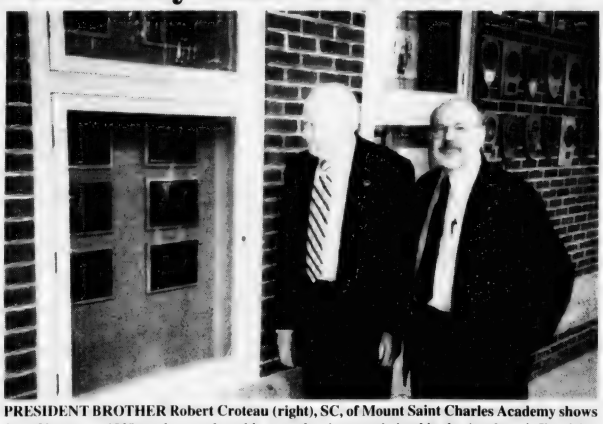
John Noonan Inducted Into R.I. Academy Hall Of Fame

John Noonan, longtime Quincy Council on Aging chairman and city volunteer activist, was inducted recently into the Mount Saint Charles Academy Excelsior 2005 Hall of Fame in Woonsocket, R.I.



Noonan, a graduate of the class of 1938, was one of five members of the alumni to be inducted because of significant contributions they have made or are making to the church, country and community.

Academy President Brother Robert R. Croteau, SC, said Noonan was being honored because of his many years of volunteerism, public service and charitable causes.

When notified by Croteau, Noonan commented:

"I'm greatly honored and deeply appreciative being remembered like this," Noonan said. "It has been 63 years since I graduated from the Academy and it is really something to be recognized as having made significant contributions to other people's lives.

"As I read the names of the other Hall of Fame inductees I am very happy to be a small part in such great company."

One alumnus inducted with Noonan is a member of the class of 1955. He is Dr. Francis L. Lawrence, noted scholar, teacher, author and president of Rutgers University. He has left an impact on thousands of students at the post-secondary level during his distinguished career.

A second alumnus graduated with the class of 1942. He is Ben Mondor, a sportsman widely known to Red Sox fans. He is owner of the Pawtucket Red Sox, a team very much in the news today as players shuttle back and forth from Fenway Park and McCoy Stadium.

Noonan had one big regret when the induction ceremonies were held. He could not attend because he had just undergone five hours of surgery at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston.

When Noonan had sufficiently recovered from his surgery, David Noonan, his son, drove him to Mount Saint Charles Academy.

The Noonans were greeted by Croteau, Principal Herve Richer and alumni officials Gail Bryson and Annette Blair.

Croteau made the official presentation of the Hall of Fame award to Noonan in the area where the names and plaques of the inductees are enshrined.

Noonan expressed amazement over the changes which have taken place at the Academy in the 63 years since his graduation. What was once a single building has now become a sprawling campus for several hundred students and one hundred faculty members.

"There have been physical changes in buildings but the values taught then and today have not changed," Noonan said.

Noonan thanked Croteau and alumni officials for the honor bestowed on him by the academy.

Preparation for the 2005 Academy graduation was being made that day. Noonan reminisced about the activities in which he participated as a student.

He was a founder of the school newspaper, the Hilltopper, a member of the band and orchestra, the debating club, honor roll, altar boy and many intramural sports teams. The Senior Class Prophet predicted Noonan would become an English teacher. Not quite true.

Noonan became a newspaper reporter later on in life with The Quincy Sun, the former Quincy Patriot Ledger, a cable TV news anchor for Quincy Sun Channel 8 and a columnist for the Council on Aging.

Improving Curb Appeal

(NAPS) – The journey to a great looking home can begin with a single step – along a new walk or stairway. Here are some stylish ideas for sprucing up the paths around your place.

If you walkway seems more like an obstacle course or labyrinth it might be time to replace it. First choose a style that suits both your house and your own sensitivities.

Owners of older homes may opt for a more traditional and muted design while those in newer developments may desire a more contemporary look. Your walkway should also reflect your personality and creativity so it's important to select building materials well-suited to that purpose.

One of the most versatile and customizable options is interlocking concrete pavers.

When considering walkway materials, it's a good idea to look for those that:

• Don't crack. Unlike asphalt or poured-in-pace concrete, each interlocking paver unit has joints that allow for a small amount of movement without cracking.

• Are easy to repair. You can remove and reinstate the same pavers with no ugly patches after repairs to the base or underground utilities. Asphalt, concrete, and stamped concrete can't make this claim.

• Present no problems with snow removal. With pavers, you can plow, shovel or use a snow blower.

• Come in many shapes, colors and textures.

• Are easy to install.

Planning For Your Retirement

Making The Most Of Your Home

(NAPS) – With millions of baby boomers in the midst of or nearing retirement, there is a wealth of information out there about finding the right retirement strategy – when to retire and how to make the most of retirement.

While there is no one right answer, one fact remains constant for the majority of boomers – one of their largest investments is their home and most likely they have built up a lot of equity over the years.

The decision to take advantage of that equity is one way to boost retirement income. By buying a smaller, less expensive home, money is freed up for travel, hobbies, a new home-based business or additional savings for the future. And, with a new home, the cost and time involved with general upkeep, maintenance and repairs are greatly reduced, leaving homeowners with more time and money to pursue other interests.

Downsizing to a new, less expensive home isn't necessarily as easy as it sounds in today's hot real estate market, which is why many are turning to factory-built housing. Today's factory-built houses are a far cry from what boomers may recall. Benefiting from advances in technology and construction methods, homes built in a factory can incorporate all the amenities homebuyers are looking for while generally costing less per square foot than homes built on site.

The ability to get a custom home without the custom price is especially attractive to a generation that has been defined by its individualism.

"Flexibility in factory-built home design allows a homebuyer to add features that can truly enhance lifestyles," said Grover Tarlton, vice president of marketing for Champion Enterprises, "whether that's a designer kitchen, computer room, exercise room, home theater or all four."

Champion, a leader in the factory-built housing industry, operates nationwide through the Champion family of homebuilders. "As a boomer myself, I know that it's all about options and affordability," Tarlton said, "from building on the property of your choice – whether that's in your hometown or 500 miles away – to building in less time and for less money than a traditionally built home."

Buying a new home, while still a sizeable investment, can make good financial sense. And moving to a home designed with lifestyle enhancing features and costing less each month can be the foundation of a sound retirement strategy.

Spotlight On Health & Fitness

From Start to Fitness

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Evaluating a New Workout Routine

Q. As a beginner to exercise on my own (I have done group exercise classes and DVDs at home), I am a little confused as to where to start. There's so much information online that I decided to find an exercise routine on the Internet. I have the workout from online, but I'm not sure if it is right for me. How do I know if this workout would be right for me?

A. Starting a new exercise program can lead to many questions. What? How? When? and Why? are common concerns most exercise novices experience.

Let's back up a few steps to find out if the program you found the Internet will help you reach your fitness goals. Here are a few steps often skipped before actually beginning to exercise.

• Consult your physician. Meet with your physician and tell him or her that you are planning to begin an exercise program. Discuss any current medical conditions and medications you are taking, and ask if there would be any contraindications while exercising. Taking this safety precaution can put you on the right path to reaching your goals.

• Establish your exercise goals. For example: to lose weight and help lower my blood pressure by exercising for 30 minutes a day, three days a week. Setting goals can help you know WHY you are choosing certain exercises. Plus, it can help you know if you are meeting your goals because you have a measure to assess them.

• Identify your current level of fitness. It is important to begin where you are, and not where you want to be. If you want to be able to walk 3 miles in 45 minutes, but, as of today, walking for five minutes is a challenge, then you must begin walking for five minutes until you can progress. There is no rush. Allow your body to adapt to the new stresses you place on it, and you will begin to see your body respond.

• Recognize your fitness experience. Although you may have been active your whole life, walking on a treadmill or using weight machines may be a new experience. If this is the case, understand that part of starting an exercise program is teaching yourself and your body new movements, and that it may take a few sessions to get adjusted. This also may require the assistance of a fitness professional, who can teach you how to exercise properly without risk of injury.

Once you have done all of the above, it's time to put everything together. Evaluate the workout you downloaded to see if it fits with your fitness goals, current fitness level and level of experience. If the answer is yes on all counts, then this might be the workout for you.

If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@hearstsc.com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

Ask Dr. Gilbert: Rhinoplasty

By DR. KENNETH GILBERT

Rhinoplasty is the term used to describe an operation that reshapes the nose. This is performed not only to improve the appearance of the nose but sometimes to correct deformities from injury or to improve breathing through the nose.

During this surgery skin, cartilage and bone may be removed or added to achieve the desired result. This surgery is "customized" for the individual patient. Most of the incisions are made inside the nose. Sometimes an incision across the portion of skin between the nostrils (columella) is used and sometimes an incision may be made along the nostril grooves to narrow the base of the nose. The resulting scars usually heal quite nicely.

DR. KENNETH GILBERT

Results of surgery are not entirely predictable. This is due to variations in healing in individuals. This is especially true, for instance, when the skin of the nose is thickened, coarse and oily. It is important that you and your surgeon spend time discussing the results you desire, the planned procedure, and possible risks and complications before the operation.

In most cases, one procedure suffices, but when there is a severe nasal deformity often a second, or rarely a third, operation is needed to obtain the maximum correction. Your surgeon will discuss the timing of any anticipated revisional surgery with you.

The final appearance of the nose will not be determined until at least six months and perhaps a year after surgery. Most of the swelling is gone in about two weeks but any residual swelling can linger on for many months and must disappear completely before the more subtle changes in definition are noted. It should be emphasized that "improvement", not "perfection" is what should be expected.

An obviously deformed nose will show dramatic results. On the other hand, a slight bump and a tip that is a little bit too big maybe successfully corrected, yet the results may be subtle.

The goal of rhinoplasty is not to create a "new" nose that draws attention to itself, but rather one that blends subtly into the overall features of the face in the proper proportions - a nose that fits your face.

It's common after rhinoplasty for friends and relatives to remark, "I don't see a big difference." Don't consider such a reaction an indication of failure. On the contrary, if the nose looks better and more natural, it may go unnoticed.

The procedure is usually performed on an outpatient basis, under either a general anesthetic or under sedation and local anesthesia. It usually takes 2 to 3 hours to perform, depending on what needs to be done. Commonly, breaking the nasal bones is a required part of the procedure and, if so, you will be wearing a splint over the nose for a week to ten days after surgery. This is the part of the operation that will produce most of the bruising and swelling ("black eyes"). The splint will protect the newly positioned nasal bones while they heal in place.

Potential complications of the procedure are the same as those associated with any surgical procedure, i.e. bleeding, infection, poor scarring, but are rarely encountered. Rhinoplasty can markedly improve how a patient feels about his or herself and help boost an individual's self-confidence.

Dr. Gilbert can be reached at 617-479-1492 or visit (www.kennethgilbertmd.com).

Injury Recovery

By Dr. JAY PROVENZANO

Unfortunately, accidents happen. The good thing is we have the tools to aid in a speedy recovery.

With most injuries, ice is the first mode of treatment. This will decrease any inflammation, swelling and pain at the site of injury.

If you should sustain an injury you must think RICE:

Rest: Refrain from any activity that may exacerbate the injury.

Ice: Apply ice to the area to help decrease inflammation, swelling, pain.

Compression: Wrap the site with an ace bandage to help with blood blow and decrease swelling.

Elevation: This will also aid in the drainage of blood from the area and keep the swelling down.

Nutrition is a vital aspect of recovery as well. Most people find this interesting because they do not associate the two. However, feeding your body with the proper food for recovery can make a dramatic difference in healing time and strength of injured tissues. These foods include: organic vegetables, anti-biotic and hormone-free meats, fish, and non-processed foods.

Chiropractic also plays an important role in recovery. When injured, most people will compensate for that injury by altering body positions, favoring one side and limping.

These few things can cause further injury. Muscle spasms, vertebral alignment and joint pain can arise from those alterations. Chiropractic care will be able to correct these conditions and prevent further injury from occurring.

Dr. Jay Provenzano is a chiropractic physician and has extensive training in several muscular techniques. Dr. Ann Doggett is a chiropractor, licensed nutritionist and the owner of South Bay Chiropractic, 110 West Squantum St., Suite 27, North Quincy. For more information, call 617-328-6300 or visit www.drann.com.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

IT'S THE BERRIES

Comprehensive oral exams include inspection of the soft tissues of the mouth for signs of oral cancer. This disease, which causes up to 8,000 deaths nationally each year, is generally associated with alcohol and tobacco use. Thus, it comes as good news that researchers are conducting tests to see if a common fruit may be helpful in slowing, or preventing, oral cancer. Scientists believe that black raspberries contain two acids that can contain tumor growth. With this in mind, researchers at Ohio State University have produced a gel made from freeze-dried black raspberries that contain two substances (anthocyanin and ellagic acid) thought to possess anti-oxidant and anti-inflammatory properties. It is hoped that they will also combat tumors.

Regular checkups that include an examination of the entire mouth can detect precancerous conditions of the early stages of oral cancer. We will check the tissues in your mouth as part of your routine exams. For dentistry utilizing modern and up-to-date procedures, we invite you to call us at 617-479-6220. We welcome the opportunity to provide you with gentle, professional dental care in a warm and caring environment. When was the last time you had a professional dental checkup? We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we stress preventive health care - and we believe good dental health requires constant attention. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Blueberries are also known for their anti-oxidant effects, making them a healthful addition to one's diet.

As the paper went to press, no games were scheduled yet for the North Quincy/Quincy boys' and girls' cooperative cross country teams.

HAVING SAFETY ON YOUR SIDE

There are 3.18 million U.S. vehicles involved in side-impact collisions annually. These types of crashes pose more risk for riders than front or rear collisions because the sides of vehicles absorb less energy from the impacts. Fortunately, recent research reports that side impact bags are very effective at doing the job they were designed to do – protect the head and body during side-impact crashes. It should be pointed out, however, that side air bags designed to protect the head and torso were much more protective than torso-only side air bags. The reason for this is that torso-only air bags do not protect as well against head injuries, which are responsible for 40-75 percent of deaths in side-impact crashes.

Your safety is our concern. Here at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO our ASE Certified professional technicians will service your car with the same level of attention that they would give their own. We have a strong commitment to give you individual, personal treatment. Complete satisfaction begins right here in our service department. Stop by 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree (781-843-1550) and let's get acquainted. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Sunoco and most major credit cards honored.

HINT: Only one serious injury has ever been reported from side air bags in the United States, which involved an automobile make and model that has since been redesigned.

Babe Ruth International Holds All-Star Festivities

Babe Ruth International league recently held its all-star festivities at Adams Field with more than 75 players participating.

In the feature game, the National League held on to take a 7-6 victory over the American League behind the clutch relief pitching of Jeff Ohlson, who struck out the final two hitters in relief.

Alex Brean, Brian Bertrand and Erik Anglehart combined to give the AL an early lead. But Sean Kelly (triple, double) knocked in a pair of runs to tie the game for the NL and later doubled home the winning run.

Nick Poli, Laura Leger, John Rowland and Mike Gillespie chipped in with hits to provide two runs for the NL.

For the AL, Will Head and Anglehart kept their team in the game with some great pitching.

Kelly (Feenan Financial) and James Sullivan (Graeber, Davis, Cantwell) were named MVPs of the All-Star Game.

Other league awards were presented to:

Most Valuable Players: Poli (Braintree Moose), Anglehart (Infinity Mortgage) and Diego Aredondo (Marina Bay Skilled Nursing).

Three Arrested In Marina Bay Stabbing

One of the busiest nights in recent years at the Marina Bay entertainment district ended early Monday with two men stabbed and three others arrested on assault with intent to murder charges.

The stabbing victims, one from Wakefield and the other from Dedham, neither of whom were identified by name, were reported in critical condition at Boston Medical Center.

Michael Fitzpatrick, 23, of Braintree; Joseph Corsetti, 21, of Boston; and Pablo Monroy, 22, of Arlington, were charged with assault with intent to murder and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

Police were seeking a fourth man believed to have been involved in the stabbing which took place shortly after the night clubs closed at 1 a.m. and long lines of cars were leaving Marina Bay.

The precise cause of the fracas was not clear, only that the four men charged had been marching in cadence outside the Waterworks night club were heckled by some people in the crowd before the stabbing.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Wednesday, Aug. 31 at approximately 12:30 a.m., Officer Kevin DiMattio and Officer Tim Moran were dispatched to 500 Washington St. to "check on two males in the rear parking lot - trying car doors." One male was described as wearing camouflage clothing. As Officer Moran pulled into the parking lot, he observed two males in a Toyota drive away. As Officer Moran followed the vehicle north onto Washington Street, he requested a check on the license plate.

LT. DAN MINTON

As the vehicle pulled up to the red light at the Southern Artery intersection, it stopped briefly in the left lane, then took an illegal right turn and rapidly increased speed. When Officer Moran put his blue lights on, the suspect vehicle fled northbound on Southern Artery, toward the police station, estimated at 50 mph.

Dispatch informed all units that the suspect vehicle was stolen in Quincy on Aug. 27. Officer Moran radioed that the suspect vehicle was not stopping and had turned westbound onto McGrath Highway after running a red light. As they approached Revere Road, the two male suspects jumped out of the moving motor vehicle. The vehicle came to a rest on a traffic island. The driver fled towards the Hancock parking area, with Officer Moran right behind him.

The pursuit continued through backyards and eventually ended up at the Quincy Fair Mall, where Sgt. Mark Foley, Officer Bill Monteith and Officer Mike O'Brien cornered the suspect and then took him into custody. Officer Hack, after a brief foot chase, apprehended the passenger in the area of Bad Abbott's Restaurant.

After both suspects had been transported to the station, Officer Kevin DiMattio interviewed the witness, who stated that the two men were acting suspiciously and he had never seen them before. The witness said he called as the suspects peered into cars in the parking lot. Officer DiMattio contacted the owner of a vehicle that had damage to the center console. The victim stated that the damage was new and that a flashlight, left behind, was not his.

The driver, a 16-year-old Quincy resident, and the passenger, an 18-year-old Arlington resident, were charged with "possession of a stolen motor vehicle," "possession of burglarious tools" and "malicious damage to a motor vehicle." The driver was also charged with "operating without a license," "failing to stop for a police officer," and "operating to endanger."

In summary, as police officers, we often hear people say that they "thought" about calling the police, or that they did not actually witness a crime, so they didn't call. A simple phone call helped catch these thieves. If you witness a crime, or believe that a crime is occurring, or about to occur, call the police at "911." We will investigate the incident and alleviate your concerns. It may be nothing - or it may just like this case - two arrests.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

You probably have noticed some people at times have peculiar ideas about clergymen. No minister, priest or rabbi is supernatural. They are human beings. The inner voice which beckoned them to their calling usually provides them with patience, tolerance and benevolence. But they are still human and have the same traits of curiosity and anxiety as other people.

We imagine most men of the cloth wonder at times about their adequacy – or inadequacies. Hours of preparation and prayer precede a worship service. Even so, no clergyman can strike a responsive chord to or for every one on every occasion. This is just as impossible as it is for a ball player to hit a home run every time at bat.

But, when a responsive chord is struck, wouldn't it be a good idea – at least once in a while – to write a note and say so? Remember – they're human, too.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Cupid is strong in the Aries aspect this week, with the cherub opening romantic possibilities for single Lambs, and strengthening ties 'twixt loving pairs already in a caring relationship.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Your dramatic flair might make things more interesting as you recount an event to your colleagues. But be careful not to exaggerate reality to the point that facts and fancy combine to form fiction.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You love to talk, and this week you should get lots of chances to share your thoughts with people who will not only pay attention to what you have to say, but will want to hear more.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The pattern of recent changes could begin to shift from mostly workplace-related events to more personal matters. Continue to keep an open mind as you prepare to deal with them.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) An opportunity for work-related travel could be just what the Terrific Tabby needs to get a new perspective on a balky situation. The trip could also prove to be personally rewarding.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might want to suggest resolving an old disagreement before it can affect a matter expected to come up for discussion. It's always best to start with a clean slate.

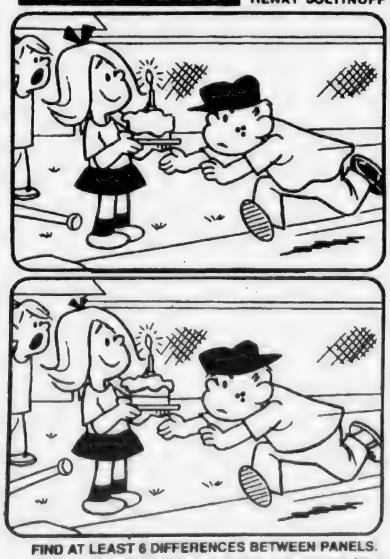
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) The week favors combining dollops of creativity and practicality to work out both professional and personal problems. A longtime friend could have something of note to suggest.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some surprising facts could come to light if you decide to probe deeper into an "opportunity" than you might usually do. What you'll learn could determine what you'll earn.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Someone close to you might seek your counsel. Hear him/her out, but hold the line at giving actual advice until you get credible answers to all your questions.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) What seems to be an overwhelming workplace project can be dealt with quite well if you handle one category at a time. Things will soon begin to fall into place.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A personal matter might need more of your time than you had expected. Try to prioritize between your many outside commitments and your domestic responsibilities.



PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A developing situation still needs more time to grow, and more time to study before you can plunge in and make some attention-getting waves. Patience is best for wise Pisceans.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a gift for organization that would make you a fine archivist. (Are you listening out there, Library of Congress?)

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

To Aid Jefferson Parish, La.

City $50,000 On Way To $1 Million For Katrina Victims

By CHRIS POISSON

Quincy has taken a $50,000 step towards its $1 million goal to help the Hurricane Katrina victims in Jefferson Parish, La.

The $50,000 includes a $10,000 anonymous donation as of Tuesday.

Mayor William Phelan announced the Quincy Cares fund-raising drive last Friday morning outside First Parish Church, Quincy Center, before a gathering of civic and business leaders and Quincy High School social studies students.

The city chose to help Jefferson Parish, a county in the Greater New Orleans area with a population of 450,0000, because of its Quincy connection. Quincy hosted 14-year-old Babe Ruth teams from Jefferson Parish in the 2003 and 2005 Babe Ruth World Series. It won this year's championship the day before the hurricane struck.

"The team from Jefferson Parish was in Quincy when Hurricane Katrina struck and many of the families could not prepare their homes for the oncoming storm," Phelan said. "Our community hosted these folks in their homes and established friendships that still remain. They need our help and we will answer that call."

Quincy businessman Daniel J. Flynn developed the idea to help out the Gulf Coast region which resulted in the launching of the Quincy Cares program.

"I am personally delighted to see what has transpired in just two days," said Flynn, CEO of the Daniel J. Flynn and Co. "The organization that has come together for such an incredible effort, that personally started with an idea of how does a family in Quincy, Massachusetts, help another family in the Gulf Coast? The idea mushroomed to how does a city, a community like Quincy, adopt a city in the Gulf Coast?

"A million dollars is aggressive, no doubt about it. It's a challenging economic

Mahoney, McGlone, Mulvey Top School Board Preliminary

Anne M. Mahoney, Celeste B. McGlone and Kevin W. Mulvey took the top spots in Tuesday's preliminary for the three open seats on the school committee.

The other three nominations went to James S. Timmins, Ronald P. Iacobucci and Joseph Keegan.

The six will face off in the final election Nov. 8 for the three seats which will make the biggest turnover on that board in recent years.

The 12-candidate race for the six nominations was the lone contest on Tuesday's ballot and brought out only 12.85 percent of the city's 54,699 registered voters.

Mahoney, 40, president of a print and web design studio, led the field with a vote of 2,162.

McGlone, 43, former executive assistant to Mayor William Phelan, was a close second with 2,103.

Mulvey, 32, attorney and special prosecutor in the Norfolk County district attorney's office, was third with 1,877.

Timmins, attorney and former assistant city solicitor, was fourth with 1,824.

Ronald P. Iacobucci, 50, CEO of Mini-Fenway Park, was fifth with 1,747.

Joseph Keegan, 33, attorney and former Quincy police officer, was sixth with 1,455.

Three of the six will get to fill the seats of Vice Chairman Michael McFarland, Ronald Mariano and Jo-Ann Bragg.

McFarland is running for councillor at-large in the Nov. 8 election. Mariano and Bragg are not seeking re-election after serving 16 and 12 years respectively.

For Mahoney, McGlone, Mulvey, and Timmins it was their first time running for elective office.

time. But I think it's historic that we stand on the steps where two of the greatest presidents of the United States, framers of the Constitution, lie beneath us. We as a city, as a community, as human beings, have seen devastation first hand."

An all-out effort is underway to reach out for support from every segment of the community — businesses, public officials, city departments, schools, service organizations, churches, neighborhood groups and individual citizens — to achieve the $1 million goal.

"I propose a challenge to each individual in the City of Quincy, each household, to give what you can," Flynn said. "And that may be 5 or 10 dollars. That may be 100 dollars. It's going to be a sacrifice. I'm reaching to the business community on a much larger scale to make those significant contributions. The hard cold fact is that money makes a difference."

DR. GARY GIBBONS, acting president and CEO of Quincy Medical Center, said the hospital will assist in the hurricane relief effort.

STATE SEN. MICHAEL Morrissey said, "This is one way that people can help and be sure that the money that is raised goes to the people that really need the help."

Congressman William Delahunt, who was at Camp Edwards in Bourne the previous day when 250 evacuees arrived, praised the city's "Quincy Cares" initiative.

"Let me congratulate this effort, this initiative by the people in this proud city, a city where many of us were born and raised," Delahunt said. "Again, we reveal our true character in times of tragedy. As the mayor indicted this would establish some sort of benchmark and

DANIEL J. FLYNN, CEO of the Daniel J. Flynn and Co., said, "I propose a challenge to each individual in the City of Quincy, each household, to give what you can."

I know we're capable of doing that. I have no doubt we can achieve it.

State Sen. Michael Morrissey said, "It's a very ambitious effort. The state and local and national government can't do everything. This is one way that people can help and be sure that the money that is raised goes to the people that really need the help. We have some great organizations that are working, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army and others. This is one more step."

Dr. Gary Gibbons, acting president and CEO of Quincy Medical Center, said the hospital will do its part to assist in the relief effort.

"This is such an important day," Gibbons said. "Our new motto at Quincy Medical Center is to provide tomorrow's care today. And if you've watched TV and seen what has happened to many of our citizens on the Gulf Coast, they don't know if there's going to be a tomorrow. And I think it's efforts like this, where a medical center has combined with its community, with its leaders, to ensure that there is going to be a future, that there is going to be a tomorrow."

Phelan recognized four individuals from the Quincy Fire Department who were scheduled to leave for the Gulf Coast Monday to help in the recovery effort: Chief Timothy Pettinelli, lieutenants Peter O'Hare and Robert Servais, and firefighter Kevin Tape.

"It's the right thing to do," Servais said. "You see something that devastating happening to so many people. It's just the nature of our job, too. It's what we do. They called looking for firefighters and they have a list a mile long."

The five-week fund-raising effort will culminate Oct. 13 with a benefit event at the Boston Marriott Quincy. Cost is $25 per person, which includes buffet, music, dancing and auction.

Tickets to the fund-raiser and pledge donations (via credit card) can be made to Quincy Cares by calling 617-479-9000. Checks can be mailed to Quincy Cares, c/o Colonial Federal Savings Bank, 15 Beach St., Quincy, MA 02170.

Remembering George

Another Labor Day has slipped by.

For most, it meant a leisurely long weekend.

And, for many, the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

For me and others who knew him, it was also a day to remember George Parker – a man with a unique personality you don't forget.

GEORGE PARKER

There were two distinct sides to George.

He could be rough, tough and gruff – and outspoken – when he ran across a phony. He liked to give them an earful of short, choice words.

And, as for elected officials he felt weren't doing what they were elected to do, he was quite happy to give them a free job performance rating. They didn't need an opinion poll.

That was one side.

There was also the other side. The big Teddy Bear who was always there to help a worthy cause, especially one for kids.

George, who owned and operated the Yellow Cab Co. of Quincy for 35 years, died in May, 2002 at age 65.

But he is fondly remembered – by many and, by me especially – on Labor Day weekends during the Muscular Dystrophy Telethon.

I've written about George a few times through the years but, if you don't mind, I'd like to do a little update.

I first me him in 1976 when The Quincy Sun became the Quincy-South Shore Pledge Center for the Jerry Lewis MDA Telethon.

George came by with two $400 checks, one personal, one company, to help get us off to a good start. And for the next 10 years it was an annual ritual with George arriving each Labor Day with $800 to help put us over the top.

He usually dropped the checks off and was quickly out the door. He didn't hang around for a "thank you."

During those 10 years, The Sun pledge center and telethon committee activities raised over $1 million for Jerry's Kids thanks to George and the many other nice people in Quincy and the South Shore.

As The Sun expanded, we ran out of sufficient space in which to set up the pledge center for 30-plus telephones and the room for the dedicated volunteers to man them. Reluctantly, we closed the center.

But that didn't slow George down or stop him.

For the next 12 years he kept coming to The Sun around Labor Day weekend with $800 in checks which we passed on to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. In 1999, he wasn't feeling well but sent a check for $1,000.

At the time of his death his total donations to the MDA had reached $19,400.

And is now still growing in his memory.

The Labor Day weekend after his death, two more checks for $800 arrived at The Sun for Jerry's Kids.

One was a personal $500 one from George's brother, Joe and the latter's wife, Joan. And the other a $300 Yellow Cab Co. check from Wayne McCulley, George's long-time friend and associate.

Two more checks for $800 – $500 from Joe and Joan Parker and a $300 one from McCulley.

That brings the new total to $24,200 – if our arithmetic is correct.

Joe, Joan and Wayne intend to keep adding to it each Labor Day in memory of George.

George also gave generously to other worthy causes, but the Muscular Dystrophy telethon was special to him.

He believed every kid should have the right to walk, run, ride a bike and take part in sports.

When it came to kids in need, George was as rough and tough as a marshmallow – a big hearted softy.

Environmentalists Hope To Get Preservation Act On Ballot

The Quincy Environmental Network (QEN) is pressing the City Council to place a question on the Nov. 8 state election ballot that would cost the average Quincy taxpayer an extra $25 a year.

It's called the Community Preservation Act (CPA) and it would add a 1 percent surcharge to property tax bills to acquire and preserve open space and historic building sites and create and support affordable housing.

QEN figures that, along with matching funds from the state, Quincy will receive a total of more than $2 million a year from the fund.

Since the state CPA fund gets its revenue from statewide Registry of Deeds fees, according to QEN, Quincy has contributed as estimated $435,000 annually to be spent in communities that have passed CPA.

More than 100 of the state's 352 cities and towns, including Braintree, Hingham and Randolph, already have adopted CPA and Weymouth plans to put it on its election ballot in November.

CPA would work like this for the average Quincy property owner:

The average assessed home is valued at $335,800. The first $100,00 is exempt, leaving $235,800 to be surcharged. The city tax rate is $10.84 per $1,000, leaving $2,556 to be surcharged at 1 percent or $25.56.

In addition to the first $100,000 in assessments, folks over 60 whose annual income is less than $57,820 and low income people who are paid less than $46,256 a year are also exempt.

The City Council's Ordinance Committee was scheduled to take up the ballot question of CPA last night (Wednesday) and, said Steve Perdios of QEN, "we hope to have a vote on the 19th."

Super Saturday At Wollaston Church

Wollaston Congregational Church will hold its second annual "Super Kids Saturday" Sept. 17 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at 48 Winthrop Ave., Wollaston.

There will be craft projects, games, door prizes and a free lunch for children. The event, sponsored by the Christian Education Committee, is free and open to all.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1925 POSTCARD view of the old Massachusetts Fields School at the corner of Rawson Road and Beach Street in Wollaston. At the time this area was known as Park and Downs, it was here that the Wollaston Park and Norfolk Downs land subdivisions met. The school was named for the planting grounds that were maintained here by the Indians when the first colonial settlers came to this area. This property, along with the shore of today's Wollaston, was the original land grant to Edmund Quincy in 1635. Members of the Quincy family owned it until a few years before the city built this school in 1894. A large addition was built to the rear of this building in the 1920s. The city sold the school and it was developed into condos in 1984. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Quincy's Yesterdays

The Unexpected Hurricane Of '38

An unexpected hurricane struck Quincy Sept. 21 with 88-mile-an-hour winds and gusts up to 100 miles per hour, tearing up thousands of ancient trees and virtually wiping out the yacht club fleets.

No one was killed but Mrs. Samuel W. Wakeman of 115 Munroe Rd., wife of the vice president of the Fore River Shipyard, spent the night clinging for her life to a tree top near her Marion summer home.

67 Years Ago

The Wollaston Yacht Club's flagship, Mil-Ed, owned by Harry Arion, was lost when hundreds of yachts broke their mooring and were driven ashore at the Crabtree Estates, Squantum, by the southwest wind.

Most of the power in the city was lost at 5:30 p.m. and the Rev. Daniel W. Staffeld of the Adams Shore Community Church took the communion candles from the altar and distributed them to neighbors.

The roof was blown from the garage of Arthur Olson, East Squantum St., Squantum, flew 100 feet and hit the home of Mrs. Ellen M. Garneau, 735 East Squantum St., demolishing the bedroom and living room.

The huge elm tree at the gate of Dr. Walter G. Kendall's estate in Atlantic was torn up by the roots and crashed into his orchard, destroying many of his prized cherry trees.

Three years work by Amedeo Nardini was wiped out when the wind uprooted his vineyard containing vines imported from Italy and the roof of the pavilion on his Italian villa in North Quincy was torn off.

A 15-ton crane was blown over at the shipyard, tombstones in the Hancock Burying Grounds were broken by falling trees and tiny Acton St., Wollaston, was closed for days by 15 fallen trees.

Response To Sunbeams On Dropping Atomic Bombs

Further response is needed to your editorial (in Sunbeams) on the 60th anniversary of the dropping of two atomic bombs on cities in Japan. An excellent history teacher at North Quincy High School, Ms. Mabel Pratt, tried to teach my classmate, Duke Goldberg, that historical research can help provide answers to such questions as the use of nuclear weapons.

Mr. Richard Frank, a contemporary military historian, sets forth an argument that a combination of factors led to the Japanese surrender. Stalin only fulfilled his promise at Yalta to enter the war when his marshals assured him the Japanese were defeated, and it was an opportune time to grab territory. The Japanese army suffered tremendous losses at Okinawa, and the Imperial command realized the banzai and kamikaze charges were not effective. Officials in Tokyo were warning prior to Hiroshima that civil order in Japan might crack, due to air raids and prolonged blockades. Emperor Hirohito apparently concluded that surrender was the solution, provided he remained on the throne.

These ideas and other possible insights are included in a series of 13 essays compiled by Mr. Daniel Marston, senior lecturer at Sandhurst and a fellow of the Royal Historical Society. The book is "The Pacific War Companion: From Pearl Harbor to Hiroshima," Osprey Publishing Co.

There may not be a definitive answer, but it seems likely that at least the Hiroshima bomb was justified. If more time had been allowed, the Japanese surrender would have promptly followed without a need for bombing Nagasaki. The main issue is proportionality. Under international law then and now, there is a broad right of self defense, including preemptive attacks, and to some extent, nowadays within the treaty provisions of the United Nations Charter, unilateral response. Those who want to learn from history may want to read the debates in the British House of Commons on the justification, or as Edmund Burke argued, the lack of justification and lack of proportionality, of the British naval bombardment of Norfolk, Va., at New Years, 1777.

Liam Batson Example Of A Fine Young Person

Liam Batson, 28 Spring St., Houghs Neck, wanted to do something to help the victims of Hurricane Katrina so he decided to spend all day Saturday, Sept. 3, running a lemon aid stand at LeBreque Field in Houghs Neck.

He enlisted a group of friends and together they collected $2,000. It is amazing that in one day in this small community that amount of money could be raised. What an amazing 9-year-old Liam is to organize such an event. He also has used his birthday party for the past several years as an occasion to run a food drive (in lieu of gifts).

I want to make sure that people know that we are raising fine young people in Quincy and that I am so very proud to be part of the generous, caring Houghs Neck community.

Opposes Preservation Act Tax

Unbelievable! Despite our sky-rocketing taxes over the past four years there are some people who want us to vote an extra tax on ourselves to restore historic sites and create more affordable housing.

Apparently we will vote on this in November. Are there really some folks who think we need higher taxes or is this just an attempt to check up on the sanity of Quincy voters? At a time when our own housing is becoming unaffordable, I urge a strong vote for NO!

City Seeking Photographs For MMA Calendar Contest

The City of Quincy was recently invited by the Massachusetts Municipal Association (MMA) to participate in a statewide photo contest.

Winners of the competition will be featured in the new MMA 2006 calendar, which will be given to attendees at the 27th annual Meeting and Trade Show in Boston this January.

The theme of the calendar is "Crossing the Commonwealth," showcasing some of Massachusetts' hidden gems. Photographs will be judged on their ability to answer the question: "What makes your city stand apart as a unique part of Massachusetts?"

Additional weight will be given to geographic and seasonal diversity in an attempt to represent each region of the state and all four seasons equally in the calendar. The grand prizewinner will be featured as the cover shot for the calendar and 12 runners-up will be featured for each month.

Last year's MMA calendar featured two Quincy residents, Kathleen Halpin and Gershon Saxe. Halpin's photograph, "Summer in Boston" was the June feature and Saxe's photograph, "Sunrise from Houghs Neck" was the August feature.

Mayor William Phelan is asking for any interested photographer, professional or otherwise, to submit entries to the Mayor's Office. The city will compile a portfolio and send them to the MMA for judging.

Interested participants should send their unmounted, original color photograph by Oct. 11 to: MMA Photo Contest, c/o Liz Fitzpatrick, Mayor's Office, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169.

On the back of each photograph, include your name, address, phone number and the location of the photograph. Also, indicate if you would like the photo returned. Send as many entries as you want.

Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk Sunday

South Shore businesses and civic community will again lace up its sneakers to support advanced, high quality cancer services at Quincy Medical Center during the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk on Sunday, Sept. 18 at Pageant Field in Quincy.

The Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk furthers the legacy of the Marie A. Curry Walk, by supporting the Marie A. Curry Fund, a permanent endowed fund. In just over a decade, Marie A. Curry Fund supporters raised more than $1 million to underwrite vital breast cancer screening mammography and breast cancer services for more than 522 uninsured and underinsured South Shore women.

This year, the Fund was expanded to underwrite cancer screenings and services for men, as well.

The four-mile, leisurely Walk begins and ends at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park, Quincy, and follows an ocean-lined route along Quincy Shore Drive.

Event registration begins at 8 a.m., and the walk begins at 9:30 a.m. The festivities will again culminate with a special post-walk celebration at Pageant Field, including lunch donated by the Outback Steakhouse in Quincy.

"The Walk has become an annual tradition for many South Shore families and businesses," said Robert "Bob" Curry, founder of the Marie A. Curry Fund and chairman of the QMC Board of Trustees. "I, personally, look forward to sharing the day with my family and friends as we take the Walk to the next level and help to bring vital cancer services to all South Shore residents."

One of the centerpiece of this year's Walk again will be the "Images of Honor & Memory," a striking visual tribute designed to honor cancer survivors and remember those who have passed away.

In addition, this year, to complement the Walk's family focus, the Freemasons of Massachusetts will offer their Child Identification Program (CHIP) during the Walk. The CHIP program collects a brief videotape interview, fingerprinting, and other identifying data for parents to keep in the event of child abduction.

Pledge sheets and "Images of Honor & Memory" order forms are available throughout the community or online at www.quincymc.org.

Walk participants also can create personal fundraising web pages by visiting www.justgiving.com/qmccancerwalk.

To learn more about the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk, call 617-376-5493.

John Gillis Receives Paul Harold Award

The second annual Paul D. Harold Profile in Courage Award honored John Gillis as the recipient and the man for whom it is named.

Gillis, now a Norfolk County Commissioner and former long-time Quincy city clerk, was presented the award last Thursday at a reception at the Quincy Neighborhood Club with friends, family present and former colleagues attending.

City Clerk, Joseph Shea, who succeeded Gillis in that office in 1992, after serving as his assistant, said: "John has been the face of Quincy. John taught us how to treat people the right way."

Shea remembered the down and out people waiting to see Gillis every day. "John was giving them money so they could get something to eat. He was doing this kind work even before Fr. (William) McCarthy."

"I went to funerals with John when we were the only ones there. I think John maybe paid for the funerals."

"The three most important things in John's life are family, country and church."

William Arienti, former president of the Quincy Firefighters Local 782 and chairman of the award committee, said the occasion was "a celebration of two great men who put others before themselves. With Paul it wasn't what do you want, but how can I help you."

"Like Paul, John has been a beacon of hope. Paul and John Gillis have given their all and made Quincy the best city. John has done so much for so many."

Norfolk County Register of Probate Patrick McDermott, a member of the committee, made the presentation.

McDermott, a former Ward 3 city councillor who served with Harold in the city council and later as assistant to Harold when he was Norfolk County Register of Deeds said: "My two mentors were John and Paul Harold."

A citation from Norfolk County District Atty. William Keating who was among those attending, was also presented to him.

Gillis, in accepting the award, said he would be brief and was.

"I gave Paul his first job in government," he recalled, "That was taking the census at a nickel a name. I told him to go to the apartments."

Hurricane Preparedness Tips From Emergency Management

TOM GORMAN

Quincy Emergency Management Director Tom Gorman urges residents to take simple steps to prepare themselves during this hurricane season.

Gorman highlighted flashlights with batteries, battery-powered radios, a bottled water supply and an adequate supply of any necessary prescription medication as ways that average citizens can prepare themselves during hurricane season.

"Residents can take simple steps to prepare themselves for hurricanes," he said. "In most cases the hurricane are weakened by the time they reach the northeast and we have little comparison to the situation on the Gulf coast. A little preparedness can mean a lot to a family during an average northeast hurricane."

Gorman also advised families to find a safe place in their homes, such as the cellar during a storm. The city would provide shelters in the event of a major hurricane event.

"There are some obvious instructions, such as staying indoors during the storm and avoiding windows and other hazards within the house," he said. "Common sense can save lives during a storm event. The worst thing to do is get curious and venture outside your home."

Gorman also said that residents should communicate with their families about emergency preparedness and plans in advance of any emergency.

"You shouldn't wait for an emergency to start thinking about emergencies," he added. "If you prepare for the worst and hope for the best, you'll be better suited for anything that might come our way."

Hearing Today On Senior Citizens Teachers Respect Bill

Could it be that, like the late Rodney Dangerfield, senior citizen teachers get no respect?

Sabina Stenberg, the senator from the Norfolk-Plymouth District in the Silver-Haired Legislature, thinks so.

She has filed a bill in the Legislature — the real one on Beacon Hill — that would require pupils "to exercise respect for senior citizen teachers and senior citizen substitute teachers." Furthermore:

"The superintendent of each school district shall set forth rules and regulations on how pupils are to behave towards said persons and the appropriate disciplinary action for violations of said rules and regulations."

The Legislature's Education Committee was schedule to hold a public hearing on Senate Bill 344 today (Thursday) at 12 noon in Gardner Auditorium at the State House.

Raises $14,000 So Far

Fund-Raiser Hits A Grand Slam For Jefferson Parish (La.) Team

A fund-raiser held last Friday night to benefit the Jefferson Parish, La., 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series team hit a grand slam.

More than 200 people showed up at the Quincy Sons of Italy, raising approximately $14,000 with more proceeds still coming in, organizers said.

The event was sponsored by the Quincy Sons of Italy, Quincy Babe Ruth and the City of Quincy.

"It was absolutely phenomenal," said Marie Lumaghini, function manager of the Quincy Sons of Italy. "It was very friendly. Everyone knew each other. It was amazing how the entire city just pulled through in one week's time."

The Jefferson Parish team captured the 2005 Babe Ruth World Series held in Quincy the day before Hurricane Katrina struck the Gulf Coast.

The families who stayed in Quincy for the tournament didn't have time to prepare for the storm.

The coaches and players flew to Dallas after the tournament while the parents stayed at the Boston Marriott Quincy to wait out the storm.

Those who would like to make a donation can make a check payable to "The Sons of Italy" and marked Hurricane Fund and send to: Quincy Sons of Italy, 120 Quarry St., Quincy, MA 02169.

North Quincy Partnership Surveys Business District

Representatives of the North Quincy Business Partnership, an economic development committee of Quincy 2000 Collaborative, recently conducted an "Economic Development Walk" of the North Quincy Business District.

The purpose was to survey the overall condition of the district infrastructure ;and streetscapes. Items reviewed included the condition of sidewalks, signage, street plantings, parking amenities, public spaces, buildings and storefronts.

In addition, the committee began to establish a list of current businesses and vacant commercial properties, which will be helpful in the Partnerships effort to attract new businesses to the district.

Overall, the committee noted that "the city does a very good job keeping the business district clean and safe."

Items noted during the survey included minor sidewalk repairs, tree plantings/ pruning and other associated streetscape maintenance. The committee also noted the increasing number of vacancies and that upgrades to some of the businesses would make a positive impact to the overall aesthetics of the district.

Representatives from the North Quincy Business Partnership and Quincy 2000 plan to continue to work closely with Councillor Alicia Gardner and the city administration to ensure the North Quincy Business District remains a vibrant part of the community fabric.

Now Is Best Time To Get Home Ready For Winter

The passing of Labor Day marks the unofficial end of summer. Soon the leaves will turn crimson and golden, setting the stage for a New England fall tradition: leaf-peeping. But fall will also bring another less celebrated tradition – the switching "on" of the heating system – and a reminder of frigid temperatures to come.

Nick Stavropoulos, president of KeySpan Energy Delivery, offers the following energy – and money-saving – tips:

• Caulk or weather-strip doors and windows to seal out heat-stealing drafts. Reducing air leaks could cut as much as 10 percent from an average household's monthly energy bill.

• Install rubber gaskets behind outlet and switch plates on exterior walls to prevent drafts.

• Insulate your attic or roof space (6 1/2 to 9 1/2 inches of insulation is recommended). Doing so can cut heating cots by up to 20 percent. Plus, it will keep your home warmer in the winter.

• Install a programmable clock thermostat, and set it to automatically drop to a lower temperature at night.

• Install storm windows and doors to keep out drafts and help you save on heating costs.

• Replace you old heating system, with a new, clean-burning, efficient one.

• If radiators are located near cold walls, place a sheet of aluminum foil between the radiator and the wall to reflect heat back into the room.

• Clean or replace filters in furnaces – monthly during heating season. Furnaces consume less energy if they "breathe" most easily.

• Turn down the temperature of your water heater to the warm setting (120 degrees F). Water-heating is a typical family's third largest energy expense, accounting for about 14 percent of utility bills.

• Have an energy auditor inspect your home to determine specific household conservation needs. To schedule a free in-home energy audit, KeySpan customers should call 1-800-292-2032.

The following programs can help better manage energy-related costs:

Weatherization Rebates and Services

KeySpan heating customers with homes built before 1995 can qualify for up to $750 in rebates on weatherization. Qualifying measures include: insulation of attic, basement, wall, crawl space, or heating system ducts; attic ventilation; ductwork leakage testing and sealing, and air infiltration testing; and sealing. Customers on KeySpan's discount rate may be eligible for free home and apartment weatherization services worth up to $4,500.

Call 1-800-292-2032 for more information and to schedule a free in-home energy audit.

Balanced Payment Program

KeySpan's Balanced Billing plan helps customers avoid higher winter bills by spreading the annual cost of heating their home over 12 "balanced" monthly payments. To enroll, call the customer assistance number on your bill.

Special Assistance for Income Eligible Households

Income-eligible households can gain access to fuel assistance, discount energy rates, and energy efficiency services through Energy Bucks, a program funded in part by local utility companies, including KeySpan. Call 1-866-LESS-COST (1-866-537-7267) for more information.

Agents, Employees Aim To Raise $25,000 In Donations

Conway Pledges $5,000 To Hurricane Victims

Jack Conway & Co., the largest independent real estate firm in Massachusetts, is collecting donations to help the victims of Hurricane Katrina along the Gulf Coast of the United States.

The charity effort is under the direction of Toni Manning, Conway's technology director. Manning hopes that the company-wide solicitation will reach $25,000.

The hurricane fund was helped by an inaugural donation of $5,000 from Jack Conway & Co.

"We have contacted all of the 43 sales offices and the 1,000 agents and managers in the organization and funds are coming in faster than we had originally expected," said Manning.

The public is encouraged to join the effort, Manning said, as the funds will be turned over to the Red Cross as a group donation "to show strength and unity" from Conway Country, the real estate firm's term for its trading area, which encompasses all of Southeastern Massachusetts from Boston to Cape Cod.

Checks can be made payable to the American Red Cross and should be sent to Toni Manning at Conway HQ, 137 Washington St., Norwell, MA 02061.

Founded in 1956, Jack Conway & Co. has more than 900 associates in 43 offices from Boston to Cape Cod. With $1.9 billion in sales last year, Conway was ranked 71st among the top real estate firms in the United States by National Relocation and Real Estate Magazine.

Red Raiders Showing Signs Of Improvement

Fall In Opener, Host Scituate Saturday

FOOTBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

If last Saturday afternoon's game started several minutes later, maybe the North Quincy High School football team would've come away with a victory in its season opener.

Hindered a bit by first-game jitters, the Red Raiders spotted Boston Latin all its points in the first three minutes en route to a 14-7 loss on the road.

"Take away three minutes and we could've won the game," said second-year head coach Bill Shaughnessy. "I think we were a little nervous at the beginning of the game and it definitely showed on the first two possessions. That killed us. We settled down and played some football, but it was too late."

North Quincy will take on Scituate, 14-7 winners over Norwell last Friday, in its home opener Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Boston Latin fumbled on the game's first play from scrimmage, but running back Rory Foley scooped up the loose ball and ran 50 yards into the end zone.

On the Red Raiders' first series, the center snapped the ball over the punter's head, leaving Boston Latin in great field position at the NQ 25. Boston Latin capitalized with another score for an early 14-0 lead.

"Give the kids credit," Shaughnessy said. "Things changed after that. They played better when they got the cobwebs out. We held them scoreless after that. The defense played great. We were very aggressive."

Playing well defensively were senior outside linebackers Akil Benjamin and Chris Garvey (captain), senior defensive backs Kyle Costa (captain) and Steve Spring, and senior nose guard Ryan Barter.

North Quincy got on the board with six minutes remaining in the game when junior quarterback Sean McBrien fired a 65-yard touchdown pass to senior wide receiver Vincent Luc.

The Red Raiders fumbled the ball six times, including costly ones before the end of the first half and at the start of the second half.

"It was very frustrating with all the mistakes," Shaughnessy said. "But that is something we can fix."

North Quincy, which returns eight starters from last year's 2-8 team, is still in the rebuilding stages of its program.

"We're a rebuilding program so every single game is a going to be a challenge for us," Shaughnessy said. "But we'll have an opportunity to win every game. I think we're going to be competitive this year. We're way ahead than last year at this point. The kids worked very hard during camp."

Offensively, the Red Raiders showed signs of improvement against Boston Latin by moving the ball consistently.

McBrien started at quarterback and he'll be backed up by seniors Michael O'Mahony and Anthony Black.

"We have good skilled personnel this year," Shaughnessy said. "We need to execute to put points on the board and win some football games. We have to score some touchdowns. Costa will be touching the ball a lot as well as Tufo and Bleiler. And we have some speed at wide receiver."

Defensively, Barter and Ochoa are the nose guards; Regan, Kelly and seniors Anthony Walsh and Eric Kenney are the tackles; Garvey, Benjamin and senior Chris McGue are the outside linebackers; Connell, Tufo and sophomore Terrence Sibly are the middle linebackers; Adams, Spring, Costa, Pina and Guerriero are the defensive backs.

"We need to be able to execute on offense and defense," Shaughnessy said. "If we do that, then we'll definitely be successful and have a winning season. The kids have to play 100 percent every play and be consistent to be successful. We can't take any plays off. If they want to be a good team, they can be a good team. It's all up to them. The way they're working, they want to be a good team."

SO MUCH AIR

These days, drivers want to wring the best mileage out of every drop of gas. One simple way to accomplish this is to maintain the correct air pressure in a vehicle's tires. The tire pressure recommended in the owner's manual or on the tire information placard is a "cold" pressure. Thus, the best time to perform this task is in the morning before the heat of friction plays a role in elevating tire pressure. It is also important to remember that, as the days grow shorter and outdoor temperatures grow colder, the air inside tires contracts. For every change of 10ºF in air temperature, there is approximately a 1 pound per square inch (psi) change in tire pressure.

The employees at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO are well versed in cars and will be happy to converse with you about them. Bring your car by 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree and we'll talk tires, and if you think you tires might have a problem, we'll be happy to take a look. Call 781-843-1550 if you have questions about the proper PSI for your make, model, and tires. We want to help you feel good about your car. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

Optimistic Quincy Eyes Return To Top Of League

Hosts Hingham In Season Opener Friday

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School football teams expects to return to the top of the Atlantic Coast League this season.

After a dismal 3-7 campaign last year — which was attributed to early injuries and youth — the Presidents are banking on their returning starters to shoulder much of the load.

"I have to say I'm very optimistic," said head coach Bob Noble. "I feel very good about what we're going to do. We have a number of returning starters and number of people that gained a great deal of experience from a year ago.

"We have some pretty good players. We're going to be a very competitive team this year and one that, if we play the way I think we're capable of, will be in the running for the league title again."

Quincy kicks off the season tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 when it hosts Hingham, 37-6 winners over Sandwich last Friday, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Offensively, the Presidents return eight starters and will use a one-back, spread, shotgun formation.

Junior Matt Boyle, who led Quincy to a pair of late-season victories last year, is the starting quarterback. Boyle came off the bench to beat Sandwich and North Quincy in his only two starts of the season.

Junior Jim Aikens, who split time at quarterback last year with junior Jared Tucker, will see time as Boyle's backup.

"He has played far too well and throws the ball far too well for us to not take advantage of that," Noble said.

Senior captain Everton DeCastro returns as the starting running back. Banged up at the beginning of last year, a healthy DeCastro sparked the Presidents in their three wins in the second half of the season.

"He was hurt at the beginning of last year," Noble said. "Once he came back, he rushed for over 700 yards and six touchdowns in the final seven games of the season. We expect big things from him."

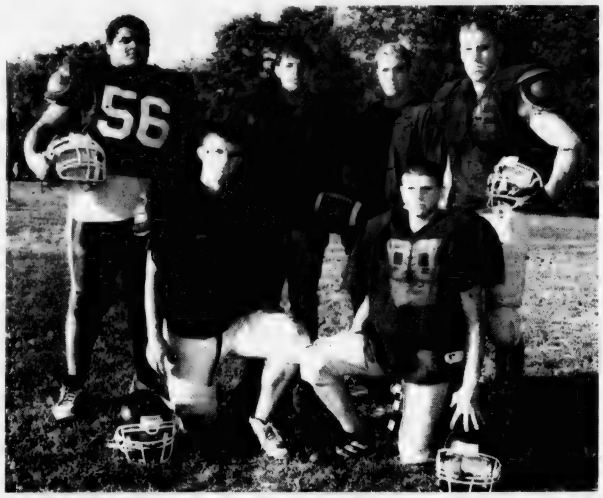
Quincy boasts an offensive line loaded with experience. Senior captains Dan Neenan and D.J. Andrews, a three-year starter, are the guards and senior captains Chris Pratt (two-year starter) and Pat Stroud (three-year starter) are the tackles. Junior Mark Cugini will rotate with Stroud. At center is senior Mike Neenan, Dan's twin brother. He rejoins the team after breaking his leg two years ago.

On the defensive side of the ball, Quincy returns seven starters. Mike Neenan, Pratt, Andrews and Stroud (6-0, 315 pounds) make a strong unit up front.

"We think we have a front four that is as good as any," Noble said. "And Pat Stroud is being recruited at the college level. We think he's going to be one of the dominant defensive lineman, certainly in our league this year."



Junior Camillo Arredondo returns to man the middle linebacker position with Dan Neenan and Hazelhurst on the outside. Senior Chaz Mungalsingh will rotate at outside linebacker.

Aikens and Tucker are the starting corner backs with Ryan-MacDonald and Giordani as the back-ups. Brooks and DeCastro are the safeties.

"I have legitimate expectations this year," Noble said. "Because of a number of reasons last year, a little bit of inexperience, a little bit of injuries at the beginning of the year, we didn't play as well in the first four games as perhaps we should have.

"A lot of those younger players gained experience as the season went on and progressively got better. We did show a great deal of improvement. All those players are back and worked out hard in the offseason.

"Hopefully we're in a somewhat advantageous position where our returning experience will help us. We feel that is going to pay off for us this year."

'Take A Loved One To The Doctor Day' Sept. 20

Maintaining Your Vision May Be Key To Maintaining Mental Health

Today, more than two-thirds of visually impaired adults in the U.S. are over 65 years of age. Nearly 20.5 million Americans age 65 and older are afflicted with cataracts, the leading cause of blindness in the U.S. Alarmingly, the number of Americans with age-related eye disease is expected to double within the next three decades unless something is done to reverse the trend.

Moreover, a recent study out of the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston indicates that seniors suffering from poor vision have shown evidence of a premature mental decline. The results of this study clearly bring to light the importance of routine eye care for older adults.

In honor of "Take a Loved One to the Doctor Day," the Massachusetts Society of Eye Physicians and Surgeons encourages people to call the EyeCare America Seniors EyeCare Program. This year-round program offers eye exams at no out-of-pocket cost to seniors who are without an ophthalmologist (a medical eye doctor). To see if you, a loved one or a friend, 65 and older, is eligible to receive a referral for an eye exam and care, call 1-800-222-EYES (3937). The EyeCare America help line operates 24 hours a day, every day, year round.

"Blindness and vision impairment have enormous personal, social and economic costs, limiting the activities of otherwise healthy and active people," said Robert A. Lytle, MD, president of the Massachusetts Society of Eye Physicians and Surgeons. "EyeCare America bridges the gap between seniors and the quality eye care they need thereby allowing them to live more fulfilling and active lives."

Here in Massachusetts, EyeCare America and its 255 volunteer ophthalmologists have served more than 6,128.

Through the program those who are eligible receive a dilated eye exam and up to one year of treatment at no out-of-pocket cost to the patient. EyeCare America is able to provide this no cost care through its network of 7,500 volunteer ophthalmologists who have agreed to accept Medicare or other insurance as payment in full.

Stats about Eye Health:

- Approximately 5.5 million people over 65 who are blind or have low vision.
- More than $22 billion is spent annually on care and services for people who are blind or have visual impairments.
- Unless those with low vision get help, they often suffer from anxiety, frustration and depression that diminish their quality of life.

COSMETIC CONCERNS

When the American Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry recently conducted a poll, it found that virtually all Americans (99.7%) believe that a smile is an important social asset. Ninety-six percent of those surveyed believe that an attractive smile makes a person more appealing to the opposite sex, and three-quarters of those polled felt that an unattractive smile can hurt a person's chances for career success. When asked what was the first thing that they noticed about a person's smile, the most common responses were "straightness, whiteness and color of teeth, sincerity of smile, missing teeth, and sparkle of the smile" (in that order). Discolored, yellow, and stained teeth ranked as the number one most unattractive feature.

It's obvious that our smile, or more specific our teeth, are important to us in many ways. New advances in cosmetic dentistry have everyone smiling. Let us help you increase your sense of self-esteem. For complete dental care, come see us at 44 Greenleaf Street. Let us help you make the most of your smile. P.S. When asked what aspect of their smiles they would most like to improve, respondents to the survey mentioned above indicated "whiter and brighter teeth."

To Stretch or Not to Stretch?

Q: I have always stretched before and after my workouts. Recently a friend said she read an article that stated that stretching was not beneficial and could possibly cause injuries. Should I consider stopping or limiting my stretching?

A: To stretch or not to stretch, that is the question! This debate has been floating around the fitness industry for several years now. The possibility that stretching could cause injuries and not provide a benefit to your workout routine has placed a very important aspect of training in question.

Flexibility training, as with any type of training, should be added to your routine for a reason. Many exercisers perform a quick five-second touch-your-toes stretch before exercise because they believe that's what you are supposed to do. Knowing WHY you are stretching is just as important as the type of stretching you do.

The reasons for a flexibility program should include increasing range of motion of joints, improving muscle imbalances and lengthening shortened muscles, all of which can affect overall body function. Posture, daily activities, fitness level and lifestyle all contribute to muscle tightness and shortness, joint range of motion and muscle imbalances. A proper flexibility program can encourage improvements in these areas.

Current injuries and hypermobile joints should be handled with care, and completing a flexibility routine during those instances is not recommended. Allow for injuries to be fully rehabilitated before again stretching that area. With joints that are extremely mobile, extending them past a normal range of motion to achieve a stretch can place the joint in a position for injury.

If you are exercising for general fitness, use the checklist below to perform a helpful flexibility routine.

- The body is better able to respond to flexibility training when warm. Ten minutes of cardiovascular exercise before stretching can help prepare your body.
- Focus on the areas that appear tight. Complete several stretches for each muscle group. If you do not feel tightness within that muscle, proceed to the next muscle group.
- Although you may feel better after stretching one time, remember that your flexibility routine must be a long-term project for your body to respond.
- Be careful not to overstretch joints or muscles. Although certain stretches may seem uncomfortable, try not to be too aggressive — your objective is to improve tightness, not induce pain.
- Flexibility training should be partnered with cardiovascular and strength training to provide a complete workout.
- Seek assistance if you are not confident about your stretching techniques. Improper stretching techniques CAN lead to injury.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Sunday, Sept. 4 at approximately 6:15 p.m., Officer Scott Smith was dispatched to the area of 353 Sea St. for an "assault in progress." As units responded, dispatch stated that a suspect left the area driving a Chevy Monte Carlo, providing the license plate. Officer Smith observed and stopped the vehicle on Sea St. The driver, alone in the vehicle, told him that he had been pepper sprayed by a woman in a car that cut him off as he turned left from Chickatabot Rd. onto Sea St. After further questioning, the suspect said that he stopped his car in front of the other car in the area of 353 Sea St. to find out what the problem was, and for no reason, was pepper sprayed in the face by one of the three females in the car.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer John McGowan, who was with the three females, brought them to Officer Smith's location. Officer Smith received a completely different version of the incident. The driver said that she was traveling east on Sea St. when a black car came out from a side street and cut her off. She stated that she beeped the horn and flipped her middle finger at him, then drove off. She said that the suspect then sped up to her, pulled in front of her car, pinning her in. She said that the suspect approached her door, yelling and swearing at her, threatening to break her neck. She said she feared for her safety and began to roll up her window, and as she did this, the suspect swung his fist and struck the rear window frame of the driver side window.

Before the window was closed, the female in the back seat sprayed pepper mace into the face of the suspect, who backed off. The female operator then drove off but was again cut off by the suspect briefly, and then he drove away.

A witness told Officer Smith that he heard skidding, looked up to see a black Monte Carlo across two lanes of Sea Street, blocking in a car with three females. He observed the suspect at the female's door, calling her a "fat #$%@" and threatening to break her neck. He also saw the suspect swing his fist at the window and then kick the car as he walked away.

Based on the statements and witness account, Officer Smith placed the suspect under arrest. He also requested that the three females go to the police station so that he could gather further information. After giving Miranda Rights, Officer Smith learned that the female who sprayed the mace did not have an FID card (firearms identification), required to possess mace. Officer Smith confiscated the male and informed this woman, a 20-year-old Quincy resident, that she would be summoned into court for "assault and battery with a dangerous weapon (mace)" and "unlawful possession of mace." The male suspect, a 49-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with "assault with a dangerous weapon," "malicious damage to a motor vehicle" and "threatening to commit a crime.".

Nice work!

Road rage has become a very common occurrence in today's society, often with dire consequences. In this case, what was initially poor driving by the suspect rapidly escalated when the victim driver decided to "give him the finger." This led to the suspect driving erratically to retaliate and confront the woman. The ability to reason was overtaken by emotion, resulting in the situation becoming personal. Fortunately, no one was seriously injured; however, one person was arrested and another faces criminal charges. The best way to prevent a road rage incident is to note the license plate of the vehicle involved and report the incident to the police.

Quincy Collecting Clothing For Storm Victims On Cape

Material donations from the people of Quincy to the people from the Gulf Coast who have taken shelter on the Cape are running at a brisk pace.

"Our community continues to display the spirit that makes Quincy such a great city," said Mayor William Phelan.

"Our residents have responded in mass to the relief effort and our call to gather clothing and toiletries for those in need is going well.

"I want to thank all of those that have contributed to the effort."

Emergency Management Director Tom Gorman is accepting seasonally appropriate clothing and toiletries for the more than 250 victims of Hurricane Katrina that are being housed at Otis Air Force Base in Bourne.

"Many of the people at Otis have nothing but the clothes on their backs," said Phelan.

"I urge all Quincy residents to help."

The supplies that are being collected at the Quincy Relief Center, One Merrymount Parkway (Route 3A), will be delivered to Otis' Camp Edwards on Friday.

Fund-Raiser Here Sept. 22 For 'Wiped Out' Louisiana Parish

Norfolk County Correction Officer Matthew Corbett and his wife, Wendy, a native of storm-torn Louisiana, will hold a fund raiser Thursday, Sept. 22, from 7 to 11 p.m. at Pat Flanagan's, 79 Parkingway, Quincy Center.

Wendy Corbett is from St. Bernard Parish, a community of 66,000 people just outside New Orleans, that was one of the hardest hit areas when Hurricane Katrina tore through the Gulf Coast Aug. 29.

St. Bernard Parish was "wiped out," she said.

The Corbetts decided to help hurricane victims in St. Bernard Parish after learning of the devastation from Wendy's five brothers and sisters, four of whom still live there. The fifth lives in Poplarville, Miss., which was also flattened.

While her brothers and sisters all survived the storm, she said, they had to evacuate their homes and are now living with family and friends in other areas.

The Corbetts are asking for a $20 donation at the door at Pat Flanagan's. Sen. Michael Morrissey and Sheriff Michael Bellotti will act as emcees. The DJ, Mark McGillicuddy, will provide the music.

There will be a silent auction and raffle with prizes such as Red Sox tickets, restaurant gift certificates and a tour and lunch at the Norfolk County Correctional Center with Sheriff Bellotti.

All donations will go to the Red Cross Chapter in St. Bernard Parish. Checks can be made out to the Red Cross. Toiletries also are in great need by the homeless residents of the parish.

Those who can't attend the event may send checks made out to the Red Cross to Wendy Corbett, 1382 Quincy Shore Drive, Quincy, 02169.

Musical Variety Show At First Presbyterian Church

First Presbyterian Church of Quincy, 270 Franklin St., will present "Boston to Bangladesh," a musical variety show, to help raise funds for a mission trip to the Home of Joy Orphanage and The Widow's Friend in Bangladesh.

The show will be presented Friday, Sept. 30 at 8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 1 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 2 at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $15 regular admission and $12 for seniors. For the Sunday matinee only, tickets for children under 12 will be $12.

Bangladesh is a county of widows and orphans. When a woman's husband dies she friends herself destitute, unable to support her family. Very often, she will go to live with her father who does not accept the children because they are too expensive to support. The children end up in orphanages and the family unit is destroyed.

Faith Willard, a native of Cape Cod and a leader at Camp Good News in Sandwich, founded a Christian orphanage called the Home of Joy, and a ministry to the mothers called The Widow's Friend, where poor women embroider intricate designs on silks to support themselves, as well as other centers.

Churches and groups from the South Shore have long supported Faith Willard's activities in Bangladesh and Dahka. Recently, people from Glad Tidings Church in Quincy traveled to the Home of Joy to work with the children.

Eight members of First Presbyterian Church will be going to the orphanage at the end of October when the children are on school vacation. They include a nurse, an emergency medical technician, an administrative assistant, a recently-retired teacher, a college professor, a recent college graduate, and two government workers. They will assist staff and care for children living at the orphanage with prayer, song, dance, play and interaction.

In "Boston to Bangladesh," singer and dancers from all ages from First Presbyterian will share their talents to raise funds to send the team to Bangladesh.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

As people grow older and group themselves with older people, the subject of children's behavior often captures the conversation. The ageless topic seems to attach itself to aging. The virtues or vices of the children of today are compared with the children of yesteryear. And quite often the hazy recollections of yesteryear are clouded by the passing of time. Please read the following quote. We think it is quite interesting...

"Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority. They show disrespect for elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Who said this? When was it said? Was it recently? Care to guess? The quote is from Socrates in the 5th century, B.C.! ... We guess it proves kids will be kids; always have been and always will be! ...

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Careful, Lamb. Taking on too many tasks at one time can cause you to create more snarls each time you try to work your way through the tangled mass. Best to handle one job at a time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Making bold moves is what Bovines do. But the best moves are made with lots of data to provide backup just in case you charge into an unexpected complication. A new relationship shows promise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Sharing credit for a job well done is easy for you to do, but not necessarily for your partner. But fair is fair. Don't let yourself be denied the right to have your contributions recognized.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Communication is important to help bridge a gap that can lead to problems at home and/or at the workplace. Find a way to get your points across before the breach becomes a chasm.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Relationships, whether business or personal, need to be watched carefully for signs of trouble. Any negative indications should be dealt with before they become too burdensome.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Congratulations. A more positive aspect highlights much of the Virgo's week. You should find others more receptive to your suggestions, and also more likely to act on them.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) All work and little play could wear the Libra's usually positive attitude down. Take some much-needed time off. Perhaps a short jaunt with someone special is the way to go.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to expand your view from the known to the unfamiliar. Confronting new situations could be challenging, but could ultimately also be extremely satisfying.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Giving advice to those who just want validation for what they're doing can be unsettling. So back off and save your counsel for those who really appreciate it.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Cultivating a more positive attitude not only makes you feel better about yourself, but also has an upbeat effect on those around you, especially that certain someone.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Keeping the lines of communication open and accessible is the key to establishing the right foundation on which to build an important and meaningful relationship. Stay with it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Before agreeing to act on a request, consider using your perceptive Piscean talents to see what might lie hidden beneath its surface and could possibly cause problems later on.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're a friend who, if you err at all, does so on the side of concern for those you care about.

QMC Cancer Walk Raises Over $140,000

More than 1,000 supporters took part in the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk Sunday, furthering the legacy of the Marie Curry Walk and raising more than $140,000 to support the advanced, high quality cancer services at the hospital.

The QMC Cancer Walk, held at Pageant Field in Merrymount Park, was launched this year as an expansion of the community's highly successful Marie Curry Walk and continues to support the Marie A. Curry Fund, a permanent endowed fund, designed to raise funds to provide cancer screenings and services to women and men who are uninsured or underinsured.

Ten years ago, the Curry family of Quincy established the Marie A. Curry Fund as a lasting and living memorial to Marie Curry, who died of breast cancer. Since the fund was established, supporters have raised more than $1 million to provide screening mammography and

As Alternative To Faxon Field Site

State Likely To Okay Renovations To QHS

City Solicitor Monica Conyngham told the City Council Monday night that the State School Building Authority (SBA) is likely to look favorably on alternatives to the Faxon Field site for a new Quincy High School.

And that's good news for Quincy.

The solution to the long standing stalemate, said Conyngham, may be the renovation the current Quincy High School and a large addition across Woodward Avenue.

"They (the SBA) recognize the shortcomings of that site and the educational problems the Faxon Field site would cause," she said.

"We consider that encouraging news for moving forward on what will be the best school for the city.

"We're really at an informational exchange mode at this point. They have asked for additional information. We have provided it. I'm sure they will ask for more information and we will certainly provide that.

"We will try to keep engineers and architects working together so that we can make sure that all the issues are fleshed out and that we can wind up with the right school for the city."

Renovation of the current QHS would be an attractive alternative to the SBA, she said, since the Southern Artery-Coddington Street site would require a school building with six stories to get around the wetlands in Faxon Field.

Infected Dead Crow Found In Squantum

Residents Urged To Take Precautions Against Mosquitos

Mayor William Phelan and Health Commissioner Drew Scheele are encouraging residents to take necessary precautions to prevent mosquito bites and reduce the chances of contracting diseases such as West Nile Virus (WNV).

The warning came after a dead crow found in Squantum was identified by the State Laboratory Institute as having died of WNV.

The positive finding, the first of the year in Quincy, was not surprising since WNV has been found in birds in several Norfolk County communities, including Brookline and Needham.

"Residents can take simple steps to avoid the potential dangers of serious illness," said Phelan.

"Though diseases such as West Nile and Eastern Equine Encephalitis are rare, residents should follow simple instructions when going outside to avoid even the slight chance that they might contract a mosquito-borne illness."

Quincy Sun Begins Its 38th Year

The Quincy Sun begins its 38th year with this issue as "Historic Quincy's Hometown Weekly Newspaper."

The first issue of The Sun appeared Sept. 26, 1968 and through the 37 years since we have concentrated our news coverage on Quincy.

We are proud to carry the name Quincy in our banner and to be part of a great city. We have been blessed with loyal readers and advertisers.

Some of those readers are now in virtually all of the other 49 states, former Quincy residents who want to keep up on what's going on "back home." They tell us receiving The Sun by mail is like getting a letter from home.

We feel that today's Quincy Sun is tomorrow's Quincy history. Keeping it accurate is important to you and to us.

As we begin our 38th year we want to again thank you – our readers and advertisers – for your continued support and encouragement these past 37 years.

And, of course, a special thank-you to our faithful newscarriers who bring The Sun to Quincy homes.

We look forward to the future with optimism and faith in Quincy – no better city in the world.

Rev. Bill Harding To Provide Ministry Of Presence To Soldiers

Bethany Church Pastor Deployed As Chaplain In Operation Iraqi Freedom

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

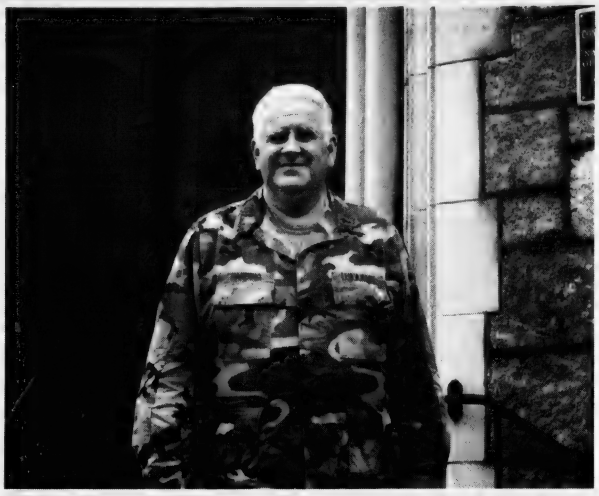
In times of war, pray, trust God, seek peace and support one another.

That was the message the Rev. William Harding gave his church members at Bethany Congregational Church in a recent sermon.

However, Rev. Harding, who is also an Army reservist, is responding to the war effort in a much more profound and personal way.

Bethany's pastor is being mobilized in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. The chaplain major in the United States Army Reserves left his family, church and city for active duty with the 115th Chaplain Detachment of the 655th Area Support Group based at Fort Devens on Monday. He'll then report to Fort Dix in New Jersey for about two weeks to fulfill certain tasks including a medical review and training in situational awareness.

Early next month, he expects to go to Kuwait and then be assigned in theater, most likely Iraq.



"I'm ambivalent about (the deployment)," the 56-year-old pastor said in an interview dressed in Army fatigues in the Bethany Church chapel days before his deployment.

"I love soldiers and I love to do what I do in the military side of things because it's ministry of presence with the soldiers and to provide exercise of free worship for them. Free exercise of religion is basically what chaplains provide so we cover all denominations and make sure that the availability is for them to worship in their own faith denomination, whichever that may be."

Harding's duties will include leading worship services for Protestant soldiers as well taking part in general Christian services.

As a chaplain, Harding is also a staff officer to the commander. "We're there for the moral and ethical well-being of the soldiers," he explained. "We advise the commander on religious issues, on moral issues, on ethical issues, on sensitivity to religion and whatever else they ask us to do. Whatever they need for us to do we try to do because we're special staff officers to the commander."

Harding's orders state deployment for 545 days – or 18 months – but it may be five months shorter. "It'll probably be 13 months, 365 days in theater 'boots on the ground' is what they say. They do the 545 (days) in case they need to keep you longer, that's why they do the whole 18 months."

THE REV. WILLIAM HARDING, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church, dressed in Army fatigues outside the Quincy Center church. Harding, a chaplain major in the U.S. Army Reserves, has been mobilized in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

(Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Bosworth)

Harding is in his 23rd year in the Reserves. He first enlisted in 1968 and served until 1974. He reenlisted in 1989.

This will be Harding's second deployment overseas in four years. While most Americans watched the horrific events of Sept. 11, 2001 unfold on native soil, Rev. Harding was stationed in Kosovo as part of a peacekeeping mission. Ironically, the pastor delivered his final sermon before his deployment on Sept. 11, the fourth anniversary of the deadliest terrorist attacks here in the United States.

"No other event in recent history has paralyzed our country," Harding said referring to 9-11. "This one event brought us to our knees in prayer; it galvanized our resolve while uniting our national pride. I once again ask you for your prayers and support while I serve this country and thank each of you for all that you do for Bethany Congregational Church and me."

Harding spent six months in Kosovo. He called his second deployment "a little more dangerous."

"When I was in Kosovo I was with a 399th Combat Support Hospital so being with a hospital I knew where I was going to be and what I was going to be doing. This time it's a little more up in the air because I don't know exactly where I'm going to be assigned and I don't know what units I'm going to be assigned to. And this I believe is a little more dangerous than what Kosovo was.

"Kosovo was more of a peace-keeping mission, things were calmed down, slowing down. We still had a lot of death and a lot of things like that going on but this particular mission is all together a different mission.

"You have to be much more aware of your surroundings on this (mission.)"

Harding is hopeful he can get leave next May to be home when his 21-year-old son, Bill, graduates from Boston College with a degree in pre-medicine. "I don't know if that's going to happen but if I can that's the only time I'm going to ask to come home for his graduation."

His wife, Carol, has put her husband's deployment in perspective. "We know enough soldiers there and she said she hates to see me go. However she said she feels as though if it was our son (being deployed), she'd want someone like me there to minister to them. She's not happy about me going but she also knows it's a commitment I've had and I've al-

Council Puts Brakes On Preservation Act

The City Council has served notice that is not going to be rushed into adopting the Community Preservation Act (CPA).

Councillors passed up a chance Monday night to place it on the Nov. 8 city election ballot which means it is dead to Quincy for at least another year.

The Council voted unanimously to establish a three-person subcommittee to review the act that would add a 1 per cent surcharge to property tax bills.

The added revenue would be used to acquire and preserve open space and historic building sites and create and support affordable housing.

During some 45 minutes of debate, the Councillors questioned the legal wording of such a ballot proposition and the many interpretations that have been placed on the act itself.

"My sense that I am getting from voters is that there is so much information being thrown at everybody and the Council just for us to decipher it is too much," said Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis.

"This Council will end in three months. Hopefully we can get in a couple of meetings of the subcommittee and make some determinations."

The Council gave the subcommittee several months to research and review the act before voting whether or not to place the issue on the November, 2006, ballot.

Acceptance of the act would add $25.56 to the property tax bill of the average Quincy homeowner whose residence is valued at $335.800.

The Quincy Environmental Network (QEN) calculates that, along with matching funds from the state, the city would receive a total of more than $2 million from the fund.

Council Votes $145,000 For Sewer Relief Work

The City Council Monday night voted unanimously to appropriate $1,450,000 from the Sewer Relief Fund for several projects, including $600,000 to replace existing sewer lines on Edgewater Drive in Houghs Neck.

The fund, initiated more than 20 years ago by Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets, is replenished by developers who are required to put in a percentage of their total construction costs.

Council President Frank McCauley said that, as of May 31, there was about $3,300,000 in the fund.

Projects to be undertaken with Monday night's appropriation include:

Purchase of a vactor truck, $175,000.

Purchase of a maintenance vehicle, $150.000.

Preparing a bid package for engineering, $100,000.

Bayside Road, emergency repairs to sewer and collapsed manhole, 80,000

Charlesmont, Burns and Spence Streets, replace existing sewer and sewer manhole, $75,000.

Carlisle Street, engineering services to replace existing sewer and sewer manhole, $60,000.

Bayswater, install tidegates to end tidal backflow and overflow into sewer system, $60,000.

John & Division, infiltration elimination, $80,000.

Purchase of television equipment to bring work in-house, $50,000.

Bebee Road, replace existing sewer and sewer manhole, $40,000.

Scheduled Power Outages In Downtown Area For Mass. Electric Project

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Several businesses in Quincy Center will be affected requiring scheduled power outages when Massachusetts Electric makes improvements to the Hancock St. underground electric al distribution system.

It will replace the Oil Filled Cutouts in the vaults of the buildings located on Hancock St.

At a pre-construction meeting Monday held at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Jon Adams, a representative from Mass Electric said the new system will replace the old one which was built in the 1950's.

The plan is to replace much of the original cable and equipment and also to be able to respond to an outage if one occurs. The new cable and equipment will be made of stainless steel.

Adams said vaults will be installed on the sidewalks with the first phase to begin at Quincy Fair Mall next week. New vacuum switches with electronic devises will be installed. However, he

A Long Way From Paper Ballots

The vote in last week's school committee preliminary election was light and the results were all wrapped up about an hour after the polls closed.

But nowadays even with larger voter turnouts, the official results are known early – usually around 9:30 or so.

That's a far cry from the days of the paper ballot elections when it wasn't unusual for a precinct or two to straggle in at 8 or 9 a.m. the following morning.

Quincy's opti-scan system and whizzing computers City Clerk Joseph Shea introduced in 1996 during the Mayor James Sheets administration make vote-counting quick – and accurate.

SHEA

It was Shea's predecessor, John Gillis, and then Mayor Frank McCauley who took Quincy out of the dark age of paper ballots.

Gillis for several years had been trying to get away from paper ballots that had to be hand-counted and could easily be miscounted. The famed Walter Hannon - Joseph LaRaia mayoral recount of 1975 was a prime example.

GILLIS

McCAULEY

Gillis tried to get money into his budget for machines several times but got nowhere .

Not until 1985 when Frank McCauley was mayor. Gillis asked for the voting change and McCauley, who was tight with a municipal buck, said "yes."

But it wasn't machines. It was the then punch-card system which wasn't as cumbersome and expensive as machines. It was a big step forward.

"It speeded up the whole process," recalls McCauley. "And cut election costs. I thought it was well worth the investment."

And that led to today's sophisticated opti-scan system and early election nights.

Quincy operated under Plan E from 1950 to 1957 with a city manager as the chief executive.

Instead of today's nine councillors (six ward and three at-large), there were seven councillors all at-large and six school committee members.

It sometimes took all week before you knew who was elected.

The method of voting was by proportional representation with voters making their selections in numerical order.

In the first Plan E election there were 59 candidates for the seven council seats and 15 for the six on the school committee.

By the PR method, voters could, if they wanted to, vote for all 59 council candidates and all 15 school committee candidates by numbering their preferences 1 to 59 and 1 to 15.

The city council results weren't completed until six days after the election. Then the school committee tabulating started, taking two days to complete.

When Quincy returned to Plan A in 1957, Amelio Della Chiesa was elected mayor, defeating Laurence Curtin.

Those results were known that election night.

Getting away from paper ballots and going first to punch-cards and then to today's opti-scan system, election workers are getting home much earlier.

PRECINCT 5 in Ward 6 still holds the city's top voting honors.

Although the turnout city-wide last week was only 12.85 percent, some 27.96 of Precinct 5 voters cast ballots at the Squantum School.

Other fairly strong turnouts:

Precinct 4, Ward 5 (Beechwood Knoll School): 20.72 percent. Precinct 1, Ward 1 (Merrymount School): 19.57 percent. Precinct 5, Ward 1 (Saint Thomas Aquinas Hall): 19.56 percent. Precinct 4, Ward 3 (Wollaston School): 18.19 percent.

"Without the turnout in those precincts, the city-wide turnout would have been down to about 7 percent," Shea said.

The lowest turnout last week was 6.41 percent in Precinct 4, Ward 4 (Lincoln-Hancock School).

Beware Of Hurricane Relief Scams

By LT. DAN MINTON
Quincy Police Crime Prevention Officer

All across the country, Americans are being asked to give to the victims of hurricane Katrina.

Each day, we see the horrific accounts of the devastation in the Gulf coast and our generosity surfaces. There are so many agencies and groups in need that it becomes confusing.

Sadly, there are scam artists out there taking this opportunity to steal your money for their personal gain. This does not mean that all strangers are con artists, but it should put you on alert.

Here are some simple tips:

• Con artists often say they are raising money for a legitimate organization, but actually have no affiliation.

• Beware of door-to-door solicitations or telephone marketing, which often results in being pressured to give, without knowing where your donation is going.

• If you have unsure about the solicitor, do not give at that time, but ask for written information so that you can verify the agency connection.

In most cases, it is not advisable to permit someone to come to your home to pick up your donation.

• Do not give your credit card/bank information out to solicitors. The better way is to look up the number of the agency you wish to give to.

• Beware of agencies using similar sounding names of well-known charities.

• Contributions should be made with a check, not cash, made out to the charity, not the fundraiser.

• Be especially alert to e-mail solicitations, which appear to be popping up everywhere.

QUINCY CARES

In Quincy, Mayor William Phelan and businessman Daniel Flynn have organized a legitimate fundraiser with the goal of donating $1 million. Donation centers have been set up in the city's public offices and the school department is planning a fund raising campaign.

Donations can also be made in the following ways:

• Credit card - call the office of Daniel Flynn at 617-479-900.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1905 POSTCARD is a view of Quincy's first brick high school building built in 1896 on the corner of Butler Road and Hancock Street. It was the site of the original Edmund Quincy house. Just a year after this postcard was published and only 10 years after the school was built it was expanded on all sides into the building housing the present Central Middle School. Then in 1924 the high school was moved into its present building on Coddington Street. In less than 30 years the city had built three new Quincy high school buildings. Today, another new Quincy High School building has been in the planning stage for almost 15 years. This postcard is one of a series of 21 1905 postcards of Quincy published 100 years ago by the Rotograph Co. of New York. Printed in Germany in both color and black and white they were the first, and now the oldest, good quality picture postcards of Quincy. At the time the government allowed messages only on the front of the card and the back was reserved for the address. That changed in 1907. Rotograph was the first major postcard publisher in the U.S. and they made cards for hundreds of other cities and towns across the country. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Community Preservation Act Makes Sense

Passage of the Community Preservation ACT (CPA) in Quincy means that we get our money back from the state.

Quincy has already paid over $2,500,000 into the fund. That money is currently going to cities and towns that have passed the CPA, including Braintree, Scituate, Randolph, Duxbury and Hingham.

As Quincy property taxpayers, on average, we would pay an extra $25 per year. There are exclusions for residents over 60 and residents with low incomes.

It is a targeted fund in three important areas: 1) preserving land for open space, 2) affordable housing, and 3) renovation of historic sites. This just makes sense — we would have the opportunity to repair Souther Tide Mill before it falls into the water and acquire dwindling open space that developers are eyeing (like 271 Sea St., Hospital Hill and a wooded site adjacent to Faxon Park).

Make no mistake, I do not like property taxes in Quincy, but this one — it just makes sense. Otherwise we will never see the $2,500,000 we already paid into the CPA fund (through Registry of Deeds fees).

Luis Tiant A Big Hit At Fund-Raiser

I recently attended a political time for Ron Iacobucci, who is running for the Quincy school committee. Iacobucci is trying to build a mini-Fenway Park in Quincy and has been working along with many folks including former Boston Red Sox ace Luis Tiant.

Tiant attended the fund-raiser and was the biggest hit of the night with both the many kids there as well as all of us kids at heart.

All night long he signed autographs for the kids. Taking endless photos with them. Here was no legend in his own mind like many of today's ballplayers. I even got an autograph.

Where would Red Sox Nation be without legends like Luis Tiant? Who can forget the 70's when Tiant ruled the mound at Fenway. He's in the Red Sox Hall of Fame and hopefully someday will make the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, too.

I grew up in the 60's and 70's when baseball players weren't making a zillion dollars a year pumping God knows what into themselves.

Baseball was affordable, too. I got to see some great games in the bleachers for under two bucks a game.

Louie reminds me of White Sox Hall of Famer Minnie Minoso. During his career he ended up with the Indians, too. He ran out with a basket of Red Sox baseballs throwing them into the stands. That day he was bigger than Babe Ruth. Until the Red Sox noticed and sent someone out to take the basket from Minnie.

My most recent political time was the best one I ever attended thanks to Luis Tiant.

America Needs Judges Like John Roberts

I was very pleasantly surprised when I read Robert H. Bork's book, "The Tempting of America — The Political Seduction of the Law." Bork holds that the only right way to interpret the Constitution is to find out what was the original understanding of the framers and of the people for whom it was written. The right application of the law is to apply it as it was meant by those who wrote it.

Judge John Roberts, who is often compared to Robert Bork and often labeled as Conservative and ultra-Conservative, wants to preserve, to conserve if you prefer, the original understanding of the Constitution against the judicial misinterpretation. America needs judges who would preserve the American view of the work as it was meant by the original framers of the Constitution.

Mayor's Opponent Calls Dedication 'Political Rally'

48 Years Ago

Frank H. Foy, candidate for mayor, charged that Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa was using the dedication of the Charles A. Ross Parkingway as a campaign rally on the eve of election.

The dedication was scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 6, two days prior to preliminary balloting the city election.

"Here we taxpayers are struggling to pay our excessive taxes and our part-time mayor and his political cohorts at City Hall have schemed up a political rally under the guise of a dedication to a former mayor," Foy said.

He added that his friend, ex-Mayor Ross, "was above capitalizing on a dedication two days before election for personal gain."

Della Chiesa ignored the charge and the dedication went on as scheduled.

Lack of girls at the lunch table was blamed on a one-day protest by the boys from Quincy Trade School against their new lunch schedule in the Quincy High School cafeteria.

The boys complained that the change in their lunch hour from noon to 11 a.m. made it impossible for them to eat lunch with the girls from the high school.

The change was made to relieve crowded conditions.

The event will be from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, 27 Glendale Road.

Sister Joanne founded the counseling service agency, located at 1354 Hancock St., Quincy Center, in 1992 and served as director for over 10 years and most recently as development director.

A member of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, Sister Joanne has reached out to and served the economically disadvantaged. The Maria Droste agency, she notes, "offers professional counseling and therapy services that will enrich a person's life and contribute to their personal and professional fulfillment."

Chairing the retirement tribute are Geri Dussault, director of River Bay Club; Richard Welch, president of Welch Health Care Group; and Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association.

The event committee members are Henry Bosworth, Christine Buckley, Nancy Callanan, Arthur Connelly, Karen Donnellan, Marie Downey, Judy Farmer, Ann Foley, Fran Foy, Denise Gianacopoulas, Ann Howley, Joseph Hurley, Jean Leslie, Leo Martin, Victoria McCarthy, Paul McDevitt, Sister Miriam Patrice McKeon, Mary McLaughlin, Mary Lou Meighan, Mary Adelle Robinson and Mary Ann Walsh.

Since the Maria Droste agency's opening, its staff of social service professionals have provided critical support to individuals, couples and family groups.

The staff and a group of volunteer clinicians have delivered hundreds of counseling hours to individuals ranging in age from 5 to 75. An adjustable fee scale is based on client's ability to pay. The sliding fee scale is made possible by the generosity of community supporters and fund-raising activities.

For tickets, reservations or more information regarding the reception, call the agency at 617-479-5686 or e-mail mariadroste@verizon.net.

At QCAP's 40th Anniversary Celebration

Rosemary Wahlberg To Receive Lifetime Achievement Award

ROSEMARY WAHLBERG

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) will recognize Rosemary Wahlberg, former executive director and Quincy activist at its 40th Anniversary Celebration and Fundraiser Sunday, Sept. 25.

The anniversary celebration will be held at the University of Massachusetts Campus Center, 100 Morrissey Blvd., Boston from noon to 2:30 p.m.

Congressman William D. Delahunt, an event co-chair, will be a featured speaker at the event.

All net event proceeds will benefit QCAP's Emergency Food Center.

"It is fitting that we recognize this extraordinary person during our historic 40th year," said Chuck Phelan, QCAP Board president. "Rosemary is such an enormous part of QCAP's history, and the history of the community action movement in Massachusetts. Her contributions continue to this day."

Wahlberg became executive director of QCAP in 1973. At that time, the agency had just 14 staff and a budget that barely exceeded $100,000. By the time she retired 26 years later, Wahlberg had built QCAP into a multi-million dollar nonprofit employing 150 people.

She remains actively involved in QCAP and continues to advocate for the agency's mission within the community. Each Monday at QCAP's Emergency Food Center she volunteers as a receptionist. She also devotes countless hours to fundraising for the food center, and is QCAP's representative on the Quincy Affordable Housing Trust where she works to preserve Quincy as an affordable community for generations to come.

The Board of Directors will also recognize Bank of America with a unique Self-Sufficiency Champion award for their committed support of QCAP's mission and the community. Bank of America's past support to QCAP's Housing Program helped grow that program into one of the most comprehensive in Norfolk County.

More recently, Bank of America provided support that enabled QCAP to open the Learning Links Technology Center, and financed QCAP's acquisition of its main office building in Quincy Center.

The Board will also award the annual Lois Craig Memorial Award to a QCAP employee for his/her outstanding performance, and a demonstrated commitment to professional development and quality client services.

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) is the leading human services provider targeting low-income families and individuals in Quincy and surrounding communities.

Tickets to the anniversary celebration are $75 each or $700 for a table of 10. Free event parking is included.

For more information or to purchase tickets, contact Valarie Burrows at (617) 479-8181 x 156 or at vburrows@qcap.org.

THANK YOU QUINCY!

Dear Quincy Voters,

I would like to offer my sincere gratitude to all that took the time out of their busy days to vote for me. I will continue to work hard to learn of your concerns and earn your support. I look forward to meeting as many of you as I can in the upcoming weeks. For those that didn't vote for me I will work even harder to earn your trust. I am sure you will find we share the same values and concerns for this great city's kids and its schools.

To My Supporters,

Over the last few months I have witnessed first hand what teamwork and volunteerism can mean to a campaign. Through hard work, sacrifice and dedication we have much to be proud of. What started as a small group of family and friends has grown each day. The added support I have received since Tuesday September 13th has been overwhelming. I sincerely thank you for your dedication, devotion and determination.

Praised For 'Academic Excellence And Integrity'

Sue Harris Assumes Duties As Quincy College President

Sue Harris has assumed her new duties as president of Quincy College with praise for her "incredible passion, academic excellence and integrity."

Harris, who had been acting president the past four months, succeeds Sean Barry who was dismissed for alleged mismanagement.

Harris was promoted by a unanimous vote of the eight members of the Board of Governors attending the annual meeting at the college Sept. 12.

Two members of the board, Daniel Raymondi and Walter White did not attend the meeting. Neither had voted previously to dismiss Barry.

Harris, 59, a Quincy resident, is the seventh president of the college since its founding in 1958.

Theresa Lord-Piatelli, chairwoman of the Board of Governors said:

"It is very clear that Sue has an incredible passion for the mission of Quincy College. She brings to the table both academic excellence and integrity and has conveyed those qualities to every layer of the college."

Said Pushap Kapoor, vice president of Enrollment Management: "President Harris has an unparalleled grasp on the daily functioning and challenges of this institution and there could be no better choice than her to be the next president."

SUE HARRIS

Harris has been with Quincy College the past 14 years, starting as the Assistant Director of the then new Plymouth Campus in October, 1991.

Harris was instrumental in getting the new campus off to a good start and established both student services and evening registration.

In January, 1992, she began teaching sociology as an adjunct instructor at both the Quincy and Plymouth campuses. After serving as the college's Assistant Director of Extended Services, she was appointed Director of Evening Weekend and Summer Programs.

In that position she established assessment and planning systems for the evening division, and supervised more than 100 instructors each semester. She also organized all of the evening, weekend, intercession and summer classes.

During the last seven years, she has been both the Executive Director and Dean of Liberal Arts and Science Program.

As Dean, she supervised over 150 faculty and managed over 30 class sections per semester. She has managed a $1 million budget, and has expanded the college offerings including non-traditional semesters to meet the needs of busy students.

Prior to her career at Quincy College, Harris was the Education Director for the League of Women Voters of Massachusetts and also taught in the Quincy public school system over a 20-year span.

She holds a Bachelor of Arts in English from Boston University and received her Master's degree in Education from Harvard University in 1990. She is currently pursuing her Doctorate degree in Educational Studies at Lesley University.

Quincy Partnership, Historical Society Join In Special Tribute

Joyce Baker Honored With Thomas Morton Award

By HENRY BOSWORTH

At first it seemed an odd combination.

Joyce Baker and Thomas Morton?

Morton, the Colonial rascal who ran a trading post in Merrymount in the 1620's but whooped it up with liquor and Indian maidens dancing around a Maypole until Myles Standish came up from Plymouth to arrest him and send him back to England.

Baker, always the lady, community activist and president emerita of the highly respected and proper Quincy Historical Society.

Two as different as day and night.

But they were linked—in a fun-filledway—last Thursday when she was presented the first annual Thomas Morton Award at the Quincy Historical Society.

It was called "A Thomas Morton Celebration", but it was really Baker's night with many long-time friends on hand to help honor her.

The event, co-sponsored by the Quincy Partnership and the Historical Society, also promoted the new Quincy History Museum and raised needed funds for the society.

There was music by the Delgados, a three piece band led by James Edwards, Baker's successor as president, and songs about Morton's Merrymount rompings by folksinger Chrsitophe r Pahud that set the mood for a fun night.

Senator Michael Morrissey, presented Baker with a Senate commendation citing her 35 years as a member of the Historical Society and 15 as its president and for work in preserving the city 's historical places.

Morrissey, a Democrat, said: "She is one of my favorite Republicans."

He also noted, in jest, "It should be an open bar in honor of Thomas Morton."

Prompting Edward Keohane, chairman of the Quincy Partnership and emcee to respond, jokingly telling Morrissey he was "a typical Democrat who wants to give everything away but doesn't know how to pay for it."

Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner, a long-time friend presented a City Council citation to Baker, saying: "Joyce is a treasure to the city."

Keohane read a letter from Ron Kaufman, of the National Republican Committee and former Quincy resident, praising Baker for her long service to the community.

"She made Quincy a better place for everyone," he said.

Dr. Edward Fitzgerald, the Historical Society 's executive director, saw a connection between Baker and Morton.

"He was a real down-to-earth, get-it-done kind of guy" a quality he found in Baker.

Mark Bertman, a member of the Quincy Partnership, presented the Thomas Morton Award to Baker and observed: "He was a legend in his own time as you have become a legend in yours."

Baker, in addition to the Historical Society, has been active with DOVE, which aids women and children victims of domestic abuse, the Children's Protective Services, South Shore Board of Realtors and the Republican party.

She was a delegate to the Republican national convention that nominated President Gerald Ford in 1976 and a delegate in GOP state conventions.

She is also a founding member of the Quincy Partnership which has undertaken a number of civic projects including the commissioning of status of John Adams, and Abigail Adams, and John Quincy Adams as a boy.

Long known for her energy and leadership, Baker has been slowed down by illness but her health is improving.

"My doctor says something about the alternative," she mused, sending chuckles through the room.

Baker had praise for Fitzgerald and Edward, as executive director and president.

Originally from Gardiner, Me/. Baker, a long-time Wollaston resident said, with pride: "I may not come from Quincy but my roots are in Quincy."

And added: "As I look around, you're all my friends, I love you all."

They loved her back with a warm standing ovation.

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

The License Board continued a hearing regarding conditions at the Dunkin Donuts, 751 East Squantum St., a tenant at Tedeshi's Market, as Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner accused the owners of not abiding by the conditions set by the board when the license was issued in early Spring.

Gardner said she has received numerous calls from residents citing parking in side streets in front of their homes and also of the traffic generated being "unbelievable". She added there are sometimes five garbage trucks parked to get coffee between the hours of 6 to 9 a.m.

Gardner said the conditions issued to Dunkin Donuts was that the employees would be shuttled to work from off site parking. However, according to Atty. Robert Dolbec the arrangement seemed to work for awhile.

General Manager Peter Doyle said employees were using parking spaces in the garage next door but lost it after a few months. He said the donut shop has only two employees at one time all day and he has not had any complaints. He said when the assistant manager is there, and she needds to do errands during the day such as going to the bank, it is more convenient to park on the side street. Doyle said his patrons have always had a "positive attitude." Dolbec also told the board he had never heard a complaint.

Gardner, who said she postponed an earlier meeting in August at the request of Francine Gavotes, owner of Dunkin Donuts who said she was unable to attend and would Gardner rescheduled with the board to meet Sept. 25. Gavotes did not attend Tuesday's meeting causing Gardner to sayshe was "very disappointed."

After a lengthy discussion, the board will give all of the parties 30 days to come to an agreement and if they are not ready by then, the meeting will be held in November.

Those who will attend include Gardner, Doyle, Dolbec, Bob McGann, manager of Tedeshi's and Gavotes.

It was promised at Tuesday's meeting that the condition of the dumpster and the closing of the gate which Gardner s id was an issue will be fixed.

Also that the use of an 18 wheel delivery truck will be replaced by a box truck or straight job truck.

Board Suspends Fugi's License For Three Days

The License Board Tuesday suspended the all alcoholic license held by Fugi's restaurant, 1546 Hancock St. for three days.

One of the days was suspended. The other two will be effective on a Saturday and Sunday.

Peter Tse is the manager.

Fugi will be able to sell food, but no alcohol on those days.

Police Chief Robert Crowley who was angered because Fugi did not attend the meeting said "he did not call to cancel" and added "if he were concerned he would have." He added "there is no excuse - he had the opportunity to be here and should have the courtesy to call."

Officer Brian Mahoney said he was walking his beat at 3:45 a.m. July 24 and heard music and the sound of TV. He looked in the window and could see several persons sitting at the bar, four open beer bottles and a shot glass.

Mahoney asked why they were still there and they answered "it has been a long day." Mahoney said he found that five of the persons at the bar were employees while two were patrons.

A Special Anniversary

Phase II Celebrating 30 Years Of Fine Jewelry, Collectibles

By TOM HENSHAW

"The same teens who came in to buy $1 earrings 30 years ago came in to get their engagement rings," said Deanna Gazarian. "Now their kids are coming in.

"We don't have customers, we have friends."

Gazarian is the proprietor of Phase II, the thriving little jewelry and gift shop at 1361 Hancock St. that is celebrating its 30th anniversary this month.

As part of the celebration, Phase II will offer a 30 percent discount on most of its fine jewelry and collectibles until Oct. 15, the actual date of its opening in 1975.

And Gazarian is hiring a jewelry industry specialist to do on-the-spot diamond appraisals and purchase estate jewelry, gold and diamonds for the little store that not only could, but did.

The original Phase II was simply a place to buy fashion and costume jewelry, sold by a woman who was juggling the business and raising three daughters all at the same time.

In spite of the hurdles, the business flourished and soon the little shop expanded into investment jewelry in gold, silver and gemstones and a selection of dolls and local collectibles.

"We started with $1 items," said Gazarian. "We went from dollars to diamonds."

Gazarian was among the first to sell community afghans and other commemorative items with Quincy, Milton, Dorchester and South Boston themes.

For each afghan or other local collectible sold, she'd donate $10 to a church, historic site or civic group in the community. Scores of school and other community-based groups have benefited from this Phase II fundraising activity.

As the business boomed, Karney Eldridge joined her sister to help out at the store 20 years ago and has been there ever since.

Now, with a jewelry specialist joining the firm and taking on some of the management responsibilities, both Gazarian and Eldridge plan to ease up a bit.

"Karney wants to spend more time with her family," said Gazarian. "She wants a few good days off."

Gazarian plans to remain active in the business but also she'd like to spend more time with her family, which has grown to include five grandchildren.

"Maybe I'll hire them when they reach working age," said Gazarian.

Outside of family and Phase II, Gazarian has lived an active life.

She has been president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and has been for 25 years a member of what is now known as the Quincy Business Association.

She has also served as an officer or board member of the Milton PM Club, the Woodward School for Girls and, currently, the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

PHASE II JEWELRY and Gifts owner Deanna Gazarian (right) and her sister, Karney Eldridge, will celebrate their 30th year of service to the Quincy community on Oct. 15, continuing their watchword: 'We don't have customers, we have friends.' Quincy Sun photo/Noreen O'Shea ways stuck to my commitments."

Harding is not sure how frequently he'll be able to communicate with his family but adds e-mail is generally set up quite quickly.

One of the last things he did before shipping out is spending time with his family. He and Carol celebrated their son's 21st birthday together last Friday.

Harding said he's just about ready to go.

"I was anxious at first but more anxious for the people here, not for what I'm going to be doing because I think sometimes it's harder for the family than it is for the deployed soldier. It's lonely for the deployed soldier but that individual soldier is usually pretty busy and things are going on.

"They know what they are doing and they know they're safe from whatever they're doing most of the time but back here you're always wondering because you're seeing news reports, you're seeing TV, radio, whatever it is, and sometimes that makes families anxious."

Harding is in his 10th year as pastor of Bethany Church. The Rev. Gary Smothers will serve as pastor in Harding's absence. "He'll run the church and be the leader of the flock until I return, just as he did when I was in Kosovo."

He said he appreciates all the support his church family has given him as he prepares for his new mission.

"Bethany Church is the greatest church family that any pastor could have. They have been so supportive, so loving, so devoted. All of them have said 'don't worry about Carol and Bill' and if they need anything, we'll make sure they get it.

"Individuals here have said if there's anything that needs to be done at the house or if there are any problems whatsoever we'll make sure it's taken care of so I don't have to worry about what's going on back here."

Schuerch Corporation Receives $25,000 Expansion Loan

Quincy 2000 Collaborative recently provided a $25,000 business expansion loan to Schuerch Corporation now located at 48 Oval Road, Wollaston.

The company, formerly in Houghs Neck, designs, develops and manufactures surgical table accessories used by hospitals and outpatient surgery centers nationwide.

City officials joined Peter Schuerch, owner of the company, and Quincy 2000 Collaborative representatives at the check presentation.

Schuerch Corporation's product list includes over 75 accessories that optimize the position of the surgical patient, improve access to the surgical site, allowing the surgeon to perform the operating with extreme precision.

Quincy 2000 Collaborative provided the $25,000 business loan through the City of Quincy Community Development Block Grant Revolving Loan Program. The funding was used to help renovate the new location and purchase automated manufacturing equipment. In the 10 years that Peter Schuerch has headed Schuerch Corporation he has worked closely with Quincy 2000, which has granted him a total of three loans over the years. In all three instances the money was used towards working capital and product development.

"These loans were vital to us," Schuerch said. "Quincy 2000 has also helped with business planning all throughout the years."

Quincy 2000 Collaborative is the city's public/private partnership for economic development.

"Because the Schuerch Corporation met the job creation criteria, we were able to make Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) loan funds available for the renovations and equipment purchases," noted Dean Rizzo, executive director of Quincy 2000 Collaborative.

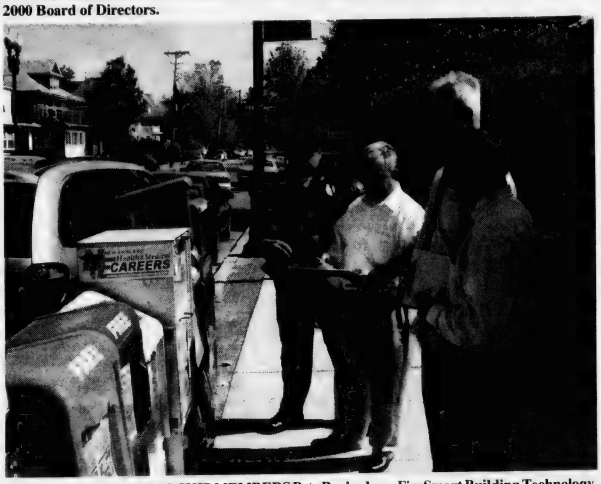
"This loan is another good example of the type of resources that the city, in partnership with Quincy 2000, is able to provide to help businesses grow and expand in our community," said Mayor William Phelan.

Quincy 2000 provides financing for Quincy businesses through the city's CDBG Revolving Loan Fund and by its own internal Loan Pool. The Loan Pool is a consortium of 11 area banks which has approximately $5 million available for business expansions, equipment purchases, start-up costs, and sign and facade improvements.

Participating banks in the Loan Pool consist of Asian American Bank, Bank of America, Century Bank, Citizens, Colonial Federal, Eastern, Rockland Trust, South Shore Co-operative, South Shore Savings, Sovereign and The Bank of Canton.

The company currently employs six people and is planning on hiring a few more people in the next couple of months.

"We now have a very competitive product line with a much stronger customer base," says Schuerch. "We also have a national sales force promoting the SchureMed brand name."



His future goals include simultaneously increasing the manufacturing capability and marketing efforts on a national level. None of this would be possible without the help of Quincy 2000.

"With limited manufacturing businesses remaining in the city it is important that we provide support and assistance to maintain this industry sector and the jobs they provide in the community," Rizzo said.

"We hope Peter's success continues, and that he remains a growing part of the Quincy business community."

'Economic Development Walk' Of Wollaston Business District

Representatives of the Wollaston Business Partnership, an economic development committee of Quincy 2000 Collaborative, recently conducted an "Economic Development Walk" of the Wollaston Business District.

The purpose was to survey the overall condition of the district's infrastructure and streetscapes. Items reviewed included the condition of sidewalks, signage, street plantings, parking amenities, public spaces, buildings and storefronts.

In addition, the committee began to establish a list of current businesses and vacant commercial properties, which will be helpful in the partnership's effort to attract new businesses to the district.

Overall the committee noted the city does "a very good job keeping the business district clean and safe." Items noted during the survey included some sidewalk repairs, tree plantings/pruning and other associated minor streetscape maintenance.

The committee also noted that updating and replacing the signs on some of the local businesses would make a positive impact to the overall aesthetics of the district.

Representatives from the Wollaston Business Partnership and Quincy 2000 will continue to work closely with Councillor Doug Gutro and the city administration to ensure the Wollaston Business District remains a vibrant part of the community fabric.

Ex-Quincy Residents In Storm Seek Aid From Old Home Town

Two former residents of Quincy, victims of Hurricane Katrina that devastated the Gulf Coast, have appealed to their old hometown for aid in helping to get their lives together.

Tony Alves is now an officer in the Gulfport, Miss., Police Department; his wife, the former Karen Marin, is stationed there in the Navy; and they have a 3-year-old son, Anthony.

Right now, their home in Gulfport is livable but they lost most of little Anthony's clothing (size 4 toddler) and most of Karen's possessions.

Any donations for the Alves family and other storm victims in Gulfport should be sent to the Gulfport Police, 2220 15th St., Gulfport, MS 39501.

Seasonal Safety Reminders From Electrical Safety Foundation

The Electrical Safety Foundation International (ESFI) has issued a safety checklist to remind everyone to keep electrical safety in mind during the change of seasons.

"This is the ideal time to use the cool weather electrical safety checklist to avoid potentially lethal electrical hazards," said Anne Mayberry, ESFI program manager.

The Foundation offers the following safety tips:

Outdoor Tools and Appliances

• Safely store warm weather tools like lawn mowers and trimmers. Check cold weather tools, such as leaf and snow blowers, along with their power cords, for unusual wear and tear. Repair or replace worn tools or parts right away.

• Unplug and safely store battery charges that won't be in use again until spring.

• Use only weatherproof electrical devices for outside activities. Protect outdoor electrical devices from moisture. Make sure electrical equipment that has been wet is inspected and reconditioned by a certified repair dealer.

• Keep dry leaves swept away from outdoor lighting, outlets and power cords.

Holiday Decorations and Costumes

• Ensure all holiday lighting and extension cords are in good repair, with no fraying, cracking or cuts, and are certified by an independent testing lab such as UL, CSA or ETL. Make sure they are rated appropriately, for indoor or outdoor use.

• Never connect more than three strands of decorative lights together. Make sure all connections are tight and protected from inclement weather, including the outlet. Unplug the lights from the outlet when not in use.

• Make sure spotlights used to highlight decorations are well-ventilated, protected from weather and are a safe distance from anything flammable, such as shrubs and bushes, dry leaves or fabric decorations.

• Keep power and extension cords out of pathways.

• Do not coil power cords or extension cords while in use. Do not tuck them under rugs, carpets or curtains. They may overheat, causing a fire hazard.

• Electricity and costumes do not mix. Wrapping yourself in holiday lights for a costume is asking for disaster.

Electric Blankets

• Make sure electric blankets are in good repair, certified by an independent testing lab such as UL, CSA or ETL. Power cords should not be frayed, cracked or cut.

• Do not tuck your electric blanket into mattresses or under children, and don't put anything on top of the blanket while in use, such as comforters or bedspreads.

• Never allow pets to sleep on the electric blanket.

For these and other related safety tips, visit the ESFI website at www.electrical-safety.org or call 703-841-3229.

Founded in 1994 through a joint effort between Underwriters Laboratories, Inc. (UL), the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) and the National Electrical Manufacturers Association (NEMA), the Electrical Safety Foundation International (ESFI) is North America's only non-profit organization dedicated exclusively to promoting electrical safety in the home and workplace.

Repairing Cracked Concrete

Q. Can you tell me the best way of sealing a crack in my concrete driveway? The crack extends the entire width of the driveway (which is about 9 1/2-feet wide) in a zigzag pattern. In three places, the crack is about 5 inches long and about 1 inch deep. The rest of the crack is about 1/4-inch wide or less and 1/4-inch deep or less. What is the best way to repair it, and what material do I use? Is the ready-made stuff that comes in a tube OK? — Ron, via e-mail

A. Concrete caulk (the ready-made stuff in a tube) is a good stopgap measure, but it is temporary at best. A better repair can be made by reserving a warm, dry afternoon and heading for the nearest home-improvement store for the following materials.

Purchase a wire brush (or a wire-wheel attachment for your power drill), a cold chisel and hand maul, a trowel and a cheap paintbrush. Then pick up enough vinyl-reinforced patching compound to fill the smaller parts of the crack, and a bottle of concrete bonding adhesive. For the larger cracks, you will likely need to use sand-mix concrete, plus some additional sand. If you're not sure about the amount, ask a sales representative in the concrete/mortar section; he or she will recommend just what you need for the repair.

Begin the repair by brushing away all loose debris, dirt and other material from the crack, using the wire brush. Then, take the cold chisel and carefully chisel out the larger parts of the crack, creating a backward-angled cut (one that is wider at the base than at the surface) on each side. Cracks that are 1/4-inch wide or less usually don't need chiseling. Brush the area again.

Tackle the smaller cracks with vinyl-reinforced patching compound, working in sections. Brush the cracks first with a thin layer of bonding adhesive, then trowel the compound in and feather it out on the surface.

The three larger cracks should be filled with sand to about 1/2-inch from the surface. Then, prepare the sand-mix concrete (mix small amounts by hand) according to directions and trowel into the crack, feathering it even with the surface. Allow the patches to dry and set for at least 24-48 hours before driving or walking on them. Cover with plastic if it rains during this time.

Keegan Issues Call For Full Day Kindergarten

School Committee candidate Joseph Keegan says he will seek the implementation of Full Day Kindergarten in the Quincy Public Schools.

Keegan cited a number of studies that have shown that students enrolled in full day programs make significant gains in both reading and mathematics when compared to students in half-day programs. Student behavior and readiness for first grade were also rated significantly higher for full-day children.

In one study undertaken with the cooperation of the Ohio Department of Education, the researchers analyzed two sets of data to study the effects of different kindergarten schedules (half-day, alternate day, full-day) and prior pre-school experience, he said. The results were consistent, indicating that full-day kindergarten is positively related to subsequent school performance, he said.

Positive effects were found for both standardized test performance and grade retention. The report notes further that there was no "interaction" with preschool attendance, that is, the positive effects of kindergarten were obtained for youngsters who had and those who had not attended preschool.

Keegan said that, in addition to academic performance, behavior data were collected for a sub sample of students who participated in the study. Significant differences favored full-day kindergarten children on all academic engagement scales and several of the social dimensions. The finding for academic engagement is particularly noteworthy given the importance of these behaviors for learning, and because they set the stage for behavior patterns and achievement over the years to come.

Keegan noted that nationwide, the level of enrollment in full day kindergarten has been steadily increasing since 1979, with over 60 per cent of kindergarten students currently enrolled in full day programs.

"The School Department budget has been steadily increasing and we need to find the resources to fund full-day kindergarten. which is already mandatory in nine states," Keegan said. "I understand that space and resources play a role in implementing this initiative but I feel that we owe it to our children to provide them with this opportunity."

Craig's Cafe Granted Beer, Wine License

Craig Bilowz, owner of Craig's Cafe, 1254 Hancock St., left the City Hall Chambers a happy man as the License Board Tuesday voted unanimously to give him a beer and wine license.

Bilowz, who has owned the business for nearly nine years told the board that with the "economic growth" in the city and more residents, he felt the need to expand his hours and his menu.

His hours of operation were from 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. But now he said his hours will be 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. Bilowz said he wasn't sure about the Saturday hours, but added he would not be open on Sundays.

Health Commissioner Drew Shceele, chairman for the meeting in the absence of Joseph Shea told Bilowz to have his employees be TIPS certified, while Police Chief Robert Crowley said "get an ID for anyone who looks under 30."

McNamee Wants Vehicle Engines Shut Off Near Schools

Brian McNamee, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 6, wants you to shut off your car's engine when it's standing still near schools in the interests of school children's health and, coincidentally, fuel conservation.

He has urged the city to apply for an anti-idling grant from the State Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to educate parents and school bus drivers of the dangers of motors idling near schools.

"Vehicle air pollution around the school yard poses a significant health risk for children," said McNamee.

"Toxins contained in the emissions of cars and especially diesel-powered buses pose tremendous risks to children because of the size of their developing airways and lungs.

"Exposure to air pollution is also a great threat to children because of children's higher respiratory rates.

"In and around the schoolyard and while in school buses children breathe in very fine particles of carbon and a number of toxic gases including a known carcinogen, Benzene.

"For those children who have allergies or asthma this is particularly harmful."

The Massachusetts legislature passed an anti-idling law in 1972, making it unlawful to permit your motor vehicle to idle for more than five minutes.

This also applies to a schoolyard setting where personal vehicles and schools buses both idle while picking up and dropping off youngsters.

The DEP supplies signs to post where cars and buses line up to remind operators to turn their motors off.

"I'm interested in the DEP's efforts in this area because, unlike other regulatory matters, to achieve success here very little is needed," said McNamee.

"All we need is education to increase levels of awareness and then a simple turn of an ignition switch to the off position."

Bond Issues Sought For Unfunded Pension Liabilites

The city plans to ask the state for permission to float a bond issue to pay for nearly $100 million in unfunded pension liabilities over the next more than 30 years.

The City Council unanimously approved a home rule petition for the state legislature. The Mayor has indicated he will approve, leaving only legislators and the governor to sign off.

"Then" said Council President Frank McCauley, "we as the Council have to sit down and examine our options. It is a complex thing. A lot of work has to be done."

The bond issue would pay off the pension liabilities that are now on the books at the Retirement Board and accrue considerable savings for the city.

The City Council would then have the difficult job of analyzing the investment portfolio and selecting one that would yield the highest to assist the funding for city retirees.

The home rule petition was sponsored by Councillor-at-large John Keenan and Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin. Similar legislation was proposed twice before by Keenan but they went nowhere.

Quarry Hills Fund At $245,000 For DPW

Quincy is beginning to show a profit from its financial pact with the Quarry Hills Golf Course.

Commissioner Stephen O'Donnell reported to the City Council Monday night that the Public Works Enhancement Fund, the city's cut of Quarry Hills' operating revenues, has reached a total of $245,000.

O'Donnell said the money is to be used to repave streets, many of which have been unrepaired for years, especially those near schools and busy intersections plagued by potholes.

New sidewalks will also be created.

The fund was begun in 2004 when a home rule petition dedicated 50 per cent of all revenues generated from operations of Quarry Hill to a special account for streets and sidewalks.

"Hopefully, in the years to come, that account will be built up and with other monies be used in the repair work which is extensive," said Council President Frank McCauley.

Russian Delegation Attends License Board Meeting

A delegation from Russia attended Tuesday's License Board meeting as Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner introduced the interpreter and tour guide Glen Buscher of Quincy.

As part of an exchange program, Buscher said it was an "Open World Program" to being people together and show them how our system works.

Sponsored by the Library of Congress, the trip was a reciprocal one in which Buscher said he and several others visited Russia in early April.

The group, which comes from Tomsk, Siberia consisted of eight included judges and law professors and two interpreters.

Buscher said Tomsk is the size of Boston and is a university center with as many colleges as we have in Boston. He said the population of Tomsk is about the same as Boston.

State Likely To Okay Renovations To QHS

pressed by the presentation.

"Basically, the latest report is one of no progress," he said, noting that the plan to expand Quincy High School goes back eight years to November, 1997. "We've got to get a shovel in the ground one of these days.

"My sense is that the state has committed to a certain amount of money (90 per cent reimbursement). If we change that plan and the plan is for more money, we would pay for the addition.

"But evidently they don't work that way. It is a situation that needs resolution as soon as possible. Sooner or later we have got to get to a point of agreement."

The School Committee's Jo-Ann Bragg said her School Building Needs Subcommittee has been feeding information to the SBA and hopes to get approval soon, which would lock in the 90 per cent reimbursement.

The School Committee voted Monday not to endorse the Faxon Field site with its six-story building but okay a plan to renovate 15 per cent of the present high school and build a new addition.

The building, said Bragg, would be a comprehensive Quincy High School, which would include the Technical Training Center, built in phases so as not to disturb the students.

The renovation plan would leave Central Middle School an orphan since it was to have occupied the high school building when the upperclassmen were schedule to move to Faxon Field.

Bragg said the School Committee still does not have a location for a new Central Middle School, except that it should include a regulation track to replace the one that could not be fitted into the renovated Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Residents Urged To Take Precautions Against Mosquitos

Scheele urged Quincy residents finding dead birds to call the State Department of Public Health at 1-866-627-7968 or the Quincy Department of Health at 617-376-1273 to forward to the state.

Reports of dead birds are used by the state to track potential WNV activity in Massachusetts and help direct additional bird, mosquito and human surveillance efforts.

West Nile Virus attacks primarily birds but it can be transmitted to human by the bite of a mosquito. There is no evidence that birds or any mammal can transmit WNV directly to humans.

The City Health Department recommends that persons finding and reporting dead birds call the city's Animal Control Office for proper disposal.

If you have to dispose of it yourself, do not touch the bird with your bare hands. Use double plastic bags. Once it is bagged, the bird may be put in the trash. Wash hands with soap and water.

Protective measures against WNV should include:

• Avoid outdoor activities at dawn and dusk when mosquitoes are most active. If you must be outdoors, wear long-sleeved shirts and long pants and use a mosquito repellent that contains DEET.

• Cover up the arms and legs of children playing outdoors near swampy areas.

• When outdoors, cover babies' playpens or carriages with mosquito netting. Don't camp overnight near freshwater swamps.

• When camping outdoors in tents in other areas, make sure your tent is equipped with mosquito netting.

• Fix any holes in screens and make sure they are tightly attached to all doors and windows. Inspect weather stripping around all doors.

• Take care to eliminate standing pools of water where mosquitoes can breed.

Members of the City Health Department staff are available to answer any WNV or mosquito control questions. Call 617-376-1273.

Scheduled Power Outages In Downtown Area said some buildings will have vaults inside.

Included in the first phase will be the area of 1500 to 1600 Hancock St. On the East side of Hancock St. this is the area bounded by Revere Rd. to Cottage Ave. And on the West side from Quincy Fair Mall to 1513 Hancock St.

The second phase will be from Cottage Ave. to 1438 Hancock St. on the East side and then from 1509 to 1435 Hancock St. on the West side.

Adams said there will be a minimum of two outages while the workers are changing the system and take about four hours each.

The company, he said will work during off hours mostly after midnight so as not to interrupt businesses.

However, he said workers will work inside the building during the day bringing in equipment to be used.

Owners will be given ample notice for the project which Adams said will take from the rest of this month to mid October, and then from October to November weather permitting.

In the event of inclement weather, Adams said they would continue in the Spring of 2006.

Marilin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association, asked if the work will include on street construction. Adams said other then the trucks parked on the street taking three or four parking spaces, no street will be closed during work.

Adams said when businesses are notified, all computers and equipment should be shut off not necessarily unplugged. In many cases the equipment needed to be replaced are in the basements of the buildings.

Asked what benefit the new system would be, Adams said if an outage occurred, Mass Electric could not enter the building in the wee hours of the morning, because the doors would be locked. He said with the new system , the company could fix the outage from the vaults which will be on the sidewalk.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro said although the project will cause an "inconvenience and be disruptive", it is much needed. He said during the year there were about 12 outages affecting Wollaston and part of Quincy Center.

Foam Rollers Are Flexibility Aid

Q. My gym has large tubes of hard foam for members to use. I see the personal trainers having their clients roll back and forth on them in different positions. Why are they used?

A. The tubes of foam you see at the gym are called "foam rollers." Foam rollers are normally used for a stretching technique called self myofascial release. Self myofascial release is used as part of a corrective flexibility program designed to improve muscle imbalances and limited joint movement, and to help the body achieve an optimal level of function.

The National Academy of Sports Medicine describes self myofascial release as "a flexibility technique where muscles are rolled over a cylindrical piece of foam, using body pressure to massage micro-adhesions in the fibrous tissue that surrounds and separates muscle tissue."

This stretching technique uses your body weight on the foam roller to apply light pressure to major muscle groups such as quadriceps, iliotibial band (outside of legs), hamstrings, calves, adductors and latissimus (upper back). Pressure is applied to an area where you feel an adhesion or knot, and should be held for 20 to 30 seconds. Initially this form of stretching may feel uncomfortable, but over time it should become easier as you begin to improve muscle adhesions.

As with any other type of exercise, this form of stretching should be part of a progressive flexibility, strength and cardiovascular training program, but it may not be right for everyone. Self myofascial release is not recommended on injury areas, for anyone who cannot safely support themselves in the proper stretching positions or for anyone with osteoporosis or other medical conditions that may be irritated by this type of stretching.

For safety, be sure to consult a fitness or medical professional for the proper self myofascial release techniques. Foam rolling should not be done over the spine, neck or joints, which makes it important to learn the proper way of completing this form of exercise before beginning.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. October Is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month

Guidelines For The Early Detection Of Breast Cancer

October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Breast Cancer is the most common form of cancer among American women, excluding skin cancer. Breast cancer accounts for 30% of all cancers in women.

In 2005, an estimated 211,240 new cases will be diagnosed in the United States and approximately 40,410 women will die from the disease.

During National Breast Cancer Awareness Month this October, the American Cancer Society continues to educate all women about guidelines for prevention and early detection. Although there is currently no way to eliminate all risk of breast cancer, a woman can reduce certain modifiable risk factors.

To reduce these controllable factors, women should be physically active, consume a healthful diet, reduce alcohol intake, maintain a healthy body weight, and not smoke. There is not yet a way to prevent breast cancer, but early detection greatly improves treatment options, the chance for successful treatments, and survival.

The American Cancer Society's guidelines for the early detection of breast cancer are:

• Yearly mammograms are recommended starting at age 40 and continuing for as long as a woman is in good health. Women age 40 or older, with no health insurance or insurance that does not cover mammograms, may receive a free mammogram through the Breast and Cervical Cancer Early Detection Program. For information on free mammograms, call 1-800-ACS-2345.

• Clinical Breast Exam should be part of a periodic health exam, about every three years for women in their 20s and 30s, and every year for women 40 and older.

• Women should know how their breasts normally feel and report any breast change promptly to their health care provider. Breast Self Exam is an option for women starting in their 20s.

• Women at increased risk (e.g., family history, genetic tendency, past breast cancer) should talk with their doctors about the benefits and limitations of starting mammography screening earlier, having additional tests (i.e., breast ultrasound and MRI), or having more frequent exams.

For more information about local resources and support programs regarding breast cancer, call 1-800-ACS-2345 or visitwww.cancer.org.

The American Cancer Society is a nationwide, community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem through research, education, advocacy, and service.

Laser Therapy

By DR. CHRISTINE HUBER

What is Cold Laser Therapy? Cold Laser, otherwise known as Low Level Laser, is a form of light therapy.

All light has an effect on the cells of the human body. Cold Laser is light at the 635 nm frequency. Light applied at the 635 nm wavelength assists healing. It improves the body's ability to heal and repair tissues while restoring neurological function.

Cold Laser has been shown to speed healing of muscle injuries by up to 50 percent. It is highly effective in decreasing the pain associated in nerve problems such as carpal tunnel syndrome. The treatments are simple and painless, each taking about three minutes.

Cold Laser works so well because the near-infrared light emitted by them seems perfect for increasing energy inside cells. This boost in energy accelerates healing. Beams of red light produced by the laser penetrate the body to increase blood flow, normalize soft cell tissue and stimulate the production of ATP, the energy of the cell to promote quicker, more natural healing.

Any person can benefit from Cold Laser Therapy. There are no contraindications or age limits to receiving Cold Laser Therapy. It can not be pointed into the eyes, directly to the thyroid or at a fetus. Lasers used for tissue stimulation have insufficient strength to damage cells.

While some people get immediate results, others require three to six applications before they notice a lasting effect. The total number of treatments required is usually six to 20. Each person responds differently according to his or her own healing rate.

It is recommended that you come in daily for the first three visits followed by two to three times per week until the tissue is resolved.

For more information about Cold Laser Therapy, call Dr. Christine Huber, Community Chiropractic, PC, 14B Alleyne St., Quincy, at 617-689-0440 or e-mail drhuber@verizon.net.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

RAISIN AWARENESS

Dentists often tell their patients that raisins pose a greater threat to dental health than chocolate because chocolate quickly melts in the mouth and raisins stick to tooth surfaces. Now, new research shows that, as sweet and sticky as raisins are, they contain compounds that suppress the bacteria responsible for cavities and gum disease. This finding does not necessarily mean that people who eat raisins have healthier mouths. However, raisins do contain five phytochemicals (compounds found in plants) that can be beneficial to teeth and gums. They are the antioxidants oleanolic acid, oleanolic aldehyde, betulin, betulinic acid, and 5-(hydroxymethyl)-2-furfural. Oleanolic acid slows the growth of a bacterium that causes cavities and another that causes periodontal (gum) disease.

Preserving teeth is an important consideration for all of us. You'll greatly reduce your risk for dental disease if you have regular checkups and practice meticulous home care. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, we're currently accepting new patients and welcome your call at 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Our professional, friendly staff helps make sure all patients' dentistry needs are met, and we'll make sure your comfortable throughout your visit, and informed as well. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. According to the research mentioned above, oleanolic acid was also found to stop cavity-causing bacteria from sticking to tooth surfaces, which prevents them from forming plaque.

Drop 20-8 Decision To Hingham

Presidents Seek First Win At Falmouth Friday

By CHRIS POISSON

FOOTBALL

The Quincy High School football team — despite the inclement weather, penalties, fumbles, dropped passes and ineffective running game — still had a chance to win last Friday night's season opener against Hingham at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Down 14-8, the Presidents' defense took the field with 6:34 left to try to get the ball back. Although the Harbormen committed five penalties on their drive, the Presidents had no answer for tailback Mike Perkins.

The senior captain, who hounded Quincy all night with 123 yards and two touchdowns on nine carries, converted third- and fourth-down plays to keep the drive alive, setting up Ben Hagstrom's deflating 5-yard TD run with 2:23 left to seal Hingham's 20-8 victory.

"I'm disappointed we lost the game but hardly discouraged," said head coach Bob Noble. "We had an opportunity to win the game. They're a good football team. We needed to be more consistent. We're not a bad football team. When it's all said and done, we'll be fine."

Quincy will try to bounce back tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 when it travels to Falmouth. Last year it suffered a 32-0 loss at home to the Clippers, who graduated 20 of 22 starters.

One area the Presidents need to improve against Falmouth is their running game, particularly on first-down plays. They faced numerous third-and-long plays and although they connected on several of them, it's not a recipe for success.

Junior quarterback Matt Boyle completed 8-of-21 passes for 168 yards and a touchdown. Four of those completions gained 135 yards on third- and fourth-down plays. Senior captain and tailback Everton DeCastro led the team with 40 yards on 17 carries and junior slot back Tom Hazelhurst rushed for 17 yards.

"We have to run the ball better, particularly on first down," Noble said. "We can't be in second- and third-and-long situations and have to make big plays, which we did. We have to more consistent on first down, gaining positive yards. I'd like to see us do that against Falmouth."

Hingham scored on the first possession of the game, running for 47 yards on 10 plays, capped by Perkins' 3-yard scamper off left tackle for a 6-0 lead with 3:57 left in the quarter.

The Presidents went three-and-out on their possession, but quickly got the ball back when junior middle linebacker Camillo Arredondo recovered a Hingham fumble on its first play of the next series.

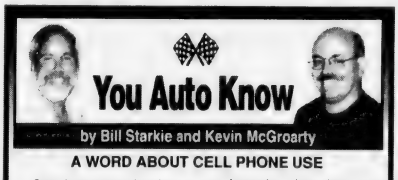
With solid field position at the Hingham 26, Quincy couldn't capitalize as Boyle threw incomplete on a fourth-and-goal from the 2.

"We were inside their 10-yard line twice and came away with nothing," Noble said. "We can't let a team off the hook like that and it cost us. It's frustrating in that regard."

On Hingham's series, Quincy's defense cranked it up and got two points when a gang of Presidents, led by senior captain and outside linebacker Dan Neenan, sacked quarterback Neil Creahan in the end zone for a safety with 10 minutes left in the half.

The Harbormen increased their lead to 14-2 when Perkins darted down the right sideline and ran over a defender for a 71-yard TD with 5:31 remaining. Hingham rushed for the 2-point conversion.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Presidents scored their first touchdown of the season with 6:41 left in the game. On fourth-and-7, Boyle eluded a sack and found senior first-year wideout Matt Giordani wide open for a 37-yard score. The 2-point conversion pass failed and Quincy trailed, 14-8.



On Hingham's next series, Perkins killed any chance of a Quincy comeback. First, he picked up a huge first down with a 17-yard run on third-and-12 from his own 35-yard line. And on fourth-and-13 from the Quincy 29, he tossed a half-back option pass to wideout Bill Monahan for 24 yards to the 5-yard line. Hagstrom scored on the next play.

"Defensively, we played well," Noble said. "They had that first drive and didn't do much after that. Perkins is a very good football player, as good as we'll see all year. He broke that long one that hurt us. I was disappointed we gave up that half-back option pass. It was blown coverage by our defensive backs."

A WORD ABOUT CELL PHONE USE

Over the past two decades, car manufacturers have taken very significant steps to develop technologies and equipment that help ensure the safety of drivers, their passengers, and pedestrians. The goal is to make sure that everyone drives safely. With this in mind, we must point to a recent Australian study that says that drivers distracted by cell phone conversations quadruple their risk of a serious accident. The University of Sydney study also found that hands-free mobile phones are no safer than hand-held mobile phones while driving. Certainly, being able to communicate by phone while driving is a huge convenience to many, but we strongly urge that you keep your mind focused on the most important task at hand – driving.

At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO we are focused on the safety on our customers, and when you come to 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree with your car, we guarantee any work done, will be work done safely. Try pulling over when you use your cell phone, and if you happen to be driving when you need great auto repair or maintenance pull over and call us at 781-843-1550. Regular check ups on your car's health ensure safety. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." We are your local source for propane for grills, motor homes, and converted vehicles.

HINT: While taking your eyes off the road to tune the radio or answer the cell phone is a physical distraction, even the distraction of conversing with another person is enough of a mental distraction to compromise driving safety.

Red Raiders Open League Play Friday Night Here

The North Quincy High School football team dropped a 24-0 decision to Scituate last Saturday in its home opener at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

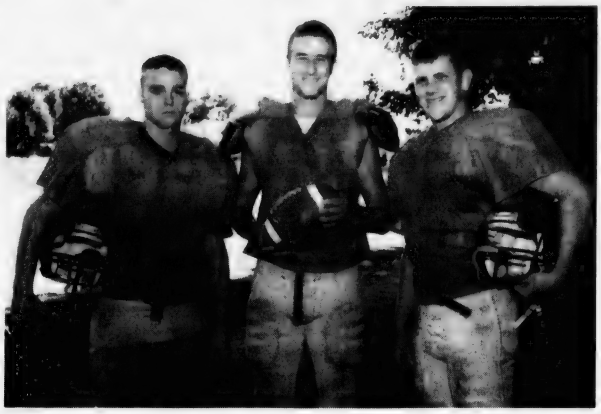
Like the season-opening loss to Boston Latin, the Red Raiders continued to make mistakes at the most inopportune times.

They marched into the red zone three times, coughing the ball over twice and committing a penalty on a third-and-short that led to a missed field goal.

"It was another frustrating game," said head coach Bill Shaughnessy. "Again, we had a lot of penalties, a couple of fumbles, a couple of interceptions. Turnovers killed us. These are things we need to clean up during practice."

North Quincy (0-2) will try to sharpen its game tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium when it opens Atlantic Coast League play against Sandwich, which is coming off a 31-0 loss to Duxbury.

It appeared the Red Raiders would be in for a long day when they reached the red zone on their first drive only to fumble the ball away.



Tailback Colby Hawkins scored a touchdown to give Scituate a 7-0 lead at halftime. In the third quarter, the Sailors added a safety for a 9-0 lead when North Quincy snapped the ball into the end zone on a punt attempt.

On their next series, the Red Raiders drove to the Scituate 6-yard line but came away with no points. They were plagued by an offsides penalty on third-and-1 and ended up missing a field goal.

Scituate turned the ball over on the ensuing possession, but it made up for the mistake when Gary Crowley picked off a North Quincy pass and returned it 80 yards for a score. In the fourth quarter, Hawkins added another touchdown and Scituate tacked on the 2-point conversion to close out the scoring.

"We shot ourselves in the foot," Shaughnessy said. "We have to learn how to win. We get so close and then we mentally break down."

Senior tri-captain Kyle Costa and junior Chris Tufo ran the ball well and Benson Luc did a solid job of returning punts and kicks. Defensively, senior defensive tackle Anthony Walsh, sophomore middle linebacker Terrence Silby and Costa, a defensive back, played well.

North Quincy Girls' Soccer Off To Solid Start

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team is off to a blistering start to the 2005 campaign.

The Red Raiders have gone 2-0-1 through three non-league games, outscoring their opponents by an average of 5-1. They've already netted 15 goals, compared to the 34 totaled in 22 games a year ago.

"We're clicking very well offensively," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "Our midfield has been dominating and we've been able to finish better this year."

North Quincy cruised to an 8-1 home victory over Medford last Wednesday, battled Brockton to a 1-1 tie in the Sept. 12 home opener at Teal Field and opened the season with a 6-1 triumph at Boston Latin Sept. 9.

North Quincy, which played Plymouth South Tuesday, will travel to Whitman-Hanson today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. and host Boston Latin Friday at 4 p.m. Next week, it hosts Plymouth North Monday at 4 p.m. and Quincy Wednesday at 5 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Red Raiders, with nine returning players, are looking to make it back to the state tournament for the ninth consecutive season.

"Our goal is to qualify and make noise in the tournament and make another run at the Atlantic Coast League championship," Bregoli said. "We finished second last year."

In the Medford game, sophomore midfielder Emily Milone put North Quincy on the board 10 minutes in on a feed from junior midfielder Jillian Benn. The ACL all-star missed a chance three minutes earlier when she was stuffed on a breakaway.

Senior quad-captain Annmarie Campanale converted a beautiful pass from senior defender Roberta Phelan, senior quad-captain Caitlyn McCleary netted her third of the year with an assist from senior quad-captain Lindsey Clifford and junior defender Allison Russell tallied her first varsity goal on a cross from junior defender Tara Whooley for a 4-0 advantage.

"They were playing flat on the back," Bregoli said. "We found the gaps in their defense and sent kids through. They couldn't keep up with us up front."

Medford scored late in the first half. And just before the whistle, junior goalie Kristin Reamer made a nice leaping save but caught an elbow from a Medford player and landed hard. Senior Kelly Barden replaced her for the remainder of the game.

In the second half, junior midfielder Lauren Stille took a pass from McCleary and drilled a shot to the left corner. Clifford notched her fourth assist of the season when Stille headed home her corner kick for a 6-1 lead.

Sophomore forward Mary Kate Stille, who missed last season with a torn ACL, added a goal with an assist from senior midfielder Jen Petitti, and Stille returned the favor as Petitti collected her first varsity goal to close out the scoring.

Against Brockton, North Quincy's best chance in the first half came off the foot of sophomore forward Paige Bonanni, who nearly tucked a Lauren Stille cross in the far corner.

Brockton came out in the second half determined to score first. However, after Campanale's breakaway attempt was stuffed, Emily Milone took a pass from Campanale, beat two defenders and placed the ball past the diving Boxer keeper.

North Quincy's defense, led by junior ACL all-star Bridget Coleman, Melissa Mendall, Phelan and Whooley, kept the visitors off the board until six minutes left when an errant clearing pass was picked off by Jackie Wysocky and was lofted past Reamer. Reamer (12 saves) had made a spectacular airborne safe five minutes earlier.

With 17 seconds left, North Quincy had a golden opportunity when Clifford's free kick from 40 yards got behind the defense but was shot at the Boxer keeper.

"We played a tough game," Bregoli said. "The two teams were evenly matched, although I thought we had the better scoring chances."

In the Boston Latin game, Campanale opened the scoring 15 minutes in, knocking a pass from Clifford past the Latin keeper. Senior quad-captain Lauren Milone then took a cross from Coleman and buried a shot from 12 yards out for her eighth career goal.

Mary Kate Stille made it 3-0 as Petitti played the ball in front where Stille put it in for her first varsity goal. Lauren Stille took a Russell feed and deposited it top corner. McCleary then tallied two second-half goals with Clifford assisting on the second.

Playing well for the Red Raiders were junior midfielder Keriann Cabral and seniors Deirdre Kilcullen (midfielder), Allison Griffith (defender) and Alexa-Gail Jasey (midfielder).

Rounding out the squad are seniors Katherine Andreosatos (midfielder) and Katie Anderson (forward), junior midfielders Natalie Djerf and Megan Therrien, sophomore defender Kerry Coughlin and freshman forward Amy Carchedi.

"We had an excellent preseason, going 3-1 in scrimmages which included an impressive 5-2 win over Division 1 power Rockland," Bregoli said. "Varsity assistant Pete Coleman, back from Iraq, suggested we try McCleary at forward. McCleary had seven goals in the preseason.

"We needed to blend a very inexperienced group of defenders during the preseason as only Coleman is back. Mendall, Phelan, Whooley, Coughlin and Griffith all looked good and I feel we'll be OK back there.

"Our strength is in the midfield where Milone, Clifford, Benn, Stille, Cabral, Andreosatos and Therrien all can play at a high level. Milone, who led the 2004 team in scoring and was a second team All-EMass pick, should shine. She and Clifford work well together. Our forwards have also looked strong."

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Sunday, Sept. 11 at approximately 10:18 a.m., Officer Michael Duran and Officer Paul Pieper were dispatched to Copeland Street in West Quincy to investigate an unarmed robbery call.

LT. DAN MINTON

Dispatcher Kristen Bowes informed the officers that an elderly woman had her purse taken from her as she was walking. When the officers arrived, they learned that two citizens had chased and apprehended the suspect in the area of 55 Hall Place.

The officers located the two citizens and other bystanders holding the suspect down. They told Officer Duran that they were driving in the "300" block of Copeland Street, when they saw a man walk up from behind the elderly woman, grab her pocketbook and then flee on Hall Place toward Quarry St.

One witness, Quincy resident Rocky Northon (with permission) said that he saw the crime occur and followed the suspect, then chased the suspect, yelling at him to drop the purse and stop running. He said that he caught the suspect coming out of the woods after a brief struggle. With help from bystanders, they held down the suspect until police arrived.

The second witness, Quincy resident Jared Hemmila (with permission) said he was driving down the street when he saw the suspect take the purse and heard the elderly woman screaming and pointing. He said that he followed the suspect down the road until the suspect cut through a yard. Hemmila then jumped out and gave chase through yards, which results in the suspect running into Northon.

Officer Duran interviewed the victim, a 75-year-old Quincy resident, who stated that she bent over to pick something up when the suspect came up from behind and took the purse off her left shoulder, then fled. She said that she was not injured, only frightened. She added that she only saw the back of the suspect.

The victim was brought to the scene where the suspect was being held, and although she could not identify him as the thief, she was able to confirm that the purse recovered from him by the two citizens was in fact hers. Officer Duran placed the suspect under arrest for "unarmed robbery."

This case shows that the police are truly in partnership with the community. The police cannot operate effectively without the public's help. People like Rocky Northon and Jared Hemmila are cornerstones of a safe community, stepping up and taking notice.

Nice work!

This incident was unfortunate but could have been much worse. Often times, victims of purse snatchings instinctively grab onto their bag and are then dragged to the ground or assaulted. In these situations, it is better to give up your possession than your well-being.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Couldn't it be said that there is greatness all around us – if we only had eyes to see it? Couldn't it be said that frequently the potentially great people are not outstanding in any way?

The baby a mother holds in her arms may be a leader in the world in some future decade. . . The businessman who knows how to get along with people and bring contending groups together is a person marked for recognition and praise in future years.

Couldn't it be said that greatness is not primarily a matter either of birth or position – it is a matter of sincerity, honesty and generosity? There is a lot more greatness is our midst that we are able to see or willing to admit as greatness. The time to be great is right now. The way to be great is to do little things in a great fashion.

Heads of State all over the world are people of importance and influence – but not all of them are great. There are great people occupying thrones and people even greater who are seldom out of the kitchen or the office. It would be wonderful if the scales were to drop from our eyes and we would behold greatness as it manifests itself around us.

Couldn't it be said that the place to be great is where we happen to be? The time to be great is right now. . .

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Personal matters claim a good deal of the Lamb's time in the early part of the week. But by midweek, pragmatic considerations (work, school, job-seeking, etc.) begin to take priority.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The seasonal shift ignites the Bovine's creative aspects. You could do well if you try to combine your penchant for innovation with the more pragmatic demands of the week.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Ideas come easily to you this week. And never mind that some might suggest they're unworkable and/or impractical. It's your vision that counts. Work them out and see what turns up.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Personal matters continue to dominate the early part of the week. By midweek, more workaday issues once again begin to emerge. Balance your time to give both the attention they need.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A new contact could provide an expanded opportunity. But be sure you get all the facts before you consider signing on. Ask questions, and be wary if you don't get the right answers.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) An unexpected development could cause some supposedly resolved disagreements to reignite. Deal with the situation before it leads to some really serious problems.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A clash of work-linked viewpoints needs to be discussed openly, honestly and calmly by all concerned before it can impede progress on an ongoing project.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) The Scorpion's pragmatic side helps you accept the possibility that a change of plans might be the wise thing to do. Be sure to weigh all your considerations carefully.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Some people might not take no for an answer. Never mind. Keep your resolve if you're sure you don't want to be involved in a potentially sticky situation.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) All other facts and figures aside, it's what you learn about potential colleagues that can be most helpful in assessing any decisions you're likely to make regarding a new project.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You might want to reconsider some of your outside commitments if they continue to demand more time than you can spare. Be honest with yourself when making a decision.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Pay attention to that inner voice of Piscean wisdom counseling you to remove those rose-colored glasses and take an honest look at any decisions you might face this week.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a penchant for persuasion that would make you a fine candidate for a political career.

MORE THAN 1,000 took part in the Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk. Here many of them listen to speakers before starting the walk.

breast cancer services at QMC for uninsured and underinsured South Shore women.

Robert "Bob" Curry, founder of the Marie A. Curry Fund and chairman of the QMC Board of Trustees, said, "It was time to take our efforts to the next level to ensure that South Shore men, as well as women, have access to advanced, high quality detection and treatment for a full range of cancers."

This year's walk drew support and volunteers from nearly every facet of South Shore business, civic, religious, educational and social organizations. Curry was joined by Henry "Hank" Bradley, director of Quincy Veterans' Services, as honorary co-chairs of this year's walk. In addition, major corporate sponsors for the walk included:

Presenting Sponsors ($10,000): South Shore Savings Bank, Granite Links Golf Club at Quarry Hills, Curry Ace Hardware.

Leadership Sponsors ($7,500): Boston Medical Center.

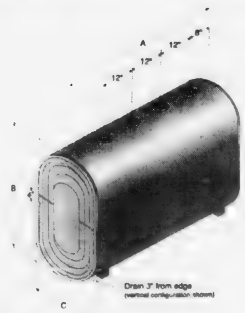
Supporting Sponsors ($5,000): Commonwealth Building, Inc., Eastern Bank.

Contributing Sponsors ($2,500): Aslanis Seafoods, Inc., Dunkin' Donuts, 388 East Squantum St., Quincy, Fallon Ambulance Service, Quincy Rehabilitation and Nursing Center.

In addition, 62 other area businesses contributed at sponsorship levels ranging from $1,500, $750 and $350 as well as many in-kind contributions.

In addition to the four-mile seaside walk, largely along Quincy Shore Drive, walkers enjoyed a full day of family festivities, including pre-walk aerobics, post-walk massage therapy courtesy of Bay State Physical Therapy, breakfast donated by four area Dunkin' Donuts, lunch donated by Outback Steakhouse and musical entertainment by DJ Suzie Cue. Building on the walk's family-friendly mission, the Freemasons of Massachusetts offered their Child Identification Program (CHIP) for parents of young children.

Each year, a moving feature of the walk is a striking visual tribute, known as the "Images of Honor and Memory." This tribute culminates in the creation of a dramatic, endless path of pink, white and blue containers that fill the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater in Merrymount Park and represent the many South Shore individuals and families who have been touched by cancer.



MEMBERS OF THE Quincy and North Quincy High School Interact Clubs sponsored by Quincy Rotary walked as a team.

"This tribute provides a quiet, reflective space for families and friends to pause and remember a loved one who has been lost or who is battling cancer," said the Rev. Esther Bowen, director of pastoral care at QMC.

Donations for the QMC Cancer Walk are still being accepted and can be sent to the QMC Development Office, 114 Whitwell St., Quincy, MA 02169.

They're Seeing Double At St. Joseph School

Folks who visit St. Joseph School in Quincy Point can't be blamed if they think they're seeing double.

There are three sets of twins in the kindergarten — Jacob and Zachary Walsh of Quincy, Madison and Lindsay Brodeur of Weymouth and Celia and Olivia Hussey of East Bridgewater.

And that's not all!

There's another set of twins in the second grade — Rachel and Ashley McManus of Quincy.

And that's still not all!

There's yet fifth set of twins on the staff — Sister Thomas Aquinas, school librarian and religion teacher for many years, was joined recently by her twin, Sister Mary Regan.

Phelan Sees 'Dramatic And Positive Change'

Forum Saturday On Quincy Center Revitalization

By TOM HENSHAW

The second and final conceptual forum on a plan to revitalize downtown Quincy will be held Saturday, Oct. 1, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Quincy High School.

"We should have something to file with the City Council in October or November," said Planning Director Dennis Harrington. "We know where we're going. We need final input from citizens."

The Saturday meeting, known to urban planners as a "charrette," will bring together consultants who have been working on the project for a year with city officials and the public to exchange ideas.

""This is a great opportunity for our residents to have a direct impact on the face of our downtown," said Mayor William Phelan.

"Make no mistake, we are on the doorstep of dramatic and positive change in Quincy Square and its environs.

"We are about to make the dreams of the last 30 years a reality."

Speakers scheduled to open the charrette between 9 and 10:30 a.m., include Phelan, Harrington, Christine Scott and David Dixon of Goody, Clancy & Associates, Robert Quinn, a Quincy planner; and Richard Bryant of Rizzo & Associates.

Groups of participants will spin off between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to consider community design and how best to infuse the city's character into future mixed user development and public space improvement projects.

Health Dept. Urges Precautions

County Ends Mosquito Spraying For Season

Norfolk County Mosquito Control has suspended its spraying program for the season due to the arrival of cooler temperatures.

"The ultra low volume (ULV) machines that they use can't be used during the cool weather," said Drew Scheele, the commissioner of Public Health.

The program, whose final day of spraying in Quincy was scheduled for today (Thursday) from 2 to 5 a.m., will resume next Memorial Day, May 31.

Scheele had nothing to report from the West Nile Virus (WNV) front since a dead crow found in Squantum was identified as WNV-positive on Sept. 14.

But he urged Quincy residents to be on the lookout for dead birds, chiefly crows and buejays, and report them to the State Department of Public Health.

The virus that can infect humans through mosquitoes has been found in dead birds in Milton, Brookline and Needham in Norfolk County.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Health Department recommends several precautions to take to avoid being infected by a mosquito bite.

• Avoid outdoor activities at dawn and dusk when mosquitoes are most active.

• If you must be outdoors, wear long-sleeved shirts, long pants and use mosquito repellent that contains DEET and follow the directions on the label. Repellents are not recommended for use on infants.

• Cover up the arms and legs of children playing outdoors near swampy areas.

• When outdoors, cover babies' playpens or carriages with mosquito netting.

Quincy Cares Campaign:

City Reaches $100,000 For Katrina Victims

Quincy has reached the $100,000 mark in its goal to raise $1 million to aid Jefferson Parish, La., hard hit by the onslaught of Hurricane Katrina.

The campaign, known as "Quincy Cares," got a big boost from several large donations in the past few days.

Among them:

• Granite City Electric employees: $12,358.30.

• Daniel J. Flynn, owner of a Quincy real estate and property management firm who proposed the Quincy Cares campaign, $5,000.

• Braintree developer Tom Flatley, $5,000.

• Scott and Sean Galvin of the Galvin Construction Company of Quincy, $5,000.

• The Quincy Rotary Club, $5,000.

Gary Gibbons, MD, Named QMC President, CEO

The Board of Trustees at Quincy Medical Center announces Gary Gibbons, MD, has been appointed president and chief executive officer of the 232-bed community teaching hospital.

"I am honored to be entrusted with leading Quincy Medical Center, which is a true jewel among Massachusetts community hospitals," said Dr. Gibbons. "QMC has an excellent medical staff that provides the highest quality care with a patient-centered approach. I look forward to continuing to work with our community physicians and staff and the Quincy community in building the finest hospital south of Boston."

A nationally recognized leader in the field of diabetic and vascular surgery, Dr. Gibbons was appointed interim president and CEO in May and had previously served as the hospital's chief of surgery.

"We are delighted that Dr. Gibbons is assuming this new role," said Robert "Bob" Curry, chairman of the Quincy Medical Center Board of Trustees. "His clinical and leadership skills and commitment to quality patient care will be a tremendous asset as we continue to move Quincy Medical Center forward as a regional leader in providing advanced, high quality health care."

GARY GIBBONS, MD

Dr. Gibbons joined QMC in 2000 through the hospital's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center (BMC) and Boston University School of Medicine (BUSM). He is executive director of BMC Foot Care Specialists, a multi-disciplinary practice specializing in the prevention and treatment of diabetic wound and foot problems. He also is a member of BMC Surgical Associates, a multi-specialty group of surgeons who practice at QMC, and a professor of surgery at BUSM.

"Having had the opportunity to interact with Dr. Gibbons, over the past few months, I am delighted to hear that he has agreed to be President and CEO of Quincy Medical Center," said Quincy Mayor William Phelan. "The fact that Quincy Medical Center has attracted such an accomplished individual speaks volumes for the medical center's bright future and the Quincy community, at large."

Dr. Gibbons received his medical degree from the University of Cincinnati and completed his surgical residency at BMC and New England Deaconess Hospital. During his career at New England Deaconess Hospital and the Joslin Diabetes Center, Dr. Gibbons pioneered many of the current treatment approaches for diabetic patients with lower extremity problems.

A board-certified general and vascular surgeon, he is an international lecturer on the subject of diabetic foot and vascular surgery and has published several articles in clinical journals and book chapters on the subjects.

Quincy Medical Center (www.quincymc.org) is a 232-bed acute care community-teaching hospital providing South Shore residents with comprehensive medical and surgical services.

The medical center's Alliance for Quality with Boston Medical Center (BMC), formed in 1999, brings academic medicine to the community. At Quincy Medical Center, physicians from Boston Medical Center direct the departments of medicine, surgery, anesthesia, emergency medicine, and psychiatry.

Additionally, physicians from BMC who are board-certified in a range of medical and surgical specialties work with community physicians to ensure the continuity of patient care.

McGlone Top Fundraiser

School Candidates File Finance Reports

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The six candidates nominated in the school preliminary election share another common trait: a knack for raising money.

According to campaign finance reports filed with the city's election department, the top six vote getters raised considerable cash prior to the Sept. 13 preliminary, with one candidate clearly the frontrunner.

Celeste McGlone, 55 Dixwell Ave., who finished second in Tuesday's preliminary, reported receipts of $31,270 from June 1 to Sept. 6. She listed $17,687.19 in expenditures with an ending balance of $13,582.81.

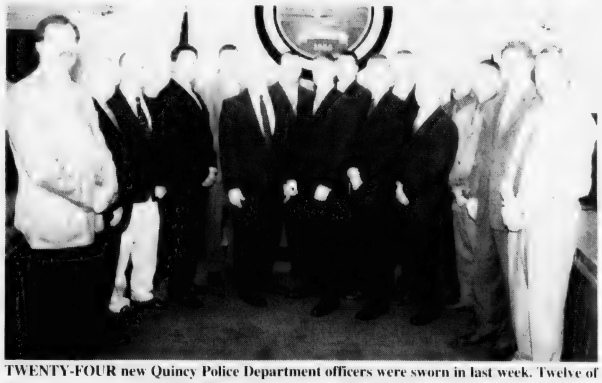
McGlone's balance, like the other candidates, may have changed since reports were due seven days before the preliminary election. Still, her balance was more than double than any of the five other school committee nominees.

Anne M. Mahoney, 12 Ferriter St., topped the preliminary election by 59 votes. She raised $5,840 between July 1 and Aug. 26. She reported expenditures of $715, leaving a balance of $5,125.

Kevin W. Mulvey, 60 Willow St., finished third in the preliminary. His report dated Sept. 4 shows $7,880 raised and $7,182.40 spent for a balance of $697.60.

James S. Timmins, 80 Reservoir Rd., was fourth in the preliminary. He reported campaign receipts of $8,395 and expenditures of $3,867.28 for a balance of $4,527.72.

The fifth-place finisher, Ronald Iacobucci, 430 Adams St., listed $4,156 in receipts and expenditures. Iacobucci, who ran two years ago for a seat on the school committee, had a balance of $7.48 from a previous campaign report. That same figure is listed as the balance on his most recent report.



Joseph Keegan, 21 Moreland Rd., secured the sixth and final school committee nomination. He raised $3,500 during the month of August according to his report. He spent $1,284 for a balance of $2,216.

Under state election law, the most money a campaign can receive from a personal donor is $500 in a calendar year. No corporate checks are permitted.

The next round of campaign finance reports for all candidates on the municipal ballot are due Nov. 1 -- one week before the Nov. 8 final election.

The top three voter getters in the school committee election will each win a four-year term.

Ward 1 Councillors And Mayors

Don't know who the next mayor of Quincy will be. If the city's political history is any indicator, there's a pretty good chance he — or she — could be from Ward 1.

And, apparently, not too good a chance if from Ward 6.

Being a Ward 1 councillor has been a successful stepping stone to the mayor's office in the past.

Frank McCauley, present city council president and political historian, notes that seven who served as Ward 1 councillor — including himself — took that step.

McCAULEY

"The seven Ward 1 councillors," he says, "lead all other ward councillors in moving on to the mayor's office."

The seven:

Ward 3 and Ward 5 are tied for runner-up honors with three ward councillors each going on to the mayor's office.

Ward 5: Henry Fairbanks (1890), Charles Bryant (1902) and Walter Hannon (1972).

Ward 2 and Ward 4 have two mayors each who were ward councillors first.

Ward 2: Eugene Stone (1912) and Joseph LaRaia (1976).

Ward 4: William Shea (1910) and James Sheets (1990).

McCauley notes that no Ward 6 councillor has ever gone on to become mayor.

Either Brian McNamee or Mark Bracken, who seek the Ward 6 seat being vacated by Alicia Gardner, would be next in line to take a shot at it.

Present Mayor William Phelan could be added to the Ward 5 mayors but he was never a ward councillor.

PHELAN

When he upset incumbent James Sheets in 2001, he also broke a long-time political tradition. He was the first mayor in 79 years not to come out of the city council. His political career until that election had been just two years on the school committee.

Phelan, incidentally, would have been counted as a Ward 1 mayor if the city wasn't redistricted in 1973. Moreland Rd., where he lives, was in Ward 1 before then.

And his father-in-law Arthur Tobin was a Ward 1 mayor but he was never a ward councillor. He was a councillor at-large and city council president when elected mayor in 1977.

Quincy, of course, has its father and son presidents in John and John Quincy Adams. And its only father-in-law and son-in-law mayors in Tobin and Phelan.

SPEAKING OF PHELAN, he bats pretty well as a political handicapper.

Almost a month before the preliminary election for school committee he picked five of the six winners from the field of 12 candidates.

And actually got the sixth one, too, in a toss-up between two candidates.

FORMER MAYOR Joe LaRaia's wife, Louise, found a cherished memento that Joe had thought was lost.

It was a photo of him in a group on Okinawa with baseball Hall of Famer Enos Slaughter, the man who "dashed" the Red Sox World Series hopes in 1946.

LaRaia was in the 101st Army Transportation Unit when Slaughter, on a good-will tour, hosted the troops on Okinawa in 1953.

"He was very friendly and outgoing," LaRaia recalls.

LaRaia, remembering the 1946 World Series between the Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals, said to Slaughter: "I come from Boston, does that mean anything to you?"

It got a big smile out of Slaughter.

He knew LaRaia was referring to that World Series for which Slaughter is remembered for his famed "mad dash" from first base to home on Harry Walker's single which won the championship for the Cardinals.

The Sox avenged that defeat last year, breezing by the Cardinals to win their first World Series since 1918.

They had to get past arch rivals Yankees first.

Can they do it again?

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1920's real photo postcard view of Webster Street in Atlantic. The view is from East Squantum looking toward the beach. This area of Atlantic was developed about 10 years before this picture was taken. Just after the Wollaston Boulevard was built. At the time this street went only about two thirds of the way down to the Boulevard because marshland at the beach end flooded at high tides. Over the years seawalls and filling of the marsh allowed for house lots to be improved on what was open space. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Parking Essential For Downtown Revitalization

The Quincy Concourse, when completed, will provide a roadway connecting Burgin Parkway to the Southern Artery. It will cross Hancock Street and extend by the John Hancock parking lot to Washington Street and then the Artery. The roadway has been described as saving downtown Quincy. What it will save is anybody's guess. A look at Quincy's downtown past will provide the solution.

The retail clothing bonanza in the 50s spread along Hancock Street. Its success was largely attributed to two large parking lot on either side of Hancock Street and was the envy of visitors from other cities with limited parking in their commercial areas.

Quincy's downtown began to lose its retail clothing business in the 60s and 70s because of suburban shopping malls offering unlimited retail space in an accessible enclosed structure. This trend didn't result in multiple vacancies as expected but for an unanticipated addition in 1972, the extension of the MBTA. What followed was a structural boom of high rise commercial offices and residential structures from the State Street complex to Quincy Center. That phenomena resulted in additional office structures such as the Stop & Shop building built on a city parking lot in the late 70s.

What followed was the continuous change of retail to office structures in retail buildings occupied by Remicks, Sears, Woolworths and the Bargain Center.

The retail clothing loss on Hancock Street was really a transformation into another commercial business.

If there is to be a lesson learned about saving the downtown, look at the success of the Shopperstown logo applied to the city back then.

The success was attributed to the action of city leaders who purchased two large tracts of land and converted them into parking lots that presently exist and contributed immensely to the success of the downtown in the 50s.

These parking lots are almost filled to capacity around the clock because of the offices, court house, MBTA users and some 20 plus hair and nail shops and over 20 eating and drinking businesses.

The solution then was adequate and accessible parking and that is the main goal to further develop the downtown today.

The Messages Of Managing Trash

You can deduce much about your neighbor by the way he addresses his trash. "Waste is a terrible thing to mind" goes the saying. My upbringing compels me to economize. Frugality is my means and ways. Some may even call me cheap. The shortest or simplest route is not always the most economized way.

Take trash for instance. Someone once told me about 25 years ago how to dispose of a substance that would be categorized as toxic. In my ignorance and looking for the quickest way to dispose of it, I did. Had I been caught, then as well as now, I would have been quite embarrassed approaching shame. My defense would have been ignorance. Ignorance may not be an excuse, but it might be an ideal reason to be enlightened. Take trash.

About 10 years ago, I was impressed that my father was actually taking the time to recycle. I'd been living on Nantucket for almost 15 years. A good 10 years ago they initiated a recycling program where, in the beginning, it was enforced. Different bins for different materials. If you could afford pick-up, trash would/still only be picked up if it was in a clear bag. In the beginning it was a nuisance. Each bin at the landfill had its own sentry checking till after about a year, habit was induced. Now there are only a couple of people there more for inquiries than enforcement.

I was impressed with my father that he took the time to separate what was clearly recyclable. When you think about it, very little is not. So why is it that we have little blue containers for recyclables and the extreme majority of our trash is in barrels? Old question.

Several years ago when I replaced all the window shades in my house with blinds I placed all the clear plastic packages in the blue bin, neatly wrapped in tape. I just happened to be looking out the window when I noticed the man who picks up these bins take them out and put them in the barrel. Why? Maybe it took up too much space.

Often we need an incentive to do something. When you think about it, why should we care about tomorrow? Actually, why shouldn't we? Why should I clean the table off when someone else left it dirty for me? But the incentive could be showing someone else the way.

Cicero said, "When I light someone else's candle, I show him the way. I light his path and my own candle shines no less." There are no losers in recycling. Only winners. We all win by economizing. By minding our trash.

Cereal boxes, cardboard boxes, milk cartons, cans, empty packages can all be crushed before placed in trash. Less space. Of course I'm taking a risk here that the trash men will picket my house asserting "this man advocated taking our hours/jobs away." Would that be so dishonorable on my account? Less space is only one aspect of the process. There's still separating items to go to the proper route.

Ideally, our blue bins here in Quincy might be enough room for what isn't recyclable (with room to spare) and our barrels would be filled with what is.

"Out of sight, out of mind" does not fathom well for the long term. But by demonstrating what we believe in, and preaching to the next generation what we demonstrate, our incentive is that we can find much comfort, pride and dignity in knowing we contributed to a healthier environment. We cleaned the table for the next person in trust that they will leave it that way for us.

We can tell much about our neighbors by the way we manage our trash.

Senior Housing Proposed For Houghs Neck

A $2.6 million housing for the elderly complex was proposed for Houghs Neck this week, as announced by Quincy Housing Authority Chairman Dr. Peter Corea.

Sept. 29 - Oct. 5
36 Years Ago

The six-story, 150-unit building would be built on land adjacent to the Houghs Neck Congregational Church by Peabody Construction. Corea called it an ideal site because it was close to churches, transportation, stores and library.

QHA board member Francis McCauley said that rents would be approximately $50 per month.

EARLY PAYMENTS SAVE CITY $100,000

In response to a plea from Mayor James McIntyre, taxpayers turned in more than $800,000 in early tax payments in only five days. As a result of these payments the city would not have to borrow in anticipation of revenues, thus saving $10,000 in interest charges.

Earlier in the year, City Treasurer David Houston had to borrow a record $1.5 million to keep the city operating until tax payments were received.

VARIANCE SOUGHT FOR SONS OF ITALY HALL

The Zoning Board of Appeals heard arguments in support and opposition for a variance for the proposed Sons of Italy Social Center at 104-108 Quarry St. Twenty-nine persons registered support, including five abutters. Atty. Paul Hunt, who represented the lodge, said the two parking areas would provide parking in excess to that required by law.

Opposition came from neighbors on Smith St. who expressed concern for additional traffic.

In other business, the ZBA considered a request by Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods to tear down an unused commercial garage and a two-family house at 31-43 Mechanic St. to expand his store and provide for parking for 35 cars.

Joyce Hogan Installed As New Lions Club President

NEW LIONS CLUB President Joyce Hogan shares her goals for the coming year at the club's installation of new officers held recently at The Neighborhood Club.

Joyce Hogan was recently installed as the new president of the Quincy Lions Club at the service organization's recent dinner installation at The Neighborhood Club.

Other officers installed were:

Elaine duJardin, first vice president; Denis Tardo, second vice president; Joseph Reardon, third vice president; Kathleen Frost, treasurer; and David Sawyer, secretary.

"I am proud to be a Lion and truly honored to be your president," said Hogan, who succeeds Jennifer Logue as club president.

Hogan recalled how her cousin, past president John Pickering, encouraged her join the Lions Club in 2001. The decision, she said, had made a powerful impact on her life.

"Helen Keller said, 'The best and most beautiful things in the world cannot be seen or even touched. They must be fled with the heart,'" she said. "The people in this room have left a footprint on my heart and my life has been changed forever."

Some of her goals for the coming year, Hogan said, are to retain quality members and increase the club's membership.

Other highlights of the Lions Club installation included the installation of new member Valentina Heffernan and the presentation of the "Lion of the Year Award" to Steven Mansfield.

the community design sessions will be summarized during the lunch period 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

"The first charrette was incredibly productive and helpful," said Harrington. "I expect no less from Saturday's exercise."

The Saturday forum will be the first since the city adopted the new zoning by-law raising the downtown building height limit to 15 stories.

"The building height is up to the developer," said Harrington, "but we really don't expect a lot of 15-story buildings.

"The potential is there and we may have one in the Parkingway. But it's more likely we will have some 10- and 12-story buildings."

The ultimate cost of the revitalization program is another unknown.

"The figure is being developed now," said Harrington. "It should be available shortly. The Concourse alone will run in excess of $10 million."

The Quincy Center Concourse is the east-west connector road between the Paul Harold Bridge and Washington Street and a key factor in the program.

"The federal government has earmarked $6 million to build the roadway but the city is responsible for the land-taking," said Harrington.

"Under the new district improvement finance (DIF) Program, the city will be able to pay for it out of new growth taxes within the DIF zone and not touch the general fund."

Parking is another vital subject that should come up in Saturday's charrette, particularly since the city may have to give up 500 spaces in the John Hancock lot to the Concourse.

"We'll have to replace them," said Harrington. "We'll probably end up with eight small parking garages, not as big as the one in the Ross Parkingway.

But spotting them will be difficult, which is why Phelan and Harrington would like to see a large turnout Saturday with a lot of ideas.

"It is truly remarkable what the citizens of Quincy bring to the table when something they cherish as much as Quincy Square is at stake," said Phelan.

"I look forward with great interest to what Saturday will bring."

Project SAFE Rescheduled To Nov. 5 In Elderly Homes

Project S.A.F.E., the day that firefighters and volunteers fan out across the city to install and update smoke detectors in the homes of the elderly, will be Saturday, Nov. 5, this year.

It was originally scheduled for Oct. 1 but so many Quincy firefighters wound up in New Orleans and environs helping victims of Hurricane Katrina that the day had to be postponed.

"This unique program provides an essential citywide service for seniors at no cost to seniors or to the city," said Sharron Beals, executive director of Beechwood on the Bay, one of the sponsoring organizations.

"Since we launched this initiative nine years ago, we have installed more than 8,200 smoke detectors in the homes of Quincy seniors."

In those nine years, Project S.A.F.E. has installed 8,000 detectors with an estimated value of $96,000 and batteries and other products worth $2,700.

During the day, 20 service teams, made up of firefighters, volunteers from Quincy Rotary Club and Rotary "Interact" students from Quincy and North Quincy High School will check, install and replace detectors and batteries in the homes of "at risk" seniors.

The National Fire Prevention Association (NFPA) is donating 10-year lithium batteries.

"At risk" seniors, those 70 or older or those with mobility or vision limitations, can call Beechwood on the Bay at 617-471-5712 to request a home visit Nov. 5.

"This community program has become a model throughout the Commonwealth and beyond," said Beals. "Sharon Gamache of NFPA tells us that NFPA now promotes our service concept and model nationally and internationally."

QUINCY YOUNGSTERS and best friends Molly Meehan and Lauren Magoon recently shared an experience of a lifetime. They grew the their hair over the past several years to donate it to Locks of Love to help out a financially disadvantaged child suffering from long term medical hair loss. They are very proud of their accomplishment and understand that it is a great deed to give back to society. Both Molly and Lauren attend Wollaston School and are excited to show off their new hair cuts upon entering the fourth grade.

Long-Time Educator Honored

Quincy College Unveils The Dr. Joseph S. Nicastro Learning Center

Dr. Joseph Nicastro, a Quincy resident and educator for over 55 years and current Quincy College Governor, cut the ribbon as Quincy College recently dedicated its new state-of-the-art Learning Center in honor of Nicastro's lifelong service to education in Quincy.

"Naming this Center after Dr. Nicastro is such a perfect fit because of his dedication to learning," said Quincy College President Sue Harris.

The Nicastro Learning Center features several computer workstations at which students are able to access self-paced learning software designed to improve skills in a variety of subjects including English, math, and science.

Additional software programs have been selected by faculty and will be incorporated to enhance student learning in their chosen fields of study.

"We consider it a priority to accommodate each student who seeks assistance with their required coursework, no matter what the field of study," Harris said.

The Center will also provide professional tutors in areas such as accounting, computer science and allied health. A study conducted last fall by the College indicated that the success rate of students who used the College's Writing Center for assistance was up to 30 percent higher than the school average.

"Tutoring really works, and we're committed to providing resources that support the success of our students," Harris said. "Helping students succeed is something very familiar to Dr. Joseph Nicastro."

Nicastro's legacy in Quincy as a successful educator, innovator and administrator is truly remarkable. Over the course of more than 20 years, Nicastro held various positions in the Quincy School system and his expertise in the areas of occupational education, curriculum, and instructional systems was unheralded.

DR. JOSEPH NICASTRO stands beside one of several computer workstations in the Nicastro Learning Center that will be used to assist Quincy College students.

Nicastro received a bachelor's degree from Boston State College, his M Ed. from Bridgewater State College, and was awarded an Ed. D. in 1973 from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Nicastro authored numerous papers, wrote curriculums for the school system, and secured over a million dollars in funds for numerous programs, staff, and equipment.

Nicastro began teaching as a vocational instructor at the Quincy Vocational-Technical School back in 1953. He then moved on to become the first manpower director for the school system and helped bring the first health programs to the Quincy Public Schools.

Nicastro was then asked by Superintendent of Schools at the time, Robert Pruitt, to head Project ABLE for the Quincy Schools. As the Project ABLE coordinator, Nicastro designed and developed curriculum for the Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Under his leadership, Project ABLE was picked by the United States Office of Education as one of the five best projects for curriculum for five straight years.

Prior to leaving Quincy in 1972 to become the director of the King Philip Regional Vocational High School in Wrentham, Nicastro also served as a research assistant to the Superintendent of Schools and the director of Adult and Community Education for the Quincy Public Schools.

Nicastro retired in 1983 as the assistant superintendent for the King Philip Regional School District. Even after retirement, Nicastro has continued to serve the people of the City of Quincy as a member of the College's Board of Governors for the last 11 years.

"Governor Nicastro has made a profound and lasting impression on Quincy College, serving the students, faculty, and the mission of our institution with integrity and character," said Theresa Lord-Piatelli, chairwoman of the Board of Governors. "It has been a privilege and an honor to serve with him."

Nicastro has been married to his wife Josephine for 62 years. They have four children: Joseph, Dean Paul, Susan and John as well as nine grandchildren.

For more information on the Nicastro Learning Center, contact Susan Bossa, executive director of Student Support Services at 617-984-1656 or by email at sbossa@quincycollege.edu.

'Sting' Leads To License Suspension For Restaurant

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

An alcohol 'sting' conducted in July found Sarsfield's on 1464 Hancock St. serving alcohol to a minor.

The License Board at Tuesday's voted unanimously to suspend Sarsfield's alcoholic license for three days. However, after making the motion to suspend, Police Chief Robert Crowley said two of the three days will be suspended with only one day to be served.

Lt. Peter Turowksi, liquor agent for the board said on the night of July 29, he sent an 18 year old female in Sarsfield's to purchase a drink. When Turowski entered the establishment, the female was sitting at the end of the bar with about 25 other patrons. In front of her Turowski said was a 12 ounce bottle of Budweiser.

When Turowski asked the bartender why she did not ask for an ID, she said she was relying on the doorman Declan Kelly, owner of Sarsfields who she said checks IDs Kelly was in between shifts he explained to the board and had not arrived as yet when the event occurred.

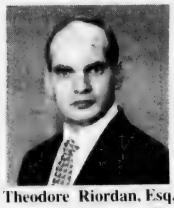
Kelly, agreed with Turowski's report and said it was "pretty accurate" saying that he arrived right after the incident, apologized and said the bartender should have known, and that she "did not do her job."

Chairman Joseph Shea asked Kelly is indeed the obligation is still on the bartender and Kelly agreed that it is. He said the regular bartender was on vacation on that particular night, but said he "takes responsibility" for it, adding that they both "learned a lesson."

Crowley who mentioned that this was the second incident that Sarsfield had been cited, the other back nine years ago. That was for serving alcohol after hours.

He said since then, the establishment has had no problems and said each time he goes by Sarsfield, he always sees Kelly on duty and commended him for "running a good establishment."

Health Commissioner Drew Scheele also commended Kelly and said it was unfortunate that he received a suspension but said it was "consistent with other establishment in the past who were caught in a 'sting'.



Turowski said on the night of July 29, he had visited 50 establishment and only one was cited. Crowley said "that's a pretty good record."

Presidents' Run Attack, Defense Key Victory

FOOTBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School football team straightened out a few offensive and defensive kinks last Friday night against a rebuilding Falmouth team.

Coming off a sloppy setback to Hingham in the season opener, the Presidents rode a strong rushing attack and stingy defense to a 21-8 road victory.

"They're in a rebuilding process and we took advantage of that," said head coach Bob Noble, who noted the Clippers graduated 20 of 22 seniors. "We did a much better job of rushing the football. But it was against Falmouth and not Hingham. We're the better team and we should win this game. We executed a lot better but there's still a lot of room for improvement."

Quincy (1-1 overall, 1-0 Atlantic Coast League) squares off against league rival Plymouth North Saturday night at 6:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The Blue Eagles crushed Nauset, 42-6, last Saturday.

"It's going to be a big game and we're looking forward to it," Noble said. "We're trying to compete for a league title. Plymouth North has traditionally been a good team. Their backs are small and extremely quick. We have to contain them from getting outside. If we're able to beat Plymouth North, that puts us in good shape in league play."

Against Falmouth, the offensive line did a solid job of run blocking as the Presidents ran for 258 yards and 13 first downs. Senior tailback and captain Everton DeCastro racked up 198 yards on 29 carries with two touchdowns, a 2-point conversion and an extra point.

Junior slot back Tom Hazelhurst picked up 37 yards on four carries and junior quarterback Matt Boyle added 25 yards.

Although the offense performed better, there's still improvement to be made. The Presidents had an 80-yard TD pass called back because of a penalty and they fumbled twice in Falmouth territory.

Defensively, Quincy held the Clippers to 175 yards of total offense, with 74 of those coming on a touchdown run. They had four plays of negative yardage and 10 plays of either 1 yard or no gain.

The Presidents opened the scoring in the first quarter on DeCastro's 1-yard TD plunge for a 6-0 lead. The extra point failed. DeCastro punched another one into the end zone from 3 yards in the second quarter and rushed for the 2-point conversion.

Falmouth made it 14-8 at halftime on a 74-yard TD run and 2-point conversion. After a scoreless third quarter, Boyle (6-of-12, 57 yards) fired a 6-yard TD strike to senior wideout Matt Giordani (second of the year). DeCastro kicked the extra point to close out the scoring.

JIM AIKENS (10) and the Quincy defense, shown here causing a fumble in the season opener against Hingham Sept. 16, stifled Falmouth in last Friday's 21-8 win on the road.

The Houghs Neck Post 380 Babe Ruth baseball team recently held its 43rd annual cookout and awards ceremony at the post home.

Houghs Neck is the only Quincy Youth Baseball team that awards jackets every year to its five graduating 15-year-old players. Receiving jackets were Rick Bjork, Greg Cahalan, Charles Fawell, Glen Misho and Brian Sullivan.

The pitching award went to Bjork, who went 5-1 in the regular season and 2-0 in the playoffs. Sullivan received the batting trophy, batting .590 with a home run at Merrymount Field. Cahalan, an infielder, made only two errors to earn the defensive award.

The coaches award, which stands for hustle, attitude, hard work and attendance, went to Fawell. Manager Chris DeLisle, who served as the emcee, was voted "Coach of the Year" by the players.

Prior to the celebration, the players lost, 11-4, in a softball game against Legion members, coaches and parents. Legion members provided the food, which was cooked and served by post members and members of the women's auxiliary.

WHAT'S LEAKING?

Beware of puddles of liquid underneath your parked vehicle. On a hot day, the liquid puddled on the floor just ahead of the firewall (near the passenger's feet) may just be water that drains from the air conditioner. This water is normal. The time to worry is when you do not see any water under your vehicle after it has had the air conditioner running. This may mean that the drain has plugged up. If so, the water may make its way to the passenger's feet rather than onto the garage floor. Leaking windshield washer fluid will have a soapy feel and an alcoholic smell. It may be indicative of a failed washer hose or connection.

Next time you start up your car and pull away from your usual parking space, take a look at what's left behind. If there is anything, the service technicians at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO will help you decipher if there is a problem. Call us, at 781-843-1550, anytime you have an automobile issue. We love cars. Stop by 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree and talk cars with us anytime. Find out why your friends, neighbors, and co-workers trust us. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer."

HINT: Windshield washer fluid may be blue going in, but it fades to clear on concrete. Since it is toxic to cats and dogs, be sure to mop it up and fix the leak.

Raiders Comeback Falls Short, Bow 10-7

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School football team came close to pulling out a thrilling fourth-quarter comeback last Friday night against Sandwich at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

But the Red Raiders didn't have enough to overcome their mental breakdowns, stalling on their final drive to end up with a frustrating 10-7 loss.

"It's tough to come back when you're down 10-0 and struggling on offense," said head coach Bill Shaughnessy. "We're still making mental mistakes. It's frustrating. We're still not clicking on all cylinders yet. We still need to clean up a few more things.

"They played their hearts out. They did a great job. They didn't quit. It's unfortunate we came up short. They deserved to win because they're working hard."

North Quincy (0-3) will try to break into the win column tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 when it hosts Falmouth at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The Clippers are coming off a 21-8 loss to Quincy last Friday.

Trailing 10-0, the Red Raiders discovered their running attack in the fourth quarter, engineering a seven-play, 55-yard scoring drive. Junior tailback Chris Tufo had 48 of those yards, including a 3-yard jaunt into the end zone with 6:41 left to play. Senior tri-captain Kyle Costa's extra point made it 10-7.

After North Quincy's defense forced the Blue Knights to go three-and-out on their ensuing possession, the offense got the ball on the Sandwich 49 with 5:27 remaining.

An illegal shift penalty on first down set the Red Raiders back 5 yards, but they reached the Sandwich 28 when junior quarterback Mike O'Mahony connected with junior Benson Luc for 23 yards on fourth-and-12.

But the potential game-winning drive stalled when Sandwich's Brandon Odel sacked O'Mahony for an 8-yard loss on third down and O'Mahony threw incomplete on fourth down.

CHRIS TUFO (45) bursts 29 yards through the middle of Sandwich's defense to its 20-yard-line last Friday at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Four plays later, the junior tailback scored a 3-yard touchdown to get North Quincy on the board. The Red Raiders lost, 10-7. Quincy Sun photos/Robert Noble

"I thought we were going to go in and score a touchdown," Shaughnessy said. "But we made a couple of mistakes on that last drive and it shows in the final score. There's always something that we do to ourselves to put us in a tough situation. Mentally we broke down and this is what happens."

Sandwich scored on its second possession of the game thanks to some trickery. On fourth-and-8 from the North Quincy 43, it faked a punt and tailback Kevin Adams rushed for 25 yards. Three players later, he plunged into the end zone from 1 yard out. Brendon Kelliher rushed for the 2-point conversion on a fake extra point for an 8-0 lead with 4:24 in the quarter.

In the second, North Quincy tried to punt from its own 15 but the Blue Knights blocked Ryan Barter's kick out of the end zone for a safety with 5:05 left in the half. Barter injured his knee on the play and was taken off the field by ambulance. Costa took over the kicking duties.

Other than Sandwich's scoring drive, the Red Raiders' defense stymied the Blue Knights the rest of the game. Sophomore middle linebacker Terrence Silby recovered a fumble on Sandwich's next series and the Blue Knights went three-and-out on two more possessions in the first half.

In the second half, senior defensive back Steve Spring picked off quarterback CJ Hein and Sandwich went three-and-out three more times before it took a knee to run out the clock on the final series of the game.

"It's frustrating because we're now 0-3," Shaughnessy said. "But the way we played doesn't really dictate the final results. Each game was close. We made mental mistakes and put ourselves in a situation where we're losing close football games. We'll get there."

SOCCER

After garnering seven of a possible eight points in non-league contests, the North Quincy High School girls' soccer team dropped a pair and tied one in the opening of Atlantic Coast League play.

"We've hit a bump in the road in the ACL," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "Our inexperience and lack of physical play have been significant factors in our losses. We need to raise our intensity and cut back on our mistakes in our defensive end.

"We've also been hit by the injury/illness bug. Junior Megan Therrien was expected to be a big contributor at midfield and has yet to play because of back problems, while senior captain Lindsey Clifford strained her calf and will miss three games. Senior captain Annmarie Campanale has also missed the last four games with illness."

North Quincy (3-2-2) battled city rival Quincy Wednesday (5 p.m.) at Veterans Memorial Stadium. It will travel to Martha's Vineyard Saturday and host Falmouth Monday at 4 p.m. at Teal Field.

On Monday, the Red Raiders suffered a 2-1 home loss to Plymouth North, the defending ACL North champions. They had chances early but missed. Junior midfielder Lauren Stille had her 8-yard shot go by the near post while sophomore sensation Emily Milone's rocket from 20 yards had the keeper beat but sailed high.

The Blue Eagles scored two goals near the end of the first half. In the second half, the Red Raiders again had great chances to score but could not finish. Senior midfielder Jen Petitti nearly put North Quincy within one from a scramble in front of the net. Stille also was sent in on the right side but her shot went wide past the far post.

North Quincy got on the board when Lauren Stille fed her sister, sophomore forward Mary Kate, 18 yards out. Mary Kate's low shot found the far corner with seven minutes left.

Lauren Milone, captain and four-year varsity player, had an outstanding game at forward. "Lauren was on her game," Bregoli said. "Her passing was excellent and her poise and hustle was one of the few bright spots we had."

Also playing well were junior defender Bridget Coleman and senior midfielder Katherine Andreosatos.

Last Friday, North Quincy routed Boston Latin, 9-0, at home. Senior midfielder and captain Caitlin McCleary blasted four goals and leads the team with seven. Clifford assisted on two of McCleary's scores while Emily Milone assisted on one.

Mary Kate Stille notched a first-half goal with Coleman assisting. Senior forward Katie Anderson collected her first varsity goal, taking an Emily Milone feed and rifling a shot into the net.

Clifford netted her first two goals of the year, both from long range with junior midfielder Keriann Cabral assisting on the second. Lauren Stille closed out the scoring, drilling a shot to the corner for her fourth of the season. Sophomore Kerry Coughlin had the assist.

Senior keeper Kelly Barden made four saves to record her first varsity shutout. Also playing well were senior back Allison Griffin, senior midfielder Deirdre Kilcullen and junior back Tara Whooley.

Last Thursday, the Red Raiders suffered a 5-0 loss at Whitman-Hanson. They played the Panthers to a draw for the first 20 minutes. However, the hosts' speed and skill level wore down the Red Raiders, who found themselves down 2-0 at halftime.

Emily Milone nearly put North Quincy on the board when her free kick hit the crossbar from 40 yards out. Junior midfielder Jillian Benn, freshman forward Amy Carchedi and senior defender Roberta Phelan played well.

Last Tuesday, North Quincy tied Plymouth South, 1-1, at home. Despite dominating play in the first half, the Red Raiders clung to a slim 1-0 lead at the break. Emily Milone took a feed from McCleary midway through the half and poked it past the keeper for her third of the year.

North Quincy let several glittering scoring chances go unfinished in the half. The Panthers began to assert themselves in the second half, controlling midfield play. At the 28-minute mark, they tied the game on a goal by Courtney Sarantos.

North Quincy's best chance to score came late in the game when Milone sent in Mary Kate Stille, whose shot was smothered by the keeper. Playing well were Cabral and junior defender Melissa Mendall.

Quincy Wins Pair

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School girls' volleyball team rebounded from its worst loss of the season last Monday with a pair of victories.

After falling to Billerica at home, 21-25, 21-25, 25-27, the Presidents followed with 3-0 wins over Whitman-Hanson (25-12, 25-10, 25-14) last Wednesday and Plymouth North (25-19, 25-12, 25-21) last Friday.

"It's been a roller coaster," said head coach Christine Barrett. "We have a pretty young team which is good and bad. It's good because they'll be around for a while. It's bad because we need a lot more experience."

Quincy (4-2 overall) took on cross-town rival North Quincy Wednesday (7 p.m.) and will host Dennis-Yarmouth tomorrow (Friday) at 5:30 p.m.

The Presidents graduated seven seniors from last year's state championship runner-up squad, including standouts Nicole O'Sullivan and Nicole Cahill. Still, they're looking to capture their third straight league title and reach the state tournament again.

"We're rebuilding and there's room for improvement always," Barrett said. "We've already picked it up in certain areas. Even the players that are returning have to learn new positions. All I can ask for is that we work hard. I'm looking forward to the rest of this year."

Against Plymouth North, senior tri-captain and middle hitter Ashlee Scott led the way with 20 kills, five digs and two aces. Sophomore middle hitter Liz Bock tallied 12 kills, six digs, three blocks and five aces. Senior tri-captain and setter Leanna Lam totaled 10 kills, five digs, six assists and four aces. Junior outside hitter Carla Nickerson had six kills.

In the Whitman-Hanson game, Scott (10 kills, 10 aces), Bock (11 kills, three aces), senior libero Nicole Kasanoff (four aces) and senior tri-captain and setter Kim LeBel (eight assists, three aces) all played well.

In the setback to Billerica, Scott (eight digs) and Bock (10 digs, three blocks) each notched 14 kills.

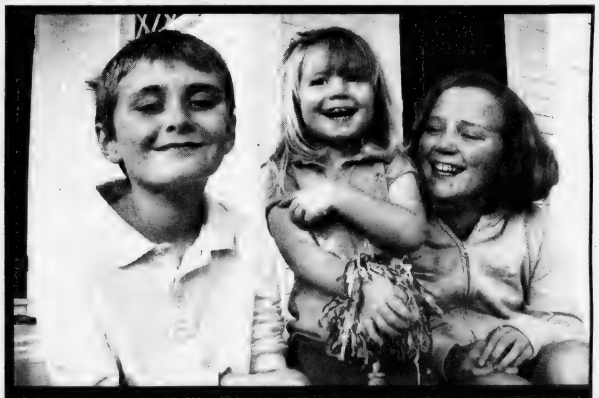
On Sept. 16, the Presidents edged Milford, 3-2 (24-26, 25-18, 25-11, 23-25, 15-11). Igniting the team were Scott with 25 kills, 10 digs, two blocks and two aces and Bock with 18 kills, 12 digs, six blocks and four aces.

Kasanoff recorded 12 digs, Nickerson six kills and sophomore outside hitter Marybeth Torpey had eight digs and five kills. LeBel and Lam combined for 22 assists.

On Sept. 14, Quincy defeated Franklin, 3-1 (25-20, 12-25, 25-17, 25-21). Powering the team were Scott (20 kills, three aces), Bock (18 kills, six blocks, six digs), Lam (12 assists, seven kills, three aces), LeBel (15 assists, four aces) and Kasanoff (10 digs).

On Sept. 9, the Presidents fell in their season opener to Brockton, 3-2 (17-25, 25-21, 12-25, 25-22, 12-15). They were leading the fifth game, 12-9, before falling.

Bock (15 kills, six blocks, six digs), Scott (11 kills, two aces, 12 digs), Lam (nine kills, eight digs, two aces, seven assists), LeBel (15 assists, six digs) and Kasanoff (12 digs) turned in strong outings.



Makini Thompson On Florida State Volleyball Team

Makini Thompson of Quincy helped lead visiting Florida State to a victory over Boston College in a very competitive women's volleyball game last Saturday night at Conte Forum.

Thompson, a 2003 North Quincy High School graduate, totaled six kills and two blocks in the four-game contest. The Seminoles improved to 3-7.

About two dozen North Quincy fans attended the match, including North Quincy High head coach Jim Rendle and his players.

Thompson is the daughter of Neurissa Thompson and Ken Shurtluff. She previously played for Long Beach State before transferring last spring.

Add Balance to Your Workout

Q: I am starting to have problems with my balance. Walking up and down stairs, getting in and out of the car and even just standing up is becoming harder and harder. I walk at the gym and use weight machines, but are there any specific exercises that can help me improve my balance?

A. Integrating a balance program into your workout is not only important, but necessary. Increased difficulty in lifting, climbing, reaching, bending, standing and other functional activities can be evidence that you need additional exercises to address these concerns.

Along with a balance program, you'll also need to add exercises to improve posture, stability, flexibility, strength, endurance and agility. All of these elements go hand in hand.

Before we discuss any exercises, it's important to rule out any medical conditions or medications that may affect your balance. Hearing and vision impairments, circulatory, neurological and musculoskeletal issues, in addition to certain medications, can affect balance. Talk with your physician about these conditions and how they might affect your balance.

There are several ways to add workouts that help improve your balance. Classes such as Tai Chi (the use of gentle body movements and breathing techniques to maintain body and mind balance,) and yoga can be helpful in improving coordination, flexibility, relaxation, strength and endurance.

Other exercises include the use of fitness tools such as the balance board and stability ball. You want to begin with the most basic form of these exercises before progressing to more difficult variations. For example, practicing balancing on a flat surface before moving to an unstable environment will not only keep you safe, but also allow your body to adjust to the new challenges placed upon it.

Remember, you want an integrated approach to improving balance that includes preparing your body to transfer these new skills into everyday activities. Although the ability to stand on a balance board may demonstrate your proficiency at that skill, it is important that it be performed with proper strength, posture and stability.

Before you begin your balance program, identify the areas where you need improvement. Knowing where your body needs help can guide the type of balance, strengthening, flexibility, endurance, agility and stability exercises you need to perform. This will also give you a way to measure your progress.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program.

10 Ways To Ensure A Healthy, Beautiful Smile For Your Child

(NAPS)—Straight teeth, properly aligned jaws and an overall positive self-image—that's what close to 6 million children and adults in the United States and Canada are currently pursuing through orthodontic treatment provided by members of the American Association of Orthodontists (AAO).

The AAO is committed to providing education on the lifelong benefits of orthodontic treatment and care.

This October marks the 10th year of National Orthodontic Health Month, the AAO's U.S. and Canadian orthodontic health education program. In honor of its 10th anniversary, and as part of its commitment to education, the AAO is providing parents with a list of 10 things to keep in mind when asking the question: "How can I ensure a healthy smile for my child?"

• Maintain Regular Dentist Visits: According to the American Dental Association, a child should have the first dental visit no later than the first birthday. Upon completion of that first checkup, regular visits should occur every six months.

• See An Orthodontist No Later Than Age 7: The AAO recommends all children have a checkup with an orthodontic specialist no later than age 7. Even with several baby teeth present at age 7, an orthodontist can detect problems that may need treatment early or in the future.

• Watch For Signs Of Trouble: Parents should watch for problems such as early or late loss of baby teeth, difficulty in chewing or biting, or mouth breathing as their child grows. If a child exhibits one of these signs, a checkup with an orthodontic specialist should be scheduled.

• Brushing And Flossing Are Key: To ensure proper dental health care, it's important to get children on a consistent schedule of brushing and flossing their teeth. Orthodontists and dentists recommend children brush after every meal and floss daily.

• Uphold A Healthy Diet: Although the occasional sweet or soda pop is OK for children, orthodontists and dentists urge parents to control their frequency and serving size. High intakes of sugary items such as candy and soda pop are the No. 1 cause of cavities.

• Put An End To Bad Oral Habits: Make sure thumb and pacifier sucking are discontinued between the ages of 2 and 4. If either is prolonged, the habit may cause problems with proper growth of the jaws and with tooth alignment. It can also adversely affect the appearance of a child's face.

• Observe For Tooth Decay: Parents should take a role of monitoring the growth and appearance of the face and teeth, especially if they don't frequent the dentist. If there is concern about facial balance or tooth discoloration, they should seek professional advice from an orthodontist or dentist. Fluorides and cavity-preventing "sealants" should be used as a means to prevent tooth decay.

• Take Care Of Braces: For children who are currently in orthodontic treatment, make sure to avoid foods that are hard, sticky, chewy or crunchy. These foods may harm braces and potentially prolong treatment time.

• Guard Teeth While Playing Sports: An easy precaution parents can take to ensure the protection of their child's smile is to make sure their child wears a mouth guard when participating in sports. This can protect from fracturing or knocking out teeth.

• Be Cautious Of Quick-Fix Solutions: Masking an orthodontic problem with quick solutions like veneers or bonding may lead to long-term dental problems such as tooth decay and loss. Consult with your orthodontic specialist before choosing this method.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

THE HYGIENIST'S ROLE

While the dentist is at the center of any dental practice, dental hygienists perform most of the preventive and maintenance services so important to good dental hygiene. Among these are scaling and polishing patients' teeth, applying topical fluorides and sealants, taking x-rays, charting dental conditions, recording case histories, taking impressions, etc. The dental hygienist makes sure that patients have a clear idea of how to brush and floss their teeth most effectively. In light of the fact that hygienists have accumulated a considerable amount of dental and periodontal experience and expertise, patients are encouraged to avail themselves of this knowledge. Dental hygienists are preventive oral care professionals who can stop potential problems before they become difficult and costly to treat.

This column has been brought to you as a public service. Dental hygienists are specially trained to work with the dentist in providing care to the patient. A complete checkup and cleaning should be scheduled at least every six months. Keeping teeth and gums healthy will contribute to overall health and enjoyment of life. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where teaching you how to prevent dental disease and preserving your natural teeth for a lifetime are our primary goals. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. While most patients should have their teeth cleaned by the hygienist every six months, those prone to plaque accumulation should schedule appointments more frequently.

Reducing Energy Costs

(NAPS) — Just as a mechanic regularly flushes your car's engine to keep it running efficiently, cleaning your home's heating and air-conditioning (HVAC) system can lead to better performance and lower energy bills.

Air duct system cleaning allows systems to run more efficiently by removing debris from sensitive mechanical components. Clean, efficient systems are less likely to break down, have a longer life span and generally operate more effectively than dirty systems.

The National Air Duct Cleaners Association (NADCA) recommends that air handling units be inspected at least once a year. The air ducts should be inspected at least once every two years. Areas with high humidity should inspect more frequently.

When hiring an air duct cleaning contractor, make sure the company is a member of NADCA, which tests the knowledge of contractors for safe and effective HVAC cleaning.

For more information and a list of qualified air duct system cleaning contractors, call 202-737-2926 or visit www.nadca.com.

Achieving The American Dream Of Homeownership

(NAPS) — More Americans are becoming homeowners — and that's good news not only for the homeowners but it's even better news for America's neighborhoods.

Study after study finds neighborhoods in which people own homes are more stable — homeowners remain in a home an average of nine years longer than renters.

Homeowners are also more engaged in the community they live in. Research at Harvard's Joint Center for Housing Studies has discovered owners are 28 percent more likely to improve their home and 10 percent more likely to be civic minded. For many people, owning a home provides a one-of-a-kind opportunity to better themselves.

Home equity is the single greatest form of saving for most homeowners, which is a comfort in a time when many are concerned for the future of social security.

Today, more people can afford to buy their own homes than ever before in history. One of the contributing factors is new forms of financing, such as the nonprime loan. Many people may be surprised to discover that up to 50 percent of all people who apply for a mortgage don't qualify for a prime loan rate.

Nonprime mortgage lending offers credit to borrowers that previously would have been denied — giving them a chance to get a step closer to the American Dream.

Generally, young people, individuals with damaged credit and minority populations have lower credit scores and might thus be denied mortgages.

Another factor that contributed to the growth of homeownership was the economic boom of the 1990s. This boom fueled a rapid appreciation in home values, but now experts are urging caution as we move closer to bursting what many are calling a real estate bubble.

"The lower interest rates of the recent past aided in creating an economy ripe for new homeowners," said Bruce Hahn of the American Homeowners Grassroots Alliance.

However, warned Hahn, rising government debt can mean there is less money available for consumer investment. Less money available means higher interest rates for borrowers.

Another critical component that could cripple homeownership is the proposed overregulation of federally chartered lenders Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. These important institutions make sure there is a stable supply of mortgage money available to lenders in order to make the loans new homebuyers need.

Overregulation in an attempt to reform lending could keep potential homebuyers from being able to enter the housing market.

Yet another threat to homeownership is regulation that would reduce the availability of nonprime loans to those who need them and can afford them. There are abuses by some in the industry, and existing laws need to be enforced and loopholes closed to stop unsavory lending practices. But at the same time, qualified and educated borrowers deserve to have all options available.

"Nonprime lending works and has a place in the marketplace," said Alphonse Jackson, secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

"What is needed is enforcement of exiting laws, better consumer education and narrow, carefully targeted policy action where necessary to deal selectively with the remaining exploitive practices," Hahn said.

If regulations are so restrictive that financial institutions reduce the availability of nonprime loans, many people will no longer be able to buy a home.

Because of low interest rates, new financing options like nonprime loans and the role of the government-sponsored enterprises such as Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, not only is homeownership soaring but minority homeownership is at an all-time high.

"Homeownership has long been the key to achieving the American Dream," Hahn said. "With homeownership at record levels, we urge caution, as eliminating options and opportunities is not the way to continue encouraging homeownership."

DOVE Receives Grant From Mass. Realtors Foundation

The agency also offers educational training and consulting services to groups that support or advocate for victims and survivors of domestic violence.

The housing grant program was initiated in 2000 and has benefited nearly three dozen non-profit housing agencies across the state to date.

The housing grant program complements the volunteer support and financial assistance that local Realtors® associations across Massachusetts provide to shelters, soup kitchens, affordable housing agencies, and transitional housing programs in their communities

Don't Let Kitchen Pollution Invade Your Home

(NAPS) — According to the Home Ventilating Institute (HVI), kitchens are a main source of pollutants in the home — a result of grease, smoke, moisture and other by-products generated from cooking.

As the EPA estimates people spend approximately 90 percent of their time indoors, these factors create a bad environment within the home.

Broan-NuTone, North American's leading home ventilation products manufacturer, claims cooking emits more airborne contaminants than almost anything else in the home. As food is prepared, over 85 percent of the grease involved in cooking is vaporized. As grease settles on cabinets or backsplashes, it acts like an acid, destroying finishes. It also collects on pictures and curtains, deteriorating frames and fading colors.

Typical family cooking adds more than 40 gallons of moisture to the air annually. This excess moisture can lead to allergy problems and structural damage by encouraging the growth of molds, mildew and bacteria. Unwanted odors also can be a product of home cooking. When broiling fish or any other distinct-smelling food, odors can linger for days, soaking into fabrics, carpets and clothing.

The solution is to exhaust pollutants to the outside. A range hood is the best way to do this. The new Broan Elite 662, designed for use with high-performance gas ranges, exhausts 800 CFM. External blowers can be selected to maximize the hood's performance to 1500 CFM.

Special features include four-speed controls that remember the last setting used and return the hood to that setting the next time it is in use; a delay-off feature that automatically shuts off the hood after cooking is complete; and Heat Sentry, which monitors for excessive heat, turning the blower to high when needed.

"Homeowners should only select and purchase range hoods bearing the HVI logo; this will assure them the product will meet their kitchen ventilation needs," said Brian Wellnitz of Broan-NuTone.

"Having a range hood like the Broan Elite 662 is a great benefit to consumers — it meets the design needs of an undercabinet hood and provides efficient and effective smoke-, odor- and humidity-removal capability under all cooking conditions."

Home Ideas

(NAPS) – The nonprofit Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration Certification (IICRC) warns homeowners that water restoration is not a do-it-yourself job. Some attempts could be hazardous and make the damage worse.

IICRC recommends hiring a firm whose employees are certified in water-damage restoration. Homeowners can call 1-800-835-4524 or access www.certifiedcleaners.org to find an IICRC-certified firm.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Monday, Sept. 19 at approximately 8:40 p.m., Officer Steven Kelly was dispatched to the Star Market on Granite St. on a report of a "disorder." Officer Kelly pulled into the parking lot and was flagged down by the victim, a 26-year-old Quincy resident. He told Officer Kelly that he was following a man who he had reason to believe stole $80 from him at the self check-out lane of Star Market.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Kelly instructed the suspect to come over to him, then obtained fuller information. The victim stated that he placed four $20 bills on the check-out counter and began to scan his groceries. Once he finished scanning his groceries, the victim looked over and noticed that the money was gone. He immediately scanned the area and saw a man, who was close to the area of the money, now walking away.

The victim observed the suspect go to a nearby self check-out and pay for his purchases with a Massachusetts EBT car, then leave the store. The victim then confronted the suspect about the missing money and he told the victim that the person who took the money was a woman with a tan jacket. The suspect then walked away, went into Brooks Pharmacy and used a $10 bill to pay for alcoholic beverages, according to the victim. The victim called the police and again engaged in conversation with the suspect outside the store until the police arrived.

Officer Kelly questioned the suspect, who denied taking the money and then provided a full description of a female suspect. Since this story sharpy contrasted with the victim's account that there was no one else around by the suspect, Officer Kelly asked the suspect if you could search him for the four $20 bills. The suspect gave permission and Officer Kelly then found four $20 bills sticking out of the suspect's underwear, at his waistline. The suspect, a 43-year-old Quincy resident, was arrested for "larceny from a person," and then transported to the police station by Officer Tom Loughlin. The money was returned to the victim.

Nice work!

The victim was fortunate to get his money back. He did not actually see the larceny occur. Officer Kelly was in the area and the prompt response made it possible to question the suspect. The victim's statement that this man was the only person that came close to him at the register helped focus on the suspect. The victim also stated that he never saw anyone fitting the description of the woman as described by the suspect.

The entire incident could have been avoided if the victim did not provide the temptation and the opportunity by leaving the money unguarded. Victims of larcenies, purse snatchings and robberies often create the opportunity by inadvertently exposing large amounts of money in a purse or wallet as they make their purchase.

Be careful.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

YOU TELL ON YOURSELF

You tell on yourself by the friends you seek,
By the very manner in which you speak;
By the way you employ your leisure time,
By the use you make of dollar and dime. .
You tell what you are by the things you wear,
By the spirit in which your burdens bear,
By the kind of things at which you laugh.
By the records you play on the phonograph.

You tell what you are by the way you walk,
By the things of which you delight to talk,
By the manner in which you bear defeat,
By so simple a thing as how you eat. . .

In the books you choose from the well-filled shelf,
In these ways you more, or less, tell on yourself. . .
So there's really no particle of sense,
In the effort to keep up FALSE PRETENSE. . . *

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although practical situations continue to dominate this week, there's time for the Lamb to indulge in the fun things in life — like maybe taking a special someone out for a great evening.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) This week favors relationships. Take time to renew old ones, and make time to go where new friends can be found. On a more practical note, expect news about a business deal.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You should be seeing some progress on that new workplace situation. Meanwhile, family matters might demand more attention, and you'll want to set aside time to deal with them.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A relationship might suddenly present some challenges you never expected. After talking things out, you might want to consider taking some time to assess what you've learned.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A disappointing response to a request might dampen the Lion's spirits. But you might want to ask the reasons behind it. What you learn can be of great importance in a future undertaking.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A once-volatile situation should be settled by now, giving you a chance to refocus on a project you've been planning for. Look for an interested party to rally to your support.

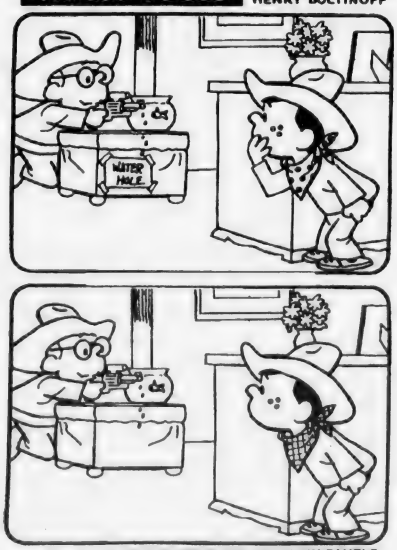
LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A business matter that unexpectedly turns into a personal situation could create complications. Best to resolve the matter now before too much harm can be done.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Emotions can run high when they involve personal matters that no one really wants to talk about. But this could be a good time to create the means to a workable outcome.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A positive response to a workplace request could lead the way to other long-sought changes. Congratulations. A personal situation also takes a welcome turn.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Patience pays off, as that once-overwhelming work situation continues to become easier to handle on a one-by-one basis. Look for positive news from a colleague.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It might be a good idea to take more time to reassess your next move in working out a complex situation. You could benefit from a new perspective on the matter.



PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might want to consider making time to discuss a change of plans with everyone concerned. Be prepared to explain your actions. Also be prepared to listen to alternatives.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a strong sense of what is right, and you try to work from that foundation. Friends see you as reliable.

To Be Converted Into New Center

St. Boniface Purchase Hailed By City, Germantown Residents

The purchase of closed St. Boniface Church and the planned conversion of it into a new Germantown Neighborhood Center has been hailed by city officials and residents of the area.

The church, closed a year and a half, was purchased by the South Shore YMCA in partnership with the city. The price was $440,000.

The announcement was made at a joint press conference Friday on the steps of the church by Mayor William Phelan, YMCA Executive Director Ralph Yohe and Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly.

"The closing of the church was a devastating blow to this community," Phelan said. "It is our hope that we can make good out of a bad situation. By providing a new neighborhood center and service we can improve the quality of life for the residents of Germantown.

"I want to thank Ralph Yohe and the YMCA for their ongoing commitment

'People Want New Main Street, Shops, Taller Buildings, Housing'

Master Plan For Downtown Seen Ready In A Month

By MATTHEW WHORF

The long-awaited master plan for a revitalized downtown Quincy may be ready for presentation to the City Council in about a month, according to Planning Director Dennis Harrington.

"We're trying to move it as fast as we can to the Council," said Harrington, following the second and final "charrette," or conceptual forum, held Saturday to gain input from consultants and the public.

The plan will be drawn up by the consulting firm of Goody, Clancy & Associates under instruction from the Mayor's Downtown Development Committee, the Planning Department and other city officials.

"Think of them as technicians," said Harrington. "They're like lawyers who draw up the will after we tell them what we want."

Saturday's charrette, said Harrington, "confirmed that the original concepts of the downtown revitalization are still in play."

"The people want a new main street," he said, "with shops of all types on the first level. They want housing in the downtown area to feed the retail shops. They want taller buildings with greater density."

Some of the ideas discussed included the development of housing and offices in the Hancock parking lot and the addition or preservation of more green space in the downtown area.

"People want to see more open public areas like plazas where they can hold outdoor concerts and fairs," said

Shea Sees 90,000 Soon

City's Population Down By 270, 20% Now Asian

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy seems to be losing people — as many as 270 in the last five years.

The recent city census, using a new counting method built around voting lists and school enrollments, showed the city with 87,755 inhabitants.

The federal census of 2000 came up with a figure of 88,025, using the old method of enumerating, which make comparisons inappropriate.

But City Clerk Joe Shea is confident the city is on track to reach the magic 90,000 figure sooner than anyone thinks.

"My goal is still 90,000," he said. "We'll do that in two years at the latest."

The boost in population will come, he said, when the apartments and condos now abuilding are filled with people.

"But I don't think we will ever get to 100,000," he said. "There will be no place left to build."

About 20.6 per cent of the residents of the city, or 18,125 individuals, are Asian, according to the city census.

But only 4,300 Asians are listed among the city's 54,811 active voters, a dismal 7.8 per cent.

"A lot more than that are eligible to vote," said Shea, "but they don't. Maybe it's because their parents aren't citizens.

"Eventually, when things are rounded off, I think the vote will be 79 per cent white, 20 per cent Asian and 1 per cent other."

The most populous area of the city is Ward 2, which lists 16,295 inhabitants, many of them living in large apartment buildings like 1000 Southern Artery.

The other wards are fairly evenly divided with 13,974 in Ward 1, 14,219 in Ward 3, 14,554 in Ward 4, 14,115 in Ward 5, and 14,598 in Ward 6.

The city census listed 54,811 active voters in the city, 2,657 inactive (those who haven't voted in four or more years) and non-voters (minors and non-citizens).

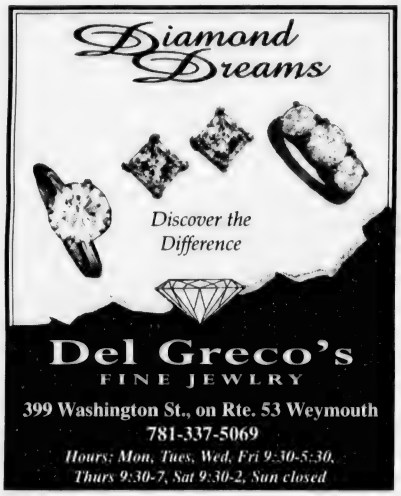
'Quincy Cares' Hurricane Fundraiser Tickets Available

Tickets are now on sale for the historic "Quincy Cares" fundraiser planned at the Quincy Marriott Thursday, Oct. 13.

The event will culminate the $1 million fundraising drive to benefit the hurricane victims in Jefferson Parish, La.

Tickets are $25 and can be purchased at the following locations:

- Quincy City Hall - Mayor's Office
- Quincy Park and Recreation Complex - One Merrymount Parkway.
- Daniel J. Flynn & Co. - 1495 Hancock St.
- The Quincy Sun - 1372 Hancock St.
- Colonial Federal Savings Bank - 15 Beach St.



The 6 p.m. to 12 midnight event will feature a mix of live entertainment, highlighted by the local band, "Dick 'n Jane." There will be a live auction, a silent auction, a raffle, refreshments and a cash bar.

"I expect that this evening will be one of the most significant community events in recent memory," said Mayor William Phelan. "Our community has come together to help those that desperately need our assistance in the storm-ravaged areas of the Gulf Coast. Working together, we can make a big difference in the recovery process for these folks."

The event will also recognize those donors who have contributed to the event.

"The more than 1,000 people that attend the event will know that there are those in our community that have really stepped up to the plate and made a difference," said Phelan.

"Young children that have run lemonade stands, seniors that collected money at their neighborhood groups and businesses that have contributed in their own way; we will recognize the impact that everyone had on this project."

Grows Two 8-Footers

4-Year-Old Takes Sunflower Contest Honors

Beechwood on the Bay and The Quincy Sun announces this year's "Grow together" Sunflower Contest winner.

Grace Bulger; age 4; of Hatherly Rd., is the winning gardener with two eight foot sunflowers. Grace planted her seeds early in the summer.

"This became a family project", said Grace's mom Eileen. "Sister Alannah; age 7; and grandma, Patricia Kerwin helped Grace with the watering all summer."

Grace and her family accepted a cart full of prizes donated by Beechwood on the Bay and local businesses. The family will also be gifted with their very own subscription to The Quincy Sun.

Each summer Beechwood, Almquist Flowerland and The Quincy Sun sponsor this special Family "Grow Together" Contest throughout the City. Bob and Rhealyn Almquist once again donated highbred sunflower seeds for the 200 family participants.

The contest rules are simple: two or more family members must agree to "Grow Together"; The tallest sunflower wins the prize.

SUNFLOWERS eight feet tall tower over Grace Bulger, 4, of Hatherly Road, who grew them to win the annual 'Grow Together' sunflower contest sponsored by Beechwood on the Bay and The Quincy Sun.

French Students To Visit In Quincy-To-Quincy Exchange

Call it a Quincy (Cansee) to Quincy (Quinzee) exchange.

Twenty-three students from the Lycee Sainte Marie in Bourges, France, some from the suburb of Quincy (Cansee), will be visiting Quincy (Quinzee) later this month as part of a cultural exchange program with the Quincy Public Schools.

The eleves (French for students) will arrive Monday, Oct. 17, and live with host families while they attend classes, tour Quincy (Quinzee) and visit other sights in Greater Boston before leaving Thursday, Oct. 27.

Last April, 22 students who study French at Quincy and North Quincy High Schools traveled to the French city of Bourges, where many of them stayed with host families in Quincy (Cansee) while visiting the Lycee.

While in Quincy (Quinzee) the students will attend classes with their hosts, sit in on a School Committee meeting, make French presentations at middle schools and spend the weekend doing things with their host families.

Other highlights of the visit in Quincy (Quinzee) include an ice cream social at the Three Season, a trolley tour of the city, a visit to the Church of the Presidents, a pizza party and (optional) attendance at a Quincy High football game.

Outside of Quincy, visits are planned to points of interest in Boston, Plimoth Plantation, Harvard Square, Salem and the JFK Library to enhance their knowledge of the historic region.

The Quincy-to-Quincy exchange was conceived by Kathleen Swanson and Joanne Tribulauskas, heads of the Foreign Language Departments at North Quincy and Quincy Highs respectively, and their colleagues, Edie Kabakoff, Aliza Schneller, Amy Roth and Alma Bodinaku.

The concept was supported by Mayor William Phelan, the School Committee, Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, the State Street Corporation and Boston Financial Data Services.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH held a Blessing of the Animals Sunday following the 11 a.m. Mass. Here, the Rev. Richard Cannon, pastor, blesses Lady, held by owner Amanda Collins (center). The blessing coincided with the Feast of St. Francis, who is known for his love for and care of animals.

Do you have an adjustable rate mortgage or home equity loan?

Will you be able to afford your payment when rates start going up? Lots of people have gone with adjustable rate loans because they could "buy more house" or just because the rates were so low. But rates are starting to move up now. In fact, short-term rates went up more than a point over the past few months. Fed watchers say they'll be going up again soon. Did you always plan to switch to a fixed-rate loan before rates went up? Then we should talk. At Colonial Federal Savings Bank, we can make it very easy for you to convert to a fixed-rate loan. And fixed rates are still hovering near 50-year lows. Is that adjustable rate loan starting to make you nervous? Come see us. Or call 617-471-0750.

Those 'Good Old Days'

Today's City Council meetings are pretty tame compared to "the good old days" when mayors used to get involved in the sessions and sparks often flew.

The mayor's office is now on the third floor of new City Hall built during the administration of Joseph LaRaia in 1976-77.

Before then it was on the second floor of old City Hall just off the City Council chamber.

That office is now occupied by City Council President Frank McCauley.

When it was the mayor's office he was often there when the council was in session. And if a councillor had a question on some matter initiated by the mayor His Honor would be invited to come in and explain it if there were any questions.

Often he hung around for a good part of the meeting.

DELLA CHIESA

One night in April, 1960 Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa was asked for his views on the proposed abandonment of the Coddington School, now Quincy College.

SHEA

Ward 1 Councillor Charles Shea, a pepperpot in his day, had introduced a resolve to place the council in opposition to closing the school.

Closing the school was a good economic move and in the best interest of the city, Della Chiesa declared, opposing Shea.

Della Chiesa was a penny pinching mayor even more tight-fisted than McCauley who would become mayor 30 years later and squeeze pennies pretty tightly, too.

The fact that the council might block the abandonment of the Coddington School and the matter of street betterment abatements that came up earlier in the council meeting rankled Della Chiesa who held onto the city's money like he did his own.

This set the stage for a heated exchange between Della Chiesa and Shea.

The council earlier had deleted two streets from a list of streets on which betterments had been assessed following acceptance and construction.

One of the streets was Wendell Ave., Wollaston, where Eastern Nazarene College owned land and the other Island Ave., Houghs Neck, where the Great Hill School stood.

Della Chiesa noted that a homeowner on Wendell Ave. would also escape the betterment charge.

"You are giving away $700 of my money and your money and I don't like it," Della Chiesa said.

Shea had also sought to get an abatement for a Ratchford St., Houghs Neck, property owner on the grounds that he did not benefit from the construction of that street because he couldn't use the street due to the location of the dwelling.

Della Chiesa commented that such abatements were the work of "the give-away boys." That turned the heat up.

Shea took issue with the reference and asked Della Chiesa if he considered him (Shea) as one of the "give-away boys."

"I would call you the king of the give-away boys," Della Chiesa responded. "You can't say no. We would have a $200 tax rate if we had nine councillors like you!"

Shea countered that he only sought consideration for a few needy people. And, he wasn't a "give-away boy."

"We would never have any street work done in the city if you didn't have a councillor like me," Shea shot back.

He almost put his fist through his council desk to emphasize his strong feelings.

Councillor Carl Anderson, who had a long-time feud with City Manager William Deegan in the 1950s during the city's stormy marriage with the Plan E form of government, never missed an opportunity to get in a dig.

"Santa Claus is a mere piker compared to the give-away boys of Plan E," he said.

Later that night, Shea shook hands with Della Chiesa and said: "No hard feelings."

Three years later — in 1963— the two would tangle again, this time in a mayoral race won by Della Chiesa by an 8,000 vote margin.

The pair patched things up again and remained friends until Della Chiesa's death in 1975 at age 74.

Della Chiesa was one of the city's most popular — and powerful — mayors, serving 12 years, eight under Plan A and four under Plan E. (He also served eight terms as state representative.)

Nowadays, it's very rare for a mayor to appear at a City Council meeting. An aide represents him.

And, with cable television covering the meetings live, there really is no need for the mayor to be there.

Present Mayor William Phelan, for example, can watch the proceedings at home. And should he want to get some comment to the council all he has to do is call Dave Murphy, his Director of Operations, who represents him at the meetings and have it relayed.

A lot of people watch those meetings on Quincy Access TV. But the council sessions of the "good old days" would have made more lively viewing.

You never knew what was going to happen next. They were never dull.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1915 real photo postcard view of the Myles Standish Cairn in what is now known as Squantum Park. The Cairn marks the spot where Captain Myles Standish landed in 1621. He had traveled up from Plymouth with nine other pilgrims and three Indian guides to establish trade relations with the Massachusetts Indians who lived in this area. They were the first recorded white men to visit Squantum. The Cairn was erected in 1895 by the Daughters of the Revolution, headed by Lillian Huckins Titus, heiress to a large tract of Squantum land. She was known as the grand lady of Squantum. She also was responsible for the erection of the Abigail Adams Cairn on Penn's Hill. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Billings Road Fair Good For The Community

I stopped by the first annual multicultural Billings Road Fair in North Quincy's Norfolk Downs.

It was billed as a multicultural, fun-filled, family-style event for all. There were many families there with small children. Booths were set up by businesses. The largest lines seemed to be at the Irish Pub's table where free hot dogs were available to all.

As a police officer for the state Department of Mental Health, I do lots of community policing. At the fair I met officer Kent Yee from the Quincy Police Department doing his usual community policing.

Both Kent and I serve on the Atlantic Neighborhood Association. We both believe the real strength of a community is in its people.

Events like this fair are good for our neighborhood. I believe real community policing isn't just a job for cops but for everyone. We all do community policing when we work together to build our community, making it stronger and safer for all.

One of the organizers of the fair was Jacqueline Batchelder, who stated, "The emphasis again is about the neighborhood coming together at a time when there seems to be a sense of loss of community."

I agree fully with that statement. I also agree fully with the work of the North Quincy Business Partnership, which seeks to keep Norfolk Downs a vibrant part of the community fabric.

However, I do have one concern. I saw many businesses in Norfolk Downs not a part of this community fair. I was concerned that the Quincy Adams Home Depot was invited to be a part of the fair, but what about Paul O'Malley and O'Malley's Hardware? When I think of going to the hardware store, I go to Billings Road.

At the fair, Home Depot set up across from O'Malley's Hardware but Home Depot goes back to Quincy Adams after the fair while O'Malley's stays on Billings Road.

Next year we need to emphasize more on the diversity of Billings Road and broaden the scope of this great event.

As a first time event, it was great but obviously there is still work to be done to make it even better next year.

Shea Challenges Mayor Della Chiesa

Oct. 6-12
42 Years Ago

City Council President Charles L. Shea was preparing a November challenge for Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa after finishing second to the incumbent in the preliminary election.

Two preliminary races were almost too close to call with Leo J. Hannon Jr. finishing four votes ahead of Francis X. McCauley in the Ward 1 Council race and three within a whisker of each other in Ward 3.

John F. Koegler had 449 votes, Leo F. Burke had 439 and Fred A. Sisti 395 in the Ward 3 contest where it was believed that Sisti would ask for a recount.

Finishing fourth and out of contention in Ward 1 was young lawyer Arthur H. Tobin, who had promised in his campaign that he would lead the fight in the council to keep the MTA out of Quincy.

DAME BELIEVED DOGNAPPED

William (Rusty) Stackman, 9, of 47 Arthur St., West Quincy, was off to Farmington, Conn., the longest trip of his life, to see if a dog found there was his missing German Shepherd.

The dog, which answered to the name of "Dame," was believed to have been dognapped by a couple who were reported to have been seen by a witness taking the dog away in a Volkswagen with Connecticut plates.

An appeal for help from the Connecticut State Police touched off a New England-wide search for "Dame," who was thought to have been found by a Hartford Courant reporter in Farmington.

A woman in the Connecticut city said the dog that walked up to her home "looked like a bag of bones. But he was friendly with the kids and he answers to the description."

'The Wizard Of Oz' With Twist At ENC

The Communication Arts Department at Eastern Nazarene College will open its 30th anniversary theater season this month with a multi-cultural twist to the American classic "The Wizard of Oz."

L. Frank Baum's original story of Dorothy and her friends on the Yellow Brick Road comes to life on the stage with unique elements drawn from the Chinese myth "Journey to the West."

Both tales feature characters embarking on the path, or yellow brick road, of self-discovery, conquering fears and realizing their personal gifts and values.

Director Eunice Ferreira and Technical Director Michael Ballard also have incorporated Chinese theater techniques in the production, including symbolic and imaginative staging.

The Homecoming musical is an Easter Nazarene tradition of 39 years standing, bringing together a cast that includes students, alumni and local community children.

"The Wizard of Oz" will be performed during Homecoming Week, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 13 and 14, at 7 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 15, at 8 p.m. and continuing the following week, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 20 and 22 at 7 p.m.

Tickets are $12 for general admission.

Educational matinees are also scheduled for each Thursday and Friday at 10 a.m. for school and home groups.

For more information, call the box office at 617-745-3715.

Dr. Corlis McGee was sworn in last week as the 13th president of Eastern Nazarene College, the first woman ever to head the 105-year-old school in Wollaston.

"Rejoice, that God's faithfulness has brought ENC to her second century," she told inauguration ceremonies in the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

"Remember our rich traditions and history. (Let us) renew our commitment to academics, to service and to community."

Dr. McGee described her vision for ENC as development of a "community and a way of life where we can dream big dreams, hold each other accountable, spur one another on and increase our potential.

"We can continue to strengthen our mission, quality academics and Christian community."

Among those in attendance were Mayor William Phelan and representatives of a number of local colleges and Nazarene institutions.

Other events reflecting the celebratory theme of "Remember, Rejoice, Renew," were a concert of praise the night before and a 24-hour campus prayer walk.

Quincy Residents Honored As Blood Platelet Donors

Richard Joyce and Laurel Wainwright, both of Quincy, have been recognized by the Kraft Family Blood Donor Center at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute for their donations of blood platelets in the past year.

Joyce and Wainwright are members of the more than 60 "Team 20" platelet donors committed to donating platelets every other week throughout the year.

Platelets are clotting agents of the blood, which are vital to individuals fighting cancers, patients undergoing chemotherapy, recipient of organ transplants and those who suffer loss of blood during surgery.

"The dedication of our heroic donors gives strength to our patients," said Andrea Bremen, supervisor of donor recruitment at the Kraft Family Blood Donor Center.

"It is through their commitment to donating platelets, an essential, priceless resource, that our patients find new hope."

to the Germantown community."

"This is a great day for the people of Germantown," Yohe said. "The wonderful programs provided by Kathy Quigley and the neighborhood center will only get better.

"I am proud to be part of this great day for the Germantown community."

" We did it," Kelly said. "This community has worked for almost 10 years toward this day. This is a great day and this will be a great neighborhood center."

The church building was listed for sale by the Archdiocese of Boston and the YMCA bid was accepted by Archbishop Sean O'Malley late last week.

The purchase includes the church building and parking lot. The Archdiocese still owns the rectory which is now part of the newly configured Holy Trinity Church formed by the consolidation of St. Boniface, Our Lady of Good Counsel and Most Blessed Sacrament Church.

The YMCA will own the property, church building and parking lot. The city contributed funds through Federal Community Development Block Grant monies.

Julie Berberan Candidate For Councillor At-Large

Julie Berberan of 14 Riverview St., Houghs Neck, a community activist, announces her candidacy for city councillor at-large.

Berberan noted that as a private citizen, she has spent considerable time researching facts, writing to and meeting with city officials on local projects. "For every city project taxpayers should receive more than they had before the project was begun," she said.

Berberan said she "worked tirelessly" to help stop the building of a new Quincy High School on a Quincy Ave. site previously used by Bethlehem Steel Co. to dump toxic materials.

As for a new site for the high school and Central Middle School, she insists it would be more beneficial for taxpayer and students to restore the present high school building "than to waste millions building smaller schools with fewer educational capabilities and vocational programs."

"The $107 million plan to build a new Quincy High School would be the most expensive project ever voted on in the history of the Quincy city council," she said.

As a city councillor, she said, she "would stand up for the Quincy taxpayers and work to protect city schools and property from private development."

She said she continues to work to ensure that:

Ball fields are well maintained within neighborhoods where local children can walk to and ride a bicycle. The track and field facility at Veterans Stadium is suitable for track meets and should not be demolished in order to cover the football field with artificial turf until after a new centrally located track and field facility large enough to hold state track meets is built.

JULIE BERBERAN

Some affordable units should be built on the site of every new large housing development. The Hancock parking lot should not be developed for housing. Quincy should continue to be "a wonderful and affordable place for good people to want to live and raise their families."

Berberan attended Merrymount Elementary School, Central Middle and Quincy High School, and received her Bachelor degree from Bridgewater State College.

She and her husband, William Berberan, are the parents of five children: Diana, a student at Assumption College; Julia, at St. Michael's College; William, a student at Quincy High School; Aria, Broadmeadows School; and Jane, attending Snug Harbor School.

Those interested in participating in Berberan's campaign may write to her, call 617-773-9288 or e-mail julieberberan@aol.com.

QUESTIONS FROM THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Dear Residents of Quincy:

Over the past few months of going door to door and meeting as many of you as possible, I have had the privilege of listening to your questions and concerns. Some of the questions and concerns are common amongst most Quincy Residents. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to address them, so that you will have a better idea of where I stand on the issues. This week I will address the issues of building a new Quincy High School and the renovation of the Central and Sterling Middle Schools.

The New Quincy High School

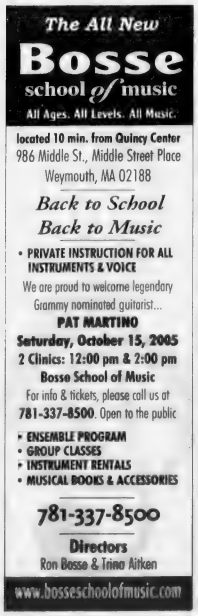
I believe a new Quincy High School should be built, if a suitable site can be located and if the 90 % Reimbursement from the State is secured. I am determined to do all in my power as a School Committee Member to ensure that a suitable site for the High School is located and that State and Federal funds are allocated to pay for the project. This is essential, so that citizens of Quincy are not burdened with higher taxes. I think it is important to keep all options on the table, so that the best possible resolution can be obtained for the City of Quincy. I believe that these options should include seeking an alternative site for the construction of the new High School and also the option of renovating and expanding the existing High School. However, I believe we must put an end to the delays in dealing with this issue so that progress can be made.

I am not in favor of building a high school on a tract of land that cannot accommodate the present and future needs of our school community. Once the new high school is built, it can reasonably be expected that it will be in operation in excess of 50 years. For this reason, it is essential that the High School be built to accommodate the needs of the school community, now and in the future. If we are to undertake such an important project, I believe we should do it right the first time.

Central and Sterling Middle Schools

In speaking with the residents of Quincy, one of their major concerns is the structural condition of the Central and Sterling Middle Schools. Many residents believe that the badly needed renovations of these two schools have taken a back seat to the new Quincy High School project. These renovations at Central have been needed since I attended there many years ago. I understand that the future of Central Middle School is dependent on the decision to either build new or renovate the existing high school. For this reason, if elected to the School Committee, I will strive to ensure that the Quincy High School and Central Middle School projects are resolved as expeditiously as possible. It is essential that all of our school buildings be a safe and effective learning environment for our students, teachers and administrators.

Unlike Central, the renovation of Sterling Middle School is not dependent on the high school project. I believe its renovation should not have been delayed. If elected to the School Committee I am determined to eliminate unnecessary delays in the renovation and maintenance of our school buildings.



If you have any questions, comments or suggestions please do not hesitate to contact me at the number below. I look forward to meeting you on the campaign trail.

Sincerely,

Kevin Mulvey

FIRE SAFETY

'Use Candles With Care' Fire Prevention Week Theme

Fire prevention week runs from Oct. 9 through Oct. 15 this year. Every year there is a theme and this year's theme is "Use Candles with Care, When you go out, blow out!"

There is a reason for choosing this theme. Nine out of 10 reported U.S. candle fires occur in homes. Reported candle fires rose 15 percent from 2000 to 2001, continuing a climb that began in 1990. Forty-one percent of home candle fires start in the bedroom, resulting in a quarter of the associated fire deaths. Eleven percent of the home candle fires start after someone falls asleep.

The NFPA's research also shows home candle fires follow a seasonal pattern. For instance, December has almost twice the number of home candle fires of an average month. The State Fire Marshal's Office reminds us candle fires have tripled in Massachusetts over the past decade.

Leaving candles unattended and using candles for light have been singled out as serious fire problems. Always stay awake in the room where candles are being burned. In a power outage, it is safer to use flashlights and other light sources generated by batteries. Never use candle for light when checking pilot lights or fueling equipment such as a kerosene heater or lantern, as the flame could ignite flammable vapors.

The NFPA recommends:

- Always stay in the room where candles are being burned.
- Keep lit candles at least one foot away from curtains, mattresses and anything that can burn. (I personally recommend a greater distance for safety.)
- Use sturdy candleholders that won't tip or burn.
- Burn candles on sturdy, uncluttered surfaces.
- Trim candle wicks to one-quarter inch before lighting.
- Keep hair and clothing away from flame when lighting candles.
- Extinguish candles when they burn within two inches of their holder.
- Use candles out of reach of children and pets.

The consequences of fire within a home are devastating and so often I conclude after witnessing these consequences, that they could have easily been avoided. Candles can be decorative and functional when used safely. You have here in this article some guidelines to do so safely as well. Please protect yourselves and your homes by using candles responsibly. Thank you.

Stop & Shop Customers Donate $1 Million To Hurricane Relief

Customer donations for Hurricane Katrina victims at the Quincy-based Stop & Shop/Giant Food supermarkets in the northeast states have reached the $1 million mark in the first two weeks of collecting..

Added to corporate donations, more than $2 million has been raised to date for the American Red Cross and America's Second Harvest-The Nation's Food Bank Network for disaster relief in the Gulf states.

"Katrina's devastation has affected the entire nation,": said Marc Smith, president and CEO of Stop & Shops Supermarket Company/Giant Food.

"Customers and associates are standing together in response to those who have lost everything — their homes, their families, and their way of life.

"I'm calling upon all of our store employees and valued customers top continue in their generosity in this critical time of need."

Downtown Master Plan Seen Ready In A Month

(Cont'd From Page 1)

Harrington. "We would have to take some buildings to create openings but not many."

Gary Sottile, a Quincy resident since 1992, said that one of his pet peeves is the lack of sidewalk space in the downtown area.

"I think it would be a really good idea to push some of the building facades back to accommodate more public landscape," he said.

"To me what matters most about downtown is what kind of emotion is being stimulated while you're there. It's about how the whole downtown looks and how it feels."

Several ideas were brought forward but rejected as impractical, ideas like a hotel, and senior citizens housing and making a mall out of Hancock Street between Granite and Elm Streets.

"It doesn't seem practical to mall Hancock Street," said Harrington, "but it might make sense to close it off at certain times, like Friday or Saturday nights or during a street fair."

Some 80 people turned out for the charrette, which disappointed Harrington.

"We were hoping for a larger turnout," he said. "But it's tough to get people out on a beautiful Saturday."

Said David Dixon. an urban planner from Goody, Clancy & Associates:

"The main purpose of the forum today, I think, was to understand the wonderful potential that Quincy Center has.

"Our visions reflect new economic opportunities and create community, a more likable community for an increasing diverse population.

"Some communities fear change and try to fend it off. Other communities, like Quincy, embrace change."

Mayor William Phelan noted that Quincy is "a city of neighborhoods, with a tremendous diversity of ethnic groups, professions, ages and household types.

"But we all meet in the heart of downtown, which is the true heart of Quincy, in the downtown."

Keegan Fundraiser Oct. 13 At Flanagan's

The Committee to Elect Joe Keegan will hold a fundraiser Thursday, Oct. 13, from 6 to 8 p.m. at Pat Flanagan's, 79 Parkingway, Quincy Center.

The suggested donation is $25 per person, $40 per couple. There will be food and a cash bar.

Keegan, a candidate for the School Committee, said he sees the current election year as an important one for the schools.

"To have the amount of issues facing the School Committee as we currently have it is imperative that we have members who are capable of performing the necessary functions that this position demands," he said.

"Being someone who has been involved in public service for a long period of time as well as being a father I have a responsibility to make sure that the school system is the best that it can possibly be.

"My past experience as a police officer will be able to shed some insight as to how best to keep our children safe within the school confines. Educating our children is extremely important and keeping them safe while we do so is vital.

"As someone who has continued with their education well into their adult life I understand the importance that education has in helping us to improve ourselves."

Keegan said a number of issues facing the School Committee have been brought to his attention by the voters.

"One of the biggest issues facing the School Committee is the building of a new Quincy High School," he said. "There has been far too much talk, and far too many changes to this project.

"Leadership needs to be provided on this issue and as an independent voice on the School Committee I will ensure that the city receives the generous 90 per cent reimbursement that the state has guaranteed us.

"I commit to the taxpayers that we will not spend a nickel more than we have to get this done."

Make A Checklist Of Potential Household Hazards

With the fall season upon us, change is in the air. The leaves are turning color, sweaters are replacing tank tops and kids are heading back to school. In the spirit of change, take some time to make simple updates in your home that could keep your loved ones safe.

According to a 2004 study conducted by the University of North Carolina's Injury Prevention Research Center, home accidents result in 21 million medical visits every year. Curious infants and toddlers can get their hands into trouble around the house. Inspect your home, one room at a time, making a checklist of potential hazards.

The following tips will help you identify — and eliminate — some common household risks.

Bedroom

• Make sure cribs are properly assembled and meet current safety standards. It is also important that the mattress fits snugly.

• Remove all toys and pillows from cribs to reduce the risk of suffocation. Place infants on their backs to sleep.

• Keep cribs away from the windows and check window coverings for cord-strangulation hazards. Mini blinds and shades made before 2001 should be retrofitted or replaced with today's safer products or cordless designs. Visit the website www.windowcoverings.org or call the Window Coverings Safety Council at 1-800-506-4636 to order free retrofit kits.

• Make sure you have a working smoke alarm not only in the bedroom, but also on each level of your home. Test alarms regularly and be sure to replace the batteries at least once a year.

Living Room

• Secure all bookcases, shelving and heavy furniture. Place heavier items on lower shelves and in bottom drawers.

• Cover all unused wall outlets with plug protectors.

• Keep all houseplants out of reach of little hands — many are poisonous.

• Make sure that all window cords are out of the reach of young children.

Kitchen

• Keep sharp knives or utensils out of reach and make sure that knife blades are pointing down when placed in a dishwasher's cutlery basket. Put safety locks on drawers that contain sharp or hazardous items.

• When cooking, always use the backburners and turn pot handles toward the back of the stove.

• Keep hot foods and liquids away from young children. The vast majority of microwave burns among children are scald burns.

• Many household items can be harmful if ingested or spilled on skin. Keep poisons such as bleach and other cleaning supplies in an out-of-reach, locked cabinet.

• In case an accident does occur, always leave a list of emergency contacts such as doctors, poison control, fire department, police and neighbors by phone.

Bathroom

• Set the thermostat of your hot water heater to higher than 120 degrees — it takes just three seconds for a child to sustain a third degree burn at 140 degrees.

• Keep all medicine out of children's reach and lock medicine cabinets. Even items that may seem harmless, like nail polish, can be dangerous. Whenever possible, request child-restraint packaging.

• Install toilet safety locks to keep children from falling in and drowning.

• Apply a non-skid strip to your bathtub to avoid slipping. Never leave an infant unattended in the bathtub.

Homebuyer Workshop Oct. 15 At Citizens Bank

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will hold a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop Saturday, Oct. 15, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Citizens Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy.

Topics covered include mortgage options, legal aspects of the homebuying process, how a home inspection works and other presentations from real estate professionals. Participants must complete the workshop to qualify for grant programs.

Prior to attending a First-Time Homebuyer Workshop, all participants must attend a free Introductory Session to evaluate credit history and determine level of mortgage readiness. It's strongly suggested attendees obtain a current copy of their credit report.

The next Introductory Session will be held Oct. 11 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Citizens Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy. Call in advance to register or discuss dates of future workshops.

October Is Window Covering Safety Month

Every October for the past century, our nation turns its eyes to the World Series of baseball. It's a time to take pleasure in sport and family, and is truly an American tradition. This October, while enjoying America's favorite pastime, hit a home run by thinking about safety in your home.

Parents and caregivers should consider window-cord safety. Since 1991, more than 175 infants and children have died from accidentally strangling in window cords.

October is National Window Covering Safety Month. The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission and the Window Covering Safety Council (WCSC) are co-sponsoring a month-long educational campaign urging parents to repair or replace mini blinds and corded window coverings purchased before 2001 with today's safer products. In addition, fully cordless mini blinds and vertical blinds are now widely available and recommended for use in children's rooms and play areas.

In recent years, the window covering industry has redesigned its corded products and developed cord-safety standards to respond to child strangulation concerns. Looped pull cords were eliminated from mini blinds as of 1995, permanent tie-down devices were attached to vertical blinds and traverse draperies in 1997, and built-in cord stops were added to horizontal blinds and corded shades beginning in 2001.

Still, many consumers have not taken the action necessary to update their window coverings, and new parents are sometimes unaware of potential cord dangers.

This October, window covering merchants across the country are being urged to display signs and materials featuring a "Kids, Cords, Caution" slogan to remind parents to update or replace their older corded window coverings.

"Because cord-safety features are now built into window coverings, we believe parents will feel more confident about their child's safety if they replace their older window coverings with the products now available," said Peter Rush, executive director of the industry's Window Covering Safety Council. "We also recommend that parents consider using cordless window coverings in children's bedrooms and play areas."

Consumers can order free tassels, tie-downs and cord stops for retrofitting cords from the WCSC by visiting www.windowcoverings.org or calling 1-800-506-4636.

Washing the Washer

Q. My roommate and I got a used washing machine for our apartment through an Internet trade. It's more than 10 years old, but works fine and doesn't leak. However, the first time I washed clothes in it, they came out covered with lint and flecks of unidentifiable gunk. I thought I wiped down the inside thoroughly. Where did this stuff come from, and how do I get rid of it? — Kirstie in Rhode Island

A. Getting a used appliance can be a real money-saver, but if the machine is damaged, rusty or has built-up mineral deposits inside, much of your savings could be used up in re-washing items or buying replacement parts.

In this case, the washing machine is working just fine, so you're dealing with a built-up gunk problem. This gunk is all the little things that have been washed off of dirty clothes for years, like lint and dirt and grease, along with old soap residue and mineral deposits from the water used to wash them.

Put the washing machine through its own set of wash cycles. First, run the machine empty, letting it fill completely with hot water and adding two cups of white vinegar or lemon juice. The agitation and draining should loosen a lot of crud. Let the cycle finish, then run a second cycle of plain hot water to rinse. You can also run an optional third cycle of plain water with a couple of old, large towels thrown in to scrub the sides of the wash barrel, just to make sure most of the gunk is gone.

In older machines, a little rust is sometimes visible around the edges of the barrel's drain holes. Products are available at home-improvement and appliance stores to specifically deal with this small amount of rust.

Clean the bleach dispenser with a spray cleaner, old cloth and Q-tips. Remove and soak the fabric softener dispenser. Scrub the top rim of the wash barrel in front and behind, where a lot of dirt can hide.

home tip

Did candy or gum stick to the inside of your washing machine? Make a paste of baking soda and a little water and scrub the gum away using a nylon brush or durable cloth.

Something else you'll want to do, now and every three to six months, is unplug the power cord and vacuum dust from underneath and around the machine. If you have a dryer, do the same — and clean the air vent at the back of the dryer. It's a chore, but it can prevent a fire.

Presidents Fall To Plymouth North

By CHRIS POISSON

FOOTBALL

The Quincy and Plymouth North high school football teams met last Saturday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium with the winner gaining an early edge in the race for the Atlantic Coast League championship.

With great defensive performances by both squads, the Blue Eagles capitalized on two crucial Presidents' mistakes to escape with a 13-7 victory — the first time the visiting team has won in this match-up since Quincy joined the ACL in 2001.

"If you want to win a championship, that's certainly one of the teams you need to beat to get there," said head coach Bob Noble. "We gave them too many opportunities to win the game.

"The good thing is one loss in this league isn't necessarily going to kill you. Have we won, yeah, it would have been momentum for us. We have to come back and beat Whitman-Hanson."

Quincy (1-2 overall, 1-1 Atlantic Coast League) will look to bounce back tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 when it hosts the Panthers at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Neither team had much success offensively, which may be because they know each other's tendencies so well.

"We know each other extremely well," Noble said. "I think you could see that. They had us pretty good and we had them pretty good. It was a great defensive battle on both sides. Lots of intensity. That was a good high school football game. Obviously you don't want to be on the down side of it."

Plymouth North blocked a punt on the Presidents' first possession of the game and took over at the Quincy 31. The Blue Eagles received a gift when Quincy committed a personal foul penalty on third-and-14 to give them a first down.

Four plays later, halfback Rafe Veiga ran 4 yards off right tackle into the end zone and Steve McSharry added the extra point for a 7-0 lead with 3:51 left in the first quarter.

"They got a break," Noble said. "On third-and-long, a personal foul penalty gave them an opportunity to score. They took advantage of it."

In the second quarter, Plymouth North converted a third-and-long play with a 37-yard halfback option pass to the Quincy 23. But the Blue Eagles stalled and McSharry missed a 33-yard field goal attempt.

The game turned a bit sloppy, thereafter. Quincy punted on the ensuing possession but got the ball back when Plymouth North fumbled the return. Three plays later, the Presidents handed the ball back on a botched center-quarterback exchange. The Blue Eagles, though, coughed the ball up again on their series.

In the second half, the Presidents forced Plymouth North to punt deep in its own territory on its first series. Senior captain and defensive lineman Dan Neenan broke through, blocked the kick and pounced on the loose ball in the end zone for the TD. Senior captain Everton DeCastro's extra point tied the game at 7 with 3:53 left in the quarter.

"That was a great special teams play," Noble said. "That got us right back in the game."

On Plymouth North's next series, it faked a punt on fourth down from its 49-yard line. Punter Harry Sims tossed a shovel pass to halfback John Brouillard, who knifed his way through the defense for a 32-yard gain to the Quincy 19.

"The punt fake was a huge play for them," Noble said. "You have to give them credit, it was a nice play and the kid made a nice run."

Brouillard picked up seven yards on fourth-and-2 to the 4-yard line and three plays later found the end zone from 1 yard out. McSharry's extra point made it 13-7 with 9:10 remaining in the game.

Noble was upset with his team for a penalty that cost them a chance to get the ball back at the end of the game. Plymouth North had fourth-and-3 at its 37 with under two minutes left. Coming out of a timeout, the Blue Eagles were going to punt but Quincy was penalized for having too many men on the field.

"It's disappointing, the play at the end of the game," Noble said. "We called for the punt team and some of our defensive players didn't come off the field for whatever reason. At the minimum, it cost us one last shot at it. That's inexcusable."

North Girls Dominate Quincy In Soccer

Displaying a crisp passing attack and converting scoring opportunities, the North Quincy High School girls' soccer team dominated cross-town rival Quincy, 9-1, last Wednesday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Red Raiders followed with a 2-1 victory at Martha's Vineyard last Saturday to improve to 5-2-2 overall.

North Quincy, which played Falmouth Monday and Sandwich Wednesday, will travel to Nauset today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. and to Medford next Monday at 1 p.m.

Against Quincy, senior captain Annmarie Campanale made her presence felt immediately in her first game back after missing four with illness. She netted her fourth goal of the year with senior defender Robert Phelan assisting 90 seconds into the game.

Quincy's Leah Wood got the Presidents on the board midway through the half, knocking a ball past North Quincy senior keeper Kelly Barden.

North Quincy came right back as senior forward Katie Anderson tipped in a Stille pass for her second of the year. McCleary scored the sixth goal and junior defender Allison Russell converted sophomore Mary Kate Stille's pass for a 7-1 halftime lead.

The Presidents' defense stiffened in the second half, holding the Red Raiders to two goals. McCleary scored with Emily Milone assisting and Milone then fed Lauren Stille to close out the scoring.

"Offensively, that is the best we've played all season," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "Our passing was sharp and we maintained possession which helped us control play. Our scoring was spread out with seven different girls getting goals."

Against Martha's Vineyard, the hosts dominated play early and scored 12 minutes into the game on senior Kate Clark's goal.

North Quincy responded at the 31-minute mark when Mary Kate Stille sent in McCleary, who slotted the ball past the defenseless keeper to even the score.

At 6:30 of the second half, McCleary netted her 11th goal of the season, finding the back of the net off a Lauren Milone corner kick.

The Red Raiders, who endured another physical game, held on as Barden came up big in goal while defenders Bridget Coleman, Tara Whooley and Phelan all stood out. Junior midfielder Jillian Benn shut down the Vineyard's Taylor MacDonald. Junior midfielder Megan Therrien played well in her first action of the season.

WINTER PREP

The more extreme the weather conditions, the greater the likelihood of a vehicle breakdown. Thus, as winter approaches, vehicle owners are strongly encouraged to have their vehicles inspected. The most common deficiencies that auto technicians are confronted with during the winter months are weak batteries, worn or damaged wiper blades, clogged air filters, low washer fluid, dirty or low motor oil, and/or low antifreeze levels. Bear in mind that it is far better to have the technician perform tasks such as checking the battery for loose and corroded cables and inspecting all belts and hoses than it is to have these components fail and leave your stranded on a cold, dark highway.

Don't be stranded! Let us at LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO help you today! Call us, (781-843-1550), to make an appointment to have your car inspected at 258 Quincy Ave., E. Braintree as soon as you can. Winter is coming, and we want to help you be ready. Preventive maintenance is financially effective. Getting an inspection now, can save you time and money down the road of life. We are "A Place Where Your Car Can Live Longer." Open: Mon.-Fri. 6am-9pm, Sat. 7am-9pm, Sun. 9am-5pm.

HINT: Failure to engage in preventive maintenance may leave you high and dry without a clue as to what is wrong. It is far easier to nip a problem in the bud than to try to diagnose it yourself after a system failure

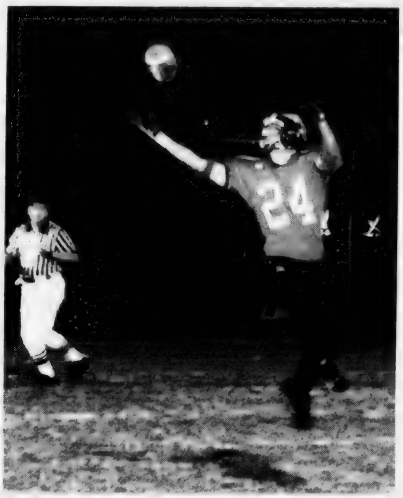
Raiders Seek First Win At Plymouth North

By CHRIS POISSON

The North Quincy High School football team gained momentum with a touchdown right before halftime of last Friday's game against Falmouth at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

But the Red Raiders couldn't carry it over into the second half as they were once again plagued by costly mistakes and penalties, resulting in a 30-7 loss



"It's just really frustrating," said head coach Bill Shaughnessy. "I feel bad for these guys because they worked their butts off. They didn't quite at all. We don't get any breaks at all, and we continue to make mistakes."

North Quincy (0-4 overall, 0-2 Atlantic Coast League) will look to pick up its first win when it travels to Plymouth North tomorrow (Friday) at 6:30 p.m.

Ahead 22-0, the Clippers had the ball near midfield with 59 ticks left in the first half looking for another score.

But the Red Raiders' defense buckled down. Senior defensive tackle Mike Regan sacked quarterback Mike Kotfila on third down and junior defensive back David Guerriero blocked the punt to inject life into his team.

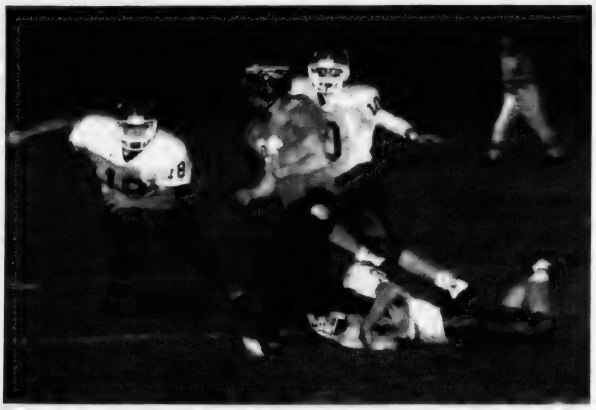
In the second half, the Red Raiders recovered a Falmouth fumble on its opening series but they couldn't capitalize. They punted on two possessions and turned the ball over on downs on their final series.

"We had the momentum going into the half and then they fumbled the ball and we got the ball back," Shaughnessy said. "Again, we're not consistent. We have spurts. We make a mistake and shoot ourselves in the foot."

Falmouth closed out the scoring with 4:45 remaining in the game when Kotfila fired a 14-yard TD strike to wideout Adam O'Donnell. Kotfila connected with Josh Boulay for the 2-point conversion.

North Quincy opened the game with a nice looking drive powered by its running game. It moved the ball 40 yards to the Falmouth 30 before a pair of penalties and a fumble pushed them back to midfield.

The Clippers got on the scoreboard on their third play from scrimmage when tailback Kevin Craft jetted 59 yards into the end zone for a 6-0 lead. The extra point failed.



After the Red Raiders went three out, Falmouth took over at the North Quincy 31 on Craft's 30-yard punt return. Kotfila threw a 27-yard pass to Eli Olsen on a third-and-17 play and two plays later Craft punched the ball in from 2 yards outs. Kotfila hit Craft for the 2-point conversion for a 14-0 lead with 7:28 left in the half.

Four minutes later, Kotfila and O'Donnell hooked up again on a slant pattern for a 22-yard TD. Craft rushed for the 2-point conversion for a 22-0 advantage.

"I don't think we came to play defensively," Shaughnessy said. "It's a tough offense to go against because it's a slow-moving offense. Once they get rolling, getting 3 yards a time, it just eats up the clock and we're in trouble from there."

Tufo rushed for 59 yards on 14 carries and Costa, who injured his toe the previous week, picked up 30 yards. O'Mahony threw for 101 yards with the touchdown and no interceptions.

"We see a lot of positive things on the field and then we see a lot of negative things on the field," Shaughnessy said. "We have spurts in the game and then all of a sudden it just breaks down."

KEVIN ADAMS meets a trio of Falmouth defenders after catching an 8-yard pass for a first down in the second quarter.

Defeats Nauset, Quincy And Arlington Catholic

Perfect North Quincy Remains Undefeated

By CHRIS POISSON

VOLLEYBALL

The North Quincy High School girls' volleyball team went a perfect 3-0 last week to remain undefeated this season.

The Red Raiders (9-0) posted 3-0 victories over Nauset last Friday, cross-town rival Quincy last Wednesday and Arlington Catholic last Monday.

They opened the season with wins over Milford, Marshfield, powerhouse New Bedford, Whitman-Hanson, Plymouth North and Boston Latin.

The triumph over Plymouth North was the 400th career victory for head coach Jim Rendle, who also has captured six state championships in his 21 seasons.

"I wouldn't say I'm surprised but very pleased," said Rendle of his team's blazing start. "We had some holes but we covered it up with real good serving and consistent fundamental defense."

North Quincy, which traveled to nemesis Barnstable Tuesday and hosted Plymouth South Wednesday, will head to Falmouth (tomorrow) Friday at 5:30 p.m.

In the Nauset game, the Red Raiders cruised against a weaker league opponent, winning 25-5, 25-8, 25-10. "We got to play a lot of our subs," Rendle said. "We got a lot of good play from a lot of different players."

Against the Presidents, North Quincy hung on for a 26-24 win in the first game and controlled the second and third games, winning 25-12, 25-15.

"The first game was very close, very competitive," Rendle said. "I think we were a little nervous and we made some mistakes. Quincy's Ashlee Scott got hot and really ran off a lot of points. In the second and third games we settled down."

Connolly powered the offense with 19 kills to go along with five blocks. Senior libero Yvonne Tam totaled 11 digs and five aces. Sophomore middle hitter Virginia Wong played a strong all-around game with three aces, three blocks and six kills. Della Croce registered 23 assists.

In the Arlington Catholic game, North Quincy came up big down the stretch of each game, winning 25-21, 25-22, 25-19.

"It was a very competitive game all the way," Rendle said. "It wasn't until the end of each match that we pulled away. I was real pleased with our poise."

Senior outside hitters Lauren Aikens and Allison Aupperlee combined for nine kills and 19 digs. Sophomore Rebecca Goreham came up with three blocks and two kills. Della Croce recorded nine digs in the last two games and Connolly had 17 kills.

Against Whitman-Hanson Sept. 23, the Red Raiders received a balanced offensive attack.

Connolly led the way with 12 kills followed by Aikens (six), Aupperlee (five) and Wong (five). Acton had two kills of the bench.

In the Plymouth North game Sept. 21, Della Croce recorded 16 assists and 10 service points. Connolly tallied 12 kills and Tam had four aces and did a great job digging.

Against Boston Latin Sept. 20, Connolly powered the offense with 18 kills. Goreham had four blocks and three kills. Junior setter Arta Dashi had nine digs and senior libero Winnie Wiwatyukhan eight. Senior libero Tricia Wong served well.

In the showdown against New Bedford Sept. 16, the Red Raiders took the first two games, dropped the third game and rebounded in the fourth game.

Connolly had 18 kills and Goreham four blocks. Della Croce served well down the stretch with four aces and nine service points.

"It was a great team win," Rendle said. "To date, it was our best win of the year. They're a real, legitimate team. It was a turning point. We hadn't put our offense in yet. Early on, you expect to falter a bit and we didn't, not in that match."

O'Rourke Park, Forbes Hill Runners-Up

Squantum Playground's Red Sox Baseball Tops Recreation Contest

Riding the wave of popularity generated by the World champion Boston Red Sox, Squantum Playground created a giant paper mache baseball to capture first place in the Quincy Recreation Department's recent annual arts and crafts contest.

The baseball, complete with a Red Sox logo, was the top vote-getter in the two-day exhibit held at MacIntyre Mall.

Squantum edged out O'Rourke Park's colorful flip-flop, also made of paper mache, by a mere two votes, with close to 500 persons casting their ballots.

The third-place winner from Forbes Hill was a replica of Adams Field in recognition of the Babe Ruth World Series held at the park. It was only four votes out of first place.

The recreation leaders and participants from 19 playgrounds created projects for the exhibits and local business establishments donated prizes for the winning entries.

"We are indebted to our sponsors, who through their generosity, insure that the hard work of these youngsters does not go unrewarded," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "Our traditional program would not go on without their sponsorship."

The exhibit was coordinated by the summer arts and crafts specialists, Caitlin Foley, Erin Croke, Meghan McLean and Christina Conley.

SQUANTUM PLAYGROUND grabbed first place in the recent arts and crafts contest with its "World Champion Red Sox Baseball."

The Squantum recreation leaders are Jimmy Burke, David Finnegan, Kristin Grazioso and Alyssa Fontana. The participants were Annie Dow, Kathleen Calhan, Taylor Shepard, Caroline Kiley, Meghan White, Shannon Glynn and Colleen Bellotti.

The O'Rourke recreation leaders are Jonathan Allen, Christine Foley, Katherine Shea and Coleman McDonagh. The participants were Arianna Viscione, Ciara Viscione, Bridget McAdams, Samantha Plant, Abby Smith, Kyle Plant, Devin Djerf, Jessie Thuma, Brendan McAdams, Julia Ford, Paul Ford, Erin Richardson, Charles O'Brien, Shane McDevitt and Ciaron McDevitt.

The merchants who supplied the pizzas were Balducci's Pizza, Frozen Freddy's, Old Rail Road Café, Spunkies, Ginger Betty's, Copeland Pizza, Dairy Freeze and Time Out Pizza.

The top 10 finishers were Bradford Park (fourth), Happy Acres (fifth), Montclair (sixth), Kincaide (seventh), Fore River (eighth), Atlantic (ninth) and Beechwood Knoll (10th).

O'ROURKE PARK earned second-place honors in the recent arts and crafts contest with its "Giant Flip-Flop."

FORBES HILL placed third in the recent arts and crafts contest with its "Replica of Adams Field."

What Is Carpal Tunnel Syndrome?

By Dr. JAY PROVENZANO

Carpal Tunnel Syndrome (CTS) results from compression on the median nerve between the flexor sheath and other structures within the carpal tunnel of the wrist. It may result from direct pressure on the nerve or from vascular deficiency of the median artery. In primary CTS, the median nerve will show decreased nerve conduction velocities through the carpal tunnel.

Possible causes of increased pressure in the carpal tunnel can include: swelling of the common flexor tendon sheath, wrist fractures, accumulation of scar tissue or lunate (a wrist bone) dislocation. It may also be the result of a "double crush" syndrome which is entrapment of the nerve at two different sites, i.e.: neck and elbow.

Graston Technique (GT) is an instrument-assisted soft tissue mobilization for scar tissue adhesions and restriction which results in pain, weakness and functional limitations. The instruments are made of stainless steel and have a beveled edge to allow for deeper penetration of the soft tissue structures.

CTS is a very treatable condition. By utilizing the GT tools we can break up scar tissue and muscle tension in the forearm. This allows for decreased compression of the nerves and normal flow of nervous tension. Most patients notice a difference after their second and even first treatments. However, this treatment involves patient participation as well. The patient must exercise and stretch on a regular basis for optimal results.

With any injury the least invasive treatment should always be the first choice. Medications have multiple side effects that can lead to liver and kidney dysfunction. Surgery is not always 100 percent successful and can lead to other problems in the future.

FROM START TO FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Expanded Workouts

Q: My fitness center has lots of exercise machines to choose from. When I joined I was shown how to use a circuit line of machines, which I'm comfortable with and really enjoy. I see other members using lots of different machines in one workout. Should I try some other machines or stick with what I know?

A. Although many exercise machines may look different, often they are working the same muscles but in a slightly different way. It is important to remember that more does not mean better. Using more exercise machines does not mean you will see quicker results. How well you perform the exercises and the overall structure of your exercise routine is what will provide the best benefits.

It is common in many fitness facilities to see members move between multiple exercise machines, free weights and resistance bands during their workouts. This may seem exciting, but unless you know why they are using all these different types of exercise tools, I would suggest sticking with a routine you can safely perform.

A major reason other members may be moving through a variety of machines is to keep their workouts from becoming tedious or boring. Many people find it difficult to complete the same set of exercises each time they come to the gym and want some variety to keep them interested.

The use of different exercise machines may be necessary when it is time to advance your workout to the next level. There may be certain machines in your fitness center that require you to have developed basic strength and confidence before you can progress to a machine that may require more stability and understanding of your body.

For example, if you told the fitness instructor who designed your initial workout program that you were a beginner and had never used exercise equipment before, he or she most likely choose the exercises you now are performing based on that information. As a beginner, an instructor would have chosen machines that are easy to adjust and maneuver, that would not aggravate any existing injuries and that would not be intimidating. If you are interested in trying new exercise machines, I suggest seeking the advice of a fitness professional to safely teach you how.

There is nothing wrong with learning how to use different exercise equipment, so long as it's used safely and will help you move toward your fitness goals.

Always consult a physician before beginning an exercise program. If you have a fitness or training question, e-mail Andrea at letters.kfws@ hearstsc.com or write her in care of King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475.

A CRACKED TOOTH

Some patients have experienced a sharp pain when biting down, which either quickly disappears or they simply ignore. Later on, however, they may begin to avoid certain foods or chew on only one side of their mouths. If so, indications are that they have a cracked tooth. Teeth may crack as a result of chewing on hard objects, an accident or blow to the mouth, grinding or clenching the teeth, uneven chewing pressure, or stress on a tooth. Other reasons include loss of tooth structure through wear, large fillings, or other restorations; exposure of tooth enamel to temperature extremes; or tooth brittleness. Depending on the size or location of the crack, treatment may vary from bonding to root canal treatment.

Our highly skilled professional team delivers the best possible dental care to you through state-of-the-art technology with a personal, caring touch. Our extensive dental training and experience allows us to understand and treat your specific needs. Comprehensive oral health built on a preventive approach is what we're about, and giving you a healthy beautiful smile is what we're aiming for. Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. Extraction is sometimes necessary for a severely cracked tooth.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Wednesday, Aug. 17, Detectives John Menz and Nancy Coletta obtained an arrest warrant for a 46-year-old Quincy man, on a charge of rape. At the time this crime occurred, neither detective was involved in police work. Detective Coletta was working in a toxicology lab and Detective Menz just finished his freshman year in college.

LT. DAN MINTON

The warrant was served on the suspect, who was already in prison. In 2004, he slashed the face of the store manager of Wal-Mart, with a box cutter, while attempting to escape from a shoplifting offense. Coincidentally, Detective Menz was involved in the suspect's apprehension and conviction.

The rape actually happened on Aug. 19, 1990, on Pond St, when the suspect not only raped the victim, but also attempted to murder her in front of her young child.

Back then, Detectives Paul Hussey and Linda Sparks conducted interviews and collected all available physical evidence, then questioned suspects but were unable to identify the suspect. The case was dormant for 14 years. Their professionalism made it possible for today's detectives to pursue the case.

In August of 2005, Detective Coletta, while reviewing old rape investigations (cold cases), noted that there was substantial, well preserved physical evidence available that could be tested today using technology not available to law enforcement in 1990. She submitted the evidence for chemical/DNA analysis, urging the lab to test as soon as possible.

Just two days prior to the Statue of Limitations, the period of time that a suspect can be charged with this offense (15 years for rape), the State Police Lab CODIS (Combined Offender DNA Index System) provided a match that positively identified the suspect. The suspect's DNA was on file under a new Massachusetts law requiring all convicted felons to provide the Commonwealth with their DNA. Detective Menz traveled out of state to locate the victim, and after calming her and alleviating her fears, obtained more information and evidence for prosecution.

The suspect was interrogated by Detective Menz, who was ab le to solicit crucial statements to aid in prosecution. The CODIS results also linked the suspect to other sexual assaults involving children.

Detectives Menz and Coletta were commended by Chief Crowley for their outstanding work. Detectives James Lencki and William Brabazon were also recognized for their investigative efforts

These detectives were able to beat the "legal time clock," obtain an arrest warrant, provide emotional closure for the victim, and link the suspect to other cases of abuse.

Nice work!

'Quincy Cares' Challenges Local Business Firms

Mayor William Phelan and the "Quincy Cares" Committee have issued a challenge to Quincy's local businesses to develop fundraising ideas to contribute to the "Quincy Cares" campaign, an effort to aid the victims of Hurricane Katrina.

The top 10 fundraising businesses will be recognized publicly at the major "Quincy Cares" event at the Quincy Marriott on Thursday, Oct. 13. More than 1,000 people are expected at the event.

Fundraising ideas developed so far include a hair salon conducting a "Quincy Cares" day and donating all the proceeds from that day to the cause, collection cans at many stores, and bartenders at a local establishment will donate all their shifts' gratuities to the cause.

"I challenge our local business community to develop innovative ways to participate in this historic charitable effort," said Phelan. "We will proudly recognize those businesses that give their talents and efforts to the cause."

The "Quincy Cares" effort aims to raise $1 million for the people of Jefferson Parish, La. Jefferson Parish is located directly west of New Orleans and suffered significant water and wind damage from Hurricane Katrina. The 14-year-old Babe Ruth baseball team from Jefferson Parish participated in both the 2003 and 2005 Babe Ruth World Series hosted by Quincy.

"We have never seen a disaster of this magnitude and the people of the Gulf Coast need our help," Phelan said. "The news cameras will leave but their troubles still remain. I ask that our city again tap the community spirit that makes Quincy the greatest city on Earth."

For tickets to the "Quincy Cares" gala fundraiser, contact Dan Flynn's office at 617-479-9000 or Mayor Phelan's office at 617-376-1990.

Bracken Seeks Details On Neponset River Bridge Repairs

Mark Bracken, candidate for Ward 6 city councillor, filed an official request with the State's Department of Conservation and Recreation, formerly known as the MDC and the Mass Highway Department requesting details on construction plans for the Neponset River Bridge.

"Traffic in the neighborhood is an issue that comes up more than half the time I am talking with Ward 6 residents," Bracken said. "Traffic has an enormous impact in our community, particularly now as kids return to school." "There needs to be open channels of communication between the state agencies, the local government and ward residents."

Over the coming 18-24 months, the state expects to perform substantial repairs to the bridge, Bracken said. The bridge has not undergone any major construction projects since the 1980's when substantial repairs were last made, he said. Bracken said he is adamant that residents should be given as much information as soon as possible about the potential effects that bridge repairs will have on traffic in Ward 6 neighborhoods. For example, the state is considering whether to repair or possibly replace the bridge, he said.

"Ward 6 is in a traffic crisis right now," Bracken said. "Travel along the northern parts of Hancock St. is almost impossible in the morning and during rush hour at night - and the same goes for Quincy Shore Drive during rush hour. Anything that is going to further inconvenience the residents of Ward 6 must be addressed."

"While proposed plans have not been raised in public, neighbors have begun to discuss the potential construction plans concerning the Neponset River Bridge. Folks I have spoken with believe that it is something the community needs and something the community should have input on. If elected Ward 6 City Councillor, I will work diligently to ensure that we as a community have a say on the construction plans for the bridge and any project that is going to adversely affect a resident of this ward."

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

DOORS. . . Ever think about how many doors you have passed through in your life? Silly question? Not really. . .

We all have seen the sign over certain doors in public buildings. "Exit" or "This Way Out." This designation over doors has a figurative as well as literal meaning. All of our lives, and particularly when we are young, we will be going through many doors. It can mean opportunity, service, and happiness when the doors lead into something beneficial. In this sense education and religion are doors which open to us new vistas of meaningful living. . .

But there are other doors which lead only to frustration and unhappiness. One of these doors opens the way to quick wealth by dishonest means; another to satisfying revenge; another to avarice and greed. . . It seems that the doors opening the way to experience of this type are unfortunately much more numerous than those opening upon a happy life.

When we approach a door which we think will lead us to a new dimension of life, we should look up before we pass through. . . Above many will be the sign, "This Way Out.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A workplace change doesn't seem to have turned out quite as you'd hoped. Never mind: Just treat yourself to a healthy dollop of that Aries self-confidence, and you'll soon view things differently.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Some of the support you might have hoped for in a difficult situation might not be there. But you have the strength to rely on your own capabilities if you must. Good luck.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A disagreement with a longtime friend can be painful, but it can also be a learning lesson. Insist on a full and complete airing of views. You'll both come away the better for it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A stalled relationship can be restarted with some give and take on both sides. And while it could take more time than you expect, don't rush it. Be patient, and let it happen naturally.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) An opportunity to move a long-stalled project from concept to construction might be opening up for the Big Cat. Meanwhile, be prepared to spend more time dealing with family matters.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Use your Virgo organizational skills to line up support to help you deal with a sticky workplace problem. A personal matter might also be helped with friendly intervention.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Trying to resolve a workplace problem with a longtime associate can be difficult. Consider bringing in an impartial third party to help you both reach a mutually acceptable solution.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to assess your current career situation. Consider whether you have a chance to move up where you are now, or if you should look elsewhere.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) With education being a dominant part of this week's aspect, one of the things you might want to think about is taking courses to enhance your career opportunities.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might have a problem trying to stay focused on a matter you'd rather not deal with. But the sooner you do, the sooner it will be resolved and out of the way.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) An unforeseen complication creates a difficult problem. But things get resolved once you use your ability to turn negative situations into positive experiences.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The Pisces penchant for doing the right thing at the right time helps you deal with a particularly troublesome situation. Consider your best option and act accordingly.

BORN THIS WEEK: Although you might sometimes seem rigid in your views, your love of justice makes you a trusted friend everyone can rely on.

Frederick Dolan President Of Mass. Funeral Directors Association

Frederick J. "Jed" Dolan of Dolan Funeral Homes, Dorchester and Milton, was recently installed as the president of the Massachusetts Funeral Directors Association (MFDA).

Installation ceremonies were held at the organization's annual banquet in Brewster.

The Massachusetts Funeral Directors Association represents over 500 funeral homes in the state and it is the largest organization of funeral service practitioners in the Commonwealth. MFDA is a federated state affiliate of the National Funeral Directors Association, based in Brookfield, Wisconsin.

Jed Dolan represents the third generation of his family to hold the position of MFDA president. His grandfather, Frederick J. Dolan, and his father, W. Craig Dolan both served as President in 1966-1967 and 1996-1997, respectively. The installation ceremony was conducted by Jed's father.

Robert J. Biggins, President-Elect of the National Funeral Directors Association, presented Dolan with a custom designed lapel pin designated as the "Frederick J. Dolan Presidential Pin", named after his grandfather. The pin was created by MFDA in honor of the Dolan family's service to the association. This ceremony begins the tradition of handing down the pin from one MFDA President to the next.

Dolan is a graduate of Thayer Academy, Providence College and the New England Institute of Funeral Service Education at Mount Ida College.

Dolan lives in Milton with his wife and son.

FREDERICK "JED" DOLAN (right) was recently installed as the president of the Massachusetts Funeral Directors Association. Offering congratulation is his father, W. Craig Dolan, who served as MFDA president in 1996-97.

A CITY FLAG flown over Baghdad, Iraq, last July 4 has come home. The flag was taken to Iraq by Seabee Construction Machinist First Class Richard Wold of Quincy, who is serving there with the Naval Mobile Construction Battalion. Here, Wold's wife, Rita, and Mayor William Phelan hold the flag before it was raisod over City Hall last week. The flag is now in the mayor's office for display. Shown with them are members of the Quincy High School Junior ROTC as honor guard.

At Issue On Faxon Field Site

Cahill, Phelan Still At Odds Over QHS

By TOM HENSHAW

Anyone who thinks a new Quincy High School will be built with 90 per cent state reimbursement any where but on Faxon Field at Southern Artery is dreaming.

That, in effect, is the word from State Treasurer Tim Cahill, the man at the top of the state School Building Authority (SBA) which make the reimbursement.

But Mayor William Phelan apparently still doesn't believe it.

"We have been dealing with the SBA, not Cahill," he told a Quincy Access TV audience. "Cahill is the chairman of the board. He is not in charge of the day to day actions."

Phelan said Katherine Craven, who has been out ill, is the director of the SBA under Cahill.

"They (the SBA) asked us to provide an analysis of the Southern Artery site versus the other options," he said. "We provided the information.

"We acted at the request of the SBA. There were changes but I thought they asked for them.

"Tell us where to build it. Mr. Treasurer, and we'll do it. We want all the help we can get. We are still talking with the SBA."

Cahill, who lives in Quincy, issued his negative appraisal after rumors circulated in the city that rehabilitation of the present QHS with a minor addition might suffice.

"We have $72 million waiting to give to the city of Quincy for them to build a new high school on Faxon Field," said Cahill.

"The two options to city came up with changed the location of the high school and therefore neither option is viable or reimbursable under current SBA regulations.

"To imply that the state is open to reimbursing the city for a high school built on a different site is not true."

'Quincy Cares' Gala Tonight

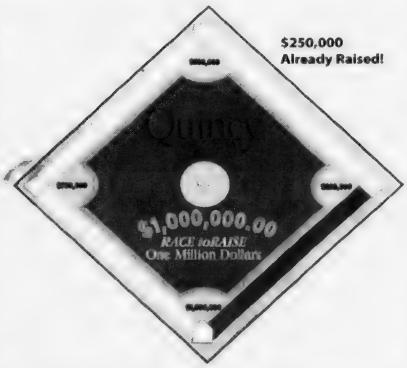
City Nears $270,000 For Katrina Victims

The Quincy Cares fund-raising campaign to aid victims of Hurricane Katrina has passed the quarter-million dollar mark.

A $25,000 pledge by the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. put the campaign over the $250,000 figure.

Another reported $20,000 in smaller donations not officially counted yet would bring the total to over $270,000.

The goal is to raise $1 million earmarked for Jefferson Parish, La., a county in the greater New Orleans area with a population of 450,000.



Coordinators and members of the Quincy Cares committee hope to reach the $500,000 plateau at tonight's (Thursday) gala fund-raiser at the Quincy Marriott.

The five-week fund-raising campaign, launched Sept. 9, will now be extended at least another month and leaders are optimistic the $1 million goal will be realized.

Mayor William Phelan and Quincy real estate broker and developer Daniel Flynn are coordinating the drive with a committee of community leaders.

Other recent large donations that helped the drive reach $250,000 included:

- Granite City Electric employees, $12,358 designated for the Red Cross.
- Braintree developer Tom Flatley, $5,000.
- Galvin Construction Company of Quincy, $5,000.
- Daniel J. Flynn real estate and property management firm, $5,000.
- The Quincy Rotary Club, $5,000.
- The Quincy law firm of Coletti, Murray, Perruzzi and O'Connor, $1,000.
- The Bill Flynn Memorial Golf Tournament, $1,000.

Quincy selected to help Jefferson Parish because of its connection through Babe Ruth baseball.

The Jefferson Parish team played in the 14-year-old Babe Ruth World Series hosted by Quincy in 2003 and this past summer.

Water System Flushing Due In Squantum Area

If you live in Squantum or thereabouts and the water seems to be a little discolored in the next few weeks, be advised it's only temporary.

The Department of Public Works in conjunction with the consultant firm of Weston & Sampson will be flushing the water mains in the area.

The flushing will take place on Tuesdays and Wednesdays between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. starting Tuesday, Oct. 18, and continuing for three weeks.

Customers are advised to limit water use and to avoid doing laundry while the flushing takes place as the discolored water tends to stain clothes.

Flushing the water system is a maintenance program designed to improve water quality and extend the life of the system.

"I encourage all residents to join us for an observance of our community's accomplishment in helping those devastated by Hurricane Katrina," said Mayor William Phelan. "We hope to have an historic event on Thursday and I hope as many residents as possible attend. The people of the Gulf Coast region still need our help and this is a great way to show the world how much Quincy cares."

The organizers of the event have lined up an array of auction and raffle prizes to help raise money. Attendees can win family trips, televisions, one-of-a-kind sports memorabilia, gift certificates and other prizes.

Involving Drunken Driving Charges

Police Officer Fired, Firefighters Holds Job

For a while the careers of two of the city's public safety employees hung in the balance over charges involving drunken driving — one was fired, the other retained.

Siobhan O'Connor, 25, a police officer for eight months, was fired following an appearance in South Boston District Court on a charge of drunken driving.

Paul O'Grady, a firefighter for 11 years, was retained an given a desk job after serving a year of the 2 1/2 year sentence for vehicular homicide.

"The police and fire jobs differ markedly," Mayor William Phelan explained to a Quincy Access TV audience. "The police are held to higher standards under certain circumstances."

O'Connor, he said, was in a probationary period of less than a year on the force "and you have many less rights when you are on probation,"

O'Grady, he said, deserved a second chance.

"No mayor in recent years has been tougher in disciplining police officers and firefighters," he said. "But I believe in second chances if he accepts the responsibility for his action and is winning to change.

"I took that into consideration."

O'Grady was convicted of motor vehicle homicide and drunken driving in the March 2003 accident in which his friend, Robert Herendeen, 34, was killed.

He was seriously injured himself in the crash and spent most of his year in jail on a one-year medical leave, approved by Phelan. He was convicted July 6, 2004, and returned to work July 22, 2005.

The city law department, at Phelan's behest, is researching the legality of permitting a convicted felon remain a firefighter with his pension and seniority rights retained while in jail.

Phelan, a lawyer, acknowledged Tuesday that he had represented O'Grady formally in an estate case in probate court in 1995 "but there was no conflict of interest in my decision-making, not one iota."

O'Connor, who was arrested after a 100-mile-an-hour police chase down the Southeast Expressway, was the fifth Quincy police officer to be fired or resigned this year, two of them involving drinking.

Phelan denied that there was a broader problem of drinking on the department.

"Police officers have many stresses," he said, "and some choose to escape in alcohol and drug abuse. But we have a great department and it is growing stronger.

"How you deal with it is critical. We don't look the other way. In each situation, he chose not to look the other way. There can be others in years to come but most would agree the Quincy Police Department has gotten stronger.

Those officers dismissed included:

Timothy Kaes, who allegedly crashed into a garage on Wayland Street.

Michael Cronin, who resigned after facing drunken driving charges in an accident that injured three people.

William Wright, a 19-year cop, who was caught on video tape working on home improvements while on injury leave.

Sgt. Susan Perch, a 21-year veteran, who was said to have had five or six months of unexplained absences.

SQUANTUM ELEMENTARY SCHOOL students raised $1,623.57 for Quincy Cares and those affected by Hurricane Katrina living in the Jefferson Parish area of Louisiana. The kids did chores for cash and donated all the proceeds to Quincy Cares. An anonymous family matched the kids' donation of over $500. Approximately 100 students contributed to the school fund by earning the money, not just asking for it. They include Timothy Riley (foreground, holding fund jar), John Rizzo, Sarah Golden, Gabrielle Doody, Andy Quan, Kaitlyn Forsythe, Aine Varden, Jacqueline Doody, Edward Riley, Kathryn White, Dylan Porter, Scott Higgins, David Brink, Joseph Hutchins, Qi Lin Lu and Tyler Rice.

Coughlin, Gutro Eye Council Presidency

You won't find it on the Nov. 8 ballot but another campaign is going on quietly behind the scene at City Hall.

It's for next year's city council presidency, considered second only to the mayor in political power and by some a springboard to the mayor's office.

The two active contenders at the present appear to be Ward 3's Kevin Coughlin and Ward 5's Doug Gutro.

COUGHLIN

GUTRO

Both acknowledge they would like to succeed Frank McCauley as council president in January.

And, are already working to put together the necessary five votes — four among their colleagues to go with their own.

But they are cautious about it.

"I'm very much interested in it," says Gutro. "I feel confident I have some support."

"Yes," says Coughlin. "I've spoken to some people and some said they were inclined to support me."

Neither indicates exactly how much support "some support" is. Or how firm it is.

Another name being mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidency is Councillor at-large John Keenan. But he says he is not interested at this time.

KEENAN

"I just hope the next council president will move the meetings along in a timely fashion as Frank McCauley has done," Keenan says.

Both Coughlin and Gutro were interested in the presidency two years ago as they started their second term on the council.

But the political veteran, McCauley, put the five vote bloc together first and went on to be elected unanimously including the votes of both Coughlin and Gutro.

McCAULEY

McCauley is stepping into retirement at the end of this year, closing out a distinguished 32-year career including four terms as mayor.

He was one mayor who didn't need the council presidency as a springboard to the mayor's office. He was mayor before he became council president.

Both Gutro and Coughlin are sure to be on next year's council. They are among five ward councillors unopposed for re-election.

The other three are Ward 1's Leo Kelly, Ward 2's Dan Raymondi and Ward 4's Jay Davis.

There will be at least two new faces on next year's council, one at-large and one from Ward 6.

Brian McNamee and Mark Bracken are candidates for the Ward 6 seat being vacated by Alicia Gardner who is stepping down for personal reasons after serving one term.

Three contenders seek the at-large seat McCauley is leaving: School Committee Vice-Chairman Michael McFarland, Julie Berberan and Dominic Paulo.

The winners of those two seats could be the swing votes for either Coughlin or Gutro — or an 11th hour candidate.

MAKING AN EARLY commitment to a council president candidate can sometimes turn out to be a test in loyalty.

QUINN

Like in 1962, the year Charles Shea was elected council president and John Quinn could have been.

Quinn had pledged his vote early to Shea. But when it came to the actual voting, Quinn found himself Shea's rival.

The nine councillors voted in alphabetical order — as they do today — with Quinn being the last to vote because his name started with a "Q."

By the time the vote got to him he and Shea were tied at 4-to-4. All Quinn had to do was vote for himself and he would be the council president.

Temptation might have been there but loyalty was much stronger. Quinn said he had committed to Shea and voted for him. — making Shea, not him — the council president.

It took awhile after that but Quinn became council president in 1978 — 16 years later.

He died in 1986 and is remembered for that display of loyalty, a unique footnote in Quincy's political history.

Jane is married to John Derry and they live on Edgemore Rd. And, have 10 children of their own.

Jane's mother, Julia O'Neil, made the Easter outfits for the 10 girls, a different set each year.

The sisters became so famous that they appeared on Ed Sullivan's TV program, modeled for fashion shows and participated in community events.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS 1908 POSTCARD is a view of the original Sacred Heart Church building that was on the corner of Hunt and Hancock Streets in Atlantic. Built in 1878 it was dedicated by Archbishop Williams. It served as a mission church to St. John's in Quincy Center until 1903 when this part of Quincy was set-aside as a separate Catholic parish. This building served the parish for almost 50 years when the church built on the corner of Glover Avenue and Hancock replaced it. This site is now a Hess gas station. Number Of Overweight Children Growing At Dangerous Rate

We have a major health crisis in Massachusetts, but one with some practical solutions. The number of overweight children is growing at a dangerous rate. Overweight children are at a higher risk of developing diabetes, asthma and other health problems.

A major cause is overeating junk food and soda. Unfortunately, schools are often promoting unhealthy eating habits by selling candy bars, chips and sodas in vending machines and cafeterias.

A bill in the state legislature is one of the solutions. "An Act to Promote Proper School Nutrition" (H 1457) is backed by the Massachusetts Public Health Association. Many school and health organizations have endorsed this bill, including my professional organization, the Massachusetts Dietetic Association.

The bill would help provide better food choices for our children in school. It would replace soda with water, juice, low-fat and non-fat milk, as well as set healthy standards for snacks.

While receiving a good education, our children should be eating well, too. Well-nourished children are more prepared to learn and have been shown to perform better in school academically.

Economically speaking, the state will bear the burden for the chronic diseases that our children suffer as a result of being overweight. It is in the state's best interest to start our kids on a healthy track.

I urge our local state representatives and senators to support this important bill.

A Miscarriage Of Justice

The entire case of Lynndie English, who was sentenced to three years in federal prison for abusing Iraqi prisoners, is a miscarriage of justice.

First, she did not abuse anybody. Showing the private parts of prisoners is not an abuse. Our military has become very weak-kneed. We have no "guts."

Secondly, no war has been declared. During World War II, the Germans were experts at abusing prisoners of war with their Gestapo. Did anyone complain? Of course, if and when we caught German prisoners and they didn't talk they never did talk again to anyone.

I'm surprised at Senator John McCain, a prisoner of the Vietnamese for five and a half years, who rallied against the abuse. Yet Admiral Stockdale, a prisoner of Vietnam for seven years, never uttered a word about abiding by the Geneva Conventional Rules.

Not one word has been said about the beheading of Americans who were taken prisoners.

Now, what should be done is court-martial the officers and one enlisted man who sat on the board for ruining the life of this young lady. I hope her civilian lawyer, if she has one, files an appeal and blames the hierarchy for this outrageous sentence.

Pollution Abatement Plan For Quincy Bay

This Week
1950
55 Years Ago

Gov. Paul Dever and Boston Mayor John Hynes announced plans this week for the abatement of pollution in Quincy Bay.

Under the plan, Boston sewage would be pumped directly from Calf Pasture to Deer Island and not through Moon Island.

Rep. William Jenness favored the proposal, but wondered if it wasn't just a strategic pre-election publicity stunt by the Democratic leadership.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Barbara's Butterscotch Bonanza

You know all those times I told you that recipes printed here were simple? Well, forget about all of those, because today's recipe is incredible as well as one of the easiest and most delicious one I have ever made.. I even remembered it without writing it down last week when we had dessert at our friends Barbara and Chap home in Hanson.

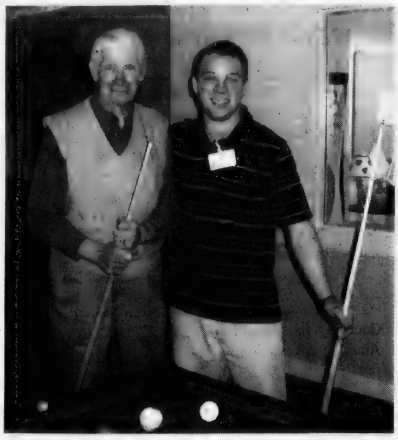
As we were all sitting on her porch, the guys in the kitchen discussing politics while the girls were outside, she told us about this timeless recipe that her sister Gail got from a great-grandmother on her husband's side. The recipe dates back to the 1920's Barbara said she has given it to all of her children and some friends who tried it and they all loved it.

Butterscotch dumplings

2 cups Bisquick
2/3 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups water
2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter

In a bowl, mix the Bisquick with the milk and add the vanilla. In a pan, boil the two cups of water. Add the brown sugar and the butter and cook slowly until bubbly. Using a quarter cup measurer, spoon out the dumplings in the boiling mixture. (we made ten that day). Cook uncovered for ten minutes and then covered for the last ten minutes. And then with a small ladle scoop out a dumpling in a dessert dish and pour mixture over it. Serve with either vanilla ice cream or whipped cream. I hope you enjoy this as much as we did.

P.S. If you are making more than ten, it might be a good ideas to use a large skillet to fit more of them.



Two Seniors With A Lot In Common: Closing the Generation Gap

Separated by decades of living and learning, Boston College High School Senior Kevin Richardson, 18, and Hancock Park's long-time Allerton House resident Joe White, 89, have more in common than one might imagine.

In fact, both have a passion for pool, an activity that tops the list of favorite social events for a significant number of men living at the 42-bed assisted living community in Quincy.

Richardson's inter-generational involvement with Allerton House began as a way to fulfill B. C. High's graduation requirement for 150 hours of community service. But for the high school senior hockey player who enjoys poker and pool, the time he has spent at Hancock Park, quickly developed into much more.

"I had a wonderful time at the Allerton House. The residents are great and I am leaving with life lessons I will use later on down the road," says Richardson who intends to major in criminal justice at St. Anselm's College and dreams of one day being a state trooper.

BOSTON COLLEGE High School Senior Kevin Richardson, 18, and Hancock Park's long-time Allerton House Resident Joe White, 89, enjoy a game of pool at Quincy's Allerton House Assisted Living community.

KIDS FIRST!

Beyond achieving great MCAS results, our kids need access and further exposure to arts, drama, music and sports. I believe by expanding partnerships with business leaders, nonprofits, grant foundations and alumni we can fill these gaps. We must also further encourage volunteerism among parents and citizens. We have made great strides on this front but we can do better, and we can do it without an additional burden on taxpayers.

I ask for your vote on Tuesday, November 8th.

"The Southern Artery site is not advisable," said Phelan. "It's a logistical nightmare. The other option would be $7 million cheaper.

"The legislature should step in and ask the question why should we spend $72 on a lousy school rather than a good school for less money."

Phelan said he has discussed with the Quincy legislative delegation the possibility of filing legislation to change the situation.

Besides, he said, Quincy has never had the school's plan approved by the state Department of Education "so we really have no approved plan."

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Seniors At Greater Risk In Fires

I'm all in favor of any program that facilitates the safety of our seniors.

The reason for that is older adults are at a greater risk for fire death; they are actually two times more likely to die in a fire.

According to a report from the State Fire Marshal in 2003, older adults, 65 and above, accounted for 14 percent of our population but 28 percent of the fire deaths.

Smoking caused one-half of the 17 senior fire deaths that took place in that year. Oxygen use was a contributing factor in some of those deaths. Therefore, remember, do not leave smoking materials unattended, never smoke in bed and be mindful of the hazards associated with oxygen use as well.

Electrical fires caused two of those fire deaths during that year. Never overload electrical outlets and, remember, even though a power strip may allow you to plug more than one appliance into an outlet, only one at a time should be turned on.

Cooking is the leading cause of fire injuries to seniors. Twenty-seven percent of all injuries to seniors were from cooking fires. It is recommended that short or tight fitting sleeves are worn when cooking. Never leave cooking unattended and if you must walk away, bring a pot holder or spoon along with you as a reminder.

Prevention is the key while early notification through the use of properly located, working smoke detectors is essential as well. Install smoke detectors on every level of your home and outside each sleeping area. If you cannot install one yourself, ask a friend or relative. In Quincy, there is the SAFE program where volunteers take a day in the fall installing donated detectors and batteries.

Be mindful of the leading causes of fire deaths and injuries as specified above and act accordingly to minimize the risk of fire in your home.

Be safe!

QUESTIONS FROM THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Dear Residents of Quincy:

Over the past few months of going door to door and meeting as many of you as possible, I have had the privilege of listening to your questions and concerns. Some of the questions and concerns are common amongst most Quincy Residents. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to address them, so that you will have a better idea of my background and where I stand on the issues. This week I will address my qualifications and the reasons I am running for a position on the Quincy School Committee.

Education

I am a life long resident of Quincy, residing in Wollaston for 32 years. My 12 brothers and sisters and I, are all graduates of the Quincy Public Schools. I attended the Massachusetts Fields School in Wollaston, grades Kindergarten through 3rd grade. When the Massachusetts Fields School was closed, I attended the Parker Elementary School in North Quincy, grades 4 and 5. Upon graduating from the Parker School, I attended Central Middle School, grades 6 through 8 and then attended North Quincy High School, graduating in 1991 with honors.

In 1995, I graduated from Suffolk University with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in History and English, graduating with honors. In 1998, I graduated from Suffolk University Law School with a Juris Doctor Degree.

Employment History and Qualifications

Beginning in High School and throughout college, I worked as a laborer, for my late father, in the John J. Mulvey Plastering Company. For forty years this family run business helped maintain the infrastructure of the Quincy Public School buildings. At an early age, this job instilled in me pride for the condition of the Quincy Public Schools and their continued maintenance. I still retain this pride and if elected to the School Committee I am determined to improve the conditions of our schools through necessary renovations and maintenance. It is essential that all of our schools have a safe and effective learning environment for our students, teachers and administrators.

During law school, I began work in the Drug Enforcement Task Force for the United States Attorney's Office. I saw first hand the devastating affects that drugs can have on a school community. It is essential that students be shielded from the predatory nature of drug dealers. The best defense is a multi-layered approach. Our students must continually be educated on the negative affects of drugs and parents, teachers, administrators and law enforcement officials must take a proactive approach in identifying the source of these drugs and eliminating them. I am determined to maintain a zero tolerance approach for drugs in our school community.

Upon graduating law school, I worked for the Committee for Public Counsel Services, in the representation of poor, mentally ill, criminal defendants. I then worked for the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, as an assistant district attorney, prosecuting juvenile, district and superior court criminal cases.

Presently, I am a partner in the law firm of Mulvey, Sneider & Freyman, PC, a general law practice and I am a special prosecutor for the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office, prosecuting sexually dangerous persons.

I am legal counsel and a member of the Board of Directors for the Elizabeth Seton Academy, an inner city, all-girls high school for poor and low income families. I am also legal counsel and a member of the Board of Directors for Maria Droste Services, a counseling agency serving poor children and their families in Quincy and throughout the South Shore.

It is my experience with the Elizabeth Seton Academy and Maria Droste Services, combined with my history with the Quincy Public Schools, that has inspired me to run for School Committee. I hope to use my education and experience in benefiting the entire Quincy school community. Although I have no children at the present time, I believe that I will be able to successfully contribute, as other school committee members have done successfully in the past, to improving our school community. I am determined to see that every child in Quincy, who wishes to achieve excellence in education, has the ability to do so. I believe my prior service establishes my strong commitment to the children of Quincy and establishes that I am the most qualified candidate for the Quincy School Committee. Thank you for your consideration and support. If you have any questions or concerns please do not hesitate to contact me via the telephone number or email address below.

Sincerely,

Kevin Mulvey.

City Participating In Avian Flu Preparedness Exercise

Officials from local government, emergency medical agencies and health centers recently participated in a table-top exercise to respond to a mock avian influenza outbreak.

Representatives from the Quincy Health Department, Quincy Fire Department, Mayor's Office, Quincy Emergency Management Agency, Police Department, Quincy Medical Center, Fallen Ambulance, Manet Community Health Center and South Cove Community Health Center all took part in the drill sponsored by the Boston Urban Area Strategic Initiative.

"These exercises are a great way to prepare for any type of real emergencies," said Mayor William Phelan. "Our best tools are preparedness, communication and education. The fact that we are all working together and conducting mock drills will allow us to better respond to any type of emergency situation."

Quincy Health Commissioner Drew Scheele will oversee a second table-top exercise this week. Scheele cautioned residents not to get frightened by news stories about avian influenza. There has yet to be a single reported case in North America.

"Residents should not mistake preparedness for inevitability. It is our job to be prepared for anything. We hope for the best but prepare for the worst," said Scheele.

The Health Department page on the city web-site contains valuable information on limiting the spread of the flu. For more information, visit www.ci.quincy.ma.us.

Lemonade Stand Nets $550 For Katrina Pets

While others have concentrated on the human toll of Hurricane Katrina, 7-year-old Ashlyn Frank's lemonade stand in Squantum has raised more than $550 for the furred and feathered victims of the storm.

Along with her friends, Alex and Alina Dunham, Ashlyn, who has two dogs herself, has been selling lemonade at 50 cents a cup, mostly on weekends, and for good measure has given free cookies with each cup.

Ashlyn attends the Park School in Brookline. Alex Dunham, 7, is in the Squantum School and his sister, Alina, 4, goes to the Snug Harbor Preschool.

FRIENDS OF ANIMALS. Ashlyn Frank (right), 7, and her friend, Alina Dunham, 4, await customers at their Squantum lemonade stand that has raised more than $550 for pets who are victims of Hurricane Katrina in Louisiana.

NOTICE

WATER SYSTEM FLUSHING IN THE SQUANTUM AREA

Starting October 18, 2005

The Quincy Department of Public Works in conjunction with Weston & Sampson will begin flushing the water mains in the Squantum area October 18, 2005. The water main flushing will occur on Tuesdays and Wednesdays between the hours of 7:30 AM and 3:00 PM and will last for 3 weeks. The flushing may temporarily cause the water in the surrounding area to be rusty and discolored. Customers are advised to limit water use and to avoid doing laundry while the flushing takes place, as clothes could become stained due to the discolored water. Water system flushing is a maintenance management tool that ultimately improves water quality and extends the life of your water system. Thank you in advance for your cooperation as the City continues its efforts to ultimately improve our water quality.

City Personnel Completing Emergency Response Training

Personnel in the Police, Fire, Health, Emergency Management and Public Works Departments are completing basic training in the Federal National Incident Management System (NIMS).

Employees from Fallon Ambulance and the Quincy Medical Center are also completing the NIMS IS 700 training.

The NIMS system is a template for emergency response that all governmental agencies will be expected to follow. By creating a universal template, multi-jurisdictional responses will be easier to facilitate.

"Our emergency responders are better trained than any other time in history," said Mayor William Phelan. "Though it is difficult to prevent disasters and emergencies, it is incumbent on us to be prepared at all levels of local government to best ensure the safety of our residents."

With the help of the city of Boston and the Urban Area Strategic Initiative (UASI), the Park and Recreation Complex was transformed into a NIMS IS 700 classroom for city personnel. The three-hour course and certification is also a requirement for Federal grant funding.

"We are fortunate to participate in the Boston UASI program," said Phelan. "Our participation has allowed us to leverage more than $1 million in training and equipment grants for our local emergency responders. I want to thank Mayor Thomas Menino and his staff for their leadership on the UASI program."

Through the UASI grants, the city of Quincy has purchased:

- Personal protective equipment (PPE) for all police officers.
- Personal protective equipment (PPE) for all firefighters.
- New communication equipment for Health Department personnel.
- New tracking and educational programs to assist Health Department.
- Shelter equipment for Quincy Emergency Management Agency.
- New motors for the 41-foot Quincy Police Boat.
- New underwater hull-scanning robot to monitor tanker ship traffic.
- New underwater dive team equipment.
- New portable and mobile radios for Police and Fire Departments.
- Chemical and biological protective equipment for emergency medical services.
- New chemical resistant uniforms for police officers.

The city is also preparing a "Public Safety Forum" for residents in November. Guest speakers will discuss a variety of topics that could affect Quincy residents.

what one city can do for others!

Caring is not measured by the amount of your donation.
It's measured by the amount of heart behind it.

Help the people of Jefferson Parish get back on their feet.

They lost everything - let's give them something to smile about.

Just one person can make a difference. The people affected by Katrina may be out of the headlines but their need is still real! We can help them get back their lives. Please support Quincy Cares by donating or attending our fundraiser event on Thursday night!
Together we race to the finish to raise $1 Million for Katrina and show the world we care! Thank you to all who have already donated!

Jack Dunn Named Chairman Of BC High Board of Trustees

Boston—The Boston College High School board of trustees has named as its chairman John B. Dunn of Milton, a 1979 graduate of the school, and the director of public affairs, university spokesman and adjunct professor of communications at Boston College.

Previously vice chairman of the board, Dunn, a Quincy native, was appointed at the board of trustees' June 2005 meeting. He succeeds outgoing chairman John M. Shields of Duxbury, president of Quincy-based Shields Health Care Group, whose term expired in June.

William J. Kemeza, president of Boston College High School, called Dunn a fitting leader. "Jack's long history and commitment to BC High, combined with this skill and experience in shaping the public image of major institutions, makes him a fitting leader in this exciting time in BC High's140-year history."

A former development director and teacher at the school, Dunn has been a member of the board of trustees since 2000. He served as vice president of external affairs at Catholic Charities before joining Boston College in 1998, and has worked as a reporter and freelance correspondent for several publications.

Dunn and his wife Hazel have three children.

Boston College High School is a Jesuit, Catholic, college-preparatory school for young men founded in 1863. The school enrolls approximately 1,300 students from some 80 communities in eastern Massachusetts.

Newcomers Win 1st Annual Chowdafest In Houghs Neck

The Hancock Tavern, a newcomer from Wollaston, and Jeannie Wahlberg, a newcomer by Houghs Neck standards, cooked their way to victory in the restaurant and individual categories of the first annual Houghs Neck Chowdafest, Wahlberg won $100 in cash and a clam bucket to display along with bragging rights for the next year as Houghs Neck's best chef.

The Hancock Tavern, formerly the Wells Grille at 668 Hancock St., won the clam bucket to display on the bar proclaiming it the maker of "Houghs Neck's Favorite Chowda."

Although he didn't have whip up a mess of edible chowder for it, a special clam bucket went to City Council President Frank McCauley, who is retiring from public office after 32 years of service to the community.

The event, which was scheduled for Nut Island, or The Pumpy, as it's known in the Neck, was moved to the Church Hall at Most Blessed Sacrament Church in the face of threatening weather

The Hancock Tavern. which was voted the Best New Quincy Restaurant by Market Surveys of America, entered the chowdafest contest at the urging of waitress Donna Long, a former lunch matron at the Atherton Hough School.

Homemade clam chowder is one of the restaurant's specialties, along with burgers, steak tips and spinach dip.

Owners Jay DeBartolo and Austin O'Malley, lifelong friends who grew up in Quincy, have been in the restaurant business for 15 years and always wanted to own one in their hometown.

When the Wells Grille became available last winter, they jumped at the chance, remodeled the old Quincy landmark and open the newly christened Hancock Tavern in the spring.

It's open from 11:30 a.m. to 1 a.m. daily. Chef Lisa Ford, educated at Newbury College, has more than 10 years of restaurant experience, which includes making award-winning chowder.

The Hancock Tavern also features in its decor vintage pictures from the collection of Tom Galvin, who is known around town for his historic post cards and photos that appear in The Quincy Sun.

Quincy Farmers' Market Open Until Oct. 28

The growing season is growing short for the Quincy Farmers' Market, which is held each Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. until Oct. 28 in the John Hancock Parking Lot.

Now in season are the hardy locally grown mums, ready for planters, porches and balconies, that can be saved for the following year when planted in the ground.

There are plenty of pumpkins for pies and for Halloween jack-o-lanterns and other winter squash like butternut, hubbard and acorn full of flavor and nutrient.

There are also fall greens, such as collards, kale and mustard greens, that are normally found only among the non-typical vegetables sold in these local markets.

Macoun apples are now ready for harvesting as well as Gaila, Courtland and McIntosh.

For more information, call Anneli at 617-479-1601.

LINCOLN-HANCOCK ELEMENTARY School students Colleen Joyce, Justin Rucker and Ashley Neal pose with a check from South Shore Co-operative Bank donated in support of the "Principal's 100 Minute Reading Club. The donation will provide students in the Della Chiesa kindergarten and first through fifth grades at the Lincoln-Hancock School an opportunity to earn books by reading independently and later can take home to keep and enjoy.

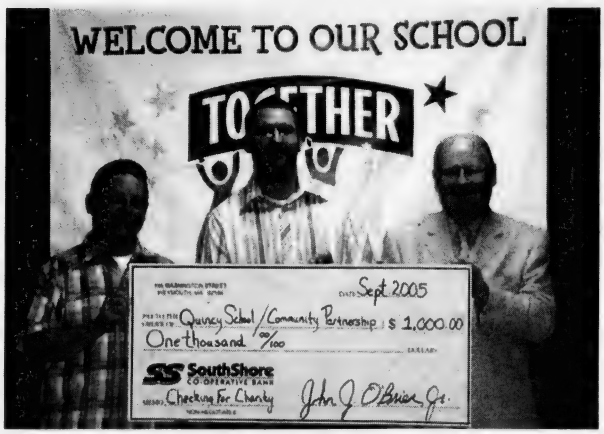
$1,000 Donation To School/Community Partnership

South Shore Co-operative Bank Supports Book Program



For the sixth year in a row, South Shore Co-operative Bank has teamed up with the Quincy School/Community Partnership (QSCP) to put books in the hands of students at the Lincoln-Hancock Elementary School and the Della Chiesa Early Childhood Center in Quincy.

South Shore Co-operative Bank's "Checking For Charity" program donates $10 for every checking account opened at the Quincy branch to QSCP. The money is earmarked for books students use in the "Principal's 100 Minute Reading Club." The Della Chiesa kindergartners and students in first through fifth grade at Lincoln-Hancock earn the books by reading independently and then can take them home to keep and enjoy.

"The longevity of this program is one of the many things that make it special," said South Shore Co-operative Bank President John O'Brien. "The students are certainly the focus of the project, and the reason it exists. It's great to see the students year after year and be part of a program that nurtures a passion for books and reading," O'Brien added.

Accepting the $1,000 check with their principal and Parent-Teach Council Co-Presidents were Lincoln-Hancock fifth grade "leaders" Colleen Joyce, Justin Ruckers and Ashley Neal. The student leaders were chosen by the school principal to be an example and to help younger students.

South Shore Co-operative Bank supports local education on a broad basis that includes those just learning to read in the South Shore Day Care Services. The bank sponsors classrooms in Weymouth and Quincy by purchasing books children bring home as part of the Reading is so Exciting Program, RISE, and literacy nights.

CO-PRESIDENTS OF Lincoln-Hancock / Della Chiesa Schools Parent Teacher Council, Mike Buzzell and Todd Kimmell with South Shore Co-operative Bank President John O'Brien. The bank recently presented a $1,000 check to the Quincy School/Community Partnership which will be used to buy books for students.

Skyline En Route To Becoming A True Destination Restaurant

Marketing guru Fred Snyderman has joined his friends, the Ruscito family, at the Skyline Restaurant at Marina Bay in the continuing effort to make the former Amelia's Restaurant a true destination eating place.

"Our goal is to provide our guests with quality food, exceptional personal service in a casual, fun atmosphere," said Snyderman.

"New foods are tested by our own guests along with our staff and its is not unusual to see a member of the Skyline staff serving new items at no cost to our guests and asking for opinions.

"After all, it is the guest who really is the important component of the business."

The latest innovation at the Skyline is the introduction of a new skillet breakfast that will be served daily from 7 to 11 a.m.

The Ruscitos and Snyderman have recognized the need for inexpensive lunches as well and have added popular priced, high quality foods to the lunch menu.

"There are many people in the area that simply do not want to spend $20 for lunch but want to still enjoy a pleasant upscale atmosphere," said Snyderman.

Wi-Fi (an Internet connector for lap tops) for the guests is expected to be available within the next month as well and winter dining al fresco is also in the works as Skyline prepares to heat the marina-side porch.

"We will be working hard over the coming months and changes will be almost daily as a work in progress," said Snyderman.

Many changes have occurred at the old Amelia's Restaurant in the two years since the Ruscitos took it over and renamed it Skyline.

Gina Ruscito has brought her Italian home-style cooking to add to the American menu already in existence.

Her eggplant rollatini is acclaimed by all who try it and new foods are being added to the menu almost daily along with an ever-changing and enlarged international wine list.

The Skyline Restaurant may be reached on the website www.skylinebarandgrill.com.

COA Seeking Wheelchairs

Fore River Channel Dredging Proposal

The Army Corps of Engineers is seeking public comments on its proposal to perform maintenance dredging on the Fore River from the oil terminals in East Braintree to a point outside Hull Gut.

The comments should be submitted no later than Oct. 6 to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, New England District, Programs/Project Management Division, 696 Virginia Rd., Concord, MA 01742.

The project will include a navigation channel 300 to 500 feet wide and 35 feet deep below mean low water and a turning basin in Kings Cove near the confluence of the Fore River and the Town River.

"The last time this project was dredged was during 1973-1976 when about 5.9 million cubic yards of material were removed," said Bill Kavanaugh, the project manager.

"Since then, natural shoaling within the project area has occurred that significantly restricts deep draft vessels."

These vessels include oil tankers that use the channel to access terminals inside the Washington Street Bridge. Draft restrictions have already been placed on these vessels.

The proposed work involves dredging about 300,000 cubic yards of primarily silt and clay material and dumping it at the EPA-approved open-ocean Massachusetts Bay Disposal Site.

First Time Home-Buyer Workshops In Mandarin

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) and Quincy Asian Resources. Inc. (QARI) will offer their first time home buyers workshop series in Mandarin.

The free workshop will be held in two Saturday sessions, Oct. 15 and 22, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Mandarin-speaking real estate professionals will cover everything from mortgages to home insurance.

In addition, participants who complete the 10-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing cost assistance of up to $10,000 for the soft second program.

Participants may also use their certificates of completion to obtain a low rate loan through MassHousing.

John Brothers, QARI's executive director, said the workshop is being held to serve the needs of the many Mandarin speakers who are moving to the South Shore.

"Mandarin speakers need to know about and be able to take advantage of the same home-buying opportunities as other home-buyers," he said.

For more information and the register for the workshops, contact QARI at 617-472-2200.

Quincy's Supreme Pizza Voted Best In Boston

To find the best pizza in the Boston area, one need go no farther than 271 Quincy Ave., next to the bicycle shop and across from the tire store.

That's what six judges said when they named Supreme Pizza of Quincy as the winner of the Boston's Best Pizza contest that drew 25 other pizzerias.

And it was also the judgment of about a thousand people who crowded the decks of the USS Salem to cast their votes for the Peoples Choice Award.

Supreme Pizza has been run by Ken and Melody Piccina for the past three years, and are noted for their signature pizzas like the award-winning Buffalo Chicken.

FALL CAR CARE

October Is Time For Annual Vehicle Check-Up

With a typical family spending more of its annual household budget on motor vehicle related expenses, AAA Southern New England is urging motorists to protect their automotive investment with an annual maintenance and safety inspection during AAA Car Care Month.

During October and November, participating AAA Approved Auto Repair facilities will be offering members a special $1 pre-winter inspection of fluid levels including oil and windshield wiper fluid, belts and hoses, and windshield wipers. A list of participating AAA facilities can be found in the October issue of the official club publication, "AAA Horizons," and online at aaa.com.

The average annual cost of owning and operating a new car is estimated by AAA to be just under $7000, for those who drive 10,0000 miles per year.

"It's easy to help safeguard this large part of the family budget and protect against hazardous breakdowns," said John Paul, AAA Southern New England's Car Doctor. "Motorists with an appointment will usually need no more than 15 minutes to have their vehicle looked at by a professional technician. A professional can quickly determine if any maintenance or repairs have been overlooked and need to be performed."

AAA reminds motorists that a good place to learn about maintaining a vehicle is as near as the glove compartment. A vehicle's owner's manual is the authoritative source for specific information about the vehicle you drive.

The Kitchen Is Key When Shopping For A New Home

(NAPS)—Home is where the heart is and the heart of most new homes is the kitchen.

A recent study examining the key motivations of homebuyers found the kitchen and the owner's suite ranked as the two most important rooms to new-home shoppers.

Of the shoppers studied, only 3 percent indicated they would return to the house for a second visit or consider purchasing the home if they didn't like the kitchen.

"The kitchen is the gathering place for special occasions, family functions and day-to-day activities, which is why it is so important to prospective buyers to ensure that the kitchen meets the need of their family from a design and functionality prospective," said Karen Strauss, vice president of marketing for Merillat, a leading manufacturer of cabinetry.

The kitchen has many aspects not always visible with a quick glance. By following two simple guidelines when home shopping, you'll be able to identify the most desirable characteristics of a kitchen.

Keep a checklist

Touring numerous homes can be a confusing experience, as well as a challenge to remember each homes' features. "Take notes and formulate a checklist of the things you like and dislike about each of the kitchens you visit," Strauss said. It is important to ask yourself questions like:

• Do I like the layout of the kitchen? Consider the kitchen from an overall perspective, and keep in mind all the items you own that will require storage.

• Does the kitchen look comfortable and make me feel good when I'm inside?

• Does the kitchen facilitate frequent casual interactions with family and friends? Consider the views into the surrounding rooms, like living and dining areas. Do the spaces enable you to associate with family and friends?

• Is the cabinetry durable and well built? Is the finish of the cabinetry smooth and consistent?

• Does the kitchen have visual impact or a good focal point such as an island, cooking grotto and other unique feature? (Islands are a useful feature that many homeowners desire.

Test drive the kitchen

"Test driving" the kitchen allows you to get a feel of how day-to-day life may be in that kitchen.

• Open and close the drawers several times to be sure they roll in and out smoothly and quietly.

• Open the wall and base cabinets because you may discover a unique storage solution inside like roll-out trays.

• Pretend you're making a meal and role-play the necessary steps involved to see if the space is laid out as efficiently as possible.

• Examine the thickness of the wood on the drawer fronts and sides, as well as the cabinet doors.

Most frequently, when shopping for a new home, it is key to take your time and analyze all aspects of the home to ensure that it is perfect for you and your family.

Tips For A Smooth Move

(NAPS) — Perhaps you're a home's first owner or maybe you're the fifteenth. Either way, you can get a jump start on your new place before moving day by following these tips:

• Start a notebook for the new house. Jot down items to purchase or activities to handle. Include eye-catching fabric and color samples, favorite window product brochures and quotes from movers.

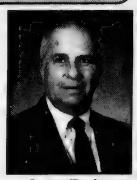
• Sketch a floor plan of your new home when you don't have blueprints. Record measurements of rooms, windows, closets and doors in your notebook. Use measurements or blueprints to make a "to scale" floor plan and determine your furniture placement for moving day. Your movers will love your organization.

• Donate furniture, clothing and accessories that no longer suit you—why bother packing and moving them?

• You will want to decorate your windows for style, comfort and practicality. Go from room to room and ask yourself:

A: How will I use the room and how much light does it get? Plan on diffused light for living and dining rooms, hard-working window treatments and ventilation in the kitchen, and light control to prevent glare on computer and television screens. Think safety in kids' rooms, privacy in the master suite and humidity-tolerance in bathrooms.

B: How important are privacy, security and sound absorption? Is there a nearby neighbor or a busy street? Are windows easily accessible? Is traffic or public space something to be considered?



C: Are there valuable furnishings that need protection from the sun's UV rays?

D: Do you need to insulate your windows against winter cold and summer heat?

• Replace floor coverings or clean carpets before furnishings arrive if a house was previously occupied so that everything is fresh and new.

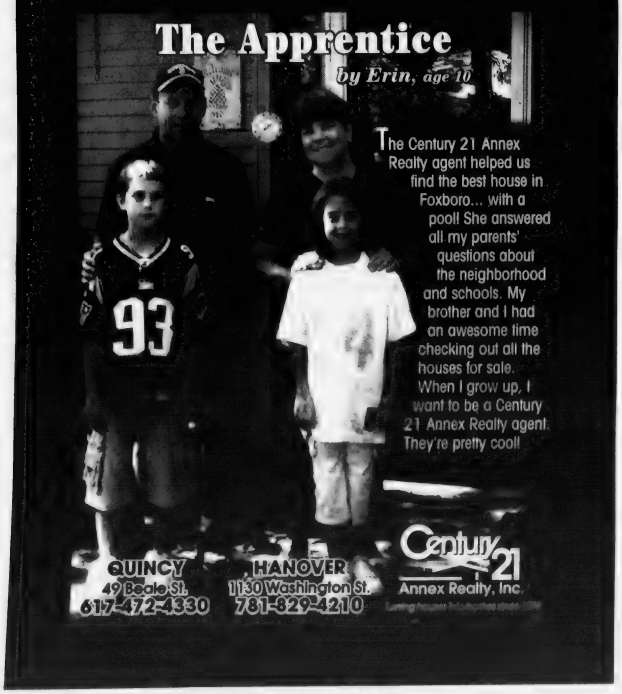
Replacing A Home Heating System

(NAPS)—The next time you consider replacing your home heating system, don't get burned. Understand your options.

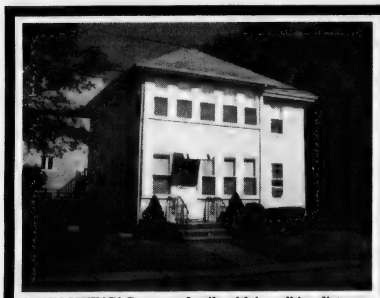
Heating systems fall into one of two categories: those that use heated air and those that rely on water to distribute heat. Warm-air systems include electric- and gas-driven furnaces and heat pumps.

When selecting a home heating system, it's important to consider a brand of equipment that has a reputation for quality and reliability. Efficiency is another key consideration. The efficiency of a gas furnace is indicated by the unit's Annual Fuel Utilization Efficiency (AFUE) rating.

According to the experts at York Heating and Cooling, the higher the AFUE, the more efficient the unit and the less fuel it requires to heat your home. These energy savings often offset the more expensive price tags found on higher-efficiency units.



Electric furnaces are usually considered 100 percent efficient. These units, however, are often more expensive to operate because of the cost of electricity.



Heat pumps significantly reduce energy costs, since these units extract heat from the outside air and circulate it through your house. (In warm weather, the process reverses, as the unit collects heat from the air inside your home and carries it outside.)

As you compare the efficiencies of heating systems, remember to compare the initial cost against the annual operating expense. You should also keep these points in mind:

• Some furnace manufacturers offer multistage and variable-speed furnaces to improve efficiency, maintain constant temperatures and reduce sound levels.

• Electric controls on furnaces and heat pumps ensure tighter temperature control and offer the ability to program periods of temperature setback, improving both system efficiency and occupant comfort.

Maintain Furnace to Save Money

The temperature is falling and the leaves are turning, and soon it will be cool enough to turn on the heater again. But this year the cost to heat your home is a real concern. Rising fuel prices mean that oil- and gas-fired furnaces will be fairly expensive to run, and even electric furnaces may cost more than usual as power generation and delivery prices rise in response to fuel costs.

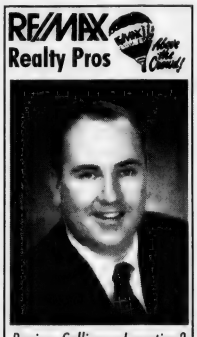
So now it's more important than ever to make sure the furnace is in good working order and is heating efficiently as you prepare your house for winter. If your furnace hasn't had a professional checkup in a couple of years, now would be a good time to schedule an inspection and cleaning.

Between professional visits, you can do some of the maintenance yourself on warm-air systems. Turn off the furnace completely before starting the work.

Warm-air furnaces use either a blower or fan to move heated air into the ducts. Open the blower or fan compartment and clean the exposed areas (or fan blades) with a bottle brush and a vacuum (using the attachments to reach as far in as possible).

Next, lubricate the system's motor (if you have the manual, check it first — the motor may be self-lubricating). Look for oil ports — small openings at one or both ends of the motor — and squirt each port with about five drops of SAE 10W30 oil.

Check the motor's fan belt — a worn belt should be replaced. Press down on the middle of the belt; it should give about 1/3 of an inch. If it depresses more than that, tighten the bolt at one end of the pulley; if it doesn't depress to that level, loosen the bolt slightly. Close the blower and motor compartment, and change the air filter.



To increase the furnace's efficiency further, its delivery system needs to be in top shape as well. Inspect the air ducts for damage; repair loose ducts and seal seams with aluminized tape. Ducts located in unheated areas of the house (like the basement, attic or crawlspaces) should be insulated. Wrap them in R-8 or R-11 spiral insulation, held in place with aluminized tape.

To maximize savings this winter, weatherstrip windows and doors, and if you haven't invested in a programmable thermostat, consider doing so. This handy piece of technology can be programmed to turn down the heat when people are less likely to be in the house, and turn it back up before they get home.

SPOTLIGHT ON HEALTH & FITNESS

by Andrea Wyatt
M.S.S., C.S.C.S.

Sticking to Your Exercise Program

Q. I have no problem with starting an exercise program, but I usually stop after just a few months. It seems that as soon as I begin to see a little progress, I let outside distractions lure me away from exercise. Are there any tips that can help keep me committed to my exercise routine?

A. You're not alone. Many people start out with best of intentions yet end up straying from their fitness routines. There is no one tip, suggestion or method that can solve all of your fitness challenges, but a combination of planning and lifestyle modifications will help.

The challenge of sticking with an exercise program can seem overwhelming. Exercise should be used to help lessen stress, not heighten it, making it imperative to develop strategies to ensure positive long-term lifestyle habits. Begin by using the list below to develop strategies that will work for you.

• Set realistic and measurable goals. Instead of "exercise three days a week," setting a target such as "walk 4 miles, three days a week" can help you acknowledge when you have reached your goal.

• Develop a plan. Once you've set a goal, design a plan that will help you achieve it. If your goal is to "walk 4 miles, three days a week," you'll need to know how much time it will take to walk 4 miles, and if you will walk indoors at the gym, outside with a friend or at home on a treadmill. Also, you'll need to evaluate your personal, family and business schedule to make space to allow you to reach your goal.

• Avoid overprogramming. Many exercisers sabotage their ability to consistently stick with a fitness program by overloading their workout. Your exercise program should be designed to reach your fitness goals over a period of time. Programming your workout routine with every exercise known to mankind will not get you results any faster, but it will lead to overtraining, boredom and burnout.

• Invest in yourself by consulting a fitness professional, who can help you develop an exercise program designed to safely give you the results you want. He or she can also help you stay accountable and teach you how your body responds to exercise and the steps necessary to make it part of your lifestyle.

• Finally, have fun! If you don't enjoy your exercise routine, you're not going to stay committed to completing it. You may be able to hang in there for a while, but as soon as something more exciting comes along, exercise is put on the back burner.

Think outside the box to find activities that can add variety to your basic exercise routine and keep you strong, full of energy and fit, then commit to making them a part of your life. It is important to complete strength and cardiovascular training, flexibility and balance exercises within your fitness routine. Taking part in activities such as dancing, cycling or tennis can help you see the progress from your workouts through your progress in those activities.

Health Officials Urge High-Risk Persons To Get Flu Vaccination

(NAPS)—As Americans live healthier and longer lives, there is still one tool overlooked by many that may prevent an average of 36,000 deaths and more than 200,000 hospitalizations each year.

An annual influenza vaccination is beneficial to those at an increased risk for influenza and its complications, and health officials urge those groups to call their health care providers today to schedule a vaccination appointment.

The National Foundation for Infectious Diseases (NFID) warns influenza is a severe and sometimes life-threatening disease and advises people, especially those at an increased risk for influenza-related complications (such as pneumonia), to be vaccinated this fall.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) stresses the importance of annual influenza vaccination for all persons in high-risk groups, including adults 65 years of age and older, people living in nursing homes and other long-term care facilities; children 6 to 23 months; pregnant women; and persons 6 months and older with medical conditions (like asthma or diabetes).

"Many people don't realize they fall into a high-risk group and need to ask their physicians for an influenza vaccination," said William Schaffner, MD, of the NFID and Vanderbilt University School of Medicine.

To increase the level of protection for persons in high-risk groups, the CDC recommends annual vaccination for health care workers. Family members and others in close contact with all high-risk persons and with children 6 months and younger should also be immunized in order to protect high-risk groups.

Those at high risk are encouraged to receive an influenza vaccination in the beginning of October. As of early November, vaccine may be available to all who wish to reduce their risk of getting influenza and is a good idea for anyone who wants to stay healthy this season.

"Once vaccinated, you are protected within two weeks and this protection lasts throughout the season," said Susan J. Rehm, MD, of the NFID and the Cleveland Clinic. "It is important to be immunized against influenza every year because the viruses that cause the disease often change, and a new vaccine is made before each season."

About Influenza

Influenza is a highly contagious viral infection of the nose, throat and lungs that is spread through the air by sneezing and coughing or by direct contact with people who have the disease. People who get influenza experience a high fever, chills, a dry cough, headache, runny nose, sore throat, muscle and joint pain and extreme fatigue lasting several days to weeks.

About Influenza Vaccination

Influenza vaccine is safe and effective and is available in two forms: an injectable vaccine, approved for anyone, healthy or high-risk, 6 months or older; and a nasal vaccine for use in healthy people ages 5 to 49.

The injectable influenza vaccine should not be given to anyone who has a hypersensitive reaction to eggs or who experienced an allergic reaction to a previous dose of the vaccine or any vaccine components.

Children 6 months to 9 years of age who are receiving influenza vaccine for the first time will need two doses at least one month apart for the best protection.

For more information about influenza and vaccination, contact your health care provider. You can also visit the CDC web site (www.cdc.gov) or the NFID web site (www.nfid.org).

Founded in 1973, NFID is a nonprofit organization dedicated to public and professional educational programs about the causes, treatment and prevention of infectious diseases.

Stroke Screenings Oct. 18 At River Bay Club

Life Line Screening will hold screenings to reduce the risk of having a stroke Tuesday, Oct. 18, beginning at 9 a.m. at the River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St., Quincy.

A stroke, also known as a "brain attack," is ranked as the third leading killer in the world, and the second among women. Through preventive screenings, the risk of having a stroke can be greatly reduced.

Screenings are fast, painless and low cost. They involve the use of ultrasound technology, and scan for potential health problems related to: blocked arteries which can lead to a stroke, aortic aneurysms which can lead to a ruptured aorta, and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which are a strong a strong predictor of heart disease.

Also offered for men and women is a bone density screening to assess the risk of osteoporosis.

Each screening requires 10 minutes or less to complete. A complete vascular screening package including the Stroke/Carotid Artery, Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm and Ankle Brachial Index (hardening of the arteries) screenings is $109. Sign up for a complete vascular package, including the osteoporosis screening, and pay only $129.

Life Line Screening was established in 1993 and has since become the nation's leading provider of vascular screenings. For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 1-800-697-9721. Pre-registration is required.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

PRIOR TO GUM SURGERY

If you are scheduled to undergo gum surgery, a recent study suggests that you stop taking ibuprofen. According to researchers at Case Western Reserve University School of Dental Medicine, blood loss during gum surgery is two times greater for people using ibuprofen than for those not taking the over-the-counter drug. Ibuprofen is one of a family of pain relievers called non-steroidal and anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDS), which also includes the prescription drug Celebrex and such over-the-counter medications as aspirin and naproxen (Aleve). Researchers found that the difference between patients using ibuprofen versus non-users was an increase of about 15 milliliters of blood loss, which was approximately double the amount of blood loss seen in patients not using ibuprofen.

If you have questions about gum disease, or any other dental concerns, we invite you to call us at 617-479-6220. We provide quality, personal dental care in a comfortable, immaculate, professional environment at 44 Greenleaf Street. From preventive and routine care to elective cosmetic procedures, our staff will make you feel comfortable during your visit. Our emphasis is on prevention. Preventing dental disease is less costly and more rewarding than correcting problems after they occur. Let us help you bring out that natural smile. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. About half of the ibuprofen users in the above-mentioned study said the drug eased their pain while the other half indicated that ibuprofen use resulted in similar or increased pain.

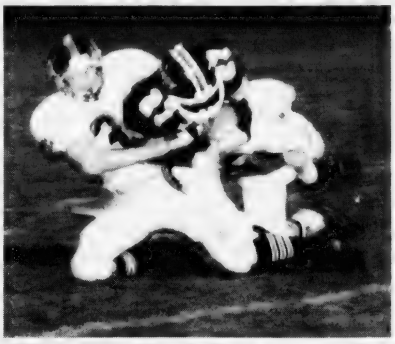
Presidents Back On Track, Defeat W-H 14-10

By CHRIS POISSON

The Quincy High School football team still has its sight set on a possible Atlantic Coast League championship.

The Presidents' chances were somewhat derailed after a loss to Plymouth North Oct. 1, but they rebounded last Friday night with a 14-10 victory over Whitman-Hanson at Veterans Memorial Stadium – the first time they defeated the Panthers since they joined the ACL in 2001.



"That was our first time we've beaten them and that was one of our team goals this year," said head coach Bob Noble. "It's always nice to beat Whitman-Hanson. I don't care what the situation is."

Quincy (2-2 overall, 2-1 ACL) travels to Stoughton tomorrow (Friday) at 6 p.m. in a non-league contest. The Black Knights (2-2) are coming off a 28-7 loss to North Attleboro.

Quincy is a game behind undefeated Plymouth North and Plymouth South with five league contests remaining. Although it's behind the eight ball with the defeat, there's plenty of time for the landscape to change.

The Presidents were in a similar situation two years ago after an early-season setback to Whitman-Hanson. But the Panthers suffered an upset to Nauset later in the season and Quincy knocked off the Blue Eagles in the league finale for the title.

"A league win is always a good win," Noble said. "It keeps us right there. We're only a game behind. We're keeping ourselves in contention. We want to stay there because you never know what's going to happen. Again, I keep referring to a couple of years ago. We were in a similar situation."

CHRIS RYAN-MacDONALD (27) gets taken down after a kickoff return in the first quarter. The senior captain hauled in a 9-yard touchdown pass.

After struggling the previous week, senior captain Everton DeCastro and the running game propelled Quincy to the win. The tailback looked like a top, spinning his way for 128 yards and a touchdown on 26 carries. He also excelled on special teams, kicking deep punts and two extra points.

"It looked like they were a poor tackling team so I just spun off of them," DeCastro said. "They weren't wrapping me up easily."

"Everton is one heck of a football player," Noble said. "I think that's been amply demonstrated so far this year. Again he had another outstanding night."

The Panthers got on the board first nearly midway through the opening quarter when they recovered a Quincy fumble on a punt return at its 10-yard line.

The Presidents' defense, though, stood tall when senior linebacker Chaz Mungalsingh and a host teammates sacked quarterback Kyle Armstrong for an 8-yard loss on third-and-goal. The Panthers settled for a 28-yard field goal by Luke Kelliher.

Quincy's special teams came up big near the end of the quarter. DeCastro boomed a punt that teammate Chris Ryan-MacDonald touched to pin the Panthers at their own 1-yard line.

The defense forced them to go three-and-out, leaving the offense in great field position at the W-H 33. Five running plays later, DeCastro found paydirt from 4 yards out to hand Quincy a 7-3 lead with 8:46 left in the half.

On the opening possession of the second half, Quincy ran the ball nine straight plays to reach the W-H 28. But it came away with nothing when junior quarterback Matt Boyle threw two incomplete passes and was sacked on fourth down.

Whitman-Hanson delivered two big passing plays to score on the ensuing series. Kelliher moved to quarterback to replace an injured Armstrong and completed two passes to Ryan Otis for 73 yards, including a 40-yard touchdown with 3:09 left in the third. Kelliher's extra point made it 10-7.

The Presidents didn't abandon the run on the following series as they executed a 10-play, 65-yard scoring drive. DeCastro and Boyle picked up 43 yards on the ground before Boyle rolled left and found Ryan-MacDonald in the back of the end zone for a 9-yard TD pass and a 14-10 lead with 8:50 remaining in the game.

"Boyle missed some guys that were open but he stuck it in there when it counted," Noble said. "I'm real happy for Chris Ryan-MacDonald who caught the touchdown pass. He's a captain and that's what captains are supposed to do."

Whitman-Hanson threatened to take the lead late in the game when it drove 55 yards to the Quincy 13. But on third-and-9, junior cornerback Jim Aikens, who was beat on the W-H TD pass, made a terrific interception when he jumped a slant pattern.

"Out of the corner of my eye, I saw the quarterback throw the ball and I just got there," Aikens said. "I couldn't let them march down the field and beat us. It was great. Just the situation we were in because we never beat them before."

"That's just a huge play, particularly because he got beat for the touchdown," Noble said. "I'm happy he came back with a clutch play. That's what you have to do to win games."

With 3:16 left, Quincy ran out the clock when DeCastro carried four times for 26 yards and two first downs.

The Dolphins fell to Plymouth South, 14-6.

The Blue Eagles scored on their first offensive series and late in the first half for a 12-0 lead. They added two more touchdowns in the third quarter for the 26-0 advantage.

Granite Links Donates Range Time To Quincy High Golf

In the past, Friday afternoon had become a lost day for members of the Quincy High School golf team.

For the past month, however, that has changed thanks to the generosity of Chris Sleeper and the staff at Granite Links at Quarry Hills.

"We had tried to use Friday last year to do a rules quiz or show them an instructional video, but, quite frankly, the kids were bored," said third-year head coach Lou Venturelli. "I put in a call to Mike Santoro (son of QHS Principal Frank Santoro) and the kids have spent their Friday afternoons fixing their swings."

For three of the past four weeks, the team has put the donated time at the range to good use.

"We're very pleased that the city had negotiated for us to have time at Granite Links and hope to take even greater advantage in the future," Venturelli said.

FOR STARTERS, HOW'S THIS?

If your vehicle starts only occasionally, the problem may rest with any of the several brushes that comprise the starter. These brushes convey electrical current that enables the starter (a motor) to spin and, consequently, turn over the engine. In some cases, one or more of these brushes "burn," which prohibits electrical current from passing through them. If the starter is already spinning, it will likely continue to spin even if it reaches one of the burnt brushes. However, if the starter motor stops spinning and it lands on one of the faulty brushes, the vehicle will not start. Repeatedly turning the key will eventually bump the starter past the burnt spot, allowing it to start, hence, the occasional starting.

HINT: A starter with burnt brushes may respond to jumping the battery, as the jump provides double the amount of electrical current going to the starter, which is more than enough to skip past the bad brush and get the motor spinning.

Two Losses, Tie For North Quincy

GIRLS' SOCCER

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team had a rough time in the Atlantic Coast League last week with two losses and a tie.

The Red Raiders (5-4-3 overall) need seven points in their final eight games to qualify for the state tournament for the ninth straight season.

North Quincy, which was scheduled to play Medford Monday and Dennis-Yarmouth Wednesday, will host Bridgewater-Raynham Friday at 4 p.m. at Teal Field.

Last Monday, the Red Raiders fell to Falmouth at home, 2-1. They nearly had an early 2-0 lead when junior midfielder Lauren Stille's header hit the post five minutes in and sophomore midfielder Emily Milone's blast sailed over the crossbar.

The Clippers took a 2-0 lead on nearly identical shots midway through the half.

North Quincy's leading scorer, senior captain Caitlin McCleary, pulled her team within one, taking senior defender Roberta Phelan's feed and sneaking a shot to the far post.

Playing well were juniors Bridget Coleman, Keriann Cabral and Jillian Bell and senior keeper Kelly Barden.

The Red Raiders traveled to Sandwich last Wednesday and lost, 6-1, in a game that was closer than the final score indicated. Again, they controlled play early with senior midfielder Katherine Andreosatos and Phelan playing especially well.

The Blue Knights then scored a pair of goals midway through the half before Lauren Stille converted a pass from her sister, sophomore forward Mary Kate Stille, for her sixth goal of the year.

Down 2-1, Sandwich converted a direct kick 12 minutes into the second half on a questionable foul. Subbing freely, the Red Raiders saw the hosts knock in three more to close out the scoring.

Coleman, Benn and Phelan stood out again.

Taking the 90-minute trip to Nauset the following day, North Quincy grabbed a quick 1-0 lead when McCleary scored her 13th goal of the season, volleying a Lauren Stille cross over the keeper's head.

The Red Raiders had several brilliant scoring chances in the half as they dominated play. They failed to convert six corner kicks.

They nearly won late in the second half but Coleman's side volley off a Milone corner just went by the back post. Junior defenders Tara Whooley and Melissa Mendall turned in outstanding games.

8th Grade Waiver For Quincy-North Girls Hockey

The Quincy/North Quincy High School girls' co-operative hockey team was recently granted approval for an eighth-grade waiver from the MIAA.

The waiver enables the team to allow girls currently in eighth grade to try out and possibly participate on the team.

With only five players returning from last season, the program, going into its fifth year, was in danger of not being able to field a team to compete at the varsity level.

Head coach Laura Prisco said she is excited to know there are many girls under age 15 participating in the new Quincy girls youth hockey program with under 10, under 12 and under 14 teams.

"This youth program will prove to serve as a huge feeder system onto the high school team for years to come," she said. "That is why it is so important to get through this transition year."

Tryouts for the varsity team are open to all Quincy students in grades 8-12. They will be held Nov. 28 from 3 to 4 p.m. at Quincy Shea MDC rink and Nov. 29 from 5:30 to 6:30 a.m. at Quincy Youth Arena. Students are asked to come dressed in full hockey equipment.

Also, any current field hockey, soccer or lacrosse goalie interested in learning to be a back-up goalie are asked to try out.

For more information, contact Sue Petitti, president of girls ice hockey booster, at 617-773-8585.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Sunday, Sept. 25, at approximately 2:51 p.m., Officer Paul Foley was dispatched to the area of East Squantum St. and Bayfield Rd. for a report of an unarmed robbery that just occurred. One of the callers stated that four white teenagers robbed an Asian female of her pocketbook and fled. The caller stated that two boys ran down Bayfield, while the other two left towards Appleton St. Officer Tom Ford and Detective Mike Ward responded to the area to help in the search.

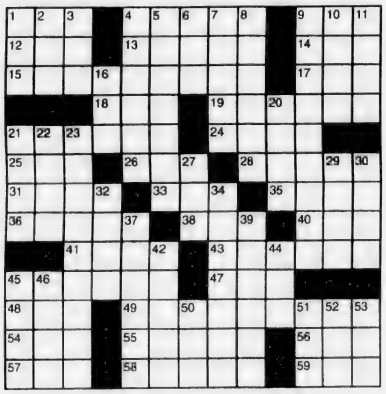
LT. DAN MINTON

As Officer Foley neared the scene, he spotted two teenagers walking on Quincy Shore Drive, two blocks away from the crime scene. He questioned the boys about the incident and they stated that they had witnessed the incident, but "had nothing to do with it." Having reason to believe that they were involved, Officer Foley brought the boys back to the crime scene, where an independent witness identified them as having been with the boy who actually committed the robbery.

Officer Foley attempted to converse with the victim, but she did not speak English, so Officer Greg Marr was dispatched to translate. The victim corroborated the witness's accounts. Officer Foley told the two boys that they were not under arrest and asked them to identify the main suspect. The provided his name, stating that they were walking down the street when one of their friends ran up behind the victim, snatched her pocketbook from her hand and ran. They said they ran because they were scared.

Officer Foley used one of the boy's cell phone and called the main suspect and told him to return to the scene. The suspect then voluntarily uttered that he took the purse as a "prank" and would show the police where the purse was located. Officer Ford picked the suspect up at the North Quincy MBTA Station, along with the fourth boy, then retrieved the pocketbook and brought the two back to Officer Foley's location. Witnesses as well as the victim identified the two boys. When the victim examined her pocketbook, she stated that $20 was missing, but the main suspect denied taking anything.

The main suspect, a 15-year-old Quincy resident, was arrested and booked at the station. Attempts were made to contact a family member to no avail, so he was transported to the New Bedford Juvenile Facility and held overnight. The three other boys, all juveniles from Quincy, were released to their parents without charges.



The Quincy Police Department would like to thank witness Linda Mann of Quincy for taking a key role in this case. She stated that she was driving by when she saw the victim, with her four-year-old grandson, running after a boy with a pocketbook. Linda called "911" and then comforted the distraught victim until the police arrived. Based on movements and gestures by the victim, Linda was able to determine what had happened and conveyed this to Officer Foley. Linda also provided the victim with the use of her cellphone, so that the victim could seek help from someone who spoke her language as well as English. Nice work goes out to Officer Foley and Linda Mann!

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your moodier side might emerge this week. But the dark period should pass in time for the party-loving Lamb to go on a happy gambol with some very special people this weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Yet again, you show your skill at being able to indulge in your love of the arts this week while still taking care of practical matters, including some still-unfinished business matters.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A potential change might appear to be what you've been looking for. In any event, consider both the negative as well as the positive possibilities before making any sort of decision.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Relationships continue to dominate your aspect this week on a mostly positive level, with just a few problem areas you can smooth over. Also, try to be flexible about travel plans.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You love being on center stage, and while you absolutely purr at the sound of all that praise, be careful not to take on too many commitments at the expense of time spent with loved ones.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might feel that you need to get involved in a matter concerning a friend or relative. But while the issues appear to be cut and dried, they might not be. Get more facts before you act.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A suggestion about a policy change could create heated reactions. Keep your mind open and resist joining in with naysayers unless they can show a real basis for their position.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) While potential career changes warrant your interest, don't ignore current job responsibilities. A personal relationship can also benefit from more of your attention.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Don't guess at what the facts might be if you hope to make the best decision possible. The wise course is to ask direct questions and act on the answers you get.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Your efforts involving that pesky problem should soon show positive signs of being resolved. This would allow you to shift some of your focus in another direction.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) While you enjoy well-deserved praise for getting a difficult job done, there's no time to relax. A new challenge looms. Expect more support from a once-strong critic.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might still have explaining to do about your decision, but support grows as you continue to make your case. You might also want to start making plans for the upcoming holidays.

BORN THIS WEEK: You insist on making decisions based on facts, not on popular opinions. Have you considered a career in science?

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

It has been said that there is no possession more valuable than a good and faithful friend. It has also been said "Never require from a friend what he cannot grant without a breach of his honor; and always be ready to help him whenever this principle is complied with." – Cicero. The best way to have friends is to be one. "If you see a friend slipping away from you," wrote David Grayson, "stop whatever you are doing and bring him back, for friendship is one thing you cannot afford to be without."

In youth every chance-met acquaintance is hailed as a true friend. But as one grows older, and the real nature of friendship becomes better understood. And the man or woman who has reached the middle life with half a dozen friends, real friends who will bear all the test of friendship is, indeed, fortunate.

This quote expresses these thoughts quite beautifully: "Blessed is the man who has the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but above all the power of going out of one's self, and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another man." Thomas Hughes

Internal Revenue Service Urges:

Seek Qualified Charities For Hurricane Aid

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has a word for those who wish to contribute to the relief of the victims of Hurricane Katrina and Rita — be careful. There are a lot of unqualified charities seeking your money out there.

Folks who have a specific charity in mind can make sure it is qualified by searching an IRS-approved list. IRS.gov has an on-line search feature that allows people to find qualified charities.

The IRS does not endorse any charity. However, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has urged citizens to make cash donations to volunteer agencies with whom it is working.

"We encourage citizens to make sure their contributions are put to the best use possible to help Hurricane Katrina victims," said IRS Commissioner Mark W. Everson.

"The IRS will do everything possible to assist both taxpayers and charities in this difficult time."

The IRS has prepared a pamphlet, Publication 3833, "Disaster Relief: Providing Assistance Through Charitable Organizations," that may be helpful to people who either want to make contributions or form a specific charity.

Publication 78 lists charities with tax-exempt status and a searchable on-line versions is available through IRS.gov. Publication 526, Charitable Contributions, also provides information on contributions to charity.

And a final reminder, taxpayers may claim a deduction for contributions to charitable organizations only if they itemize deductions. They should retain proof of the contribution and acknowledgment of the charity.

Calls Release Of 25 Million Gallons 'Completely Unacceptable'

Phelan Blasts MWRA For Dumping Raw Sewage Into Bay

Mayor William Phelan Tuesday blasted the MWRA's release of 25 million gallons of untreated sewage into Quincy Bay as "completely unacceptable."

The sewage was released during last Saturday's rain storm because of a power failure that disabled the main pump that normally sends the sewage to Deer Island.

"The ratepayers of Quincy have contributed billions of dollars to help clean up Boston Harbor and Quincy Bay," Phelan said. "The release of sewage is not only detrimental to the quality of the bay but it significantly erodes public confidence in our efforts to provide an unparalleled natural resource to the people of Quincy. I am equally angry and disappointed at this news."

The MWRA released the sewage into the bay originally in response to an overflow capacity largely by the heavy rain.

"The MWRA spent $3.8 billion on a treatment plant that still dumps sewage into our bay," Phelan said. "That is simply an injustice. Our state government creates these independent agencies that are unaccountable to the public and this is the result. Our best interests are not being represented if this is allowed to continue."

In April 2004, the MWRA had another release of sewage resulting from a power outage on Deer Island. A MWRA report estimated it would cost between $4 and $6 million to create a redundant power system capable of avoiding the sewage releases caused by power outages.

"The MWRA needs to fix this problem today," Phelan said. "There is a solution available for one-tenth of 1 percent of the total project cost and they are now reacting to their second major sewage release in Quincy Bay. Their lack of response to this major environmental problem is unacceptable, completely unacceptable."

Year Of Meetings Underway For Shipyard Development

A series of meetings to determine the development future of the old Fore River Shipyard began this week and promises to continue for as much as a year before reaching a conclusion.

The first two meetings were held Tuesday night in Quincy and last night in Braintree to solicit public input into a preliminary plan for development of the 111-acre site that straddles the two communities.

Ward 2 City Councillor Dan Raymondi told the Council Monday night that the final plans eventually will go to a developmental team. the whole process taking from eight months to a year to complete.

He said he hopes the final plan will make a comprehensive approach with more of an outreach to the community.

Virginia Allen, spokesperson for Dan Quirk, the owner of the property, said they plan to have more involvement and input from the community and that extensive mailings will be made to residents.

Council Calls It 'Horrific Event'

Heavy Rain Floods Homes, Streets In West Quincy

By MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Water flooded some West Quincy homes to a depth of five feet and the city had more than 30 pumps going at one time in the wake of more than a foot of rain that fell on Quincy in a nine day span last week.

"The flooding began early Saturday morning," said DPW Commissioner Steve O'Donnell. "The heaviest was adjacent to the Southeast Expressway.

"Five inches of rain Friday and Saturday on top of the rainfall the previous days left the ground saturated. There was no place for it to run.

""Furnace Brook in West Quincy to Black's Creek at Wollaston Beach was at capacity and the excess water was spilling over onto the roadway.

""We had 30 men working at a time, calling in men from the highway side, the parks, anyone that was available and we had it pumped down by Sunday morning."

O'Donnell said that "outstanding efforts" were made by the sewer and water departments with 10 submersible pumps and 30 portable pumps that were available.

The hardest hit roadways were Connell Street, Willard Street, Alrick Road, Ballou Street, Steadman Street and Robinson Street on the east side of the Expressway.

For a time, Ballou and Steadman Streets were impassable by automobile.

Street Paving Projects To Resume This Week

Portions of Beach and Greenleaf Streets and Hancock Court will be paved this week as the city resumes its street paving projects.

The work is being done as part of Mayor William Phelan's Pavement Management Plan approved by the City Council last year.

"The hiccup with the rain caused us a brief delay but we will be back paving later this week," said Phelan. "We have made great strides and we continue to work toward improving the overall condition of our city streets.

"I know the residents on these particular streets have endured rough roads for some time and should be pleased with the improvements."

A portion of Sea Street will be repaved in the coming weeks.

"Residents should be prepared for the minor inconveniences of a paving project," said Public Works Commissioner Steve O'Donnell. "The end results will far outweigh the temporary construction inconveniences."

Ground Broken To Plant Trees In Germantown

Backhoes began breaking ground Saturday for the planting of the first of 28 trees at the Riverview Family Housing Project in Germantown under a $5,600 grant from the Mass Releaf Fund.

The Quincy Point Congregational Church, the Quincy Housing Authority and the Step Up Program are collaborating in the plantings, which are carried out by individual volunteers and community groups.

The trees, 13 planted Saturday and 15 more to be planted in November, are of types suitable for public locations that can stand up to the sea and the salt air.

They include Cleveland pear, red maple, London plane, red oak and zelkova.

The volunteers who planted the trees worked through a heavy rain that turned the yard of the housing project into a field of mud.

"I deeply appreciate their work," said Leo Kelly, the city councillor from Ward 1. "The area is in desperate need of tree planting which not only beautifies but cleans the air and lessens the noise."

A documentary film crew turned out in the rain to record the planting for a project on faith-based initiatives that is scheduled to be aired on PBS at a later date.

The Mass Releaf Ministry is dedicated to the restoration of healthy trees in the urban landscape and fosters partnerships between business, government and citizens for the planting and care of public trees.

A three-year maintenance program will be carried out as a collaborative effort between volunteers from the Quincy Point Congregational Church UCC and the Quincy Housing Authority. The city will donate mulch.

Board Changes License Suspension to One Day

The License Board Tuesday reconsidered a July 25 vote to close Fugi II Restaurant at 1540 Hancock St. for two days to a one day suspension instead because of after hours drinking.

The board initially issued the suspension on Sept. 20 mainly because no one at Fugi's attending the meeting.

At the start of Tuesday's meeting, Atty. Paul Seaver apologized to the board for misplacing the notice to appear before the board.

Police said there were four beer bottles on the bar at 3:45 a.m. July 25.

Police Chief Robert Crowley asked owner Jimmy Liang what they were doing in the establishment at that time of morning.

Liang said they were still cleaning. He said there were four employees still cleaning and two patrons who actually were drinking coffee.

Crowley said it was still "4 beer bottles on the bar, " and added all bottles should be off the bar by 1:15 a.m.

Vice Chairman Drew Scheele who was sitting in for Chairman Joseph Shea who had to excuse himself from the vote because he was not at the Sept. 20 meeting. said it is "inexcusable to still be in there. If you have to be in there after 1:30 a.m. the law says you should call the police and tell them.

Gala Raises $185,000

Quincy Cares Campaign Reaches $550,000 Mark

The Quincy Cares campaign to aid victims of Hurricane Katrina in Jefferson Parish, La., has passed the halfway mark of its $1 million goal.

Last week's gala at the Quincy Marriott raised more than $185,000 to push the total so far to $550,000.

The fund-raising drive was aided by a $50,000 donation from the Verizon Foundation presented by Quincy natives Rick Colon, Verizon External Affairs, and P.J. Foley of Local 2222.

The Stop & Shop Supermarket Co. donated $25,000, Cashman Construction chipped in $10,000 and the Telephone Workers' Credit Union added $6,300 to the evening's take.

Quincy Cares organizer Dan Flynn raised more than $30,000 in the auctions. Flynn and his staff from Daniel J. Flynn and Co. spent the last few weeks soliciting prizes and gifts for the auction and raffle.

"Quincy does care and the support tonight was overwhelming," said Mayor William Phelan. "Each and every time that this city and its residents has been asked for help, we have responded. I am extremely proud to be the mayor of such a great and generous city.

"We are thrilled with the generosity of the Verizon Foundation and the Verizon employees. The continued generosity of Verizon has established them as one of the most philanthropic corporations in the world. I want to thank the employees of Local 2222 and all Verizon employees for this contribution."

The Verizon Foundation raised $10.8 million for hurricane relief in the Gulf Coast this year. The $50,000 gift represents the largest single donation to the Quincy Cares campaign.

Jefferson Parish President Aaron Broussard was patched in via telephone to thank the audience.

"I want to thank all the folks in Quincy for their compassion," Broussard said. "Though I don't know any of you, I can feel your hearts and I appreciate your generosity. Our people still need help and we will make good use of your kindness."

Guests also heard from displaced Mississippi resident Margaret Bilkowski, who was forced to leave her home in Mississippi and has since settled in Quincy.

Guests enjoyed Dixieland music from the Joe Bargar Band and the sounds of Boston's most popular cover band "Dick N' Jane." The event also featured a silent

Council Hopes To Hold Tax Hearing Nov. 14

If Chief Assessor Marion Fantucchio has all her figures together and a go ahead from the state, the city of Quincy may have an early tax rate announcement.

The City Council has scheduled the meeting of Monday, Nov. 14, to hold the annual public hearing on tax classification if everything falls into place.

"We hope that Marion will have all the numbers together and they will have been approved by the state," said Council President Frank McCauley.

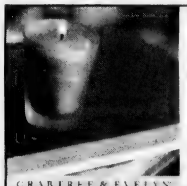
"We can vote on it the same night and then set the tax rate. Usually we do this in December. Last year we did it in November. The mayor is pushing it."

The present classification tax rate is 175 per cent of fair market value for commercial, industrial and personal property.

Fantucchio told the Council at the Monday night meeting that the Board of Assessors and its staff are trying to meet the deadline regarding the tax rate.

She said the goal is to finalize the figures and have them ready "within the next week or so."

She said reports on the values have to be finalized and meet the criteria of the Department of Revenue, which has to approve them before they go to the mayor. She said the reports then go to the Bureau of Accounts and the Bureau of Local Assessments. After that she will present them at the Nov. 14 meeting.



Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin asked whether the age of eligibility for a tax exemption could be lowered from 70 years of age to 65.

Fantucchio said any time you change an exemption it will cost more money and then you pay more taxes.

She said in the 1980s the exemption for senior citizens was $500. She said today it is a "drop in the bucket."

She said that State Auditor Joseph DeNucci did a research on exemptions and found inequities in cities and towns.

The towns that were affluent and had the money had the option to increase exemptions, but Quincy has a levy limit and there is no room in the levy, so where would the money come from?

Moving Day For WWII Statue, Granite Ball

Moving Day is coming up for the World War II statue and the Granite Ball.

Mayor William Phelan hopes to have the statue, now on Constitution Common outside City Hall, moved to re-landscaped Merrymount Park for rededication on Veterans Day next month. This is the site originally planned for the statue.

PHELAN

The 11-ton Granite Ball would then be moved to the spot where the statue now stands, tentatively by sometime in December.

Phelan has instructed Park-Forestry Executive Director Tom Koch to make every effort to have the statue at Merrymount Park for Veterans Day.

KOCH

The statue will be surrounded by engraved memorial bricks purchased by World War II veterans and families.

Koch estimates there are some 3000 bricks, 500 of which have already been engraved and the others are being worked on.

Phelan, with the backing of most residents, ordered the ball moved from the Fore River traffic rotary to outside City Hall where it originally was.

The ball was moved last March and taken to Barre, Vt. for repairs and re-polishing. It is still there but ready to come back.

The ball was presented to the city June 25, 1925 to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the settlement of Quincy in 1625.

It was a gift from the Quincy Granite Manufacturers Association who stipulated it be placed outside the city clerk's office at old City Hall. The World War II statue is just a few feet away and centered on the common plaza.

The granite manufacturers placed the ball in the custody of the mayor of Quincy who at the time was Perley Barbour. Thomas Burgin was mayor when it was moved to the Fore River rotary in 1937.

Now, 68 years later, Phelan who as mayor, is custodian of the ball, is bringing it back to City Hall – back where most people want it and feel it belongs.

The ball was not very visible at the rotary in recent years with shrub growth. Motorists heading up or coming down the Fore River bridge who could see it risked an accident looking at the ball instead of the road.

When it was at City Hall, children delighted in seeing their reflection in the mirror-like polished granite ball which led to it being known as the "Gazing Ball."

Because of traffic, they weren't able to get near the ball while it was at the rotary.

Many have long urged the ball be brought back to City Hall. Among them is Joanne Swingle Hennigan, granddaughter of Jonathan S. Swingle, owner of Swingle's Quarry who donated a 25-ton block of granite from which the ball was cut.

Most Quincy Point residents, however, would like to have had it remain at the rotary.

The city hopes to replace the ball at the rotary with something nautical – like a large ship anchor and flags.

That would be appropriate because the nearby former Fore River shipyard was famed for some of the Navy's great ships. Ships like the Massachusetts, Lexington, Quincy that played a major role in winning World War II.

And where the USS Salem Naval Shipbuilding Museum is today.

A nautical remembrance at the rotary would be a far more appropriate tribute to Quincy Point's great shipbuilding industry.

And back at City Hall, the ball would be seen by all – including the kids – as a tribute to Quincy's famed granite industry.

In the center of Constitution Common – surrounded by the Walk of Names bricks, shrubs and flowers, the ball would be a crown jewel.

Fabrizio, who is back at work, says he's on the mend and hopes to chuck those crutches soon.

OOPS: An item in last week's column got a little scrambled. It was the one about Julie Berberan, candidate for councillor at-large, being the daughter of one of the 10 O'Neil sisters who became famous in the Boston Easter Parade in the 1950s.

White House Wreath To Honor John Adams' 270th Birthday

The annual presidential wreath will be placed on the tomb of John Adams in the crypt of United First Parish Church Monday, Oct. 31, to honor the 270th birthday of the second president of the United States.

The featured speaker at the 12 noon memorial service will be Peggy Baker, director of the Pilgrim Hall Museum, who will discuss Adams' direct descendancy from the Pilgrims John and Priscilla Alden.

The program will also feature music by the Navy Brass Ensemble of Newport, R.I., and the service will conclude with the official White House wreath placed upon the tomb by a U. S. Navy honor guard.

John Adams, who was born Oct. 30, 1735, and his wife, Abigail, as well as their son, John Quincy Adams, the sixth president, and his wife, Louisa, are all interred in the United First Parish Church.

Friendly Visitors Sought At COA

The COA is also seeking seniors who live alone and would like a friendly visit themselves.

The Council is mandated by law to do background checks on all volunteers.

THIS IS A 1928 real photo postcard view of Beale Street looking toward Wollaston Center from the bridge over the railroad tracks. The Victorian style building on the right is pretty much the same today as is the smaller building just beyond that is now a tool rental shop. The large building beyond the trees was the Masonic Template and later the home of the Wollaston American Legion Post. It is now the site of a Sovereign Bank branch across from Barry's Deli. Bus Drivers Receive 10 Cents An Hour Increase In Pay

Oct. 23-29
50 Years Ago

After five months of negotiating, William McNeill, president of the Quincy local of the Eastern Mass. Street Railways Union, announced a new 18-month contract had been accepted.

Under the new contract, employees would receive a basic monthly wage of $1.75 an hour, an increase of 10 cents. Originally, employees had asked for a 30 cent boost.

MERCHANTS OPPOSE SOUTHERN ARTERY MEDIAN STRIP

Merchants along the Southern Artery voiced opposition this week to plans which called for the building of a center strip median down the roadway.

Reconstruction of the artery by the state was scheduled to begin next spring, but merchants wanted the median strip taken out of the plans. They said it would seriously cut down on their volume of trade, since motorists would be prevented from cutting across the road to reach businesses on the opposite side.

RED FEATHER CAMPAIGN GOES DOOR-TO-DOOR

More than 1,500 volunteer workers were busy this week ringing door bells as the final phase of the Quincy Red Feather Drive got underway. William Harris, chairman of the residential division, said his unit's quota was $26,940. The annual open house was scheduled on Sunday night at Chest Headquarters at the Adams Academy. At that time, initial results of the weekend drive would be reported. Mr. and Mrs. Alf Swensen were in charge of preparing refreshments for the volunteers making reports.

CHURCH MEMBERS PAINT HOUSE

Twenty-five men from First Presbyterian Church on Quincy went to Weymouth this week to paint the house of fellow parishioner John Young, a recent polio victim.

Mr. Young had made an excellent recovery since being stricken and had since returned to his teaching position at North Quincy High School.

Serving refreshments to the workers were Mrs. John Young, Mrs. Wallace Pearson, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Alton Horte, Mrs. Marshall Miller, Mrs. Alexander Warmington, Mrs. Henry Bishop and Mrs. William Souden.

NORTH QUINCY WATER BREAK

At noon Saturday, emergency workers from the fire, highway and water departments were still pumping out cellars on Faxon Road, Gordon Street and French Street. The yard of White Brothers Milk Co. was covered by several feet of water and it was necessary to tow out a dozen trucks so that the company could deliver its milk.

Injury-riddled Quincy High School prepared to meet Malden with an entirely new backfield unit. Coach William Sullivan said, "We are no longer a passing team. I don't know if we're even a running one, either."

Sullivan was expected to start sophomore Tom Connors at quarterback to replace the injured Ronnie Leone. Missing from the once powerful backfield was Dick Pakalmis, Dick Derbes and Jack Brown.

The Quincy She Knows Not Represented At Charrettes

I went to both charrettes to work on the creation of a Master Plan for Quincy Center. Like City Planning Director (Dennis) Harrington, I was disappointed in the turn-outs (about 80 at the most recent session), but, possibly, for different reasons.

The Quincy I know was not represented at them. And, I expect, that many were working to support their families, thereby unable to enjoy the beautiful Saturday of the event. To me, Quincy is much more than restaurants, businesses, condominiums/luxury apartments, and high-end speciality shops. Mayor (William) Phelan is right in saying Quincy is "a city of neighborhoods, with a tremendous diversity of ethnic groups, professions, ages, and household types."

Let's not forget, Quincy's median household income (according to the Census Bureau) is – $48,000/year; just last year, Quincy had one of the highest hunger rates in the state; and housing truly affordable to longtime residents, their children and grandchildren continues to vanish very quickly.

Nothing was publicly rejected at the charrette, so are the suggested senior housing and hotel still possible?

Also, if the final plan includes moving 1,000 people into Quincy Center, what about a day care center or an elementary school? Unfortunately, most others in my Group 2 at the charrette thought that these properties are too valuable for such facilities. Again, this is not the Quincy I know.

Many of my friends also hope that a new Quincy Center will genuinely reflect the strength, diversity, and community that are longtime assets to our city.

Three Cheers For Harriet Miers

About the war on Iraq, nobody else is more in disfavor of it than I, except President Saddam Hussein and his family. About the nomination of Harriet Miers for the Supreme Court, nobody else is more in favor of it than I am, except President Bush and his family.

I voted for Governor George W. Bush when he ran for the first time for President of the United States, when he said that Jesus Christ is his role model in life. But I could not vote for him, for the second time, when he became the "war President" and proclaimed Winston Churchill, WWII war criminal, his role model.

However, the American people by a majority vote elected him as President and gave him the right to nominate anybody that he considers competent for the Supreme Court. Before the President decided to nominate Harriet Miers he had to make a choice: either to nominate someone whom somebody else recommended to him or to choose someone that he himself knew well and considered competent for the highest Court in the land. The President listened to his inner voice rather than to the voice of his legal aides.

America has in every city someone who is competent to serve at the highest Court in the land. The President could select each time only one. He decided to nominate someone whom he knew the best. That decision deserves a compliment: "one thousand points of light."

Three cheers for President Bush and three cheers for Harriet Miers, who deserves to become the third queen on the Supreme Court of the United States.

Quincy-Native Author To Discuss Debut Novel

MICHAEL WINERIP

Quincy native Michael E. Winerip, a Pulitzer Prize-winning New York Times reporter, will discuss his debut novel, "Adam Canfield of the Slash," Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. in the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St.

The book, which is based on his experiences in 30 years as a newspaper reporter, recounts with humor the Harry Potter-esque story of middle school newspaper reporters who stand up to authority to report a school scandal.

"I wanted to write a boom about kids with superpowers," said Winerip. "So I gave Adam lots of notebooks and pens and a newspaper that would print his stories. Next, I three win a few suspicious characters, then stood back and waited for some magic stuff to happen."

Winetrip's appearance is sponsored by the Boston Globe Foundation as part of an Authors in Their Home Towns series. Copies of the book will be available for sale.

Two organizations devoted to the education and rehabilitation of prisoners will screen and discuss an award-winning PBS film on prison life Friday, Oct. 21, at 7:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St.

The Prison Book Program, based locally at the church, is committed to sending free books to prisoners and the Partakers is a multi-faith prison education initiative to reduce recidivism through education and civic engagement.

The film, "What I Want My Word To Do To You," is a look into the minds and hearts of 15 women inmates of New York's Bedford Hills Correctional Facility, most of whom were convicted of murder.

It goes inside a writing workshop, led by playwright Eve Ensler, in which, through a series of exercises and discussions, the women delve into their pasts, explore the nature of their crimes and the extent of their culpability.

The film will be follower at Framingham Women's Prison, now an employee and candidate for a master's degree at Boston University.

Admission is free but donations of $5 or more will be accepted.

PANELISTS FOR THE Altrusa Club's Quincy Squares fund-raiser, first row, School Committeeman David McCarthy, Roseanne Flavin, Edward Kane. Second row, Maralin Manning, executive director of the Quincy Business Association; Mayor William Phelan, Quincy High School Principal Frank Santoro. Bellotti Has Eye On Child Protection Technology

The Norfolk County Sheriff's Office has approved a new system that uses cutting-edge iris recognition technology to identify and locate missing children, Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti announces.

The Children's Identification and Location Database (CHILD) Project is a secure nationwide network and registry using iris recognition biometric technology, the quickest and most accurate identification technology available.

"This is the 21st century version of fingerprinting," Bellotti said. "Having a system like this at our disposal will allow us to quickly and positively identify missing children."

Currently, there are approximately 1,100 sheriffs across the nation who have agreed to participate in the CHILD Project, which is maintained by the Nation's Missing Children Organization (NMCO).

Through this network, the CHILD Project will compare the unique features of the iris against a database of enrolled individuals to determine a person's identity.

Complementing fingerprints, dental impressions and other existing identification markers, the CHILD Project will capture a digital photograph of the individual's iris along with basic demographic information.

The technology can tell the difference between twins or even a person's right and left eye. And, it is non-intrusive: an image of the iris is captured by simply looking into a camera.

MICHAEL BELLOTTI

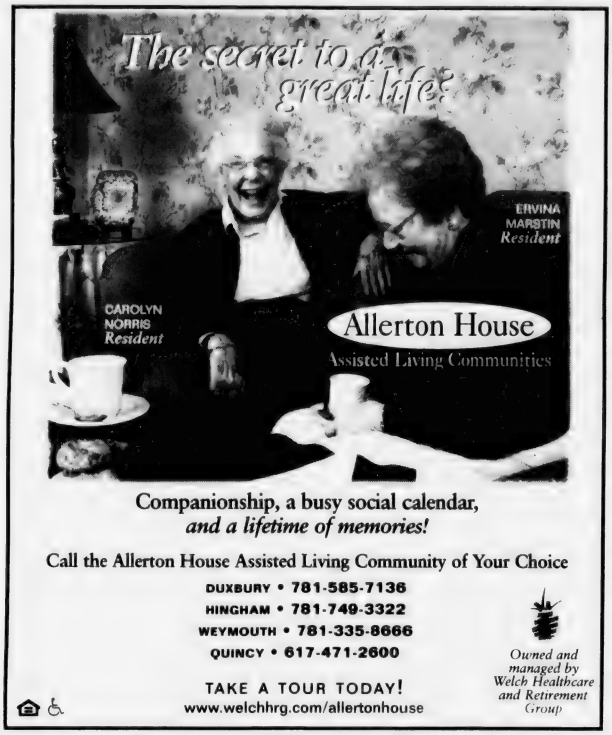
Unlike fingerprinting programs, the CHILD Project will create a national registry to give social service agencies, law enforcement and other authorized users access to data that can positively identify children in seconds.

According to the U.S. Department of Justice, more than 2,000 children are reported missing each day in the United States.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation says there were more than 103,000 active cases of missing children and adults as of Nov. 1, 2004 – with 1,566 of those cases coming from Massachusetts.

"A high-tech tool like this will help to alleviate the disturbing trend and growing numbers of missing children," Bellotti said.

Iris recognition is based on the most mathematically unique biometric – the iris of the eye. Because the iris remains stable throughout a person's life, the physical characteristics of the iris do not change with age.



Iris recognition is proven to have no false matches in more than 2 million cross-comparisons, according to Britain's Center for Mathematics and Scientific Computing.

None of the other biometric solutions – including fingerprints, facial recognition, retina scans or voice recognition - provides the level of accuracy, speed or cost-effectiveness found with iris recognition technology.

The system includes all the support and training, licensing fees, system laptop computers, software and cameras needed for full operation.

Iris recognition technology is strictly voluntary. Participants agree to enroll, thereby eliminating privacy concerns. Taking a picture of a child's iris takes approximately 15 seconds – about a third of the time it typically takes to do a fingerprint card.

The CHILD Project system connects and transfers information via the Internet. A typical system with more than 150,000 records will usually take less than 10 seconds to positively identify an individual.

Phase II Jewelry Changes Ownership After 30 Years

Phase II Jewelry & Gifts shop, a downtown Quincy landmark for 30 years, has changed ownership hands.

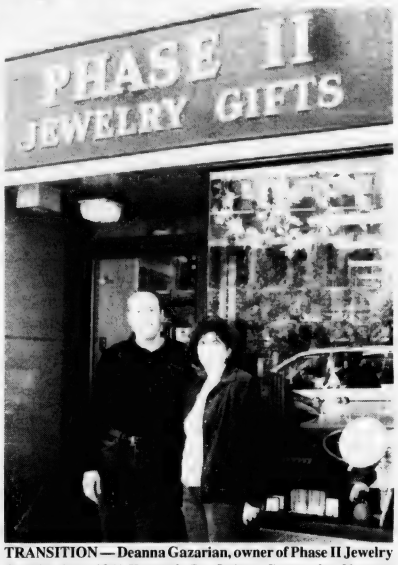
Deanna Gazarian finalized the sale of the business, located at 1361 Hancock St., Monday to John Hilane.

Hilane, a jewelry industry specialist, is a graduate of the Gemological Institute of America. He now lives in Londonderry, N.H., but plans to relocate to Quincy.

Karney Eldridge, Gazarian's sister and assistant, will remain on with Hilane during the transition period.

"John was hand-picked by me to continue the Phase II tradition and family-like customer relationship," Gazarian, a Milton resident, said.

"Many of our customers have been with us from the very beginning. I am going to miss them.



"I have mixed emotions about leaving because we have been a part of the lives of our customers and they of ours."

Originally, Phase II sold only fashion and costume jewelry but expanded into jewelry in gold, silver and gemstones and local collectibles.

"We started with $1 items and went from dollars to diamonds," Gazarian said.

Phase II was among the first to sell community afghans and other commemorative items with Quincy, Milton, Dorchester and South Boston themes.

For each afghan and collectible sold, she donated to a church, civic group or historic site.

Gazarian has been active in the Quincy business community.

She is a former president and board member of the Quincy Business Association. She is also a former member of the Woodward School board and is now a member of the Quincy Neighborhood Board of Governors and is president of the Milton PM Club.

"My years here have been most enjoyable," she says. "And I am sure John will find his that way, too."

Citywide Council School Committee Candidates Night Oct. 27

The Citywide Parents' Council will sponsor a school committee candidates night Thursday, Oct. 27.

It will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Broad Meadows Middle School, Calvin Road.

The six candidates for the three open seats on the school committee have been invited to present their views on school issues.

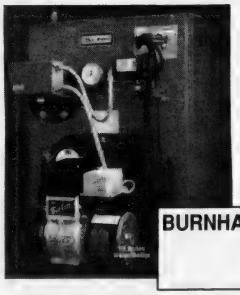
Star Of Sea Friends Raise $1,000 For Hurricane Aid

The Friends of Star of the Sea, the faith-based Squantum group that fought so long to keep their church open, has raised $1,000 for victims of Hurricane Katrina in an event at the First Church of Squantum.

"This is the least we can do," said Erin Driscoll, a member of the Friends committee, "Even if it means sacrifice on our part, it is truly a privilege for us to offer this gift to our friends who are less fortunate."

The $1,000 in donations to hurricane victims consists of more than $800 in funds earmarked for Quincy Cares as well as supplemental funds destined for the Red Cross.

"We are all called to be stewards, to give our time, talent and treasure, to help those in our community and beyond," said Maureen Mazrimas, co-chair of the Friends.



"This is what our faith is all about," added Sean Glennon, the other co-chair. "It's always nice to receive but giving feels so much better."

$897,000 Grant To Provide Job Development For Young Adults With Disabilities

The South Coastal Workforce Investment Board (WIB) has been awarded a three-year $897,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Education (DOE) to provide job development and career counseling assistance to young adults with disabilities in Quincy and the South Coastal workforce.

Announcement was made by Mayor William Phelan as chief elected official of the WIB board.

The Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission (MRC), the Quincy and Plymouth Career Centers and leading industries in the region have joined the WIB to contact young adults with the most severe disabilities to jobs in growth industries.

Those industries include health care, hospitality, child care, food services and the marine trades.

"Partnering with other organizations has been the key to this initiative," said Phelan. "Working together, we can make a significant difference in the lives of young people and support the workforce needs of many area employers. This allows our collective efforts to continue and to expand."

Colleen Price, executive director of the South Coastal WIB, views the grant award as a significant opportunity to identify and capitalize on the changing recruitment and employment needs of local business.

"By providing young adults with job readiness and training, job placement and extensive follow-up support, young adults will realize increased job retention and career opportunities, and employers will benefit from a prepared and committed workforce," she said. "It's a win-win for everyone involved."

The South Coastal Workforce Investment Board is comprised of volunteers from the public and private sectors and includes representatives from labor, education and community based organizations. It is one of 16 workforce boards throughout the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and is responsible for policy, oversight and coordination of federal and state workforce development initiatives and job training programs in the 20 cities and towns in the South Coastal region. Donald Uvanitte serves as board chairman.

Christmas Fair At Town Brook House

Town Brook House, 45 Brackett St., will hold its annual Christmas Fair and bake sale Saturday, Nov. 5. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Snacks and lunch will be available.

Winning Theme Selected For Christmas Parade

The theme for Quincy's 53rd Christmas Parade Nov. 27 is "Christmas — A Time For Peace And Family."

The theme was submitted by Mrs. Linda Luccio of Braintree in a contest sponsored by the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee.

General Chairman George White said Mrs. Luccio's winning entry "is exactly what Quincy's Christmas parade is all about — entertainment for all members of the family."

The parade, which began as an around-a-city-block event, is now a three-mile marching route with bands, floats, color guards, specialty units and grand marshals and watched by generations of families on the traditional Sunday after Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Luccio and members of her family will ride as guests in an open touring car in the parade.

"I'm thrilled no end to ride in this parade," she said. "I've seen it so many times as a spectator from the sidelines with my family."

The theme serves as a guide for civic, church and business groups to design and build floats to be entered in the parade.

Bands, floats, specialty units and color guards compete for money prizes and trophies.

White said the Festival Committee is now completing plans for other traditional holiday events such as:

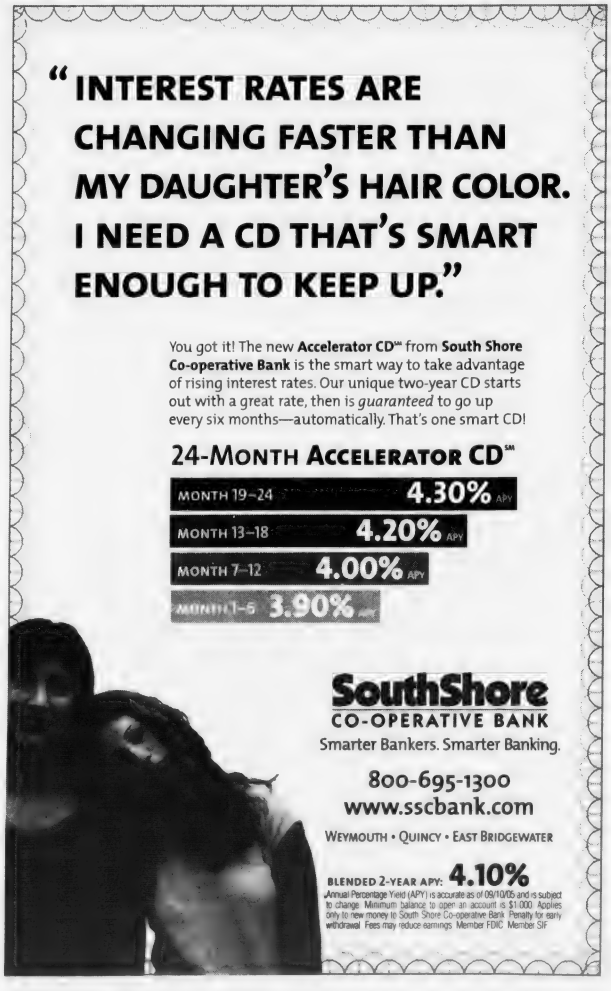
Turning on the Christmas lights in Quincy Center, Santa's arrival with four elves, the elementary school poster contest and the Christmas Nativity Pageant at United First Parish Church across from City Hall.

Rotary Club Pancake Breakfast Sunday

The Quincy Rotary Club will hold its annual Fall Pancake Breakfast Sunday from 8 a.m. to noon at the dining hall at 1000 Southern Artery.

Tickets are available at the door for $5.

Proceeds will go to the Quincy Rotary Club Charity Fund. The money is used to support many causes in the community including youth sports programs and social service agencies.



Members of the North Quincy High School and Quincy High School Interact Club will assist in the kitchen and in the dining room. These clubs are organized under the auspices of the Quincy Rotary Club to promote community service and international service at the high school level.

Don Houghton, husband of Rotarian Lynne Houghton and Paul Harris Award recipient, will provide entertainment.

A drawing will be held for several interesting raffle prizes.

"The pancake breakfast has become wonderful tradition for the Quincy Rotary Club," said President Tom Accomando. "We are able to raise money for community service and enjoy good food and community spirit with the friends and family of Rotary. We invite everyone in the community to join us and have some fun while they support our community service efforts."

Board of Education vs. City of Quincy

There is one candidate for School Committee with a proven track record...

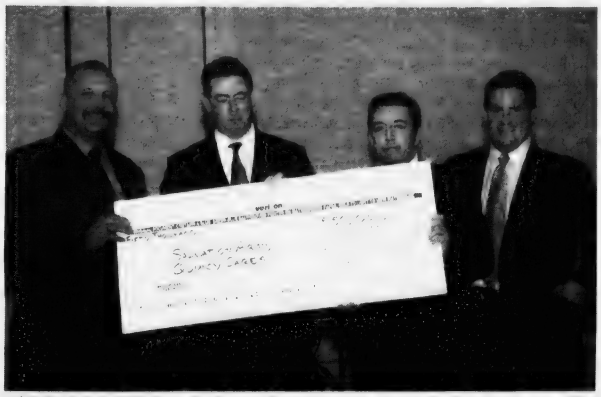
In 1992, the Board of Education sued the Quincy School Committee, after its members expelled a gun-toting student from Quincy High School, and then refused to pay for his tutor. This was the first time a community challenged the Board of Education policy on tutoring – a policy that had cost communities hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Jim Timmins represented the School Committee; he argued the case before the Supreme Judicial Court, and won. Quincy's challenge changed the law in Massachusetts; and Jim Timmins was the lawyer who mounted the challenge. He fought for us then, and he will continue to do what is right for our school children as a member of the School Committee...

Please cast:

ONE of YOUR THREE VOTES FOR

JIM TIMMINS SCHOOL COMMITTEE



"I was on the School Committee in 1992, and I saw first-hand the dedication and commitment of our attorney, Jim Timmins. He impressed me then, and that is why I support him now for School Committee. He has the experience we need to move Quincy's schools forward in these challenging times."

NFPA Rearranges Its Parking Lots

The City Council passed unanimously Monday night three amendments to a Planned Unit Development permit that would create 68 new parking spaces around the National Fire Protection Association headquarters.

One of the amendment would also provide space for a new driveway around the building at One Batterymarch Park, West Quincy.

"We want to improve the flow of traffic through the park as well as rebalance the parking around the park," said Jim Tourney, attorney for NFPA.

The move had the approval of the fire and police chiefs as well as the building inspector and Council President Frank McCauley called it "a slam dunk" for Council approval.

Crane Library To Raise Funds For Jefferson Parish Library

The Thomas Crane Public Library is suspending the collection of overdue fines for a week and instead will accept donations to be used to aid public libraries in Jefferson Parish, La., which were badly damaged in Hurricane Katrina.

The funds raised during the week of Oct. 24 to 30 will be sent directly to the Louisiana Library Foundation for use in Jefferson Parish where several public libraries have been destroyed and others suffered damage ranging from minor to extensive.

The library activity is being carried out in conjunction with the citywide Quincy Cares fundraising drive to assist Jefferson Parish which has sent a 14-year-old baseball team to the Babe Ruth World Series in Quincy twice in the last three years.

Just this year, the team won the championship on Adams Field the day before Hurricane Katrina struck their home town.

The fundraising project to restore the Jefferson Parish libraries is sponsored by the Thomas Crane Library in collaboration with the Massachusetts Library Association and the Massachusetts School Library Media Association.

For further information, call 617-376-1301 or visit thomascranelibrary.org.

McGlone Pizza Party To Benefit Literacy Program

School Committee candidate Celeste McGlone will host a pre-election pizza party Sunday from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall, Quarry Street.

The event will include music and activities for the entire family. All are welcome. There is a suggested donation of $10 per family. Proceeds will be donated to the Quincy Public Schools Early Childhood Literacy Program.

"In this campaign season, those of us running for elective office are forced to host fund-raising events to finance our campaigns," McGlone said. "On this occasion, however, I want this event to be used as an opportunity where we can channel donations for the benefit of our children. After all, that's why I'm running for School Committee."

McGlone added: "I hope that anyone who wishes to help out the Early Childhood Literacy Program will stop by for some pizza and family fun."

For more information call 617-472-1068.

Volleyball Challenge Raises $3,000 For Wollaston Beach Cleanup

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro's team, which included three former North Quincy High Girls volleyball standouts, recently outplayed an equally talented team sponsored by Remington's of Boston to win the 7th annual Wollaston Beach Volleyball Challenge.

The event raised nearly $3,000 for beach improvement projects, scholarships, and recreational opportunities along Wollaston Beach. Gutro's team won the event in 2004.

"It was another banner day," said Karen Djerf, co-owner of Tony's Clam Shop and co-organizer of the tournament. "The energy around this event is terrific and the competitive juices were really flowing this year."

Thirteen teams participated in this year's event. Teams were sponsored by Gutro, Remington's of Boston, Tony's Clam Shop, The Clam Box, two teams from the Beachcomber, The Quincy Police, Coffee Break Cafe, School Committee candidate David Smith, candidate for Ward 6 Councillor Mark Bracken, Nail and Spa, McAdams and the Holy Ground.

Event sponsors included Tony's Clam Shop, Coca Cola, The Clam Box, The Beachcomber, Hot Rod Harry's, Disc Jockey Michael Tucker and Gutro.

Head referees were Christine Barrett, coach of the Quincy High School Girls Volleyball, and Ed Smith, Coach of the Quincy High School Boys Volleyball. Jim Rendell, North Quincy High School Volleyball coach, was an advisor to the tournament and has served as head official for six of the seven tournaments.

WARD 5 COUNCILLOR Doug Gutro's team won - for the second straight year - the 7th Annual Wollaston Beach Volleyball Challenge, which raised funds for beach improvements. Pictured, from the left, Kristen DiMattio, Gutro, Noah Williams, Sarah Houghton, Bill Bowe, Beth Houghton and David Berman.

Kathy Gorman Receives Broker's License, Certified Buyer Representative

Art Foley, Broker/Owner of Century 21 Annex Realty, with offices in Quincy and Hanover, Mass., announces Kathy Gorham recently received her Broker's license.

Gorham, who is based in the company's Quincy office, also received the deisgnation Certified Buyer Represenative (CBR) this year.

A broker, by definition, is a state-licensed professional who is also able to become the principal member of a company engaged in property sales. Gorham obtained her Broker's license upon her recent graduation from Annex Real Estate School.

Gorham also received her CBR designation, which allows her to become a cooperating agent who legally represents the real estate buyer. A CBR protects the buyer's best interests and provides knowledgeable guidance throughout the course of a real estate transaction. Buyer agents are seasoned industry professionals who can provide clients with location analysis, contract assistance, and an added level of confidentiality.

A licensed real estate practitioner since 2001, Gorham began her career at Century 21 Annex Realty in 2003.

KATHY GORHAM

Counterfeit Electrical Products Pose Major Safety Hazards

Trademark counterfeiting has reached the electrical sector. Counterfeiters have targeted well-known industrial and consumer brands, and registered certification marks of testing and certification laboratories.

"Counterfeit electrical products can pose significant safety hazards and left undetected, can cause deaths, injuries and substantial property loss in the home and the workplace," said Anne Mayberry, program manager of the Electrical Safety Foundation International (ESFI).

The electrical products targeted by counterfeiters apply to those used by both consumers and industry. The list includes control relays for industrial equipment, lamps, electronic lamp ballasts, dry cell batteries, lithium ion batteries, smoke detectors, fuses, circuit breakers, electrical receptacles, ground fault interrupters, conduit fittings, power strips and surge suppressers, electrical cord sets (extension cords), power cords, telecommunication cable and electrical connectors.

While some counterfeit products appear as excellent copies of the genuine product, investigations show that many are substandard and fail to pass minimum safety tests. Detection based on appearance can be difficult, and may only be determined by opening suspicious products and performing tests. Counterfeit electrical products may contain inferior materials, with little or no concern for consumer and workplace safety.

Counterfeit electrical products can overheat or cause short circuits and lead to fire, shock or explosion. For example, some counterfeit dry cell batteries use designs that fail to prevent explosion in electronic products when mistakenly installed backwards. Counterfeit electrical cord sets may contain thinner wire gauges than normally required, posing fire hazards.

Often, counterfeiters use inferior materials and avoid key manufacturing steps to reduce the cost of their products, allowing them to be sold at prices no genuine brand manufacturer can match. For the unsuspecting consumer of this product, the risk of fire causing injury to person or property is substantially enhanced.

Counterfeit electrical wire and cable products can contain substandard materials or eliminate product design requirements established by product safety standards used in product certification. Other counterfeit electrical products, such as control relays, fuses, receptacles and circuit breakers, are often poorly designed and use parts that are substandard and incompatible.

Many lack safety features and fail prematurely, creating the risk of damage to person or property. The use of counterfeit conduit fittings, inaccurately represented as suitable for hazardous locations, could have been catastrophic because they were not designed to prevent explosion.

ESFI noted the following tips can help avoid potentially dangerous counterfeit electrical products:

• Look for the CSA, UL or ETL-SEMKO Certification marks. If you have concerns about the marks, contact the certifier.

• Buyers should beware of bargains that seem too good to be true. Products may be cheap because they are counterfeit or defective.

• Use established vendors who purchase their goods from legitimate distributors and genuine manufacturers. Fly-by-night vendors may not be willing to grant refunds for electrical products that do not perform as they should.

• Check the warning label. It should be free of grammatical errors and not conflict with information elsewhere on the package.

• Look for the name and contact information of the manufacturer. If this information is missing, consider purchasing electrical products elsewhere.

• Avoid no-name products.

For more information, visit www.electrical-safety.org or call 703-841-3229.

Seven Tips To Slash Soaring Home Heating Bills

Hurricanes Katrina and Rita will hit homeowners everywhere in the wallet this winter.

The storms have caused real damage and disruption to the natural gas industry, adding to strains already caused by rising demand. Natural gas prices are now at a record high, and the Department of Energy states they will be going up as the cold weather descends upon us. The "Energy Crisis" is back.

How high will natural gas prices rise? As much as a whopping 71% more this winter compared to last year, according to the Comfort Institute, Inc., an international indoor comfort research, training and consumer protection organization based in Bellingham, Washington. This will translate into a $500 to $800 jump in annual home and water heating bills for most homeowners and over $1,000 for many.

While you can't control the price of fuel, you can reduce how much you use. Here are seven tips from the Comfort Institute to make your home an energy sipper instead of a gas guzzler!

1. Have your duct system tested for air leaks. Many assume that windows and doors are the major cause of a home's energy wasting air leaks. But according to recent research by the Department of Energy (DOE, gas, joints and interconnections in the typical home's duct system are much more significant.

The DOE states that the typical duct system loses 25 to 40 percent of the energy put out by the central furnace or heat pump. Authorities recommend having a heating contractor test for leaks and then seal them with a brushed-on fiber re-inforced sealant. Duct tape usually dries out and fails. It turns out duct tape is great for many things, but sealing ducts isn't one of them.

2. Ask your contractor to perform an Infiltrometer "blower door" test. The blower door is a computerized instrument originally invented by the Department of Energy. It pinpoints where your home's worst air leaks are, such as duct leaks, and also measures how leaky the overall house is. Most homes have the equivalent of an open window in combined air leaks. Many heating contractors offer an Infiltrometer test as a part of a "Whole House Health & Comfort Checkup" that also checks insulation levels and overall duct performance. Ask if they also provide an infra-red camera scan to pinpoint hidden heat leaks.

3. Close your fireplace damper. Did you remember to close it last time you used the fireplace? Shut it now or waste precious warm air all winter long!

4. Replace your furnace or heat pump air filter. Most systems need this done every month to ensure safe and efficient operation. Keep forgetting to do it? Ask your contractor for information on an extended surface area whole house air filter that only needs to be replaced once a year. It also does a far better job of keeping your equipment and the air in your home clean.

5. Have your heating system cleaned and tuned. A pre-season tune up is a great investment. It reduces the chances of breakdowns on cold winter nights, improves safety, and more than pays for itself through more energy efficient operation. Ensure your contractor also performs a complete carbon monoxide safety check. For a free report: "How To Identify a Good Heating and Cooling Contractor," go to www.comfortinstitute.org.

6. Install a programmable set-back thermostat. Turn down your thermostat 8 degrees for 8 hours a day and you'll save 8 percent on home heating costs. But you don't have to sacrifice comfort! Ask your heating contractor to install a "programmable thermostat" that will turn the heat back up before you wake up or before you come home. New models are much easier to program.

7. Consider replacing your old furnace or heat pump. Just like a car, heating and cooling equipment doesn't last forever. Is your system more than 12 years old? It probably wastes 35 cents out of every dollar you pay for fuel. Planning to stay in your home more than a few years? Many authorities recommend replacing it before it fails permanently.

A new system is safer, improves comfort, is more dependable and creates less air pollution. New units pay for themselves over time as they only waste eight cents out of every dollar's worth of gas. However, government and utility research has found that over 90% of newly installed high efficiency systems have energy wasting installation mistakes. Do some homework before talking to contractors.

For more information, visit www.energystar.gov or www.comfortinstitute.org. Print out the free Comfort Institute report "Tips and Secrets To Buying A New Heating and Cooling System."

Finding A Title Company

(NAPS) — Closing your loan — or going to settlement, as it is often called — varies from state to state, and even within the same county or city. Settlements may be conducted by lenders, title insurance companies, escrow companies, real estate brokers or attorneys for the buyer or seller.

Many states give buyers the right to select the closing company. You are free to use whichever title or escrow company you prefer; you do not have to use the one recommended by your real estate agent or lender. In fact, you may save money by shopping for your settlement or title agent.

The title company works to make sure the transaction goes smoothly. This includes such services as: working with the lender to pay off old mortgages; fixing any problems with the title; obtaining information on taxes and other fees needed at closing; acting as a third party in the transaction.

Remember, whether you're purchasing your first home or your fifth, the day of closing should be a time of celebration. While you're busy packing, ordering phone service and scheduling movers, it's comforting to know that skilled title professionals are busy working behind the scenes to make sure your closing runs smoothly.

The American Land Title Association (ALTA) provides a searchable database of ALTA member companies which can conduct your settlement. To learn more, visit www.alta.org.

McNamee Has Support Of Three Construction Unions

Brian McNamee, candidate for the Ward 6 city council seat, has the endorsement of three labor unions.

One of the union endorsements came from the influential South Shore Building Trades Council, the umbrella organization for all the building and construction trade unions on the South Shore.

A second endorsement came from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 2222, which cited McNamee's steadfast commitment to working men and women.

He also received the endorsement of the Laborer's International Union Local 133.

"I find it both humbling and gratifying to receive the support of so many important contributors to the world we live in," said McNamee. "We often take much for granted as we go about our daily business.

We rarely fully appreciate the efforts of the working men and women in the construction trades. Anyone who drive through a tunnel or over a bridge owes them a debt of gratitude.

"I thank them for their valuable support."

Anthony Ferrigno Graduates Navy Basic Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Anthony P. Ferrigno, son of Denise M. and Robert E. Ferrigno of Quincy, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Ferrigno completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of Honor, Courage and Commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a sailor.

Ferrigno is a 2004 graduate of Quincy High School.

Rabbi Leaves Beth Israel, Founds 'Chabad Of Quincy'

Sixteen months after he was hired to lead the temple, Rabbi Shmuel Bronstein and Beth Israel Synagogue have come to the parting of the ways.

"It was by mutual agreement," said Bronstein. "We were going in different directions."

Harold Krasnoff, president of the synagogue at 33 Grafton St., declined to comment.

Bronstein, 26, a New York resident who was hired in June, 2004, plans to remain in Quincy, opening a "chabad" at 1356 Quincy Shore Drive.

"We will do more and more adult education," he said.

Chabad, as the rabbi explains it, is an acronym for wisdom, knowledge and understanding.

"It's a Jewish organization to serve the South Shore in the belief that with each and every action we could make a better world," he said.

RABBI BRONSTEIN

The Holiday of Sukkot (the Season of Joy) will be celebrated at the Chabad of Quincy Sunday, Oct. 23, at 1:30 p.m.

Sukkot is the days of rejoicing following Yom Kippur, the name deriving from the word "sukkah," or hut, the makeshift building in which Jews eat in during the seven days of the holiday.

The Holiday of Simchat Torah, the day the 53rd and final annual reading of the Torah is completed, will be celebrated at the chabad Tuesday, Oct. 25, at 7 p.m.

Celebrants will make seven Hakafot (circuits) around the table upon which the Torah is read, dancing and rejoicing with the Torah scroll.

Three From Quincy Arrested For Fraud, Money-Laundering

It took four federal investigative agencies and one from the state to do it but three Quincy residents have been arrested on fraud and money laundering charges involving $30 million over a period of 10 years.

Charged by a federal grand jury in a 25-count indictment were Tina Le, 47; Steven Nguyen, 47; and Mercedes Tang, 30, all of 301 Adams St., former owners of a temporary employment agency.

The indictment alleges that from December, 1995, through 2004 the defendants provided hundreds of manual labor workers to clients and paid most of them in cash, failing to report the payments to the IRS.

Over the course of 10 years, the indictment said, the unreported cash payroll totaled about $30 million with most of the cash coming from a Worcester bank.

Investigators included U. S. Attorney Michael Sullivan, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Internal Revenue Service, the U. S. Postal Inspection Service, and the Insurance Fraud Bureau of Massachusetts.

The specific charges included:

Tina Le - One count of conspiring to defraud the IRS, one count of conspiring to commit money laundering, six counts of mail fraud and 13 counts of procuring false tax returns.

Steven Nguyen - One count of conspiring to defraud the IRS, one count of conspiring to commit money laundering, six counts of mail fraud and four counts of procuring false tax returns.

Mercedes Tang - One count of conspiring to defraud, one count of conspiring to commit money laundering and six counts of mail fraud.

The defendants face five years in prison for conspiracy to defraud the IRS, five years for procuring false tax returns, 20 years for mail fraud and 20 years for conspiracy to commit money laundering.

The indictment also alleges that the defendants defrauded their workers' compensation insurers in that they fraudulently reduced their premiums by concealing their cash payments from the insurers.

They further concealed their activities, the indictment said, through the use of shell corporations — First State Labor, Wonder Fast Labor Services. T. Nguyen Temporary, Mass Labor Services, Labor Staffing and Star Labor Staffing.

It is also alleged that the defendants further concealed their activities by using "straw" corporate officers. individuals who held titles in the businesses but who really were paid only for the use of their names.

QUESTIONS FROM THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Dear Residents of Quincy:

Over the past few months of going door to door and meeting as many of you as possible, I have had the privilege of listening to your questions and concerns. Some of the questions and concerns are common amongst most Quincy Residents. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to address them, so that you will have a better idea of where I stand on the issues. This week I will address the issues of the soon to expire teachers' contract and the issues of having a full day kindergarten program and small class sizes.

TEACHERS' CONTRACT

Many residents have expressed concern about the soon to expire teachers' contract. Negotiations for this contract are set to begin very soon. This issue is of great importance. After all, without teachers, we have no schools. It is vital that Quincy have the ability to attract and retain the best, brightest and most dedicated teachers for our students. The negotiating and drafting of the teachers' contract will play a critical role in achieving this goal. In negotiating the contract, the School Committee must keep in mind the need to attract and retain the best and the brightest, while also considering the needs of the taxpayers. The School Committee must balance both needs and formulate a contract proposal that is fair to both teachers and taxpayers. The School Committee must think outside the box and formulate non-monetary benefits for our teachers. Rewards for performance, perfect attendance and advances in continuing education all have to be considered in order to slow the high turnover of qualified and experienced teachers.

I hope to use my qualifications as an attorney to assist in this most important task. As a member of the Board of Directors and General Counsel for the Elizabeth Seton Academy, an all-girl, inner city high school for poor and low-income families, I successfully drafted contracts for the principal, teachers and administrators of the Academy. If elected to the School Committee, I intend to use these skills in formulating a fair and reasonable contract for the teachers in our schools.

FULL DAY KINDERGARTEN AND SMALL CLASS SIZE

Another common questions amongst Quincy residents, is the question concerning the implementation of a full day kindergarten program in the City of Quincy and the maintaining of small class sizes in our schools. Both of these questions are strongly related to each other. Both have been consistently shown to have a major impact on the ability of our students to achieve excellence in education.

At present, Quincy offers a half day kindergarten program consisting of a total of 2 hours of class r oom time per day. Although this is called a half day program, it clearly falls short of anything resembling what a half day should be. Quincy is one of a minority of school districts that still follow this approach. The other school districts have all opted for a full day of kindergarten program for their students. All of the major studies on this issue have shown that a full day kindergarten program greatly improves the ability of students to achieve excellence in education. Students that are given the extra push of a full day kindergarten program have a faster and greater learning capacity than students who are not afforded the same full day kindergarten opportunity.

An ancillary benefit of a full day kindergarten program affects both single and two parent families. Because Quincy does not offer a full day kindergarten program, families with two working parents, or single parent families, have to seek out alternative child care for their kindergarten aged children. If a full day kindergarten program is implemented, working families would have greater flexibility with their time and planning and would not have to worry about where their children are while they are at work.

Of course budgeting and planning for an all day kindergarten program will require an allocation of time, money and school space. I propose following the models of other communities that have successfully sought out grants to cover the cost of their full day kindergarten programs. Space, at the present time, seems to be the main obstacle to the creation of a full day kindergarten program. If elected, I am determined to find the necessary space and resources so that the children of Quincy will have the same competitive advantage that most other Massachusetts communities have. A full day kindergarten program will greatly assist our students in achieving excellence in education.

Class size is another important component in the effective education of our students. Again, all the major studies have shown that small class size translates into greater comprehension and learning for our students. This is true for every subject across the board. As General Counsel for the Elizabeth Seton Academy, I have seen first hand what a student can do if given the proper environment and tools to achieve. The possibilities are limitless. I am determined to ensure that every student in Quincy is given the opportunity to learn in an environment that is conducive to achieving excellence in education.

Thank you for your consideration and support. If you have any questions or concerns please do not hesitate to contact me via the telephone number or email address below.

Sincerely,

Kevin Mulvey.

A 'Great' Experience For Quincy Scout

My Visit To The 2005 National Jamboree

By JONATHAN THEBERGE
Webelos, Pack 42, Quincy

On Saturday, July 30th my Dad and I flew down to Washington, D.C. We landed at the Ronald Reagan National Airport and rented a really cool SUV. We drove to Fort A.P. Hill which is the host site for the National Jamboree.

Nobody was allowed on the Army base until they got screened through the security gate by the Military Police. We then drove down a long road to the main grassy parking lot that was huge! It was hot outside, but not as hot as it was earlier in the week for the Scouts that suffered from the heat. There were thousands and thousands of Scouts for as far as you could see. We walked down the main street and checked out all the booths and activities.

We walked to the cafeteria tent and bought hamburgers. While we were waiting in line we met a Scouter from Japan. It was interesting to see how different and the same his uniform was from ours. But I noticed that he had the World Crest in the same place. After we got our lunch we started talking to a guy that was walking around. It turned out to be John Cushman who is the National President of the BSA and the CEO of Cushman & Wakefield which is a very big company that owns buildings (my Dad tells me).

RAY THEBERGE (right), Boy Scout membership chairman for Quincy and leader of Troop 42 in Quincy, with his son, Jonathan at the recent National Jamboree. The event, held at Fort A.P. Hill in Washington, D.C., featured many highlights, including an address by President George Bush.

We then took a bus to go see the Boston Minuteman Council contingent Troops at sub-camp #1. While we were on the bus we drove by the climbing tower and BMX race course areas. I wanted to do the BMX course sooooooo bad, but they had closed it already because President Bush was coming for the show that night and the Secret Service wanted all the activity stations closed down early to allow time for everyone to get through the security stations into the show. When we got to the sub-camp, we met up with the contingent troops. It was cool to see people I knew after seeing thousands of other people from all over the country and around the world.

After visiting with the contingent troops, we took the bus back to the Trading Post to buy some stuff. My Dad got a seat cushion and some patches. We walked back to the parking lot and dropped off the stuff we bought and any metal things we were wearing because we had been told that we would have a hard time getting through security for the show.

After leaving the parking lot we happened to walk by the area where the contingents from Alaska were staying. There was a cardboard box out front that said "Patches for Alaska Scouts." I put one of our Council Shoulder Patches in the box. It felt good. When we got back to the main road we ran into a wall of Scouts.

The line to get into the show area ran for as far as I could see. Later on in the show, the announcer told us that there were 75,000 people at the show, and that they knew exactly how many there were because everyone had to go through the security booths before they could get into the show area.

Once we got into the show area, we were escorted by Arrowmen down to the front section because we had special guest passes thanks to Sharon McConnell, one of the professional Scouters from Boston. When we got down to that section the only room left was in the front row!! There were Secret Service snipers on top of a truck parked right next to the stage. After some military bands played rock music, President Bush came on stage. Everyone cheered. He gave a great speech and said a lot of nice things. He said how sorry he was for the Scouters from Alaska that died. It was so cool to be standing so close to the President.

After his speech he walked down to the crowd and started shaking hands with everyone. He was like 10 feet from me when the Secret Service told him it was time to go.

After some more bands and skits and videos about the explorers that each of the sub-camps were named after, there was the biggest and longest fireworks show I had ever seen! It was fantastic! The fireworks came shooting from out of the woods from each side of the stage. The show in the left closest to us was great, but to have everything duplicated on the right hand side of the stage at the exact same time was incredible!

It was 11:30 p.m. by the time the show was over and then it took another 90 minutes to get out of the parking lot so it was a late night, but it was GREAT! We slept at the hotel that night, tired from a really long day. The next day we took an early morning flight back to Boston and the whole time on the plane I couldn't stop thinking about how awesome the 2010 Jamboree is going to be and how much I want to make sure that I am going to be there as part of the contingent from the Boston Minuteman Council.

FALL CAR CARE

Good Visibility Requires Periodic Vehicle Maintenance

Driving safely requires good visibility and a vehicle with good visibility requires regular maintenance, according to AAA Southern New England.

"Visibility is a critical component of driving safely because it directly affects the driver's ability to anticipate and respond to the driving environment," said Alfred Ruggiero, AAA Manager of Approved Auto Repair.

During AAA Car Care Month in October, AAA is urging motorists to consider visibility when maintenance is performed on their vehicle. Items that are necessary for good visibility are:

•Clear, clean windows unobstructed by decals, dark window tinting or objects that interfere with the driver's view of the road.

• Windshield wipers changed twice per year will ensure the rubber remains soft enough to efficiently remove water, snow and road grit from the glass surface.

• Vehicle lights, including headlights, brake lights, turn signals, parking lights, emergency flashers and the center, high-mounted brake light should all be inspected regularly and replaced immediately if needed. Lights can also become dirty which limits their brightness. They should be cleaned regularly.

• Mirrors must be clean, large enough and correctly angled to provide a complete view of all areas behind and to the side of the vehicle. Objects inside or outside the vehicle must not obstruct mirrors. They usually need to be reset when there is a change of drivers.

• A vehicle's air circulation system must function properly to quickly defrost or defog the windshield and other glass surfaces. Use an ice scraper to remove snow and ice before driving. Before turning on the defroster and blower, move the heat control to "hot" and allow the engine to warm up first. If the windshield starts to fog on the inside, open a side window slightly and turn the defroster fan to its highest setting. Additionally, if your car's heating and air conditioning system has a setting for fresh air or re-circulated air, always select the fresh air setting while in the defroster mode.

• Sunglasses that do not have overly dark lenses can also be a significant aid to visibility when driving in bright-light conditions. Be sure lenses are kept clean. Glare can cause blind spots and driving fatigue. A good pair of sunglasses will help eliminate this. Eye drops can be helpful for long-distance drives.

Sheldon Street, which parallels the Expressway on the west side, also bore the brunt of the flooding with a half dozen houses experiencing water over the first floor levels.

O'Donnell said he could not estimate damage but he called it "significant."

Members of the City Council called the flooding an "horrific event" and devoted part of Monday night's meeting to debating how to prevent the same areas from flooding over and over again.

Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis commend O'Donnell for his department's work in pumping out basements. He said some of the runoff water on Alrick Road and Ballou and Connell Streets actually was coming from Milton.

Davis said many persons who have flood insurance were disappointed to learn that it only covers construction of their homes, but not the contents such as washers and dryers.

Dave Murphy, the mayor's aide, said FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) had been notified and O'Donnell added that a seminar is scheduled in conjunction with FEMA regarding flood insurance.

Davis said that Furnace Brook Parkway continues to be a problem where parts should be the states' responsibility, especially the cleaning of culverts.

The state has not maintained the brook on a continual basis, he said, and that debris from trees and leaves have been there for years causing a blockage in the culverts."

Murphy promised that extra trash trucks would be added to clean up the storm debris.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi noted that the heavy rain and flooding destroyed homes containing memories, adding that councillors are supposed to "protect the people they represent."

"We have done nothing to prevent flooding — absolutely nothing," he said.

Council President Frank McCauley disagreed.

"We have spent a lot of money, just look at the sewer and water bills," he said.

"We have installed pumping stations in Quincy Point and in Ward 4.

"With that amount of water in that short period of time, you're going to have problems.

"We can't solve all problems. There is no magic wand."

O'Donnell said the Public Works Committee plans to research all studies made through the year regarding flooding in hopes of finding a solution in the future.

He said one of the reasons why nothing is being done is a $25 million price tag on a job that was once planned to alleviate the flooding in West Quincy that was the result of the building of the Southeast Expressway.

He said a report on what to do and how much it would cost, requested by Mayor William Phelan, will be ready in time for a Nov. 21 meeting with the City Council.

Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin said persons affected by the flooding should contact Tom Gorman at Emergency Management and take pictures of their damage and records of cleaning services to recoup some of their losses.

He said portions of Scotch Pond Place and Parker Street had never been as badly affected by flooding as this week and he wondered whether the new development at High Point is one of the reasons.

Fundraiser Oct. 28 For Young Mother's Cancer Therapy

The friends of Maura Helfrich will hold a fundraiser Friday, Oct. 28, from 6:30 to 11 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Hall, 120 Quarry St., to help defray the costs of cancer therapy on the young mother of two.

Tickets at $25 per person will include a buffet dinner, dancing, door prizes and a silent auction. There will be a cash bar and tickets for a raffle to be held later on the evening of the fundraiser.

Maura Helfrich is the 39-year-old mother of two girls, Casey, 9, and Margot, 2, who was diagnosed with a rare and aggressive form of kidney cancer in June. Surgery removed her kidney and affected lymph nodes.

While she was recovering at the National Institute for Health in Bethesda, Md., the cancer was found to be spreading and she was no longer eligible for the immunotherapy treatments at Bethesda.

Only a small portion of the staggering costs of the radiation and chemotherapy treatment are covered by their insurance. All proceeds of the fundraiser will be donated directly to the Maura Helfrich Fund.

Checks should be made payable to: Maura Helfrich Fund, 50 Crabtree Rd., Quincy, MA 02171.

Tickets will be available at the door or in advance by visiting www.maurahelfrichfund.org.

Probation Officers Work To End Truancy Issue

Probation officers are working closely with educators this fall to solve truancy problems that have been plaguing schools all over the state.

The eight probation officers assigned to the 126 public schools in Norfolk County meet with school administrators, teachers and court liaison at the schools.

Court-involved children will find probation officers walking the corridors checking on them as well as meeting with them in the on-site probation office.

"This year, probation officers will have attendance reports faxed directly to the probation office at the court to we know immediately who is not going to school," said Norfolk County Chief Probation Officer Thomas Mitchell.

"We also have several programs conducted right in the schools that target at-risk children."

Among the in-school programs is the Family Assistance Conference, now in its sixth year, which was established to address truancy issues, school drop-out and school expulsions.

The program is a collaborative effort created by Norfolk County Juvenile Probation, drawing upon the resources of the local public schools, the Department of Social Services and the Department of Mental Health.

The croup focuses on students with school attendance and discipline concerns that may lead to court-involvement such as Children in Need of Services (CHINS) petition.

"A large part of our work is keeping these juveniles under constant surveillance," said Mitchell. "Studies have shown that truancy and school problems are the leading indicator of future criminal behavior so it is imperative we strictly monitor school conduct."

Probation officers were first assigned to the schools in Norfolk County in 1999. The students meet with their probation officers during recess and often have an office made available to them.

'Trap-Neuter-Return' Program Endorsed As Humane For Feral Cats

By MIKAELA SLANEY

Sunday came and went without many people aware that it was also National Feral Cat Day.

But among those who did know it were Ward 6 Councillor Alicia Gardner and Quincy resident Marilyn Hanabury.

And both were very much aware of the problem that feral cats present throughout the country and right here in Quincy.

Gardner introduced a resolve at last week's City Council meeting endorsing the Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) program "as the most effective, humane method of reducing feral cat populations."

TNR stops the cycle of breeding and ends the killing of stray healthy cats.

It is estimated there are millions of feral cats in the United States.

Hanabury, a longtime feral cat volunteer, believes that population in Quincy is consistent with the national statistics.

"Almost every street in Quincy has cat colonies," she said. "It's a national problem. Some cities are dealing with it and some are not."

People move or abandon their cats, she noted. The cats multiply. Feral cats live in colonies and "stay together almost like a family," she said.

"They live peaceful lives and are only in need of food, shelter and occasional medical attention."

Hanabury founded the Kathy Hanabury Foundation to honor her daughter, Kathleen, who died in 1998.

The foundation is a group of volunteers who assist in the trap, neuter and release of feral cats. Kathleen was an animal rights attorney.

"In 1999, we tried to find something to do in her memory," her mother said. "This was her passion.

"She would go out, trap them and have them neutered. She kept kittens in her office and adopted them out. Some cats that she had spayed or neutered are 10 years old now and still surviving in the wild."

Hanabury said her daughter "was way ahead of her time" because "in 1995 no one was really concerned over feral cats."

Volunteers for the Kathy Hanabury Foundation held gift wrapping fund-raisers at Barnes and Nobles last holiday season. They raised thousands of dollars to benefit the spaying and neutering of stray cats.

"We fund-raise," Hanabury said. "We pay the bills for people who are out there trapping and feeding (the cats)."

Volunteer groups such as the Alley Cat Allies and the Quincy Animal Shelter are caring for the feral cat community in Quincy. The Quincy Animal Shelter accepts abandoned pets, and sets animals up with new homes. They feed feral cats morning and night, and are always looking for volunteers.

Residents have also dedicated time to assisting with the feral cat population. They have put up shelters with feeding stations which are usually paid for out of their own pockets.

"There are a lot of good, kind people who are feeding them," Hanabury said.

The Alley Cat Allies of Washington, D.C. deal with networking and educating communities about feral cats.

They sponsor "Trap-Neuter-Return," an educational television program which can be seen on Quincy Access Television's Channels 8 and 10.

It was scheduled for Wednesday at 7 p.m. and tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

For more information, call the Quincy Animal Shelter at 617-376-1364.

Red Raiders Comeback Falls Short

By CHRIS POISSON

Down 21-0 early in the second quarter, the winless North Quincy High School football team easily could've packed it in against Dennis-Yarmouth last Friday night at a drenched and muddy Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Instead, the Red Raiders stormed back into the game with a late first-half rally — only they couldn't complete the job in the second half, falling 30-14.

"Once again, it's frustrating," said head coach Bill Shaughnessy. "They played their hearts out. They didn't give up. We were down 21-0 and they fought back to make it 21-14. My hats are off to them. We're going to win one of these days."

North Quincy (0-6) hopes that day is tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 when it travels to Whitman-Hanson, which is coming off a 35-0 loss to Plymouth North.

The Red Raiders started their comeback when the Dolphins were penalized for roughing the punter on fourth down from the NQ 19.

They capitalized on their second chance two plays later. Junior quarterback Mike O'Mahony threw down the middle of the field to junior James Bleiler, who held on to the ball after a vicious hit and ran to the 1-yard line for a 68-yard gain.

Senior tailback Chris Tufo (18 carries, 82 yards) punched the ball into the end zone on the next play and senior captain Kyle Costa added the extra point to make it 21-7 with 6:01 left in the first half.

North Quincy's defense forced the Dolphins to go three-and-out and the offense responded with a 74-yard drive.

On the first play from scrimmage, Tufo ripped off a 38-yard run, knocking over defenders like they were bowling pins. His effort galvanized his teammates on the sideline and forced D-Y to call a timeout to regroup.

O'Mahony (7-for-13, 184 yards) then came up big, hitting Costa for 18 yards on third-and-12 and finding junior wideout Benson Luc on fourth down, who hurdled a defender at the 2-yard line and leapt into the end zone for a 16-yard touchdown. Costa' extra point made it 21-14 with 1:24 remaining in the half.

The Dolphins added more points before the half when Roger Williams kicked a 32-yard, line-drive field goal just over the cross bar for a 24-14 lead.

The Red Raiders opened the second half with a nice-looking drive that began at their 30. The offensive line opened up holes inside for Tufo, who picked up 30 yards on the ground.

But they stalled on first-and-goal from the 10. D-Y sacked O'Mahony on consecutive plays and O'Mahony gained those yards back with a completion to Tufo. On fourth down, Costa attempted a 27-yard field goal which was blocked.

The Dolphins orchestrated a 14-play, 82-yard drive on the ensuing series to put the game away. Quarterback Nick Montalto darted into the end zone from 7 yards out for a 30-14 advantage with 8:25 left in the game.

"It's tough coming back from 21-0 in weather conditions like this," Shaughnessy said. "But we battled back. We got stalled again on a drive and they scored and that kind of took the wind out of our sails.

"They're frustrated. It's tough. They worked so hard at the beginning of the season and this is not what we expected. But this is what we have to deal with. We're so close. It's just not working out for us right now."

D-Y scored on the third play of the game when tailback Ross Desmarais took a pitch from Montalto and jetted 63 yards down the right sideline for a score. Williams kicked the extra point.

Desmarais capped off D-Y's second series with a 15-yard TD run on a counter play for a 13-0 lead.

The Dolphins intercepted North Quincy on the next series and cashed the turnover into points when Montalto fired a 51-yard TD pass to wideout Bobby Ewing. Desmarais rushed for the two-point conversion to make it 21-0.

MIKE O'MAHONY (11) looks to make a play down field as he runs away from a Dennis-Yarmouth defender. The junior quarterback threw for 184 yards and a touchdown.

IS YOUR EXHAUST TUNED?

Automobile manufacturers tune each exhaust part during the design and manufacture process to provide the smoothest, free flowing, yet slightly restricted passage for exhaust gases to escape the combustion chamber. The design causes a phenomenon called the "venturi" effect, in which the airflow is speeded up. This allows the engine to breathe responsively as the driver accelerates the decelerates, thereby optimizing engine performance. While slight resistance, or back pressure, is designed into the exhaust system, a restriction introduced into the system by a collapsed exhaust pipe, clogged catalytic converter, or plugged muffler is very unwelcome. Transmission shifting, electronic engine controls, fuel delivery, and emissions standards will be negatively affected. The restriction must be corrected.

Exhaust systems are vital to your car's performance. With so much of your automobile depending on it, make sure you take your car to a professional technician. At LEO & WALT'S SUNOCO we know cars, including exhaust systems, and we guarantee your satisfaction. You can trust us with your car. If you are having a problem, stop by 258 Quincy Ave., E. North Quincy Rebounds With Wins Over D-Y, Plymouth North

By CHRIS POISSON

After watching his North Quincy High School girls' volleyball team drop its first two games of the season within a week, head coach Jim Rendle is interested in seeing how it responds.

So far, it has followed with easy victories over Atlantic Coast League foes Dennis-Yarmouth last Wednesday and Plymouth North last Friday.

The Red Raiders (13-2 overall, 8-0 ACL), who hosted a strong Medford team Tuesday and Whitman-Hanson Wednesday, will square off at cross-town rival Quincy Friday at 7 p.m. and will head to powerhouse Bourne Monday.

"We just lost two games, at New Bedford (3-0 loss Oct. 11) and at Barnstable (3-1 loss Oct. 4)," Rendle said. "Those two places are very difficult to win and how we respond will be interesting.

"We have a very difficult schedule coming up and I'm happy that we do. It will get us ready for the tournament. We have a lot to work on in practice. We need to defend outside hitters a lot better than we did against New Bedford and Barnstable and we need to be more consistent on defense."

North Quincy won the Plymouth North game, 25-11, 25-19, 25-9. Senior captain and middle hitter Erin Connolly registered 14 kills and three blocks. Junior setter Maria Della Croce had five kills, four aces and 14 service points.

Against D-Y, the Red Raiders rolled in three straight games, winning 25-9, 25-13 and 25-15.

Senior outside hitter Lauren Aikens played well defensively with nine digs and Connolly and sophomore middle hitter Virginia Wong (three blocks) led the offense with 15 and seven kills, respectively.

"It was good because the night before we got beat bad by New Bedford," Rendle said. "We lost three straight and that's not what I was looking for. We couldn't make any adjustments against New Bedford. It was nice to regroup."

In that New Bedford game, North Quincy lost 25-15, 25-19 and 25-19. Connolly tallied a team-high 17 kills.

"New Bedford played very well and we were flat," Rendle said. "We did a poor job defending them and they did an excellent job receiving our serves. Hopefully, we can use that as a building block."

On Oct. 7, the Red Raiders notched a huge league win over undefeated Falmouth, winning 25-21, 25-15 and 25-13. Connolly led the offense with 14 kills, while Della Croce tallied 19 assists and nine service points and senior outside hitter Allison Aupperlee totaled 13 digs.

North Quincy cruised to a 3-0 win over Plymouth South Oct. 5, winning 25-11, 25-9 and 25-15. Connolly and Wong had 11 and six kills, respectively, and Aupperlee had seven digs.

Senior outside hitter Matrida Neli (three kills, three aces, five digs) and junior setter Arta Dashi (kill, three aces, nine assists, seven digs) played well off the bench. "It was nice to get them experience," Rendle said. "They got some valuable playing time."

Against Barnstable, the Red Raiders put forth a strong showing against the top team in the state, losing 25-13, 25-19, 21-25 and 25-22.

"The last three games were great and I'm pleased with that," Rendle said. "We had a great defensive effort and served well."

Connolly had 16 kills and five blocks and Wong had four blocks. Della Croce and seniors Yvonne Tam and Winnie Wiwatyukhan played well defensively in the back row.

Falls To Falmouth, Defeats Whitman-Hanson

Roller Coaster Week For Quincy

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL

The Quincy High School girls' volleyball team experienced a roller coaster of emotions last week.

The Presidents suffered a 3-0 loss to Falmouth last Wednesday at home to all but bury their chances of an Atlantic Coast League championship. But they rebounded with an easy 3-0 victory at Whitman-Hanson last Friday to lock up a berth in the state tournament.

Quincy (8-5 overall, 6-2 ACL), which traveled to Dennis-Yarmouth Tuesday and Plymouth North Wednesday, will host city rival North Quincy tomorrow (Friday) at 7 p.m. It closes out the regular season against Barnstable Oct. 26 at home at 5:30 p.m.

"We might have blown our goal of the league title, but we reached our other goal of making the state tournament," said head coach Christine Barrett. "Now that we qualified, we have to continue to win so we can get a good seed. We have four games left. The Barnstable game at the end of the season should give us a good idea where we stand."

"We have to steadily improve from here on out," she added. "We're working hard so I know we can do it. We have to make adjustments to our serve-receive in order to contend in the tournament."

Against Whitman-Hanson, the Presidents won 25-8, 25-15, 25-10. Sophomore middle hitter Liz Bock had 11 kills in 12 attempts and five aces, junior outside hitter Carla Nickerson went 8-for-8 in kill attempts and senior tri-captain and middle hitter Ashlee Scott added nine kills and three aces.

In the Falmouth game, the Presidents dropped three close games, 25-21, 26-24, 25-23.

"We weren't ready to play and that was a huge game league-wise," Barrett said. "We just didn't play well at all."

Leading the offense were Scott with 19 kills, four aces and 10 digs and Bock with 17 kills, eight digs and four blocks. Senior tri-captains and setters Kim LeBel (12 assists, two aces) and Leanna Lam (five kills, eight assists, five digs) also played well.

On Oct. 7, Quincy earned a 3-0 triumph at Plymouth South, winning 25-18, 25-8, 25-21. Scott led the way with 20 kills, six aces and nine digs. Nickerson was 8-for-8 in kill attempts in the first game.

Joanne Wall (five kills), senior libero Nicole Kasanoff (five kills, three aces) and Lam (seven kills, 12 assists) also contributed.

North Quincy Closing In On South Sectional Berth

GIRLS' SOCCER

The North Quincy High School girls' soccer team moved closer to a berth in the Division 1 South sectional tournament by taking three of four points in last week's action.

With wet and muddy field conditions, the Red Raiders battled Dennis-Yarmouth to a 2-2 tie last Wednesday at home and blanked Medford, 5-0, last Monday on the road.

They need four points in their final six games to qualify for the tournament for the ninth straight season.

"That was a big week for us," said head coach Paul Bregoli. "We proved to be 'good mudders' as the field conditions in both games were less than ideal. I liked the way we played against D-Y. They came in at 8-2-1 and had just beaten Whitman-Hanson, 3-1. It was a physical game but we held our own."

North Quincy (6-4-4 overall, 1-4-3 Atlantic Coast League), which played Plymouth South Tuesday, will host Whitman-Hanson today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at Teal Field.

Next week, it heads to Plymouth North Monday, battles Quincy Wednesday and travels to Bridgewater-Raynham Friday. It closes out the regular season Oct. 31 against B-R at home.

"We enter another big week with a game at Plymouth South, who we tied earlier, and against league leader Whitman-Hanson at home Thursday. The results this week will tell a great deal whether we will play in November."

In the Medford game, senior midfielder and captain Caitlin McCleary turned in a big day with a goal and three assists. She leads the ACL in scoring with 20 points (14 goals, six assists).

The Red Raiders notched two goals in the first six and a half minutes. Junior defender Tara Whooley collected her first varsity goal, one-timing an errant Mustang clearing pass from 30 yards out. Junior midfielder Lauren Stille scored her seventh of the season, volleying a perfect cross from McCleary.

Freshman Amy Carchedi scored her first varsity goal late in the first half, poking a McCleary feed past the Medford keeper for a 3-0 halftime lead.

McCleary scored with sophomore midfielder Emily Milone assisting. Senior forward and captain Lauren Milone took a McCleary pass and found the net from 10 yards out to close out the scoring.

Sophomore forward Paige Bonanni, senior defenders Roberta Phelan and Allison Griffith and junior midfielder Keriann Cabral played well. Senior keeper Kelly Barden posted her second shutout of the year.

In the D-Y game, the Dolphins jumped to an early 1-0 lead but the Red Raiders evened the score when Lauren Milone nailed a 25-yard direct kick to the top left corner for her fifth goal of the season.

D-Y regained the lead with 10 minutes left in the game. However, North Quincy battled back. Sophomore forward Mary Kate Stille was taken down in the penalty area on a breakaway. On the penalty kick, Emily Milone drilled a shot past the dive of the Dolphin keeper for the equalizer.

Playing well were junior midfielder Jillian Benn and junior defenders Bridget Coleman and Melissa Mendall. Phelan also came up big from the defender's spot.

North Quincy High Golf Booster Club 50-50 Benefit Drawing

The North Quincy High School golf booster club is holding a 50/50 raffle to benefit the golf team.

Those wishing to contribute should send $5 per ticket purchased and name, address and telephone number to Tim McAloon, 34 Randlett St., Quincy, MA 02170.

Half the proceeds raised will go to the booster club and half will be paid out in prizes: first prize, 75 percent; second prize, 15 percent; and third prize, 10 percent. The drawing will be held Saturday, Oct. 29, and the winners will be notified by phone or mail.

The booster club was formed to help the team by promoting teamwork and providing equipment and instruction to help the players further develop their skills. The golf team won its league conference last year and is off to a strong start this season.

Presidents Shut Out By Stoughton

FOOTBALL

The Quincy High School football team suffered a 19-0 loss at Stoughton last Friday night in a non-league game.

Chris Russell led the Black Knights on both sides of the ball, with touchdown runs of 5 and 30 yards to go along with two interceptions and a fumble recovery.

Turnovers plagued the Presidents as they had trouble adapting to the rainy and muddy environment.

Quincy (2-3 overall, 2-1 Atlantic Coast League) will need to quickly put the game behind them as it travels to Plymouth South tomorrow (Friday) night at 6:30 to battle the Panthers, who are tied atop the league with Plymouth North at 4-0.

Plymouth South is coming off a 2-0 win over Sandwich thanks to defensive end Ryan Sullivan's quarterback sack in the end zone for a safety.

Friday Is National Mammography Day

In the United States, more than 211,240 new cases of invasive breast cancer will be diagnosed this year.

Thankfully, significant progress in mammography technology is helping physicians diagnose the disease earlier. And the sooner breast cancer is detected, the less likely a woman will need highly invasive and uncomfortable treatments, and the more likely she will survive the disease.

As a result, breast cancer survivors make up the largest group of cancer survivors. Mammography screening is the single most effective method of early detection. Therefore, an annual mammogram is recommended for women over 40.

A clinical examination by a health care professional should be done yearly. Women can take charge of their breast health by performing a breast self-exam every month and understanding their personal risks of the disease—and reporting any breast change promptly to their health care provider.

Special populations at risk for breast cancer include minority and older women. African-American women have a higher breast cancer death rate than women of any other racial or ethnic population. Many women over the age of 60 feel that screening for breast cancer is not necessary. On the contrary, women over 60 are more at risk, not less, for breast cancer.

In an effort to encourage women to have an annual mammography screening, the third Friday in October has been designated as National Mammography Day. On this day, or throughout the month, women are encouraged to make a mammography appointment.

To find a breast imaging facility, contact the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or the National Cancer Institute at 1-800-4-CANCER. Throughout the year, low-cost or free mammography screening is available to women who are over 40 and underinsured or uninsured through the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

For more information call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345. Finally, National Breast Cancer Awareness Month offers several ways to promote the early detection of breast cancer.

The web site, www.nbcam.org, provides options to send personalized electronic greeting cards and template e-mail messages to alert friends that early detection saves lives and remind them to schedule their annual mammogram.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, advocacy and service. To locate a low cost mammography site in your area or for more information, call1-800-ACS-2345.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

GOOD REASONS TO FLOSS

If you neglect to floss your teeth because you think it is unnecessary, you should understand that brushing alone leaves as much as 40% of tooth surfaces untouched. By augmenting your brushing routine with flossing, you are getting into the nooks and crannies that the toothbrush simply cannot reach. Flossing at night is particularly beneficial because that is when plaque-causing bacteria build up most. And if the added oral health benefits are not enough to convince you to floss regularly, consider that doing so may decrease your risk of heart disease. Severe periodontal (gum) disease, which is staved off with regular flossing, has been linked with an increased risk of atherosclerosis, a condition in which the arteries become blocked.

As your dental professional, we pride ourselves on providing the highest quality dental care for you and your family, in a relaxing and comfortable environment. There are an abundance of innovative technologies and devices available to help us improve the quality and comfort of care we deliver. Preventive care starts at home. We stress preventive dentistry for the entire family. Be sure to regularly brush, floss, and have professional cleanings. When was the last time you had a dental checkup? Please call 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. Smiles are our business. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

Exercising at Home

Q. I don't have access to a gym and have to workout at home. I like to do simple exercises such as push-ups, sit-ups, lunges, squats, step-ups, dips on my steps, and also stretch. In addition, I walk around my neighborhood five days a week. Are these types of exercises enough to keep me in shape, or should I try something different?

A. Staying healthy and fit does not require a specific location. Whether at home or in a gym, your body does not have a preference as to where you get moving, so long as you are active.

The type of exercises you're performing are called body-weight exercises because they use your own body weight as resistance. These can be very effective, and when completed properly can surely help you get in great condition.

No matter what type of exercises you are completing, it is important to first develop a goal for your workouts and understand what each exercise does and why you would use it. For example, you mentioned doing push-ups. Push-ups can be a very effective exercise for strengthening your chest and triceps muscles, in addition to improving the strength and stability of your core muscles. If your goal is to improve in those areas, push-ups are an appropriate exercise.

Write down an exercise order, the number repetitions and sets you are to complete, and the distance or length of time you plan to walk. Each time you complete your designed workout, make a note of it. After a while it will become easier to complete that workout, which means it will be time to modify your exercise program.

Even though you are at home, there are ways to make your workout more challenging. When just your body weight is not challenging enough, either use household items such as unopened cans or gallon water bottles, or invest in small free weights, a medicine ball or resistance bands. Safely using these as added resistance can increase the difficulty of your workout.

To increase the difficulty of your walking routine, try walking hills if available, or timing how long it takes to walk a particular distance and then trying to improve upon your time each week. Monitoring your heart rate during and after walking can also help you discover how well your body is recovering from your workout. If you do not have a heart-rate monitor, take your pulse for 60 seconds after your workout. You should see your heart rate go down consistently for the next couple of minutes. If your heart rate continues to race several minutes after your walk, consider lowering the intensity the next time to allow for better recovery.

Remember to include a regimen of proper nutritional habits and other positive lifestyle choices as part of your fitness program. Whether exercising at home or in the gym, the bottom line is to keep moving to stay fit.

A Job Well Done

By LT. DAN MINTON

On Thursday, Oct. 6, at approximately 2:39 p.m., a "911" emergency call came into Quincy Police Communications. The female caller, sounding upset and panicky, said that her newborn baby wasn't breathing.

LT. DAN MINTON

Communications Operator Michael Bowes immediately instructed Police Officer/Dispatcher Kristen Bowes to start Police, Fire and ambulance services to the Wollaston address. Mr. Bowes then asked the caller if the baby had anything in her mouth that she could be choking on.

The caller (who I interviewed and wished to remain anonymous) said that she had just finished feeding her baby when she noticed that the child was gasping for air and her face was bright red. The mother told Mr. Bowes that the mouth was clear but the baby was still not breathing.

Mr. Bowes then instructed the mother on the initial steps of CPR. After performing short breaths of air into the baby, fluid was coughed up and the baby began to cry. Once crying could be heard over the phone, Mr. Bowes forwarded the good news to the dispatcher, who then notified all units that the baby was breathing. Mr. Bowes then told the mother to keep the baby in a position to allow more vomiting if needed.

Within minutes of the call, Officers O'Donnell, Millane, Sweetland, Leuchte and Doherty arrived. A reader may ask: why so many officers? In cases of life or death, in this case a child, any officer that is close drops what he/she is doing, whether it be writing a citation or investigating a past incident, and heads for the call. In the event that traffic gridlock or other circumstances delay one of the officers, another officer will still be enroute.

Fallon Ambulance EMTs arrived, checked out the baby and determined that she was in good health. The mother said that she would take her baby to the family doctor. All communications operators and officers involved in this highly stressful incident are commended for their "nice work."

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Some flashes of Aries ire might erupt as you confront an unusually bewildering situation. But you should be able to keep your temper under control as you work through it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That marriage 'twixt the arts and practicality that Taureans excel at once again highlights your enjoyment of much of the week. However, you need to watch any sudden urge to splurge.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Even with all the plusses apparently outweighing the minuses, you still might want to defer an important decision to make sure you have all the facts you need.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) One or two problems might threaten to derail otherwise smoothly running situations at work or at home. But a few well-placed words should help get things back on track quickly.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This could be a good time for all you Leos and Leonas in the spotlight to open your generous Lion's hearts and share the glory with those who helped you accomplish so much along the way.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might want to get advice from someone who's been there and knows these situations better than you do, before investing time or money (or both) in a questionable matter.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Be careful how you handle a workplace matter that seems out of place in the schedule you've prepared. Before you act, one way or another, find out who set it up and why.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your entertainment aspect is strong this week. Besides providing a wonderful break from everyday obligations, sharing fun times brings you closer to those you care for.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Having a weekend fun fest? Your friend or relative who's down in the emotional dumps could perk up if you find a way to include him or her in your plans.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) If you're in one of those "the Goat knows best" periods, you might want to ease up and try listening to what others have to say. You could learn something.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) That new challenge is getting closer, and you should be out there now showing facts and figures to potential allies to help persuade them to rally to your support. Good luck.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Getting a head start on holiday plans could help free up some time later to spend on other projects. Meanwhile, a colleague has some ideas that you might find worth discussing.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are always there for others, and sometimes you need to be reminded that you need to be there for yourself as well.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Ho Hum, just don't have a thing to do!" . . . A pretty stupid remark? . . . We think so.

We're all surrounded by things that are crying for attention. And isn't it true that as soon as we hear its cry, the thing becomes a duty? Perhaps this is why we sometimes try not to hear the cries. We don't really want something to do . . .

Once we hear the cry, though, and recognize it as a call to a duty, we can take one of two courses. . . Do it or neglect it.

Taking on a duty can be taking on a lot of work and trouble, and it means exposing ourselves to the criticism of those who think we're not doing it right. Someone once said that if you to avoid criticism, do nothing, say nothing, be nothing. If you don't want to be criticized, neglect a duty. Nobody'll pick at you for neglecting it!

BUT remember this: If you do neglect it, there is one critic you can't get away from. Who? Your conscience, of course!

So, can you truly say, "There isn't anything to do?" We can't! . . .

Senator Kennedy Receives John Adams Award

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who has represented Massachusetts in the U. S. Senate for 43 years, received the John Adams Award for Public Service Sunday in ceremonies on the estate where John Adams lived.

The ceremony also was a celebration of the 270th birthday of the nation's second president and the progenitor of America's first great politicasl dynasty, similar to the Kennedy family of today.

The award, presented by the Quincy Partnership, recognized Kennedy's contributions in support of people, communities, education, human services and the nation's cultural, historical, natural and recreational resources.

The award notes that Kennedy, like Adams, has served as "a staunch leader in the face of challenges, opportunities and responsibilities to serve the American public and to commit to 'civic engagement' for all."

The senator's brother, President John F. Kennedy, wrote in his book, "Profiles in Courage":

Free Flu Clinics To Begin Nov. 20

Armed with a full allotment of vaccine, the Quincy Health Department will hold its first flu clinic of the season Sunday, Nov. 20, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at its offices in the Ross Parkingway near the Registry.

The second will be held Wednesday, Nov. 30, from, 10 to 11 a.m., at the Quincy Elks Hall, 254 Quarry St.

After that, starting Wednesday, Dec. 7, and every Wednesday a clinic will be held at the Health Department offices from 2 to 4 p.m.

Evenings clinics have yet to be decided.

The vaccine will be given at no charge. No appointment is needed. The only restriction is that the person receiving the shot must be age 18 and over.

The vaccine is made up of the three most common viruses that the Center of Disease Control in Atlanta feels will be the most prevalent in the coming season

It contains no protection against Avian flu, the bird flu that is rampant in the Asia and has penetrated eastern Europe.

No vaccine has been developed to combat that strain of flu.

The Health Department's announcement said that late October through November is the optimum time to receive the vaccine since the flu season in New England does not start until January and runs through March.

Senior citizens are requested to bring their Medicare and Medicare HMO cards since the Department is allowed to get reimbursed for the administration of the vaccine.

The HMO cards include Blue Cross Blue Shield Blue Care 65, Medicare Pro Blue, Harvard Pilgrim Health Care First Seniority, Tufts Health Plan Medicare Preferred and Fallon Senior Health Plane.

If a senior does not have one of these cards or is not sure, bring your Medicare card along with whatever supplemental coverage you may have.

If a senior does not have any of these, the flu shot is still available at no charge.

Any questions about the flu vaccine clinics should be directed to the Quincy Health Department Nursing Office at 617-376-1285 and 1286.

To Cut Heating Costs At 25 City Buildings

Phelan Establishes Heat Conservation Task Force

Mayor William Phelan has established an energy conservation task force to examine ways the city can reduce the cost of heating more than 25 municipal buildings this winter.

The task force will be led by Michael Ryan, director of Buildings and Construction. It will also include Quincy Public School Director of Custodians Kevin Segalla, School Business Manager James Mullaney, Executive Assistant to the Mayor Joseph Canavan and City of Quincy Director of Custodians Robert Young.

"We recognize that we can save significant money by taking a common sense approach to conservation," said Phelan. "With the escalating costs of heat, we need to do our best to conserve taxpayers; dollars. I believe we can realize savings by employing best management practices with our existing systems."

The task force has employed the help of the city's heating contractor to investigate operating techniques to save money. The task force and contractor are collaborating on a use program to maximize efficiency of each building's system. The task force will also investigate ways to better insulate buildings.

"It is important not to take the little things for granted," said Phelan. "We are entrusted with protecting the public's tax dollars and sometimes the little things can make a big difference. We are always looking for ways to improve the way government operates."

Delahunt:

'America Deserves Same Resources We Give Iraq'

Congressman William Delahunt and three House colleagues have introduced legislation that would provide funding for critical infrastructure needs in the US by the same amount devoted to rebuilding Iraq.

Entitled "The American Parity Act," the proposal would require that every dollar spent on reconstruction and relief efforts in Iraq, an equal amount must be provided for domestic projects in American communities — in particular, public health, first responders and road and school renovations. The legislation would not reduce the funds available for Iraqi reconstruction, and would not impact support of US troops or military operations.

"The devastation from Hurricanes Katrina and Rita have brought home the fact that US infrastructure needs have been neglected, even as the Bush Administration was pouring billions in grants into meeting these same needs in Iraq," Delahunt said.

As an example, he cited a Feb. 8, 2005, New Orleans Times Picayune report describing Bush Administration cuts to levee projects in the New Orleans area — even as $20 million was committed to repairing a dam in Mosul, Iraq.

"Not only do we face a massive reconstruction effort on the Gulf Coast, but across the US, schools are crumbling, road and bridge repairs are on hold and energy costs are out of control," Delahunt said.

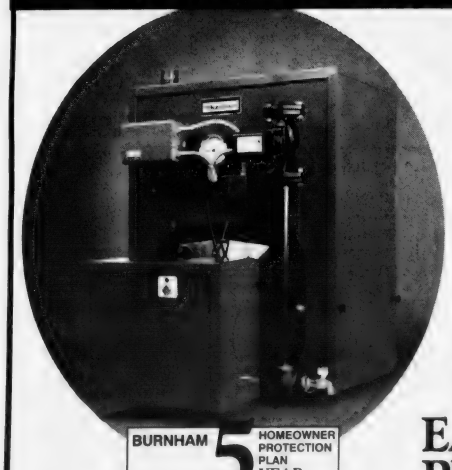
WILLIAM DELAHUNT

"Because of our invasion of Iraq, we have an obligation to participate in the rebuilding of that country. But it makes no sense to deprive Americans of the same benefits we are giving Iraqis. And, in view of the needs of the American people, these funds for Iraq should be loans, not grants.

"Over the past several years, the Republican-led Congress has implemented White House requests to dedicate $20 billion in grants for Iraq construction efforts, while at the same time agreeing to tax cuts for the wealthy and increasing domestic spending by no more than the cost of inflation.

"The result has been a precipitous drop in services for American citizens, threats to such needed programs as Medicaid, Medicare and Food Stamps, and an ever-increasing burden placed on state and local governments to pick up the slack.

"As we saw with Katrina," Delahunt concluded, "starving American communities of needed federal support can make the devastation even worse. This legislation will ensure that domestic infrastructure priorities are funded on an equal footing with those in Iraq. A strong America begins at home."



Delahunt and his colleagues proposed the American Parity Act in 2003, trying to add it as an amendment to an $87 billion supplemental for Iraq, but the Republican congressional leadership blocked it from even being put to a vote.

Delahunt serves on the Committee on International Relations. Offering the legislation with him are US Reps Timothy Bishop of New York, Ram Emmanuel of Illinois and Peter DeFazio of Oregon.

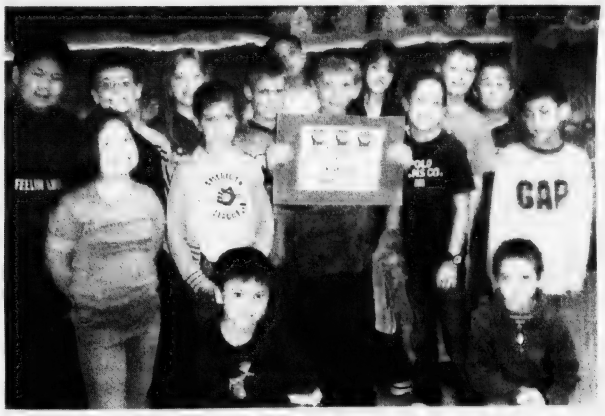
To Improve Pressure And Flow

City To Expend $1.65M On Replacing Aging Water Mains

Quincy will expend $1.65 million next year to replace aging water mains throughout the city.

Mayor William Phelan and DPW Commissioner Steve O'Donnell announced the planned project this week.

The focus of the replacement project will continue to be areas of low pressure. Various factors, including age of the pipes, topography and system geography have been used to establish replacement priorities.



"We remain committed to improving water pressure and flow issues in elevated areas in Quincy," Phelan said. "These projects will improve our ability to provide consistent water pressure to residents and ensure a more reliable response system during times of emergency needs."
